To you — is it movement or is it action?
Is it contact or just reaction?
And you — revolution or just resistance?
Is it living or just existence?
Yeah, you — it takes a little more persistance

Ah, those people who strive to educate us. Some have just started, but others have been at it for years. Yet all have a common goal — to try to give us the best they can.

by Janice Hamilton, Susie Mrozek.
Beatings were lighter this year, but the class of '88 was still abused. See how high school life affected CV's newest addition.

188 Sophomores

by Ben Edwards, Karyn Foster
Through the tortures of the simulator and the enlightenment of sex education, the sophomores rose one notch on their climb to senior status.

206 Juniors

by Mike Fife, Ian Ullman
Off in the shadows of the Twilight Zone lurked the class of '86, busy studying for what is called the worst year. Or was it?

226 Seniors

by Laura Lalley, Brett Pauly.
Plagued by Senioritis and college anxieties, the graduating class had an up-and-down year, filled with sad endings and new beginnings.

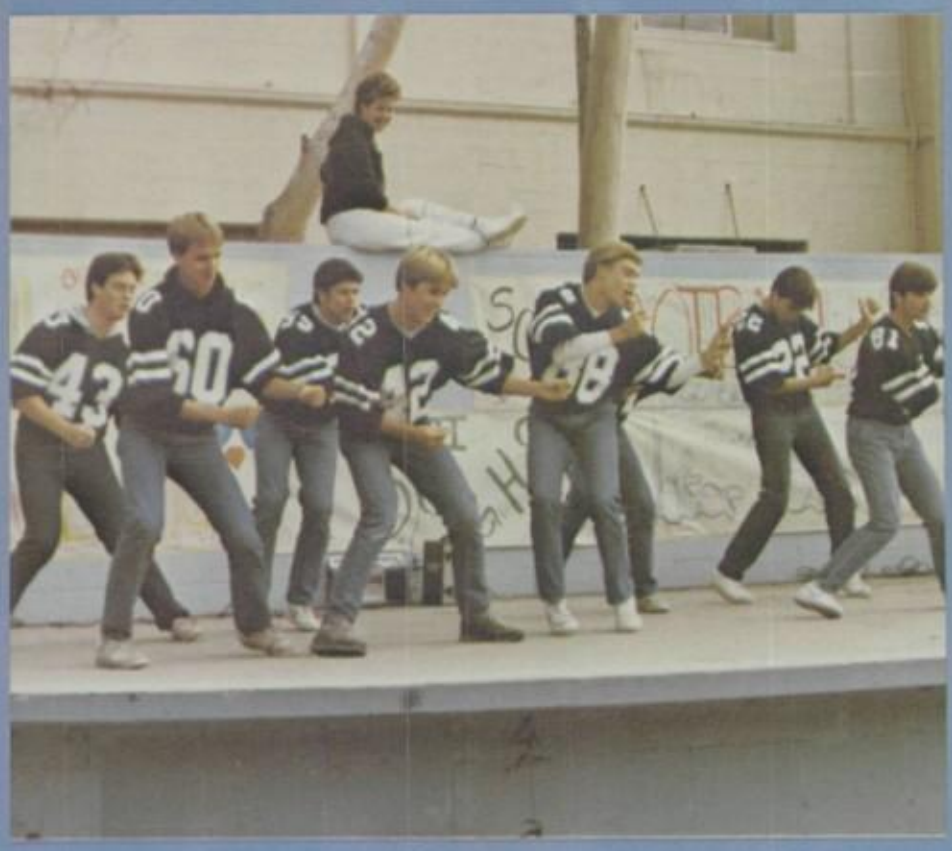
Go the DISTANCE

"Before you go to the movies, I want you to mow the entire yard, trim the trees, give the dog a flea-bath, clean all the windows, and I want you to wash and wax both cars. Oh, and if you finish early, you can go to Ralph's and pick up a gallon of milk." Without a doubt, Mom and Dad have left us a list similar to this before, demanding more than we could possibly give. Or could we? After all, we're only in high school, and our "real" lives haven't begun yet. Most of the time we're free to do our own thing as long as our parents aren't too opposed to it, and we "do our work first."

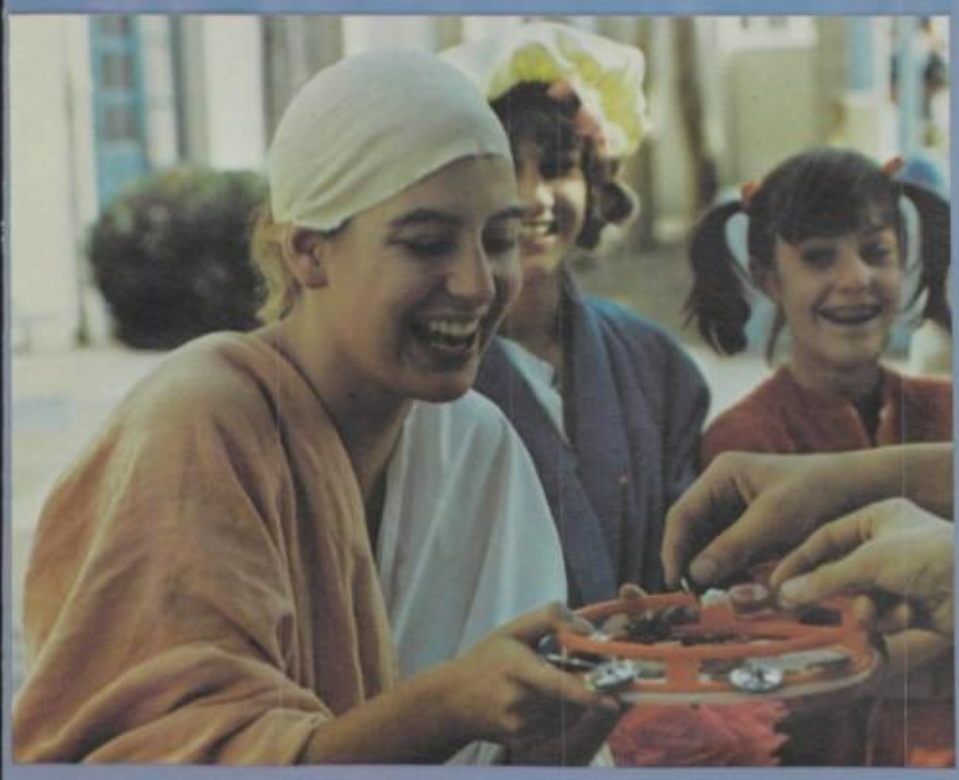
Hatin' it yet lovin' it — Janice Hamilton shows her support for the Junior Class by participating in the sponge throw on Toga Day. After repeated drenchings, she gave way to fresh targets Jeff Hamilton and Wayne LeCheminant.

Playboys Aaron Villasenor, Brian Marshall and Jason Maxwell try to laugh off their disqualification in the Key Club Car Rally. Apparently, they took a short cut because they arrived at Shakey's with too few miles. Nice try, guys!

Egyptian imitators? The junior pyramid builders scurry to finish their ascent before the freshmen, sophomores and seniors. They were unsuccessful, however, and the seniors rose to victory.



Where are the Songleaders? Trying to round up spirit, the Varsity Football squad takes temporary command of the "Beat Glendale" rally. Their dance worked as CV won its only game of the year, 14-8.



After being banned from the airports, Hare Krishnas invaded CV to sell flowers and solicit contributions. Actually, Dawn Ott posed as a krishna for Halloween, but some people mistook her for the real thing and threw quarters her way to keep from being accosted.

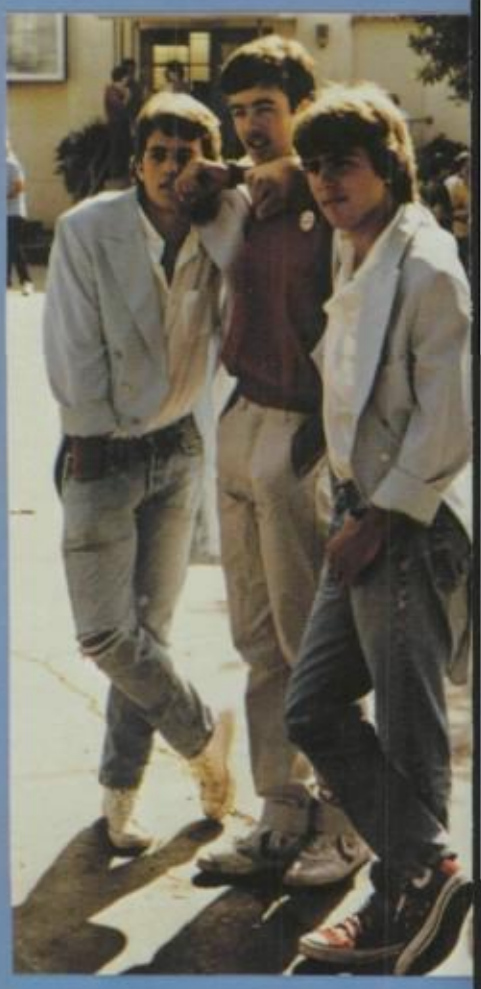
Wagons, ho! In a motion reminiscent of the Old West, driver Steve Swenson attempts to chart a course to victory in the Car Rally. Navigator Chris Tremayne looks on, wondering if his partner has all his marbles.

Go the DISTANCE

Going into his newest break dance routine, Mark Nolte shows those thirsty people around him his newest step.

McDonald's reigns king — After a munchie run to the Golden Arches during lunch, Tracy Novak shows off her large fries and at the same time, blocks Ingrid Larson out of the picture. Meanwhile, Alisa Trapp, Mina Rogic, Kelly Koetting, Steve Allen and Jim Smiley relax and enjoy the show.

Pondering the meaning of life, John Benson, John Griffin and Gary Kelly do their mannequin impression by standing motionless in the quad. This was not a highly popular pastime.



However, it's doing our own thing that can often be the hardest part of growing up. We're faced with peer pressure, school problems, relationship difficulties and other individual dilemmas that complicate our lives. It's in the midst of these problems that we must figure out who we are and who we want to be. Then we must chart a course to get there.

The 1984 Homecoming Dance provided an outlet for the formal dresser in each of us to come out in style. The ASB-sponsored dance, held at the Glendale Civic Upper, netted the student fund a hefty profit.

In order to keep up her energy level, Terri Wenta munches down a taco with the help of Patty Connolly and Cindy Patterson. Cafeteria food's popularity was rivaled by the various fast food places scattered along Foothill Boulevard.

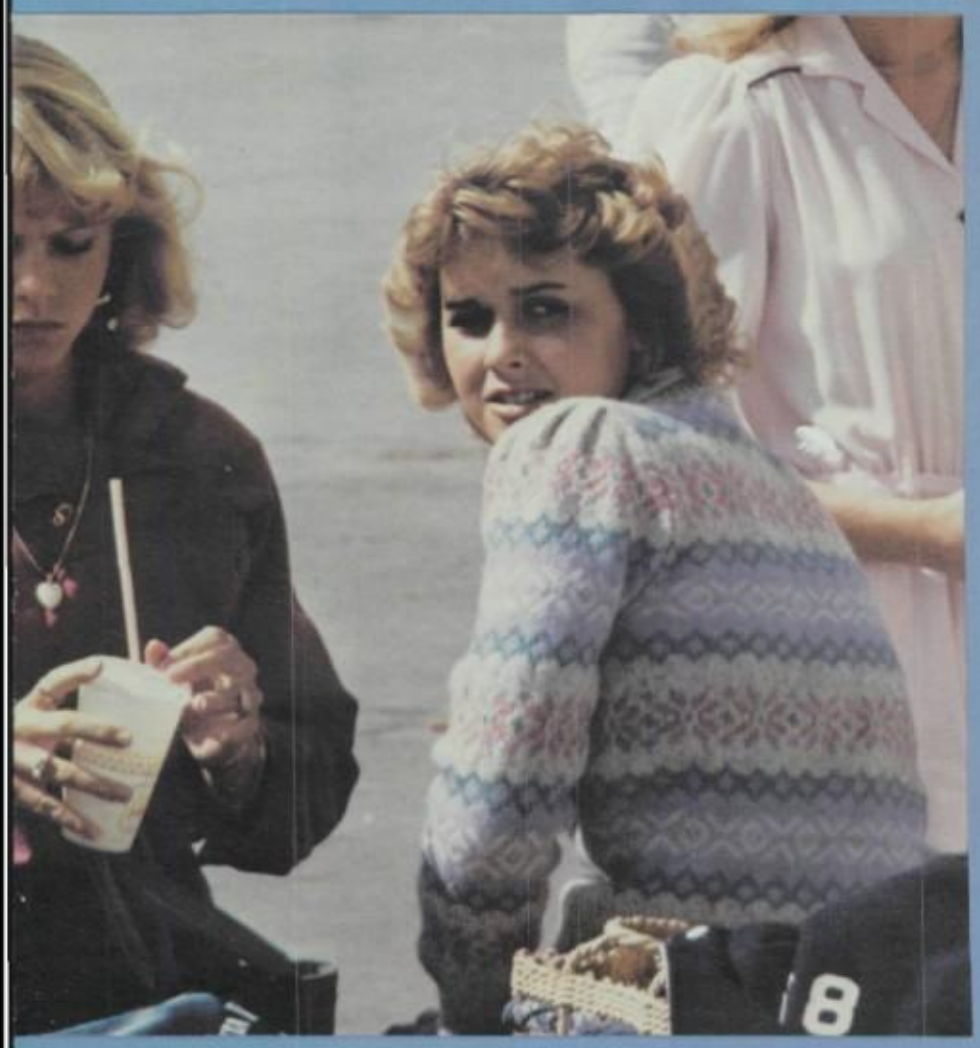
Go the DISTANCE

The few, the proud, the CV Rifle Squad — Wielding deadly weaponry, Rifle Squad members Dawn Medde, Kristy Kunstmann and Chris Robertson entertain the Homecoming game spectators with their disciplined, well-executed rifle maneuvers.

Celebrate good times, come on .... Julie Brown adds her own special talents to the half-time festivities during the CV-Hoover game. Julie is the only vibraphone player in the band.

Rising above it all — Seniors Eric Russell, Jeff Hamilton, Lorna DiConti and Jim Short find that the top of the rally platform provides a different perspective on quad occurences as they converse with Chrissy Brown. As the underclassmen started to hang around the platform, a few seniors decided to relocate rather than associate with them.

What every well-dressed man is wearing this season — Many students looked to Samir Abou Rass for the latest in fashion apparel. You might say he's the chicest man around CV.



For the most part, we want to be the best we can be, but the only way we can achieve this is by pushing ourselves beyond our previous limits. Whether it's catching that uncatchable ball, spending an extra five minutes to work out that impossible math problem, or just getting actively involved in whatever interests us, we can all improve ourselves. Yet, we should never be satisfied. We should always challenge our own abilities to the limit. Only then can we rise above ourselves, conquer new horizons and truly go the distance.

& Tim Sullivan

We've got spirit, yes we do! The stands of screaming, cheering Falcons are brought to their feet as an especially exciting play takes place on the field. This Homecoming game against Hoover brought a record number of bodies to watch the game.

That poor child! Julie Beedy is fixated on the horrible Freshman Initiation Week. Tahnee Lightfoot checks to make sure that nothing has been slipped into her Coke. Wait a minute, what are freshmen doing on the rally platform in the first place?

Darren,
Well, Oral Communications has been GREAT, hasn't it? You're really a neat guy! You're very kind and concideratе (a trait that seems rare in the men of this generation), but this class seems to hold quite a few that hold that quality. Well, good luck! Enjoy life because you only get one chance! HAVE FUN!

In his '68 Baja, Mike O'Meara, along with navigators Steve Messersmith and Mark Griffen (seen flying from the rear bumper) celebrate their win in the car rally by taking a victory cruise down Honolulu Boulevard. As in this instance, many students call upon their skills and their persistence in a variety of situations. These qualities enable them to go the distance.

CELEBRATION!

The theme of the week was "Celebration," and celebrate is what students did. Throughout Homecoming Week there were everlasting activities. The sophomores and freshmen shared their day to "Celebrate Childhood." There was an array of little girls and boys walking around campus.

Going back to those kiddy days, some of the students participated in a game of "Pin the Tail on the Donkey." Tuesday, juniors went back in time to "Celebrate the Roman Age." A grape sale and sponge-throwing game were two fund-raisers that the juniors promoted. They also had a whipped-cream and candy-bar-eating contest.

Halloween added to the fun and excitement of the week's festivities. Then on Thursday the seniors brought the idea of celebration back into the week by celebrating "Games People Play," dressing up as their favorite sports figures.

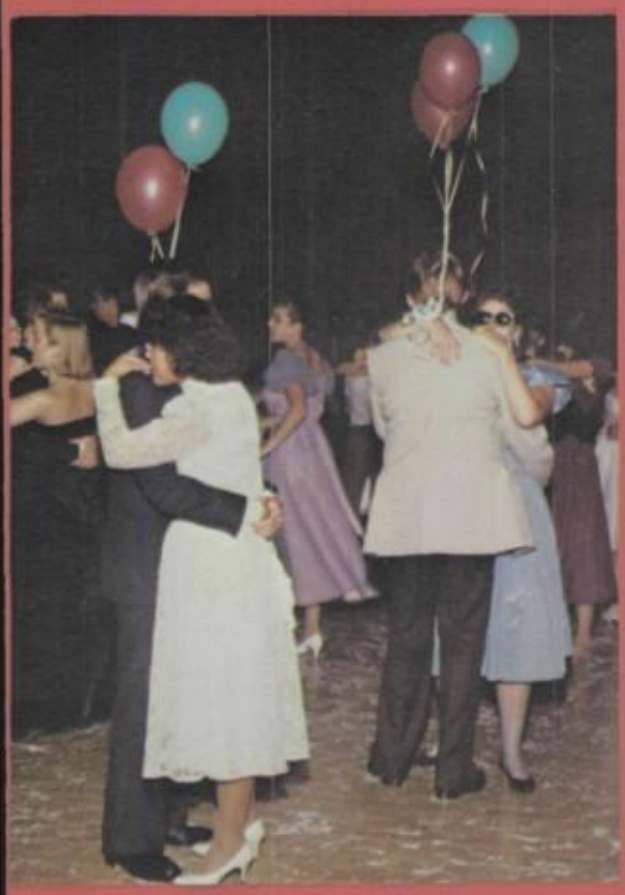
Later that night, the flames of the bonfire roared along with the spirit of the evening. Before the fire was ignited, class competitions were carried on through the night, just as during the week. The peak of the evening came when the Hoover dummy was thrown into the fire. The Varsity Football Team fired up the enthusiasm of the crowd by leading some of the chants.

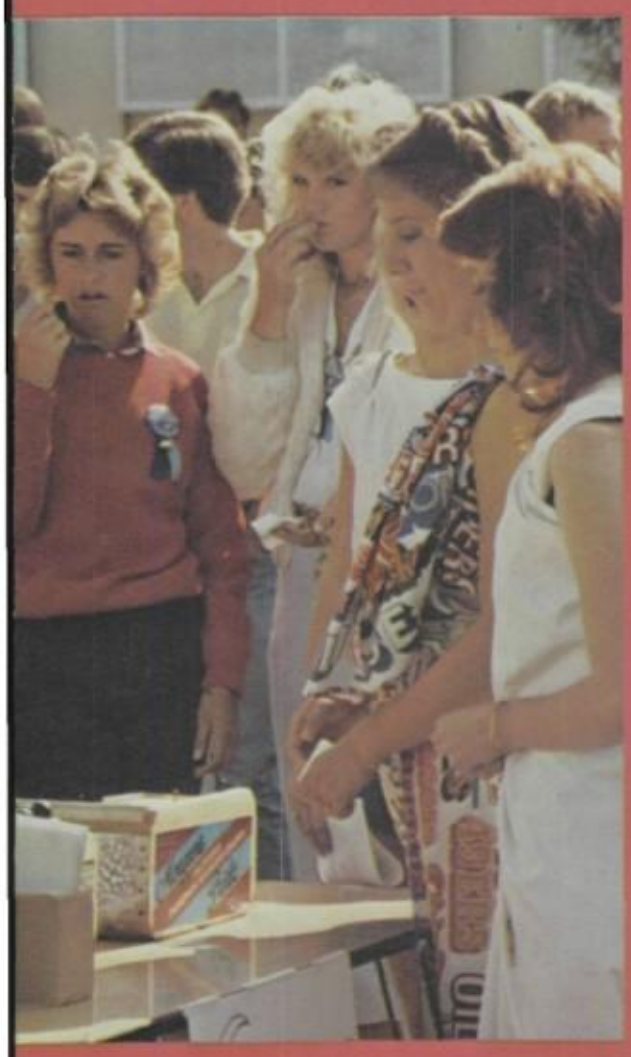
Everybody was excited and psyched up for Friday night's big game. As the fire began to die down, the traditional Alma Mater was sung with arms raised high in the sky. Thoughts of the game and the Homecoming Dance were on the minds of the students.

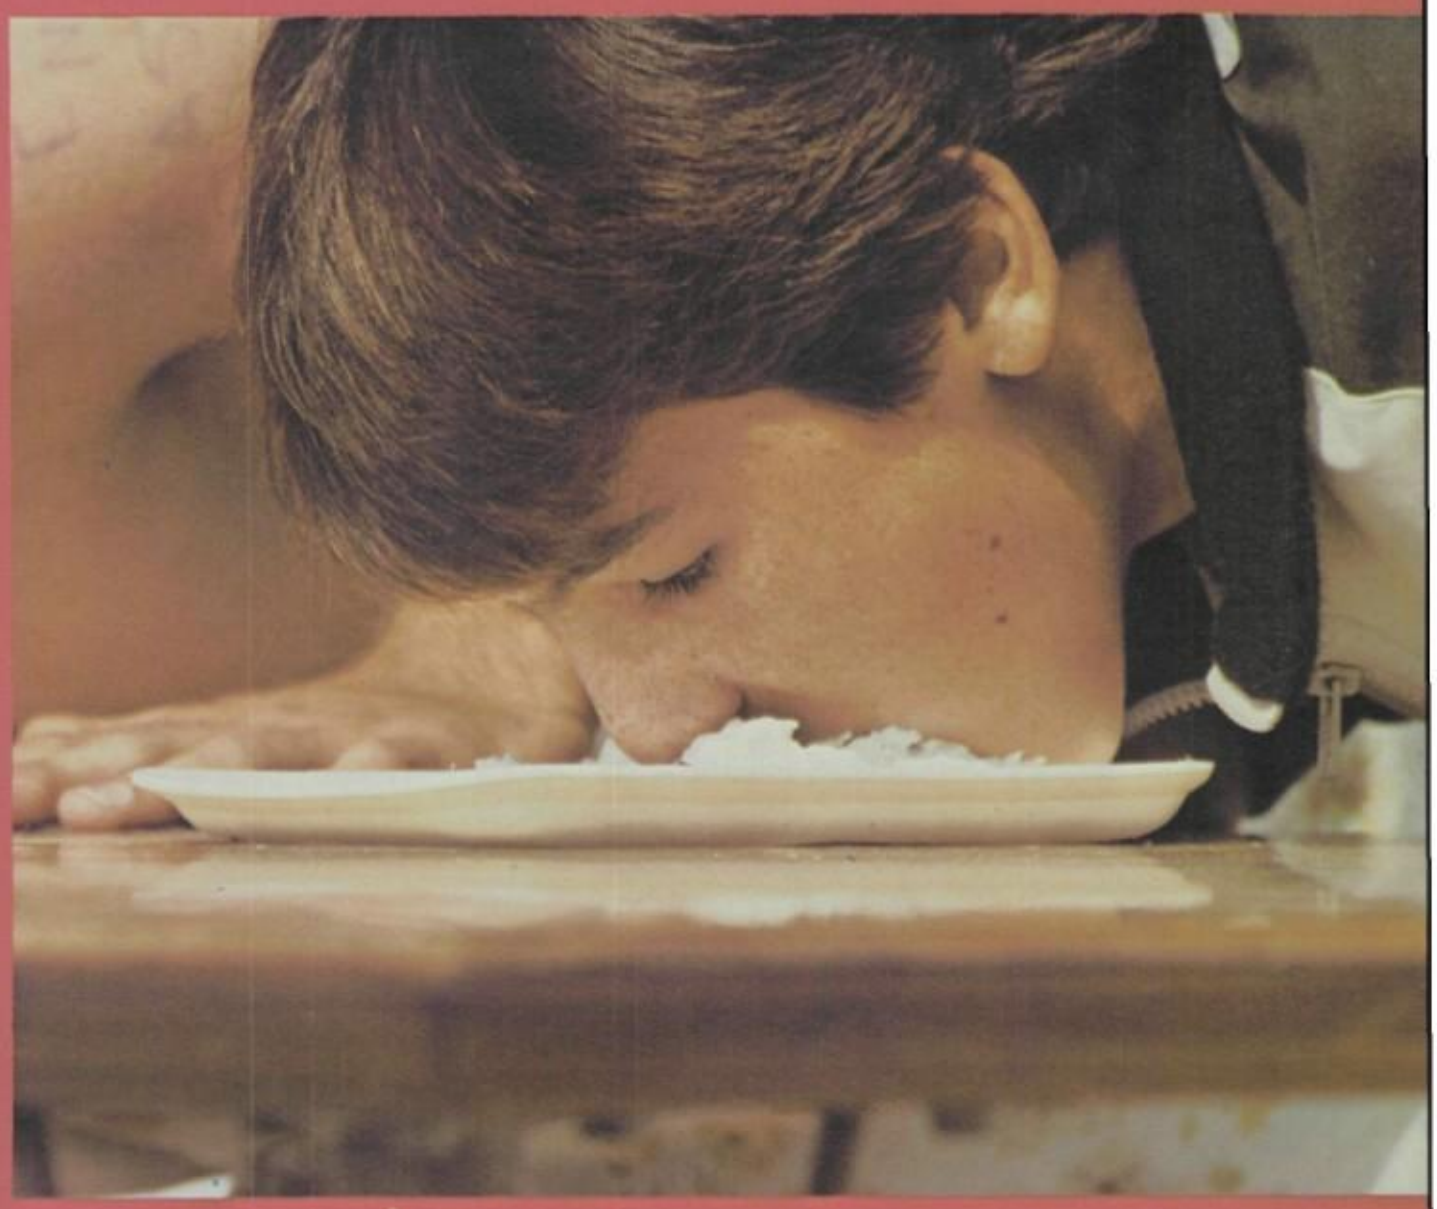
— by Diane Pirkl

Fire, fun and spirit — The Pep Squad combines its talents to arouse the crowds' spirit during the bonfire. Because of its success, the Bonfire has become a tradition at CV, while other high schools have failed in their efforts to have one.

Grapes here, grapes there, togas everywhere — Moira Delaney sells grapes on Junior Toga Day. Each class had its own day to dress up during Homecoming Week, which resulted in costumes scattered around the school every day of the spirit-filled week.







Piled up — The football team comes up with a new formation as they form a pyramid at the Bonfire. Cheerleaders also joined in on the fun. Bodies were piled upon bodies in an attempt to make the largest pyramid before they collapsed.

Foaming at the mouth — Cherie Jensen shows that even she participated in "Homecoming Week." She won this contest, in which she was first to locate a piece of chocolate buried below whipped cream.

Face first — Joey Horan dives into piles of cream in a determined quest to find a piece of chocolate located somewhere in the whipped cream. But where is it, Joey?

Get a little closer — The Homecoming dance, "Celebration," proved to be a success as the floor was always full of couples having a great time and forming memories to refelect upon for years to come.

A Celebration Of a Night to Remember

To be chosen by the students as a princess on the Homecoming Court is an honor. Six lucky girls were selected this year to be on 1984's Homecoming Court, and the winners were Queen Kim Agonia, Senior princesses Chrissy Brown and Mindy Roberts, Junior princess Janice Hamilton, Sophomore princess Cheryl LaMee and Freshman princess Jennie Jensen.

"Celebration" was the theme, and that is exactly what everybody did — celebrate! Our week of fun-filled activities drew to an end with the traditional football game, this year played against Hoover. Expecting to be slaughtered, the crowds were pleasantly surprised by the almost-successful comeback ending with the score of 14-20.

For halftime, the Court got a chance to use its well-rehearsed Rose Parade waves to the crowds of cheering admirers, as they breezed around Glendale High's football field in convertibles owned by CV families. Handsomely dressed Cabinet members and other student representatives escorted the girls to their center-field positions while the band softly played the theme song, "Celebration." Tall Flag and Drill Team members completed halftime with their spirited performance.

Suspense built as the three senior girls waited with weak knees to find out who would be named 1984's Homecoming Queen. Excitement peaked as Kim Agonia's name was finally announced and thanks to a slip of the hand, some of the crowd, seconds before, knew who the queen was by viewing a banner displayed in her honor.

The Grand Finale to the week was the Homecoming Dance, November 3, at the Glendale Civic. Couples laughed, danced and fell, yes fell, onto the confetti-slick floor. Many thought the confetti made the dancing more interesting, but those who spoke from experience felt that falling in a nice dress in front of crowds of people is not exactly the definition of graceful dancing.

Homecoming was fun for everyone, and with a theme like "Celebration," no one wanted the party to end.

— by Cherie Jensen

Homecoming Queen Kim Agonia

Ladies in waiting — These five charming females serve as princesses on the Homecoming Court: Sophomore Princess Cheryl LaMee, Senior Princess Chrissy Brown, Freshman Princess Jennie Jensen, Senior Princess Mindy Roberts, Junior Princess Janice Hamilton.

Climbing the ladder of success? The real question is . . . Will they make it? Trey Pogue, Mike Muhlethaler, Ed Wirtz, Allen Nalbandian, Gary Chau and Sean Williams add class to the event as they escort the Homecoming Court.

Queen of the Night — 1984's reigning Homecoming Queen Kim Agonia is crowned by last year's royalty, Leslie Benton.

Touchdown — Andy Kennelly poses as referee after Paul Kim crosses the goal line in CV's near win over Hoover, 20-14.

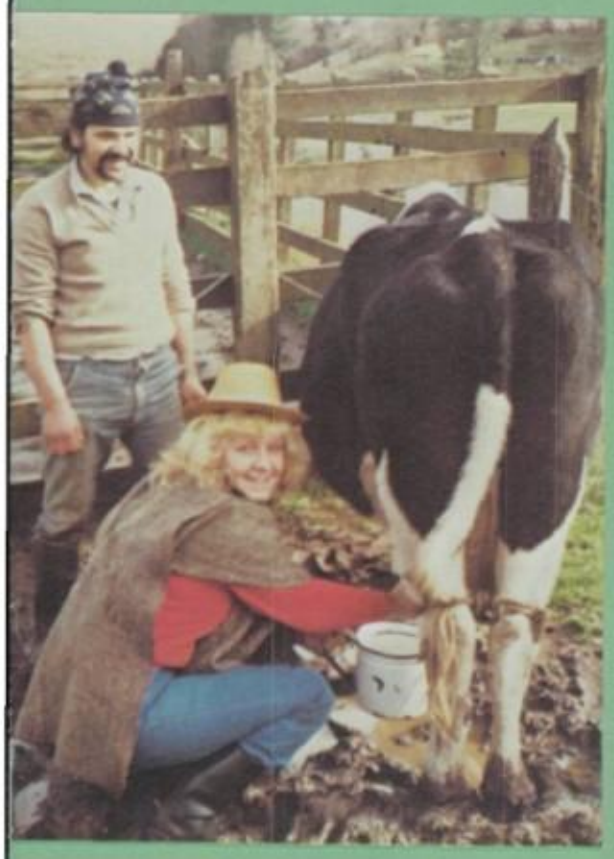
Dazzling — The roar of a capacity crowd of foreign visitors, out-of-state sports enthusiasts and LA natives witness the Games of the XXIIIrd Olympiad during a colorful track and field event.

Catching rays — Spending the day at Hermosa Beach, John Horan enjoys his summer taking pictures of bikini-clad women.

Cleaning his mount — Ron Cavataio sprays off Buzz in preparation for an upcoming drill demonstration. He and eleven other members of the California Rangers Eagle Troop were asked by the Griffith Park Equestrian Center to participate in the halftime activities of an LA Polo Club game.

Neighborhood milk stand — Sinking in mud, Cherie Jensen milks a cow which proved to be just one of the many new experiences she encountered while in Chile. Cherie was allowed this opportunity through AFS.



Hang Ten — Karyn Foster offers her best pose as she and Jenifer Larson wait on the beautiful shores of La Jolla for the train which will take them back to Los Angeles. They and ten other members of the 1985 Talon yearbook staff represented CV in the Yearbook workshop held at UCSD.

Freedom and Relaxation: The Keys to Summer's Success

School finally ended as the bell rang for the last time in the '83-'84 school year. The hollow sound of empty lockers echoed through the hallways as trash covered the floors. Holding tightly yearbooks full of signatures and memories, the students of CV swarmed out of the school and plunged head first into the warm summer, which had seemed to take so long to arrive and always seemed to end too soon.

For some, the summer vacation offered a chance to extend their education by attending summer school. For others, the sky was the limit as they set off in all directions. Some Falcons spent much of their time at the beach. Hermosa and Manhattan Beaches were favorite gathering spots for many CV students to have fun in the sun.

Long-awaited vacations found individuals camping or traveling to foreign countries. Two fortunate students from CV were sent through the AFS (American Field Service) to other countries. Cherie Jensen headed south to Chile and Steven Swenson crossed the Atlantic and Indian Oceans to reach Sri Lanka. "It wasn't hard to adjust," explained Cherie Jensen. "The people accept you. I had a blast! I met so many people and we still keep in touch." Not only did they have a once-in-a-lifetime experience, but they also learned how fortunate Americans are.

Many groups from CV held their own activities or attended training camps. Members of Pep Squad spent four days at a cheerleading camp at Lake Arrowhead, making friends and learning new techniques, while members of the yearbook staff went to UCSD for a week to acquire yearbook skills.

However, for the athletic teams it was not all fun and games. The basketball team practiced daily over the summer to keep in shape, and the football team held its annual "hell week" for six days in August, six hours a day.

Still another way to pass the time was to work. Many students held jobs at local supermarkets or fast-foods restaurants to save money for the future or to spend as fast as they could make it.

Yet, without a doubt, the most spectacular event of the summer was the Games of the 23rd Olympiad held in Los Angeles. The Olympic Games gave all a sense of pride, but for two Falcons it was especially important. Moira Delaney and Mike Riach ran the Olympic Torch for one kilometer and got to keep the torches they carried. For all, the summer offered a chance to escape some of the routine pressures of school. Unfortunately, the summer did come to a close as the school bell rang once again to symbolize the '84-'85 school year and to begin another long, tedious wait until the next summer.

I have a yearbook and ASB card for you, little boy. Andy Kennelly, Gary Chau, and Chrissy Brown carry out their many Cabinet duties, one of which is coaxing Freshmen into buying things.

To be or not to be? Gary Chau, Director of Fine Arts, studies his lines in preparation to give his plea for money to his fellow members.

The Elected Elite
Associated Student Body Leaders

If you are a typical CV student, you probably do not know what goes on behind the doors of room fifty-five, otherwise known as "The Cabinet Room." Actually, most believe that the cabinet room is just a place for the student body officers to run around and make themselves look occupied. Well, in reality, quite a lot of work and ideas are accepted and rejected while a team of fifteen students tries to pull the student body together by planning activities that will interest and please 2,000 students. Not an easy job!

Imagine trying to prepare an activity that will interest runners, basketball and football players, punk rockers, new wavers, hard rockers, bookworms, socialites or any other personality type you can think of. Believe it or not, it can almost be done.

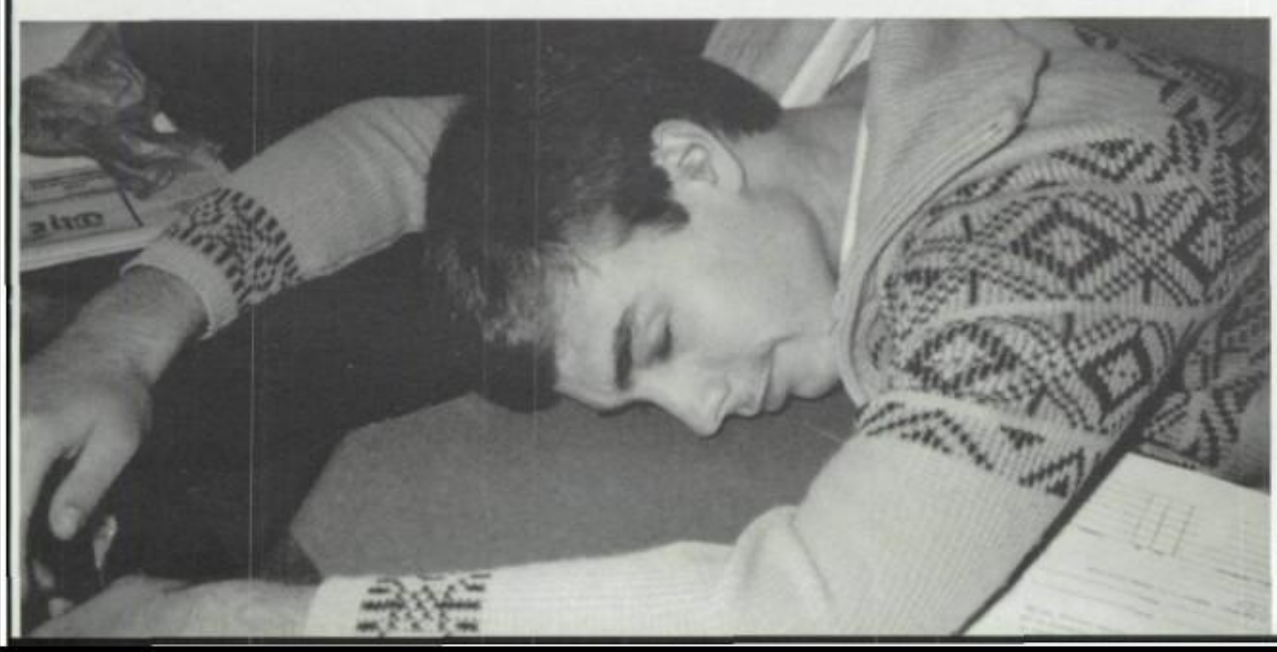
Cabinet members planned and worked hard to keep school a happy place. Every day during second period, the officers you elected attempted to agree on ideas they thought would please everybody. In other words, it was really not that easy.

One such activity was putting a dance together. There was always a lot of work done for every dance. The first step towards a dance was choosing a theme. Sometimes Cabinet was responsible for this. Picking a theme was one of the major decisions. Other hurdles included the decorations, ticket sales and design, picture backdrop and refreshments, all of which were handled by appointed committees.

Also, Cabinet had to decide what kind of music would be played and who would play it. After all pre-arrangements were made, the actual production began: the dance was announced, tickets sold, decorations put up and the music ready to roll.

So, if you ever thought the ASB officers were just looking for a prestigious office or something to look good on college transcripts, think again, or even better, try it — you might like it.

— by Cherie Jensen and Diane Pirkl



It's ribbon, Allen! Allen Nalbandian is deep in thought about the next Cabinet activity.

Laughing gas — Susan Guzman is having a blast blowing up balloons for a student body function.

CV's George Bush — Ed Wirtz plays the part of ASB Vice-President in his waking moments.

Halloween: A Chance for True Personalities to Shine

Nobody would argue with the fact that down inside we are all a little strange. Indeed, we are often crazy. How about "mad"? Of course, some of us are better at hiding our absurdities than others, but occasionally our best-kept secret emerges to the surface. As a result, the awful truth about ourselves leaves us feeling exposed, sometimes betrayed, and even a little naked.

"I dry my underarm deodorant with a hairdryer."

In one of my classes I asked the students to list what they do that people might consider silly or bizarre. I promised them anonymity. No names. They were urged to be frank and honest. "What strange things do you sometimes do when you are alone?" I asked. It was amusing to watch their private grins as they considered their own behavior.

Later I read some of the papers to the class. Not only was it fun, but it was also comforting to learn that everyone's a little outrageous at times. I saved some of the especially ludicrous ones to reveal how peculiar we all are.

— I dry my underarm deodorant with the hair dryer.

— I make nice shapes with my shaving cream.

— Once I lined up a dictionary and some magazines and shot my .22 rifle at them. Later I discovered a hole in the wood paneling.

— I write all over the mirror when it is fogged up.

— I put a stream nozzle on the hose and shoot insects.

— I like to turn sideways in the mirror, stick out my stomach and go "Before" and "After."

— I ask a guy for money when he's with his girlfriend because he's less likely to turn me down.

— I tell strangers on the street they need a haircut.

— My dogs and I play "Mr. T" and robbers.

— I try to hold a long conversation, talking like a gospel preacher.

— I add strange seasonings to dinner and wait to see if anyone notices.

— I put on lip gloss, kiss the mirror, and see if my lip prints look sexy.

— I clean my belly button.

It must be normal to want to break the monotony of our more serious selves. Perhaps this is why Halloween is such an all-out success around CV. For one day, anyway, we can be as foolish or pretentious as we like. A little insanity feels good now and then.

— by June Peterson

Revenge of the Nerds — Chris Schrobilgen and Laura Hietter thought this was a come-as-you-are party. Don't they look like the neighbors down the street?

Hello Kitty — Lori Parker enthusiastically observes the Halloween rally.

Little Bo Peep — complete with dimples and a smile. Colleen Linnemeyer shows that she truly has not lost her childhood memories, or freckles.

Button your lip! Kirk Smith is taking his teacher's suggestion too far.

Girl next door — Dave Felkel advertises his goods? No, actually, Dave just got a little too excited over dressing up for Halloween.

You are my sunshine — Although we cannot say this for all police officers, April Russell beams with enthusiasm, as she helps along the Halloween rally by holding a prop.

Guys and Gals at Work

One might think that with the workload of school, CV students would not have had the time for a job. But as the need for money increased, students took up jobs to support their car payments, their social lives and their fashion wardrobes.

As people learned to drive, they had that burning desire to get that first car. To pay for it, they looked for a job. Once they got that car, there were monthly payments to make, repair costs and insurance bills to pay. But when they were out late on Friday nights, they were glad they did not have to ask Dad for the car.

High school was always busy with activities and some of them cost money. Whether it was a dance or a casual Pizza-Nite, students needed money to support their social lives.

For all these reasons, the student then decided to get a job. Places he probably applied were fast-food restaurants, such as McDonald's and Taco Bell; clothing stores, supermarkets and offices were also common places to find a job.

Once the student got the job, he also had to keep his grades up. Juniors might have found difficulty in doing so, as it was the toughest year academically. Seniors might have found it hard also, as there was much to do in the way of activities, having fun and preparing for college. Besides, Senioritis prevented many a Senior from holding a job.

Having a job was beneficial because of the credits that were earned while taking Work Experience. This way, having a job was like having a class where earning credits and money were done at the same time.

If the shoe fits, wear it! Footlocker employee Pat Ballance slips a pair of camouflaged high tops on a potential customer.

Ringing it up. Laurie Olmsted makes a sale of Kinney Kapers to a thrifty customer.

Making change. Laura Lalley finishes making a turkey and Swiss cheese submarine sandwich. She, along with Mary Woods and Stephanie Behm, composed the CV student staff at Giovanni's.

With a stoic look of determination, John Bevan concentrates on not breaking the plainwrap eggs. He spent much of his time earning spending money for various purposes.

Gentlemen . . . Start Your Engines!

It was a cool Thursday night as all the contestants lined up on the track. The purpose of the evening was to get to the unknown destination by figuring out clues along the way. As the first car left, the 1984 Car Rally had begun.

To make the night more memorable, students came up with gimmicks and costumes. People were dressed up as pirates, surfers, patriots, motorcycle riders, football players, funny businessmen, crazy people in heart boxers or flourescent attire. The students also brought food and untouched homework in their cars to keep themselves occupied.

Yell leaders were up to their usual antics and were squirting people with fire extinguishers and telling people to get off the road with their megaphone. This little bit of humor showed the spirit of the night and made it even more fun.

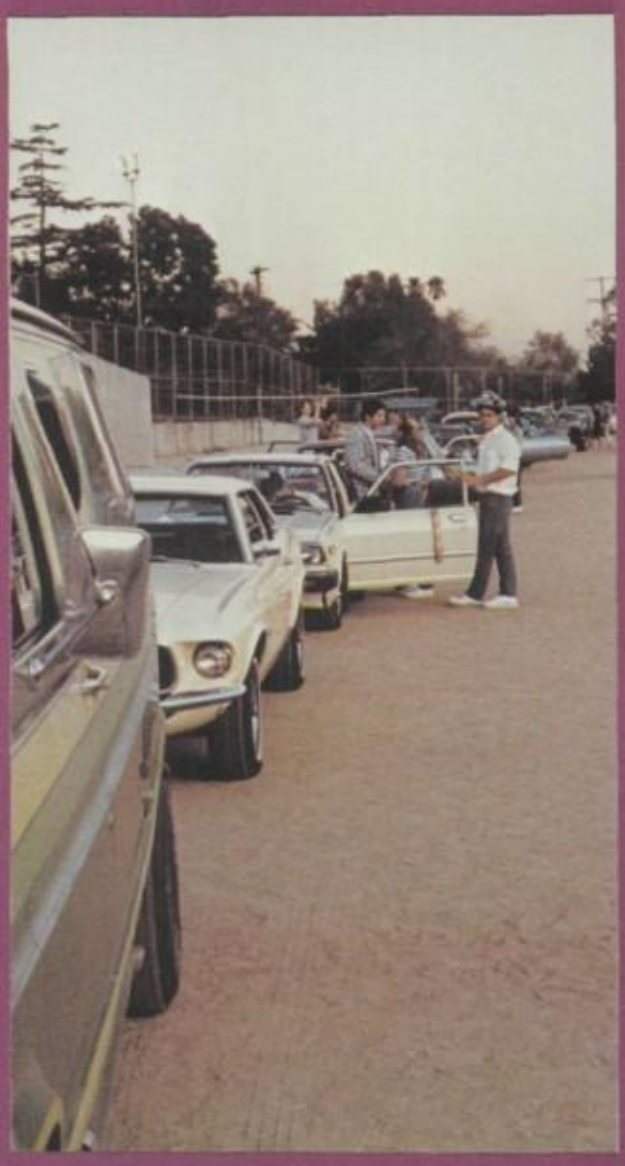
Key Club sponsored a well-attended Car Rally. Terrific clues, such as "turn into 'Dishwashing Detergent' Heaven" (Cascadia) and "enter the famous shirt-maker's street" (Kennington) were thought up by the creative trio of Gary Chau, Amie Freeman and Bryan Von-Lossberg. The rally originated at the CV track and finished at the Glendale Shakey's Pizza Parlor.

The designated time and distance of the Car Rally was fifty-three minutes and twenty-three miles. Of the fifty-seven cars, one bus, one motorcycle and one moped, Mike O'Meara was awarded the first-place trophy for his time of one hour and seventeen minutes and the distance of twenty-six miles.

Coming in at the same time were the yell leaders with twenty-eight miles. Ironically, the third-place car of April Russell came in with an additional mile. Chris Jensen's fourth-place car travelled thirty miles and also arrived at the same time. With a time of one hour and a distance of thirty-two miles, the Varsity Basketball team came in fifth.

The night had its own share of problems, including one reported lost hubcap, one temporarily lost license, one dropped transmission and one smoking engine.

— by Diane Pirkl



Glow in the dark — David Maldonado and Sean Shimamoto arrive in stylish fashion. Wearing the new flourescent look, astride their moped, these pedal pushers finally completed the course.

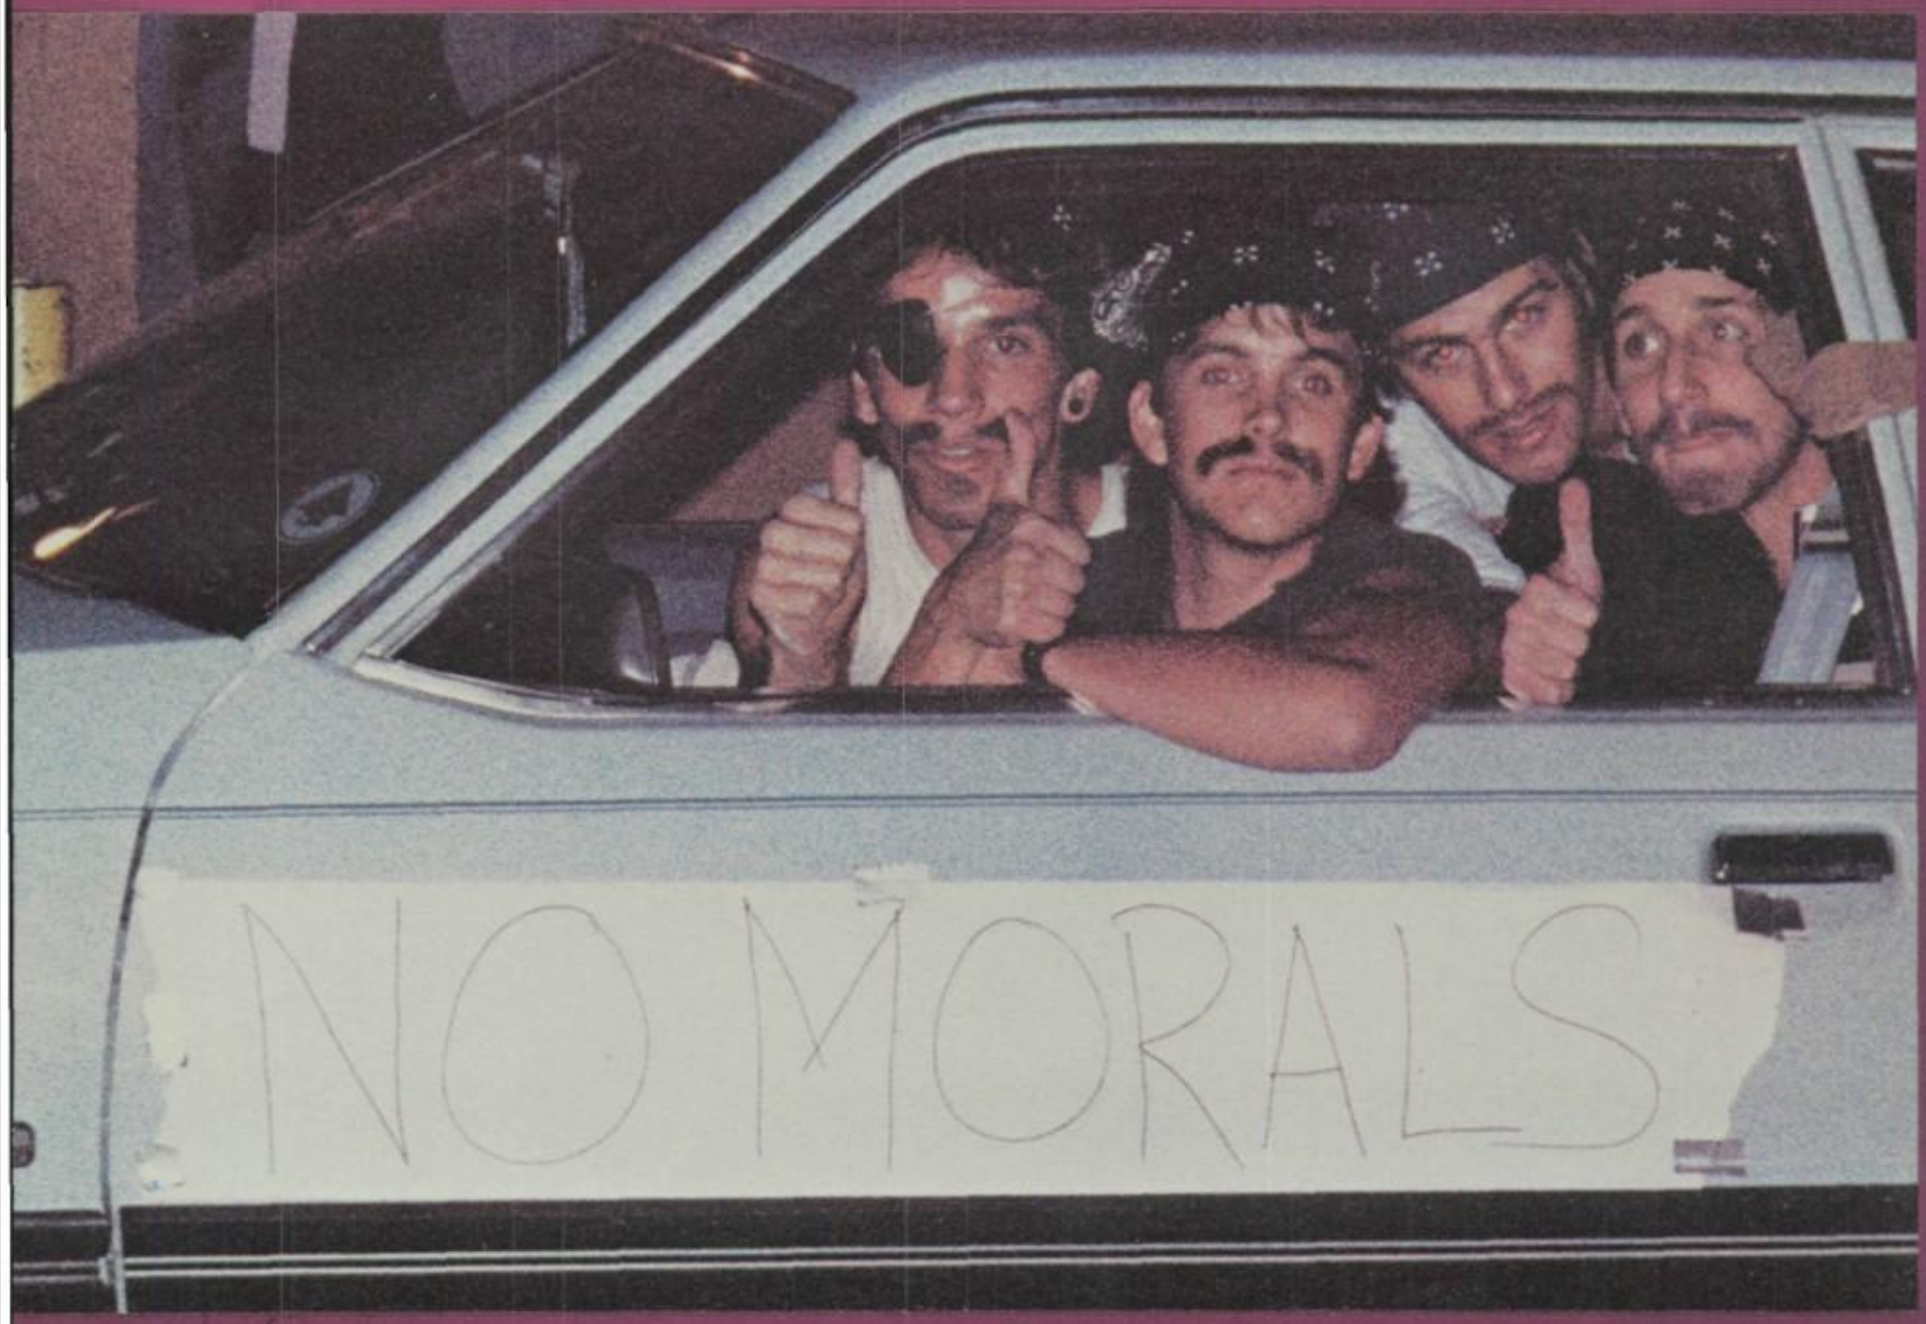
The first CV traffic jam — Looking like a line at In-and-Out at lunch, the Car Rally participants await the start of the activity.

Pep Pals. The "Brain Trust" of Tami Jennings, Vicky da Salla and Diane Pirkl was captured on film without their driver, April Russell. This "Gang of Four" finished third overall.

Follow the leader. Mike Milosevitch, posing as Evil Knieval, finishes as Gary Chau and Mr. Biermann check his mileage and time. Note: Tired contestants already finished.

The end. After 23 miles and 53 minutes, the weary contestants arrived at the final destination for ye old food and fun.

Need say more? The Yell Leaders kept their vow with a "Yo ho ho and a bottle of . . .?" They finished second overall.



Is everybody watching me? Jeff Hamilton shows off his most stylish dance moves as Cindy Patterson catches the cameraman's eye. Couples often went to dances in groups.

Long live Dionysus. Cari Bergeron experiences the tradition of the Greek God of party.

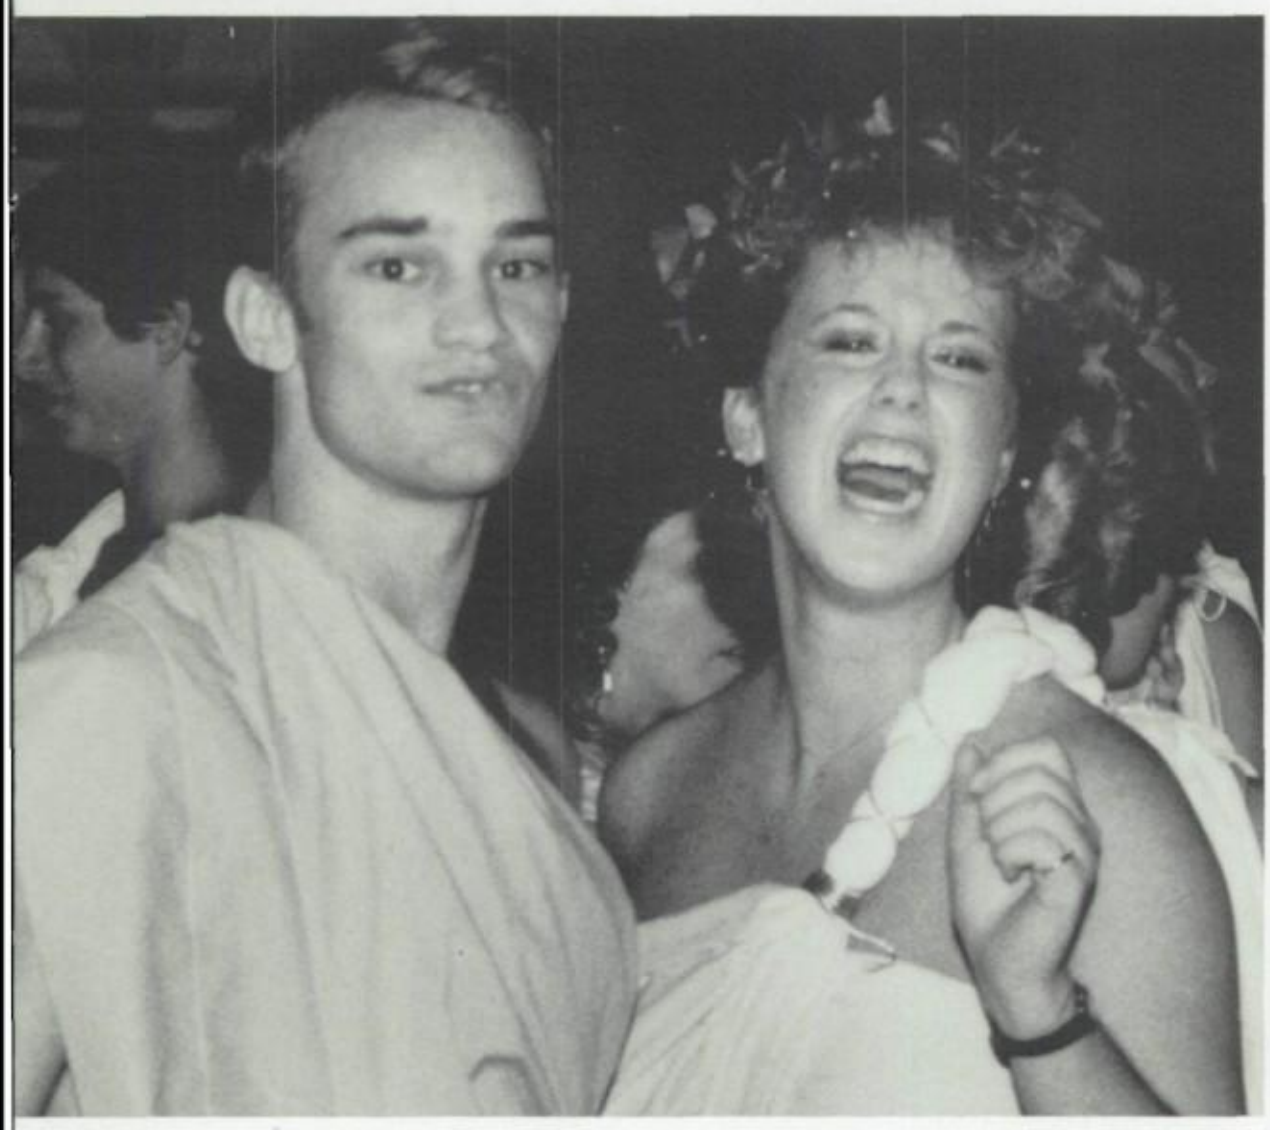
Students Get Their Sheets Together



As in the words of the late great John Belushi, "I know what we need . . . toga!" And toga is what we had, as the Senior Class sponsored the first Toga Dance.

On October 13, students wrapped themselves in sheets stripped from their beds and put on ivy taken from their yards, as they prepared to fulfill the dance's theme.

At 8:00 p.m., they headed towards the gym for three hours of music and dancing.

Not only were the traditional white sheets used, but also prints and different colors. Stripes, Holly Hobbie, the A-team and even the popular flourescent colors were part of the toga wardrobe. Satin was also used to give the toga a more formal look.

From 8:00 to 11:00 p.m., disc jockey Gus played the most modern music of Billy Idol, Sheila E., Lionel Richie and Prince.

The money from the dance went to the Senior Class in order to decrease the costs of senior activities. While supporting the Senior Class, the Student Body enjoyed dancing the night away.

Couples in . . . the Dating Game

What is a boyfriend or girlfriend? In high school, maybe just someone to talk to or someone who cares. Many students experience some form of romance during the school years. It can be just a quick glance with the meeting of eyes, a casual brush of the fingers and, even more daring, steady dating. This year, like most, the dating games was played.

Couples fell in love and out of love. CV was a soap opera of student affairs. "Did you know that Barbie and Bobby went out for two years, but Sally and Sammy only lasted two months?" An endless circle of break-ups and new beginnings created excitement in the dating game, and half the fun was being able to kiss and make up.

With a quick walk through the quad one might have encountered couples talking, couples laughing, couples holding hands and those couples who found it necessary to express emotion in a more physical way.

No matter how long the romance lasted, who it was with, or how serious the relationship became, the students admitted that much of their time was spent this year playing the dating game.

Friendship Proves To Be a Necessity for All

The bell had just rung on the first day of school. Lockers flew open, stickers went up and faces were full of excitement as Falcons from all grade levels prepared themselves for the long and tedious year they faced head-on. Many wore somber expressions as they realized school was now upon them and summer was at an end. Yet there was an aspect of school that had been missed over summer: the chance to be with friends.

Often, over summer vacation, students had a tendency to go their own ways. Many went on long awaited vacations while others relaxed at home or attended summer school. Despite the promises issued at the end of the previous year, virtually everyone in one form or another had neglected to see their friends on a regular basis. However, school offered a reunion with old friends and a chance to form new relationships.

Familiar faces were everywhere one turned at CV. "Cliques," or groups of friends, spotted the quad, and couples searched for privacy under the shade of trees. Even in the classroom Falcons met new people and started relationships. Urging on support and enthusiasm, friendships often evolved out of necessity among teams ranging from Cross Country to Pep Squad.

Needed by all, friends shared a common spirit and understanding. When asked to define a friend, Shanna Wierda replied, "Friends are people who care about you and lift you out of the dumps and respond to you. Friends give you a sense of uniqueness and they bring out the strengths and weaknesses in you. Most of all, friends help you grow as a person and help you understand yourself better."

Undoubtedly, everyone always needed a friend. School life enabled people to see friends on a regular basis whether it was socializing in the quad or cheering at a football game on a Friday evening. Friends not only helped each other through difficult times in and out of school, but they also were the basis of school activities. All in all, friendships throughout CVHS made school more tolerable and they also gave the school a sense of spirit and pride without which it could not have functioned.

The Man Who Came to Dinner

On November 15, 16, 17, the CV Drama Department presented Moss Hart's and George Kaufman's play, The Man Who Came to Dinner. As this comedy opens, Sheridan Whiteside, a famous radio personality played by Ramsey Rayyis, has just injured his hip at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley. Janel Finigan played the part of Mrs. Ernest Stanley and Fred Oliva portrayed Mr. Ernest Stanley.

The setting is the Stanley household in a small town called Masalia, in Ohio. Because of his injury, Mr. Whiteside is confined to a wheelchair as well as to the Stanley home. He makes the Stanley family rearrange their lives as he demands no one call on the telephone and the Stanleys use the back door, so that he will not be disturbed.

Love is not left out of the play as Maggie, Mr. Whiteside's secretary, played by Karen Oslund, meets Bert, played by Gary Kelly, a reporter from the Masalia Journal. Mr. Whiteside learns of this relationship and wants to separate these two lovebirds. In order to do this, he calls on Lorraine, an actress friend of his, played by Sheri Alford, to carry out this rotten deed.

With the audience laughing to the hilarious dialogue, the play was fun for everyone involved. The cast worked hard as they successfully gave their best performance.

— by Jennifer Brehm

Outraged — Mr. Ernest Stanley (Fred Oliva) demands his privacy after Mr. Whiteside (Ramsey Rayyis) makes himself quite at home despite his injured hip, while Mrs. Stanley (Janel Finigan) tries to make peace between the two men.

A warm welcome — An aggressive Bango (Brad Belnap) gives a friendly greeting to John (Kirk Owens) who does not restrain his shock at such behavior.

Reflecting — Actress Lorraine Sheldon (Sheri Alford) recounts her traveling experiences and acting career. Being the woman that she is, talking about herself comes easy.

Take a memo — Maggie Cutler, Mr. Whiteside's secretary (Karen Oslund) listens to Mr. Whiteside while she has Bert Jefferson on her mind.

Reporter of the Masalia Journal — Bert Jefferson (Gary Kelly) uses his journalistic skills to persuade the famous Mr. Whiteside for an interview for his newspaper.

Gotcha — Banjo (Brad Belnap) entraps Lorraine Sheldon (Sheri Alford) so she would not be an obstacle in Mr. Whiteside's plans.

A look of disgust — Miss Preen (Corey Shank) is again shocked as Mr. Whiteside (Ramsey Rayyis) makes another rude remark.

Say ahhhh — After many hours of hard work and practice, Miss Nute and the Choral Department give a spirited performance for the Christmas holidays.

The story is told. Tony Zafereo listens attentively as he waits for his cue. Tony, along with Karen Oslund, served as narrators. They told the meaning of Christmas throughout the program.

Making it all sound right — Terri Wenta and Jill Williams join the combined choirs in one of the many traditional Christmas carols.

The Spirit of Christmas Is Alive and Well at CV

Lights dimmed as the crowd finally settled into their seats with quiet anticipation of the upcoming performance. "A Feast of Lights" had begun as Miss Shirley Nute raised a single illuminated baton with which she guided the combined choral groups' vocals.

The A Cappella Choir, Men's Glee Club, Women's Glee Club and Charismatics combined their efforts to produce a harmonious sequence of songs introduced by the solemn voices of narrators Karen Oslund and Tony Zafereo. On December 20 at 7:30 and 9 p.m., the choirs performed after practicing time and again after school and in the evenings.

Opening with "A Child is Born at Bethlehem" by the Women's Glee, the program continued the holiday spirit with other segments such as "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Narrators superseded the songs, which often included the majestic singing of soloists. Among the soloists were Chris Robertson, Stefanie Plumley, James Urquidez, Jennifer Empey, Margaret McCoy and Mea Ascher, all of whom added their contrasting voices to songs sung by the combined choirs.

Symbolically using the lighting of a candle which then spread its flame to other members of the choir as it was passed along, the performance neared its end. Moving into a circle around the audience, the combined choirs performed "Silent Night." They then proceeded to move back to the stage as they closed with "Westminster Carol" and exited through the aisles bringing the audience to their feet.

In from the cold — Karen Cooper and Karen Robortello anxiously pay their dollar needed to enjoy the Christmas program. Many CV students attended the event to support their friends in the Feast of Lights.

Spreading Christmas cheer — Angela Molinari, Katherine Taylor, Donna Tuk and Sean McCarthy put their musical talents to use as they play traditional Christmas carols in the lobby of the auditorium before and after the performance.

Fun During Christmas Time

Christmas Week festivities began with the successful selling of Candy Grams sponsored by Cabinet. It was a good chance to send a soon-to-be honey, present honey or ex-honey a little note accompanied by a candy cane. Lucky for the "big spenders" it was only 50¢.

This year the annual Canned Food Drive brought in almost enough to feed the "local multitudes." Mr. Siebert's second-period class, the first-place winners, brought in over 4,000 cans and showed their true Christmas spirit by sharing their "Build Your Own Sundae" with the very close second-place winners, Mr. Canfield's second period class.

Tree decorating was delayed a day, thanks to a little intervention from Mother Nature, but the decorating carried on. Each second-period class that chose a tree was free to decorate any way they wanted. Ornaments consisted of anything from tinsel to car tires and fenders. However, Mr. Marsh's class was awarded "Most Original" by converting their sad-looking tree into a very handsome Rudolph the Red-nosed Reindeer.

The week came to an end on the last day of school before vacation. Students were invited to wear green and red to show holiday spirit, and some carried it further by hanging tinsel in their hair and bells on their toes. Our physically fit Santa, Coach DeMonbrun, had a fun time giving out candy canes to those who sat on his lap and asked for Christmas presents, including girlfriends, boyfriends and cars. Now we know what a majority of the CV student body really has on its mind a lot of the time.

The Christmas Dance, sponsored by Yell, Pep and Cabinet, was truly a time of merriment. Students laughed and danced to the music DJ'd by John Griffin. The voting for Mr. and Mrs. Claus resulted in Cort La Mee and Cherie Jensen being crowned with Santa hats. The dance was a great success and a super kickoff to a wonderful holiday season.

Slimming with Santa — Physically fit Coach "D" slips in a few jumping jacks before his grand entrance onto the rally platform.

Can you do the Can Can? — Mr. Siebert's class can. Full of the Christmas spirit, students provided food for the needy.

Cortly Love — Contrary to recent years, Mr. Claus, Cort LaMee and Mrs. Claus, Cherie Jensen, are not the "campus couple,"and despite the fact that they have no romantic relations, sorry Cort, they manage to keep a smile while dancing together.

Have you been a good boy? — Students crowd around Coach "D" hoping to get all their Christmas wishes.

Dancin' the night away — The Girls' League-sponsored Backwards Dance, Almost Paradise, proved to be a big success as couples danced to various types of music

Aloha! — Several Hawaiians take a rest from the paradise of the dancing to have their picture taken. Many others found themselves resting after dancing to their favorite music.

Girls Play Games And Go Hawaiian

On December 8, Girls' League presented the first backwards dance of the year. "Almost Paradise" got CV students in the mood to go Hawaiian. Despite the chilly weather, couples dressed in colorful short-sleeved shirts, printed shorts and even the traditional muumuus and grass skirts. The cafeteria of Glendale College was the sight where all these Hawaiians gathered. Students enjoyed dancing to the music, including Heavy Metal and New Wave. The crowning of the king was the highly awaited event of the evening. Girls' League President Susan Guzman announced John Horan as the popular choice.

Not only were there Hawaiians in December, but athletes in April. In fact, On April 12, girls and guys dressed up according to their favorite sport. "Games People Play," sponsored by the Sophomore Class, was held at the Glendale Civic Auditorium. The court consisted of freshman Tim Richards, junior Chris Schrobilgen, senior Dan Schandel, and sophomores Chris Haberl, Matt Jesse and Sam Levering, who was crowned king. With the creative themes, the backwards dances proved to be fun for all who attended them.

Some Unique Changes Keep Exemplifying Diversity

On March 8, the Junior Dance, "A Time For Us," took place in the Lower Civic Auditorium in Glendale. From 8:00 to 11:30, students enjoyed the music by Video Band. As the name reveals, not only was there music, but videos to go along with it.

At around 9:30, dancers cleared the floor so that the court could be escorted to the middle for the crowning of the queen. The princesses and their escorts were Jeneane Doom and Norby Flores, Laura Hietter and Jeff Hamilton, Colleen Lewis and Dan Schandel, and Cami McIntyre and Jeff Ward. Wayne Le Cheminant escorted a pleasantly surprised Queen Moira Delaney.

The Junior Class worked hard and successfully provided a good time for the student body.

College Tour Aids Future Scholars' Decisions

Why do people go on the College Tour? Is it for the incredible cafeteria food? Is it for the luxurious sleeping accommodations? Is it to see and feel the nine prominent campuses the tour visits? Or, is it to experience four days of fun which may never be topped?

"The College Tour was not only amazingly fun, but it was also very useful in making decisions," answered Kelly Ingram. The tour is taken each year by a group of juniors who are chosen on college eligibility and promptness in signing up. All types of institutions are visited, from small Catholic schools to sprawling UC campuses. The students not only get to "feel" the different campuses but also get to tour them and speak with students attending each school.

The hectic schedule of seeing nine colleges and universities in four days was made bearable by the ample free time given to the students. The fun climaxed with a Friday-night outing to Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco. Not only did it give students a break from the often bleak and always bland cafeteria food, but it allowed students to be on their own for three hours in the most romantic city in the world.

The students were not always on their own, however. Under the competent guidance of Mr. Don King and Mrs. Florence Gale, the students were kept from becoming too rowdy. The enthusiasm of the students and the help of the advisors made the 1985 College Tour a resounding hit.

For those who did attend the 1985 Tour, certain aspects are definitely worth remembering:
— Bryan's headstand and the gum in his hair
— Pea soup/Sea poop
— Girl on the bed (toyshop)
— Toilet seat cover hats
— The Wave — ssss sssh
— Hide-and-go-seek — Billy Watson's hatchet murders
— Bill "the Duke" Deukmejian
— Jean Nate and Pierre Cardin
— Blowing the fuses at UOP
— Blueberry Muffin
— King Dong
— The sign on the bathroom door
— Riach scores his first points
— The flight home — Jack the steward
— Nail polish wars — Indian Ian
— The gay old time in Old Sacramento

Yum, college cafeteria food! Aileen Navarro and Susan Guernsey ponder over the delicious food they are about to encounter.

Oooh, aaah — Beautiful sites were a major part of the tour. This radio tower at the University of the Pacific was just one of them.

Every LONG campus tour must come to an end — The group tiredly awaits the arrival of the bus driver so they can enjoy a peaceful bus ride into San Francisco.

Moms and Dads Let Daughters Pick Up the Tab

Fathers and Mothers ... well, for all they have done for us, the least we can do is show them how much we love them. And that is just what the Girls' League did by hosting their annual Mom-and Dad-Daughter Dinners.

The night of January 16 found hundreds of fathers and daughters laughing and dancing to music DJ'd by John Griffin after enjoying a delicious catered dinner, prepared by the cafeteria staff. The dancing continued until 9:30 p.m., despite the many dads and daughters who didn't want to leave the dance floor and were ready to "trip the lights" until 12:00.

Moms and daughters partied at a more elegant location, The First Baptist Church of La Crescenta, on March 26. The food was good and the evening was fun filled with games and laughter. Pictures, food, matching outfits and a lot of good fun left moms and daughters ready to return to next year's gala and repeat the activities.

The Jensen Trio — After winning the Mother-Daughter Look-Alike Award, Mrs. Jensen and daughters, Cherie and Jennie, smile pretty, showing their likenesses.

Can you tell them apart? Hopefully, yes. Mrs. Cohen and daughters Reeni and Laura are the winners of the Non-Look-Alike Contest.

Hmmm — The Barbershoppers, also known as The Knack, get into tune while providing entertainment for the roomful of ladies.

Leading ladies — Miss Nute, Mrs. Starke and Mrs. M. Peterson hold their flowers of appreciation as this function couldn't have been possible without them.

Applaud-o-meter — Jennifer Empey, along with other daughters and dads determine who looks the most alike. The crowd voted Kelly and Renee Baugh as the daughters who best resembled their father.

Hearty appetites — Dining together, fathers and their girls enjoy the lasagna dinner served by the Key Club and Lettermen's Club. Everyone got to know each other as the evening went on.

Dear ol' Dad — Debbie Franzon salutes her father and fathers in general, while, in turn, Mr. Franzon explains how special daughters are.

Sing it, girls! — The Barberettes provided entertainment as they sing three of their songs.

Women or Men, Who Will It Be?

Although the scoreboard showed men triumphant, the women proved superior in many contests during Battle of the Sexes in March. The females suffered their share of defeats, but they accepted their losses gracefully. Of course, the men flew into fits of ranting and raving just because the women won the lifesaver pass, but they made up for it by dragging the girls across the quad in the tug-o-war. Other activities included arm wrestling (Just for record, Jeff Hamilton was challenged to a re-match, but he declined the offer — why, Jeff?), finding a penny in a bowl of cornflakes, catching a potato on a fork, blowing up balloons, shaving blindfolded, dressing into pantyhose, eating pie and the final wrap-up, an obstacle course.

Maybe the men won, but the women put up a good fight. Anyway, who really knows which sex is superior? Come to think of it, who cares? However, in our "unbiased" opinions, we girls think the scales tip toward us (and I'm not referring to weight!).

— by Cherie Jensen

Ah-Boooo — Samir Abou Rass leads the men to their victory over the women in the tug-of-war.

Give it a yank! Laura Lalley and Kathy Passmore competitively pull the rope even though their efforts prove hopeless.

No poking! Darrin Richards enviously spies on Chris Schrobilgen and the passionate Sam Levering.

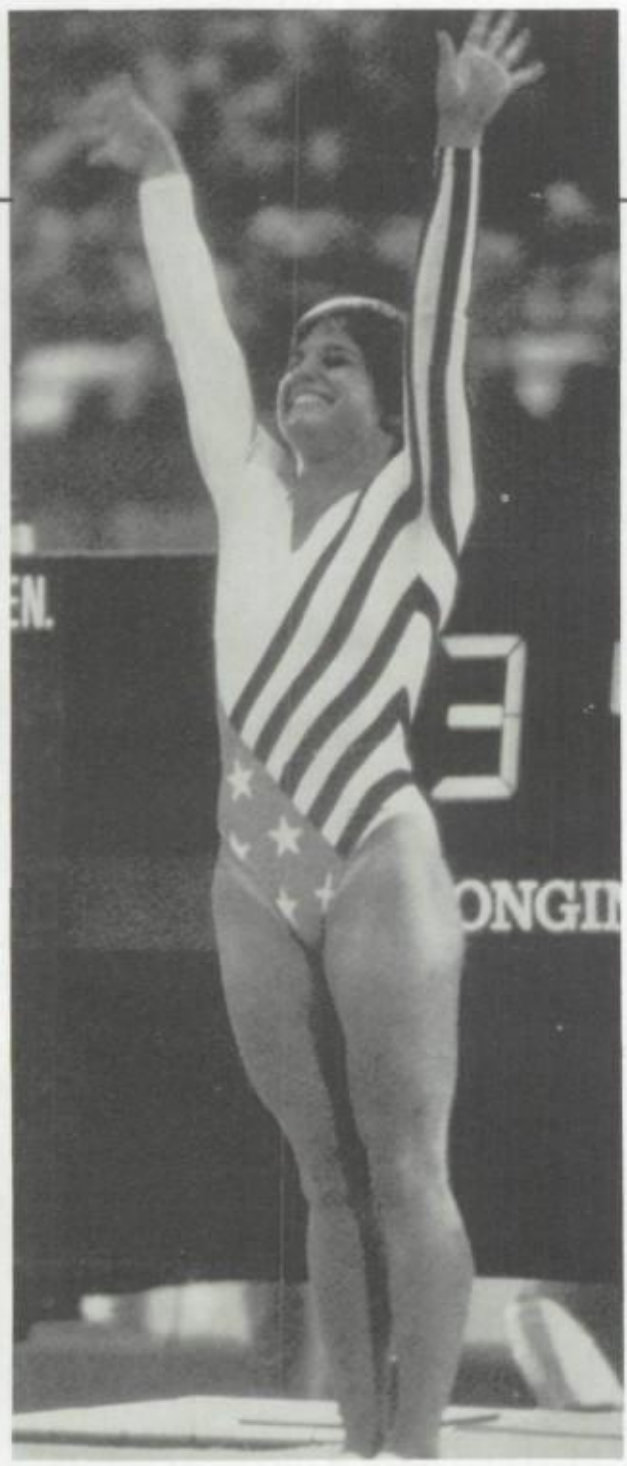
Thou shalt not bow to graven images: Lorna DiConti succumbs to defeat by man.

Potatoes or Stove Top? Cindy Patterson prefers potatoes, even though headless Aaron Villasenor prefers Stove Top.

Newsmakers — From Eddie Murphy, a comedian, to Peter Ueberroth, Time's Man of the Year, faces and events are displayed on journalistic publications. As Doug Flutie threw a football to fame, Indira Gandhi died in her efforts for national peace.

"Feed the World . . ." — Drought stricken, Ethiopia, as well as many other parts of Africa, suffers one of the largest famines in history. Here, a mother feebly attempts to comfort her withered child.



Finishing touches — Mary Lou Retton concludes a floor routine with her famous smile. The liveliness of the women's gymnastics team, Mary Lou Retton went on to do commercials and advertisements of many forms.

Pride and honor — Enclosed in a lattice-work of bars, the Statue of Liberty is renovated for the first time since it was given to the U.S. in 1886 from France.

"Baby Fae," struggling for life after receiving a baboon heart in place of her own, caused controversy over sacrificing animals' lives along with hope for her own life until she died 32 days later.

News Events of the Past: Shaping Our Future

Looking back on the school year, every person is subject to impressions and memories left by the tragedy, glory and despair of the year's local and worldwide news items. From the desolate sands of India to the sobriety checkpoints in Glendale, we were all touched in our own way. As the horror of Ethiopia stirred the conscience of the world in the autumn of 1984 with the deaths of more than a million people, surgeons in Loma Linda, California, raised controversy and hope after they implanted a baboon heart in a two-week-old infant known as "Baby Fae."

From the San Francisco 49ers capturing a victory in the Super Bowl over Miami to the renovation of the Statue of Liberty, we all felt pride and glory. All in all, the news items of the past year helped us all grow as individuals, as well as a society.

For example, America reveled in the spectacle of the Twenty-third Olympiad in a celebration of youth and skill that touched off an explosion of patriotic pride. U.S. athletes collected 174 medals, an Olympic record, with Mary Lou Retton, the men's gymnastic team and Carl Lewis standing out in the glory.

In Lebanon, the final withdrawal of the U.S. Marine peacekeeping force suggested a limit to U.S. power, yet the United States' interest in El Salvador continued to grow as military advisors appeared in increasing numbers.

India suffered a double stroke of tragedy when the assassination of Indira Gandhi tested the bonds of the nation's unity and when 2,000 people were killed by a cloud of deadly gas which leaked from a Union Carbide chemical plant in Bhopal.

Vanessa Williams, Miss America of 1984, relinquished her title when it was discovered she had posed for prurient photographs with another woman.

The Jacksons unleashed a twenty-city "Victory Tour" that grossed more than $90 million, yet it still had its share of difficulties.

The nation of Ethopia, skeletal, ravaged and desperate, turned the world's eyes toward the television as the British Broadcasting Company's revealing film portrayed the horror of mass starvation. Aid from all over the world flowed into Africa, and "Band Aid," a group featuring all of the best English bands released "Do They Know It's Christmas?" to raise relief funds. Soon after, "U.S.A. for Africa," an all-American group of musicians, produced "We Are the World" for the same purpose.

Sobriety checkpoints appeared throughout the Southland as the CHP stopped random cars at designated intersections. Although few were arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol, most viewed the checkpoints as a positive step toward reducing the drunk-driving rate.

A record 49 states sent President Reagan back to the White House for his second and final term. Walter Mondale retired from politics after his defeat while his runningmate, Geraldine Ferraro, the first female Vice-Presidential candidate from a major party, appeared in Pepsi commercials for television.

The gentle invocation, "Bless you, boys," carried the Detroit Tigers to the World Series championship; they led all the way from the opening day, the first team to do so since the 1927 Yankees.

Surprising Doug Flutie from Boston College won the Heismann Trophy for college football and later signed with the New Jersey Generals of the USFL. BYU finished the year ranked number one in college football.

"Yuppies" became increasingly common, and our symbol of pride, the Statue of Liberty, was renovated with the help of donations that came from all over the nation.

As the events of the past become memories, we all look toward the future. For some, it may be more high school memories, and for others it may be experiencing life on their own or life in college. Yet, for all of us, it is the challenge to go the distance and meet the future which keeps us looking forward.

A Moment in Time
But Forever in the Heart

At first, nobody thought it could be true, but it was; the first male court for the Senior Prom ever in CV's history. The seniors decided to make a lasting impression by nominating a king and four princes for their prom court. The procedure for this was the same as any other court. The evening of the last formal dance of the year was sure to be memorable.

The date: May 10th; the place: the Queen Mary; a perfect evening on the high seas. For anyone who has ever dreamed of a romantic, moonlit walk on a cruise ship, this night was a dream come true.

An important addition to the atmosphere was the music by "The Singles." The Grand Salon Ballroom of the Queen Mary was decorated appropriately with hurricane lamps and flowers. For dinner, the main course consisted of filet mignon and for desert, chocolate mousse.

The excitement of the evening came to a peak when Tami Jennings and John Plaga were crowned queen and king respectively. The evening proved to be a success as the senior class enjoyed dancing and dining with their friends.

The Year In Retrospect

In case the year just passed you by and you were oblivious to the activities, read this — it just might help.

First of all, September brought us Howdy Day, schedule changes and nervous freshmen. Then came November, and oh, what a time to "Celebrate" with Homecoming week activities, football games and of course Welcome Freshmen Week!

The students really made a point to boogie down this year with Back-to-School, Toga and Christmas dances. Couples flocked to backwards, Homecoming, Junior dances and, of course, the Senior Prom.

As the year continued, there was Christmas and all the involved activities. Our choral and music departments serenaded us through the year with The Feast of Lights, Spring and Pop's concerts.

The real question was asked in February: which is the superior sex? However, even with a week of activities testing strength, power and agility, the scoreboard showed men to be superior, but we women know we let the men have it, only to save those puffed-up egos.

Time flies when you're having fun, right? Or could it be, time flies when you want the school year to end? Fall sport barely finished when it seemed spring sports were already coming to an end. Advanced Dance and Drama entertained us with their Fall and Spring performances. Then the Prom was right around the corner. Well, there you have it folks, the 84-85 year complete with dances, sports, plays, activities, musical productions and the final good-bye to our beloved seniors. Th-th-th-th-that's all folks.

SPORTS

In the world of sports, go the distance is a common term. However, it is still meaningful and applicable to those athletes of Crescenta Valley High School. Much like Jim Short's quest for a perfect swing, 1984-1985's athletes gave their all in hopes of another win. Yet, one must remember that winning isn't everything. True satisfaction comes only when a goal is set and then accomplished, when an observer can say, "They truly went the distance."

Later on, the results of CV's scholastic and athletic achievements will be revealed. But right now, we would like to highlight some sports not regularly covered in the yearbook. In a moment, you will see everything from water polo and football to badminton and baseball with basketball in between. And now we would like to showcase the hobbies that many enjoy. Maybe these pictures will bring back some good memories. So, on with the show . . .

Varsity Shows Improvement

Although the 1984 Varsity Football team did not enjoy a winning season, they met a commitment which was laid down by co-captain Dan Schandel at the beginning of the season. This commitment was to be better, and that the Falcons were, whether the scoreboard showed it or not.

With only thirteen seniors on the team, the juniors and two starting sophomores, Quarterback Carl Lomas and tackle Jerry Harris, rendered strong support. All-Area punter Jose LaPorte helped a great deal on fourth downs as CV punted more than any other team in the League. "Our special teams were a most consistent part of the team, led by seniors Steve Foley, Eric Russell and Co-captain Paul Kim," commented Coach Dan DeMonbrun.

Throughout the season, there were many moments in which the Falcons could have given up, but they kept their composure. This was because of the family-like closeness of the team. "Notwithstanding the score, it was one of the most enjoyable seasons I've experienced in seventeen years that I've been coaching here, and it is all due to the character of the kids on the team," said Coach Warnock. "All in all, a success."

Gentlemen, it's party time! — A few ecstatic Sophomore football players celebrate after a victory over Arcadia. The win clenched the championship

Experience for Varsity

F/S Teams Show Excellence

Champs — a new title for the Sophomore team while the Freshman team makes history.

Starting with Hell Week, all freshmen and sophomores trained together before being split into two teams under different coaching staffs.

With help from RIM, or Receivers in Motion, quarterback MVP Steve Cho and "sticks" from Mike Muhlethaler, Steve Betteridge and Dale Richart, the Sophomores earned the Pacific League Championship, shared with Muir and Glendale. Yet, the team may as well have held it alone, for this was their first championship title held since 1971. Other standouts were Erik Borup, Mike Cho, Mauro Laporte, and Erik Anderson, who contributed greatly to the overall effort.

The Sophomores' only loss was to Glendale, 0-13. Although it was a loss in points, there was a psychological win. Prior to that game, there were attitude problems, and this loss was a turning point for the team. Afterwards, the realization of the Sophomores' excellence infiltrated the opposing team's thoughts.

The championship was clenched after the final game of the season vs. Arcadia. The Sophomores fought their hardest until the last second, when Mike Muhlethaler kicked a 43-yard field goal for the win. "Everyone worked hard, and we deserved it!" commented Dave Wolf.

On the other hand, the Freshman team, the first in CV history, suffered from inexperience. Since most of these players had never even played in a game before, it was a year of learning. Even so, they were determined to prove to themselves and their fans that the Freshman team was an asset to the school.

Outstanding freshmen were MVP Bob Armitage, Jason Kobielusz, James Moran, Paul Brink and David Rands. All in all, each and every player worked hard at achieving his goals.

The year helped to prepare the F/S teams for future teams. Each learned what it takes to be a Falcon football player: spirit, stamina, cooperation and Falcon Pride.

"Craft-y" Water Polo

Poloists Determined to Win

The 1984 Varsity Water Polo team went from being a young team last year to a mature team, with four of the six returning starters. These four, Eddy Owensby, Mark Rygh, Jeff Hamilton and John Plaga, were inspirational athletes to both the team and the athletic program.

Eddy Ownesby, named the Most Valuable Player and Co-captain, was the team's top scorer with 62 goals. Even though he was out of action for a large part of the season with a broken thumb, he still qualified for and was chosen to be on the First Team All-League and earned All-Area honors.

Mark Rygh was the most durable player on the team, leading the team with the most quarters played and earning First Team All-League and All-Area honors.

The third of the returning four, Jeff Hamilton, was the most inspirational player on the team. Team Captain and "vocal leader," Jeff scored 44 goals while he played the least of the regular starters.

Last, but definitely not least, was John Plaga, the team's fastest and best defensive player. He, too, earned All-League and All-Area honors.

Rounding out the starting team were Carl Massemaeckers, Billy Owensby, Darrin Martin and Greg Peterson. Carl, CV's best goalie in years, led the League with 68 saves and earned All-League and All-Area honors. Billy was the high-scoring sophomore, with 22 goals and All-League Honorable Mention and All-Area Second Team. Darrin and Greg filled in for Eddy while he was injured. Both showed a desire to be winners and are destined to be team leaders next season. The team, led by Coach Stuart Craft, finished third in the toughest league in 3A CIF, behind Hoover and Muir. The team's final record of 13 and 10 was deceiving, in that most of their games were lost by small margins to powerhouse teams, such as Villa Park High School and Los Alamitos High School. They were defeated by Downey High School in the first round of the CIF preliminaries by a slim five-goal margin.

Although five of the starters were graduating seniors, polo fans can expect even greater things from next year's team, which will consist solely of juniors. And in two years ....

"Campillo's campers"

A Promising Future

Young and inexperienced aptly described the Frosh/Soph Water Polo team. With only four returning players, the team was dominated by freshmen.

"You should have seen them during Hell Week," chuckled coach Jimmy Campillo. "Over half of them could barely swim." After those two grueling weeks, the team started to shape up. Since it was one of the few Frosh/Soph teams in the area, the players competed with other schools' JV's. "It was tough, but it made us play together," stated captain Mike Kaufmann. Kaufmann was tied for leading scorer with sophomore Will Tamplin and rocket-armed freshman Matt Aldrich, who was the team's MVP. The most improved player was Eric Graves, another freshman who specialized in defense.

Other team standouts were Chris Philpott and Mark Fried, both sophomores. Freshmen Travis Neale, Dale Foster, Phil Livingston, Kenny Spain and Brian Taylor also saw much playing time.

The team's potential was made manifest in the last game against top-ranked Arcadia. Down by four goals with four mintues to go, the young Falcons started their comeback. With a minute to go, the score was tied at eight, where it stayed. The game was thrown in overtime. Although ultimately losing, the team showed the maturity and poise to be a contender for the League title in future years.

Falcons Break the Tape

"I'm very proud of them," said Coach Vicky Bouldin. "It was sort of a disappointment that we achieved only second place. We lost three of our top five summer runners. We were very young and we expect great things from them in the future."

Unquestionably, the leader of the team was senior Terri Wenta. Although she missed part of the year because of illness, she finished the year with the fastest time, All-League and All-Area honors. Rounding out the starting five were Patty Connolly, Michelle Ganje, Lisa Marram and Karen Alfson, who was a pleasant surprise to the team. All the girls put out a fine effort in CIF Prelims.

Following in the footsteps of past CV Boys' Cross Country teams, the Varsity brought the Pacific League title home. After a one-year leave from our halls, the championship was won by a young team. Starting with five juniors, a sophomore and only one senior, this team should be a favorite for next year. Coach Keith Gilliland expressed his feeling when he said "The team jelled, which resulted in the winning season. We would have done better if illness had not affected some of our key runners."

Mike Bartholomew traded the sixth and seventh positions with junior Tom Halaszynski. Pat Fisher and sophomore John Kearney finished out the remaining four. The number-three runner was Captain Drew Wheeler. Hampered by ill health for part of the year, he turned in a best time of 16:47 in CIF. The top spot was greatly contested the entire season by two juniors, Dave Rawlins and Rick Fimple. Competition between the two was tough. Rick Fimple said, "All of us were friends and we really pushed each other." The final nod went to Rawlings who finished with an average time of 16:57. The consistent Rick Fimple stayed in the sixteen minute range, but he didn't equal his performance of 1983.

Overall, the teams were great. Much can be expected in the seasons to come.

It was no surprise

Pacific League Sweep

The JV and Frosh/Soph Cross Country teams did exactly what was expected of them; they both finished League competition undefeated.

How does a team deal with the pressure when it is always expected to be number one? "It was all so much easier than we were told it would be," said a confident Chris Tremayne of the JV team's victory.

There was little, if any, competition for the JV team. Boasting six of the top seven runners in the Pacific League, the team was unstoppable with a perfect League record and a win in the Kenny Staub Invitational. Wayne LeCheminant, George Rousseau, Ken Rehme and Bill Phillips were awarded First Team All-League honors and Chris Tremayne and Rick Rands made Second Team All-League.

The Frosh/Soph team boasted four of the top-ten runners in the Pacific League, including the best and most consistent runner in the League, Mike Conover. He won five of the seven dual meets in which he competed for the Frosh/Soph team. Rounding out the starting five were David Kim, who was First Team All-League, Eric Lefler and Shwan Kim, both Second Team All-League, and Jeff DeVore, who was always putting pressure on the third and fourth men. All members put out fine efforts and were commended.

The JV and Frosh/Soph teams provided a little vitality to CV, which was suffering an athletic slump in the 84-85 seasons.

Hard-hitting women bound through the season

Volleyball Looks Impressive

"Mine!" yells the middle blocker. As she crouches to dig the serve, her teammates position themselves for the set and spike. "Up! Nice pass," shouts the setter as she stations herself beneath the leather sphere. As the set is gently lofted into position, the team prepares for defense as the spiker readies herself. With a leap comparable to Superman over a tall building, the hitter smashes the ball over the net. The ball is driven into the hardwood. "Side out," exclaims the ref. The gym reverberates with noise as the rowdy fans cheer the scene that ends in a high-five between teammates.

Excitement was the name of the game for Varsity Volleyball. Crowds were bigger for the matches and enthusiasm was at an all-time peak. "The biggest thrill for me was the win over Arcadia," said junior Moira Delaney. The Falcons handed the Apaches their only defeat of the season. "They were the toughest team we faced, but this shows that any team can beat another on any given day in our League," said coach Pat Wells.

Hallelujah! Captain Hae Yung Kim perfectly sets the ball with religious flair. The set is a basic but intricate function in volleyball.

Having only two senior starters did not hurt the Falcons, as they returned six underclassmen players from past Varsity teams. MVP and All-League Annette Johnson was the "on-the-floor quarterback," as she guarded the middle. Super-setter Moira Delaney, who did not play last year, and star-spiker Jenifer Larson combined for an unstoppable offense. Hae Yung Kim was the team leader as she served as Captain along with Johnson. Other main contributers were returning Varsity players Lisa Erickson and Sarah Augustus. Rounding out the team were juniors Cami McIntyre, Lyrae Dickenson, last year's JV MVP Kathy Goodman, and sophomore Tammy McCollum.

Lisa Erickson, another All-League selection as Honorable Mention, said, "I feel that we did not get as many personal awards as players on other teams because we play so well as a team. We compliment each other."

Volleyballers Set It Up

Adding to the skill of the volleyball program were the JV and Frosh/Soph teams. Both demonstrated superior ability and added to the overall spirit of the teams. Many hours of practice over the summer and after school every day went into coordinating these teams. Even though the separate teams were not picked until two weeks before school started, each girl worked hard in order to receive a spot on the starting lineup. "The practices were hard, but they were worth it," said Susie Bonas, a starter on the JV team.

Consisting of five juniors, three sophomores and three freshmen, the JV team, aided by the coaching of Jan McCreery, finished third place overall. Outstanding sophomore Angela Taras, considered a "quarterback" setter, was an asset to the team and was ultimately voted the team's Most Valuable Player.

With help from rookie coach Nancy Rabensteine, the highly spirited Frosh/Soph team, consisting only of freshmen, enjoyed a season of learning and experience. With contributing skills from MVP Lisa Detweiler, the freshmen earned third place in the Pacific League.

Overall, the JV and Frosh/Soph teams underwent a year of mastering skills and making new friends.

Winning isn't everything

Tennis Anyone?

No one expected it. With only days before the first match of the season, the Varsity coach quit without prior notice. Does it sound like the Bad News Bears? It may have been the same idea, but the tennis team didn't make it to the playoffs as the infamous baseball team did in the movies.

In fact, neither the Varsity nor the JV squad savored the taste of victory. Due to the absence of the Varsity coach, JV top-dog Dan Waite was moved up to the Varsity coaching position, leaving a gap for the JV's. But never fear, Mrs. Daniels was here. This Special education teacher became the JV coach just in the nick of time. An appreciated surprise!

Although neither squad won in the overall tally, the year was not without its moments.

Practicing their way to perfection

Work and Reward

The lights dimmed, the curtains parted and the music began; the annual Advanced Dance fall assembly had begun.

The audience first heard "Do What You Wanna Do," but it soon slipped into the "Twilight Zone." Next, the dancers asked the audience to "Wake Me Up Before You Go," to which the onlookers replied, "Relax."

"Changes" came over the audience, as they were invited to "Kiss Me With Your Mouth" and "Dance Electric." The onlookers were going "Nowhere Fast" when someone yelled "I've Got My Finger on the Trigger," and "Baby, I'm a Star." Everyone was "The Lucky One," dancers and watchers.

Besides the fall assembly, the dancers also produced the annual Dance Concert, definitely a cut above the assembly. Two weeks of nightly practices and countless snack periods were needed above and beyond the regular class period to establish the precision necessary for the semi-professional show.

Additionally, Mrs. Shoff spent extra hours, many wrought with frustration, putting together the layouts of both shows. Her husband spliced all songs.

Of course, it was not all work. After all, that would have stunted the creative aspirations of the dancers. The camaraderie, birthday cakes and 7-11 runs balanced drudgery with diversion. All work and no play makes Jane a dull girl.

Girls Exhibit Strong Effort

The Girls Varsity and JV Basketball teams both started out their seasons this year under new coaches. Bill Richards took over Cheryl Vanos' position as Varsity coach and Nancy Rabensteine, a college student, donated her time to coach the JV team.

Molly Wampler and team captains Vicky Arriola, Lisa Renn and Lisa Erickson led the Varsity team to a 3-7 League record, the best in three years. Lisa Renn, scoring an average 23 points per game and voted Most Valuable Player by her teammates, was the standout. Jenifer Larson stated, "The thing I loved about our team was our enthusiasm, no matter what situation we experienced." Even though the League record didn't quite depict the talent possessed by the team, it was evident when the Falcons captured the consolation trophy at the Beverly Hills Tournament.

There were only three sophomores on the JV team; freshmen filled in the rest of the nine slots. Tammy McCollum led the team in total points scored, while Co-captains Mary Hacker and Lia Rittenhouse helped in attaining their three League wins. The entire JV team was quoted as saying, "We had a fun season because we played as a team and helped each other out. Next year's team should be great, since most of us are freshmen."

CV's "Smurfs" surprise everyone

Effort Breeds Excellence

Once upon a time, there lived a lunatic fortuneteller who said that the 1985 Varsity Basketball Falcons would finish the season with a record of 18-7, the best since 1978. She also predicted a ranking of 11 in CIF, a record of 7-3 and a tie for second place in the Pacific League, a League dominated by top-rated, unbeaten Glendale. At this point, the crowd began to reject her story and started to leave. Next, she told of an overall record of 19-8 and a playoff upset over twelfth-rated Inglewood. Now, the clincher . . . The team would not be blessed with anyone more than 6'3" tall. People began to howl with laughter. It was the funniest joke in town.

No one is laughing anymore.

After an 11-4 preseason, including an upset victory over Nevada's #2 team, and an incredible 7-1 home record, this group of small athletes dubbed "the Smurfs" by their loyal fans, shocked doubters by refusing to die in the CIF playoffs until they met sixth-ranked Buena.

But how did it happen, anyway? Foremost were dazzling performances by returning All-CIF junior Harvey Mason, who averaged 26.2 points per game, including 56 points in a 101-100 victory over a tough CV alumni team, and senior forward Drew Haberl, who averaged 14.3 points, 6.2 assists and 9.2 rebounds per game.

However, the real motivator was Head Coach John Goffredo, who said, "This is the most ideal role-playing team that I have ever coached. (Sr. center) Mike McGeagh's role is to rebound, for (sr. guard) Raphi Hanessian it is defense, (sr.) Ed Wirtz is a genuine scoring threat as a guard and (jr. forward) Mark Potter's outside shooting can destroy a zone defense. Add Mason and an emotional leader such as Haberl and you have quite a team. Even the bench gets fired up because they know that their role is to maintain spirit, morale and team unity."

So what ever happened to the lunatic fortune teller? She is now in Beverly Hills with thousands of people beating down her door, waiting for her to predict Rocinante to win the Kentucky Derby, the Mets to win the World Series, and another high school basketball team with small frames and big hearts to win nineteen games in a season.

And they said it couldn't be done . . .

Slam-Dunk Hopefuls

Too often the JV, Sophomore, and Freshman Basketball teams are neglected and almost forgotten. This year's teams proved themselves through hardwork and a winning season.

Being only the second freshman team in the history of CV, these freshmen came through a Sophomore League as co-champs with La Canada. The deciding game vs. La Canada was won by LC by only one point, 42-41. Outstanding players Brad Adam, Erik Anderson, Anthony Burgess, Joel Larson, and Tuan Le led their team to such a victorious season.

Also reaching their remarkably high goals, the sophomores earned second place behind Glendale High's strong sophomore team. This highly energetic team was led by Greg Buck, Chris Haberl, Vache Hanessian and Chris Tostenson.

The JV team worked hard, but fate was not with them throughout the season. Even though they did not win every game, the desire for victory was present in every player.

Above all, each team worked hard to build a better basketball program for the future.

Track Starts with a Bang

The 1985 Varsity Track team started off the season trying to better the enthusiasm and team unity of last year's team, and without a doubt it was done. "Things are really looking up for us this time around," commented Head Coach Keith Gilliland.

Ron Cavataio and Yoo-Jin Lim were the ones to watch in the field events. Cavataio, clearing 13' in the pole vault at the Northridge Invitational, stood just 6" from the school record at press time. "There's no doubt in my mind that I'm going to break it by the end of the season," he said. Yoo-Jin Lim triple jumped a distance of 42'9" and long jumped 20'9", (improving through the season).

After a profitable Cross Country season, Wayne Le Cheminant was able to shrink his time down to 1:58.8 in the 800 and Dave Rawlins ran a 4:34 in the mile. The sprint relay team of Steve Hirsch, John Horan, Brian Workman and Brad Belnap was able to pull off a first place in the heat at the Santa Barbara Relays with a time of 46.1 seconds. Belnap, the fastest sprinter on the team, rounded off his times at 11.4 seconds in the 100m and 22.8 seconds in the 200m.

Assistant Coach Tony Zarillo remarked, "I'm truly appreciative that we came around as a team this year."

— by Steve Foley

Nervously anticipating the start of the sprint relay, Brad Belnap inhales the warm spring air. As the top sprinter on the squad, he ran anchor for the relay team, leading them to several impressive victories.

With flawless form, Andy Curl easily clears the 6'0" bar. Through grueling practice, he managed to set a 6'3" personal record.

Girls break records

A Season of Achievements

The 1985 track season represented another close call for the Girls' team. Losing to number-one ranked Muir early in the season, the girls again were denied the championship, yet still surpassed expectations.

"I was pleased with their performances," commented head-coach Keith Gilliland. "Many of the girls broke the records they set for themselves and I believe we were one of the more competitive teams in the League."

The girls not only broke personal records, but school records as well. Terri Wenta set a new meet record in the 3200m run at the Glendale Tri-Meet with a time of 11:38.1, and it was a personal record as well. Kelly Smith surpassed her goal in the 100m by running an outstanding 12.6. Brenna Gunn triple-jumped an astounding 34'6.75", a length which topped many of the marks of the Frosh/Soph boys and broke the prior school record, which was also Brenna's. Jenifer Larson also ran 16.5 in the 100m hurdles, which placed her fifth all-time.

A large factor in the success of the team was the work put into their events. Jenifer Larson, a member of the 400m relay team said, "The workouts were incredibly hard, but they paid off in the end." It was an opinion held by the majority of the team.

All aspects considered, the Girls' Track team was successful in the 1985 season. And as for next season, Jenifer Larson said, "Who knows? Someone has to beat Muir eventually. Why not us?"

— by Ian Ullman

With the greatest of ease, Jenifer Larson leaps her final hurdle in the 100m. With a personal best of 16.5, she was the best girls' 100m hurdler.

Bounding for glory. Brenna Gunn, school record holder in the triple-jump, shows the form which constitutes this success.

Breaking the tape, Kelly Smith leads the girls' 400m relay team to victory at the Glendale Tri-Meet. These last 100m of the race were usually the fastest and most grueling of all.

Frosh/Soph Track nurtures talent

Youths Gain Experience

After opening the track season with a promising record consisting of victories over Hoover, Glendale, Burbank and Newbury Park and two narrow losses to Saugus and La Canada by a single point, the Frosh/Soph Track team had high hopes for League competition.

Being the largest Frosh/Soph Track team in CV's history, the squad's inner competition was great. "They're a very young and inexperienced team, but there is a lot of promise for the future. I know there are promising future Varsity competitors," stated Coach Keith Gilliland.

Standouts on the team included Barrie Eget in the triple, long and high jumps; Erik Lefler in the sprints, triple and long jumps; and Sean Doyle in the quarter mile and triple and long jumps. Brian Workman, who ran the quarter mile and sprints, shotputter Dale Richhart and distance-runners Mike Conover and John Kearney were League-champion hopefuls.

Despite a League-opening loss to Muir enthusiasm proved to be as large as the team itself.

Baseball's quest for League title

Up to the Challenge

After the destruction of the opposition in the La Canada tournament, the Falcons started a journey to the League championship. The team was intent on winning the tough Pacific League. "This is it! We all want it, bad!" said Co-captain Jim Short. No doubt the desire was there, but was the talent enough? Coach Randy Siebert said, "When we play badly, anything can happen. But when we're on, we cannot lose!"

The strongest point for the Falcons was the pitchers. Last year's ace, Darrin Beer, not only contributed on the mound, but also at the plate. But strong-armed Jeff Ward was consistent. Although his record was tainted by close losses, his performances were always tough. The two combined for a potent pitching force.

Hitting was led by Captains Jim Short and Bryan Von Lossberg. These two joined fo power and consistency an also covered the corners fo most of the season. Up th middle was Mike Muhlethale and Troy Cancelosi. The out field was "Rabbit" Darri Richards, who led the team i stolen bases, and comeback player Mike Perry; right fiel was open for competition be tween senior Chris Nelson an juniors Shea Case and Kell Maebe, who was the third arm on the pitching staff. Th quick release of Martin Kie behind the plate and the bat o designated hitter Chris Major also made big contributions.

This team was primed an ready to win. Nothing stoppe them short of reaching thei goal of CIF playoffs.

Softball Success

The reigning League champs for the second consecutive year returned again to demonstrate their superior talent. A great deal of the team's success could be attributed to the fact that, although each girl was an outstanding player in her own right, they worked together as a team, not as individual units.

Under the guidance of Coach Dan Berry and his assistant coach Mark Elliot, the girls practiced six days a week for a total of 15½ hours. According to Cami Pogue, the girls were a closely knit group. She said, "I've played on the team three years, and this year is the strongest the team has ever been. Our bats have improved a lot, and hopefully, we'll at least make it to CIF semi-finals."

The hard work and dedication paid off for the three returning seniors, Captain Cami Pogue, Co-Captain April Russell, and starting first basewoman Annette Johnston, as all three were offered softball scholarships to various universities. These three have held starting positions since the team was formed and Cami and April have gone on to achieve All-CIF honors.

Many spectators marveled at how much team spirit and enthusiasm the girls showed. They had a chant or cheer ready for any situation that occurred, and their obvious camaraderie prevailed at every game.

This was a typical situation of the JV team, waiting until the last minute to come through and win. This energetic team certainly kept the crowd on the edge of its seats.

Swimmers Take the Plunge

Inspired by the Summer Olympic Swim Team, the most successful U.S. Swim Team ever, the Varsity and JV Boys' and Girls' Swim Teams were led to victorious seasons.

Winning the 1985 Junior Olympics, senior Kara Moore led the Varsity Girls' team to great success. An exciting moment for the Varsity Girls' was at the dual meet versus Burbank when it was the first meet won in two years. All four teams won this meet, a rare moment for such a large team.

Overall credit was given to the Varsity Boys' team when they had a chance to prove themselves by tying for first place with Arcadia in the League relays at Arcadia High School. Outstanding swimmers John Plaga, Mark Rygh, and J.J. Greable contributed greatly to their success.

Hidden under the magnitude of the Varsity teams, both JV teams proved themselves through such events as the girls' 50 free, the boys' 500 free, the boys' backstroke, and the boys' breaststroke.

All in all, the entire Swim Team experienced a highly successful season through spirit, dedication and skill.

Gymnastics Scores a "10"

For the last three years, the Crescenta Valley Gymnastics team advanced to CIF Prelims and sent several individuals to CIF Finals. With the superb coaching from Laree Martin and her three daughters, Day, Dawn and Durrette, hopes were high that the streak would not be broken. Ms. McCreery, supervisor of the team, commented that enrollment was up. This could have been a result of the enthusiasm created by the Olympics.

In order to be part of the team and participate in the meets as well, a member must have been able to compete on the varsity level. If they were not advanced enough to compete, their purpose on the team was to provide enthusiasm and prepare for future years.

Gymnastics consist of four events: the floor, vault, beams and bars. A few of the highly skilled gymnasts competed in all four while most of the team was specialized in certain events. Tennis Scores on Basics

Not long ago, the Boys' Tennis team was a group of dedicated guys who just enjoyed competing. Because of a lack of depth on the team, the better players enjoyed individual success while victory as a team was not experienced that often.

But time changes circumstances. The addition of freshman participation in 1981 greatly improved the quality of the program. The coaches had been able to let the players practice and develop through a complete program into the talented team it was.

Although losing its best player, junior John Hilton, for most of the season to nagging injuries, the team lost no momentum. A young but match-experienced team took the courts with enthusiasm led by senior transfer Jon Street. Backing him up in singles were Duane Fernandez, Jeff Gharib and Eric Rowan. The doubles teams were James Hong teamed with Dan Roh, and Jere Lipofsky participated with Greg Wuerfel.

But there wasn't much that separated the JV's and the Varsity. "It varied from week to week. It was just whoever played better," stated freshman Wuerfel. The JV doubles teams were John Bacich with John Stultz and Brett Woody with Mark Bauman. The singles were Andre Zamparelli, Sajid Ahmed, Keisuke Kusunaga and Brian Pancino.

Although the League was very tough, the Falcons did themselves proud. Their improvement and desire to win were quite obvious in their accomplishments.

Teams Build Their Power

Golf gets hole in one

"We had the fourteen best golfers in school," said Mr. Smallenburg. They should have been, because they were CV's infamous Golf team. With the guidance and support of Coach Smallenburg, who has been coaching the team for seven years, the team leaped to the same limits as last year, maybe even further. In fact, they had an excellent chance to be first in the league.

How did they become such professional players? Through hours of practicing their stances, swings and putts, all in the attempt to deposit the ball in each hole, eighteen of them to be exact, with as few strokes as possible. These guys showed that they definitely knew how to do this to perfection.

Enthusiasm and love for the sport brought many new players to the team plus some that return year after year. There was enough interest that two players, Greg Platupe and Wes Hughes, hope to make careers out of playing golf, including playing in college and on the PGA Tour.

"The team was very strong this year," said Coach Smallenburg, who went on to express high hopes for the team's future.

Badminton slams onward

One of the strongest up-and-coming teams at CV was the Badminton team. Coach Pat Wells' goal this year was to achieve a .500 win/loss percentage, but the team worked more toward the future by building up the necessary experience to have winning seasons in 1986 and 1987. With an entirely new JV squad that had excellent potential, Coach Wells had a good reason to look forward to the team's successful future.

To build on their abilities, the team worked out for two hours each day. Their vigorous workouts included a general warm-up, warm-up shots, drills which included developing specific shots, serving and footwork drills, conditioning and playing challenge matches. Since they had mixed doubles, Badminton was the only co-ed sport that competed in CIF.

Although most of the players showed some potential, some of the more outstanding players were Chris Johnson, Beau Durkee, Katherine Lindemuth, Philip Koshy and Carol Bell.

"I definitely believe the team will flourish in the future," said an optimistic Coach Wells.

HONORS AND ORGANIZATIONS

Whether it was for the infamous college transcripts or just to have fun, CV's honor groups and clubs flourished. These club representatives represent the various interests, of CV as a whole. From The Ark to Top 25 to Varsity Pep, some CV students always pushed their limits and went the distance.

Students Helping Students

Fall and Spring Cabinet serve the student body

What is Cabinet anyway? Sure, it's a bunch of elected students who all have the same second period, but what do they do?

The ASB Cabinet does a lot more than most of the student body ever realizes. Besides being the link between the students and faculty of CV, it is responsible for all student finances and organizations on campus. Everything important must be passed through Cabinet before it can be put into effect. It is the stabilizing influence, the controlling element of CV High School.

The Cabinet is responsible in at least one aspect for all Homecoming activities, dances and elections at CV. It actually runs the election for ASB Cabinet itself.

Above all, though, the ASB Cabinet is students working for students. With the help of Advisor Mrs. Jensen, they do their utmost for the student body, providing a constant variety of activities and amusements. So next time you participate in a school activity, remember the Crescenta Valley Associated Student Body Cabinet was in some way or other responsible for your being there.

Student Congress is an organization b students and for students. It is th major link between the student bod and the ASB Cabinet, providing input an output between the two entities.

Meetings were called by ASB Vice President and Student Congress Leader E Wirtz monthly, or whenever necessary. I his eyes, another major purpose was "to ge more enthusiasm on a class and schoo level," evident in topics discussed.

Meetings took place in the Career Cente on alternating periods. Cabinet provide the information on upcoming events an activities to the Student Representatives The representatives were then invited t offer suggestions or views which would b either constructive or helpful to th Cabinet in making decisions. "It sort of act as a petition does to a government; it's way of being heard," commented Ed.

The Representatives were from eac second-period class. They attended th meetings and reported the informatio back to their individual classes.

Student Congress gives the student bod of CV a voice and an outlet to communicat its ideas and outlooks to the ASB Cabine It is an important tool for both the student and the Cabinet.

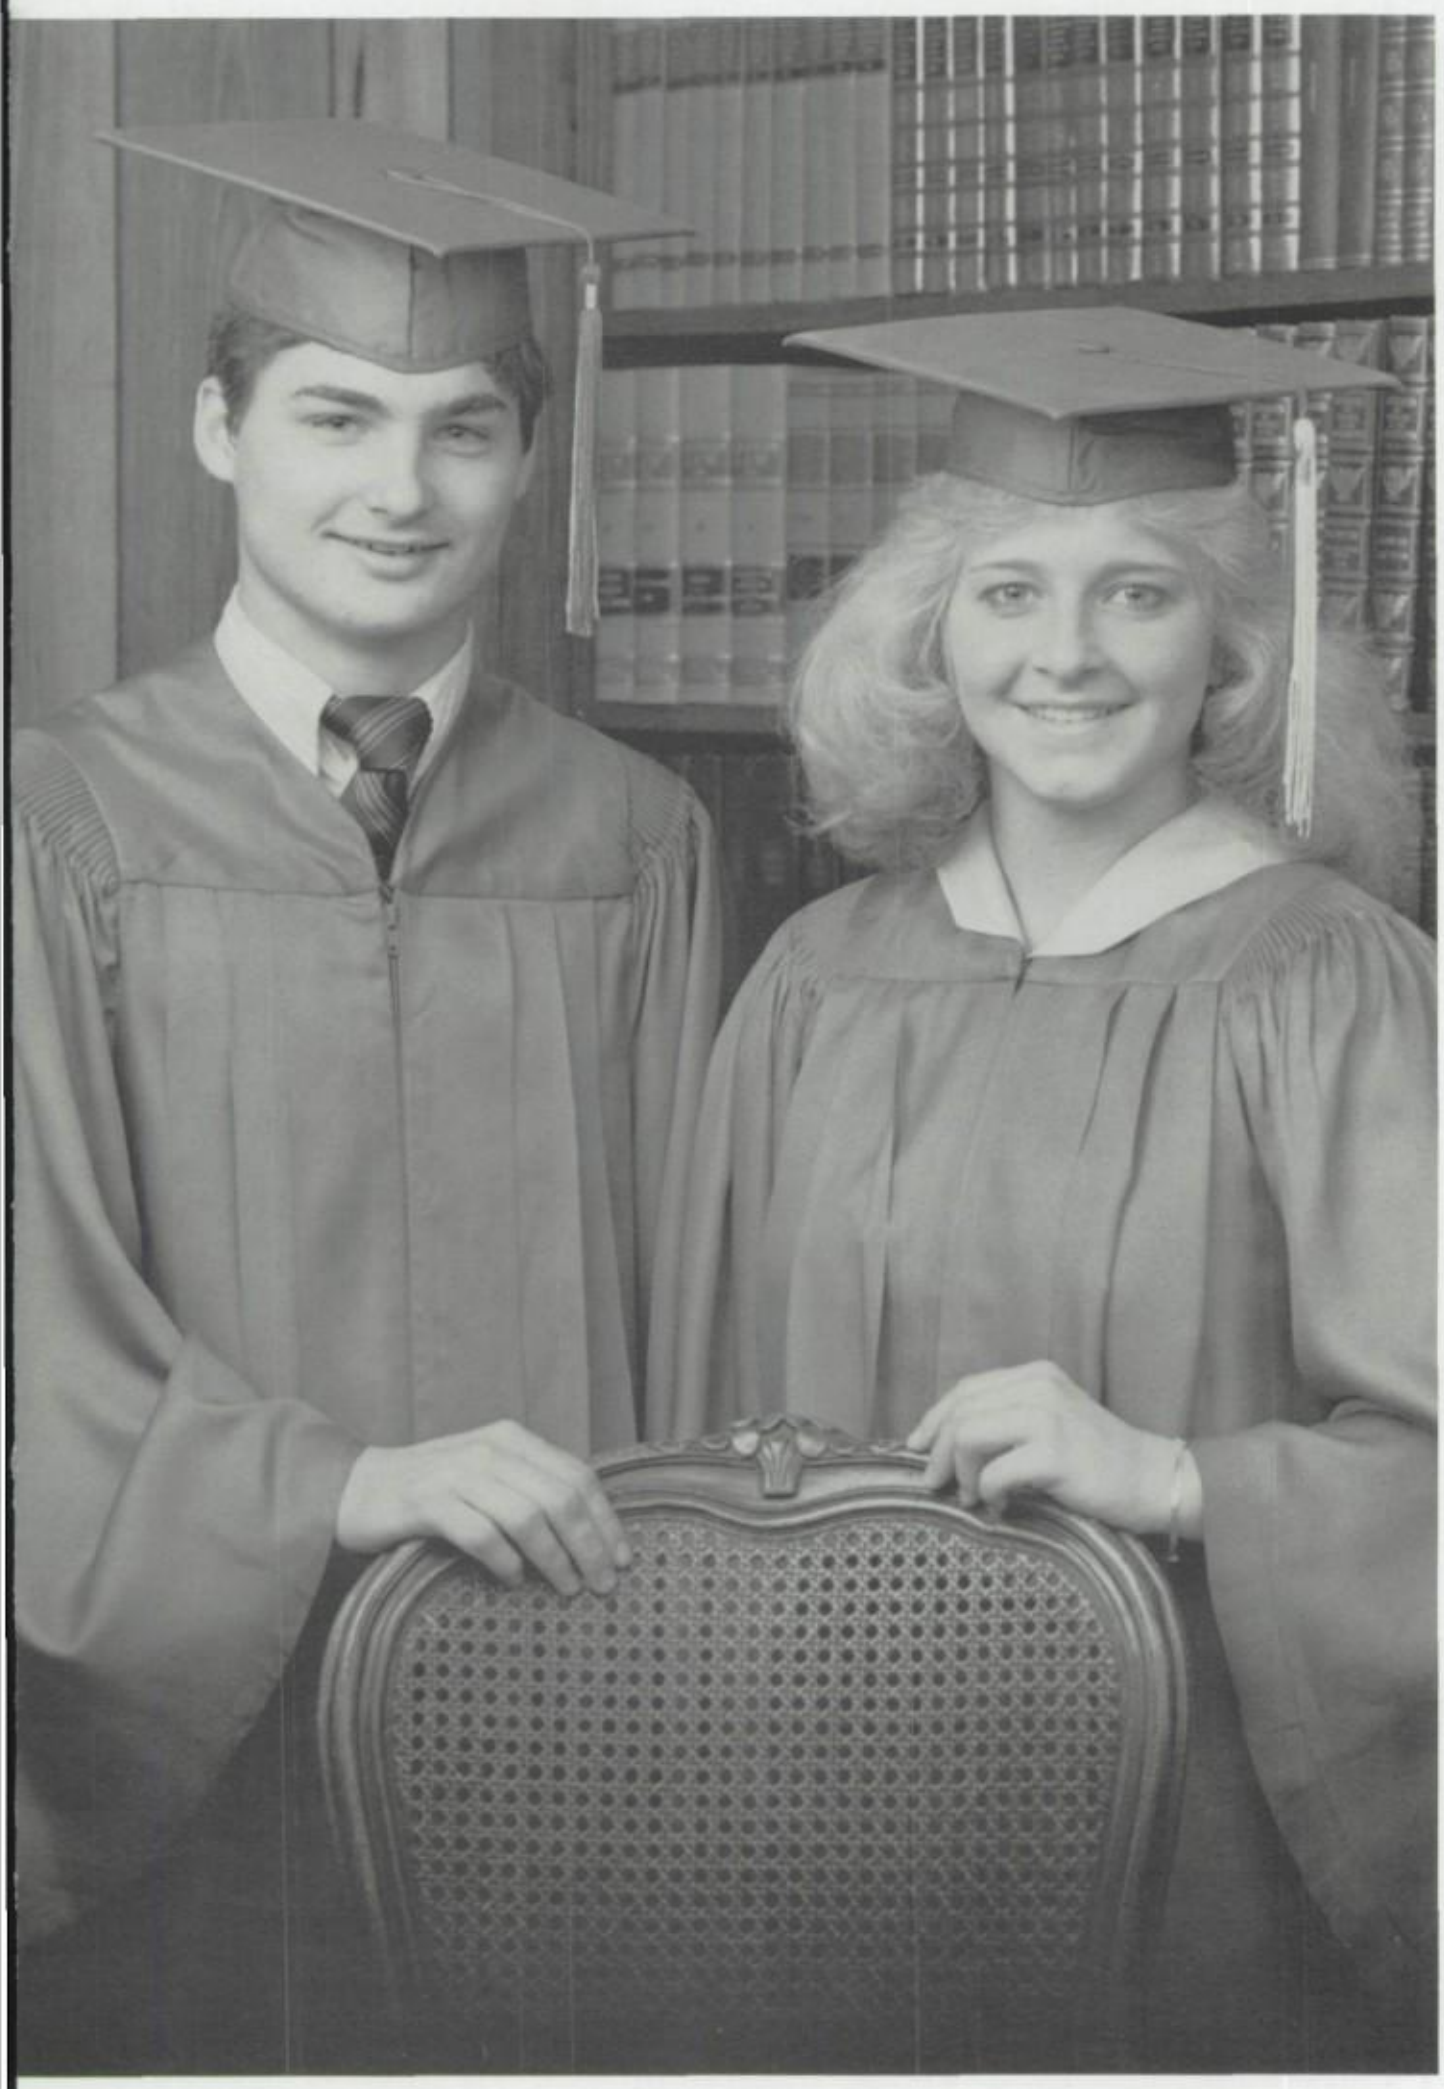
Our Fearless Leaders

Student Congress keeps the student body informed



As a fellow student, I would like to thank all of you for making it possible for me to serve as your Student Body President. I had a great time! The job had many responsibilities, and thanks to the help of my faithful Cabinet members, we made it successfully through the first semester. As I leave this school, I would like to use my Presidential Powers and make one request. Show your school pride. CV is a great school and everyone should be proud to be a Falcon. I consider it an honor to have been President of this school and I would just like to say thank you for a wonderful semester.

Cherie Jensen
Fall ASB President

It has been an honor being ASB President. The recognition received from my peers has given me a great sense of self-satisfaction and self-worth. Being on Cabinet has been a great experience and has given me a new sense of involvement in school activities. I encourage the underclassmen to become involved, for it has helped me to enjoy the times at Crescenta Valley. I will never forget these times for the saying is true, "The best years of your life are in high school." I would like to thank everyone who made things possible: Mrs. Jensen, Mr. Nicholson, the entire CV faculty, the administration, and most of all, the Spring Cabinet.

Dan Schandel
Spring ASB President

Hail to the chiefs. Heading Cabinet during the fall was Cherie Jensen, who was succeeded by Dan Schandel, spring semester president.

Top 25 Students Honored

Toil and sweat finally pay off

Hard work. For the highest-ranked graduating seniors, this was no unfamiliar concept. These intelligent individuals unhesitatingly indulged themselves in programs of the highest difficulty, and consistantly emerged with impressive grades. Tackling such subjects as Physics 1-2 A, calculus, English literature and U.S. History 1-2 A was challenging, but discouraging when a student taking easy courses could arrive at an identical GPA with less work. Local and state administrators pondered this inconsistency, and came to the conclusion that students taking demanding classes be awarded with an extra grade point in each of the AP courses.

Three years ago, CV heralded the dawn of AP credit, and the class-ranking system was turned upside down. With the advent of the 5-point scale, students' GPA's were altered significantly. Graduating top 25 students enjoyed averages ranging from an impressive 3.8 to a flawless 4.3 with differences in rank as little as one-ten-thousandth of a point. With such small distinctions, questions have arisen as to how the top 25 should be selected. Suggestions include commending only the 25 highest-ranked students, or perhaps designating the holders of the top 25 grade-point averages, regardless of the number of students. Because of the lack of communication, many of the top 25 were without a clue to the complex system. Mindy Roberts commented, "I've been in the top 10 for three years, and I still don't understand how they rank us." Although Mindy felt she was frequently in the dark about common procedure, she shared this complaint with many of the top scholars.

Despite the controversy, holding the title "Top 25 at CV" carries great weight in the road to college acceptance, and is an honor cherished by the qualifying students.

Bank of America offers awards

CV is a school that has always produced an amazing number of outstanding seniors, seniors who push to achieve more than is expected of them. Straight "A's" are not enough; they want more. The competition for the Bank of America Achievement Awards provided the outlet for the students. Contestants were chosen through nominations in the three basic groupings of math and science, fine arts, and liberal arts.

These students were then placed in separate groups. Each group was sent to the library and given a topic for which they had a half hour to write a response. When time was called, the students went to a classroom where each read his paragraph and was given a chance to speak. A free-response discussion ensued. A panel then posed questions for the students.

The panel was made up of faculty members from several departments. It was not an easy job. "We realized in just five minutes that it was going to be a difficult task to narrow the field," said liberal arts panel member June Peterson.

In the end, thirteen winners were chosen for certificates of recognition and the three winners received plaques and were automatically advanced to the next level of competition.

Commended Students rise to the top

Do you have problems waking up on Saturday mornings? It's a lot harder to get motivated to wake up when you know that the first major task of the day will be to take a test, the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT).

Many CV juniors did just this, however. The test consists of 80 math and 80 verbal questions and is meant to be used as a practice for the mother of all college entrance exams, the dreaded SAT.

Students who do exceptionally well on the tests are honored as commended students and represent the top-five percent of students in the nation. CV students have consistently performed at a level above the national average.

Math and Science Plaque Winner Yoo-Jin Lim was ranked #1 scholastically at the end of the first semester. He was also active in the track program and as CSF President.

Fine Arts Plaque Winner Kathryn Otoshi has always been a prominent member of the student body. Her designs were used everywhere from the school calendar to school sweatshirt.

Power in Numbers

The intellectually isolated unite

There's a warm breath on the back of your neck. You're packed into a small room with 110 other sardines. The noise level is intense. All the seats are taken, the floor is littered with bodies and students line the walls. You're beginning to think you're in a wartime bomb shelter. No, this isn't a claustrophobic's nightmare; it's a CSF meeting. Composed of academically high-achieving students in the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades, CSF was one of the most popular and prestigious clubs on campus.

Under the leadership of President Yoo-Jin Lim, the California Scholarship Federation hosted a score of activities which supplied money to the club's treasury and provided opportunities for members to get involved. These activities included a bake sale which netted more than $130, the Renaissance Day homemade-cake sale and a Family Dessert Night.

Deserving seniors who achieved the honor of being a sealbearer by being in CSF for four semesters, one in their senior year, were decorated at graduation with gold tassels, a CSF pin and gold chords. As Advisor Mrs. Linda Evans said, they gave each wearer a true "mark of distinction."

Additionally, sealbearers were also eligible for a scholarship from any of a number of colleges and universities and the Seymour Memorial Award, offered in honor of the late founder of CSF.

In March, CSF members enjoyed a night of wild fun as CSF chapters flocked to CSF Night at Disneyland. Capping off CSF's social activities, though, was the year-end banquet. A local, popular restaurant provided the room for this social extravaganza, where the new officers were introduced and the departing seniors said their goodbyes.

"This year's CSF club was always ambitious, and they took great pride in our organization," remarked Advisor Mrs. Paulette Lee.

Packin' 'em in — Over seventy people attended this meeting. It was often difficult for officers to find a location for meetings, and always impossible for latecomers to find a seat.

The most popular part of the meeting was, without a doubt, its conclusion. For years, the Math Club was boasted the best refreshments of any club on campus.

Math Mania

CV students catch the fever

"The only reason that I took Geometry 1-2 in tenth grade was so that I could be in Math Club, and now I am president. Wow, only in America could something like this happen! Any boy can grow up to be president — of something." Needless to say, this revelation from the Chinese emperor of equalities, lord of logarithms, prince of polynomials, Gary Chau, was made tongue-in-cheek.

For most of the American population, math is a four-letter word. However, eighty-nine walking exceptions continued to defy the law of averages by gathering on the second Tuesday of every month in honor of this very subject.

The Math Club has become one of the largest and wealthiest clubs on campus. Most of the profits from the sucker sale go to scholarships given to the especially disturbed — those who truly love math passionately.

Otherwise, the Math Club has managed to stimulate close to 100 math-loving minds with brain teasers and the popular math marathon test. It was this, combined with the extensive tutoring service that has made the Math Club a success.

Falcon updates on CV's latest

If you think that producing a newspaper is a piece of cake, there are at least eighteen people who could easily prove you wrong. Stories, pictures, captions and ads don't just fall onto a page and form a newspaper. A great deal of time, planning and effort is involved in creating a paper that is top quality, informative and enjoyable. Circulating The Falcon once a month was no easy task, but The Falcon staff did it, and did it quite well.

Headed by advisor Ms. Yamaguchi, Editor-in-Chief Jim Smiley and the rest of the staff worked round-the-clock gathering facts, taking pictures and writing stories. Each member had to be devoted and responsible, due to the numerous deadlines and commitments involved with being an apprentice in the growing field of journalism.

The majority of the funds provided for the printing of the paper came from the CVHS Cabinet, but additional funds were needed. Fundraisers were held, with one of the more memorable being the calender sale. Different groups and organizations on campus posed for pictures that were printed with the different months. The calendar sale helped to offset The Falcon. Production costs.

Devotion, talent, and unity helped to make The Falcon a great success.

Poetic parlance

"What in the world do they mean by this?" says one editor. "I have no idea. It's probably an inside joke," says another editor.

"Well, let's move on to another one," comments the first. This is a typical conversation among the editors of the Ark, CV's literary journal. Any student in the school was able to submit short stories or poems for publication; some needed thorough editing while others were considered master-pieces.

With advisor Mr. Thomas in charge, Editor-in-Chief Ramsey Rayyis and the rest of the staff began their search for talent and creativity in January.

Ark editors had to have a minimum GPA of 3.0 and had to have been in an expository writing class. Every story or poem submitted was read several times by different people, who, on many occasions, had conflicting ideas on the subject matter or meaning. By the end of the last meeting, though, the choices had been made and the Ark was ready for publication.

Even after seventeen years, the Ark was a success once again.

A Place for Everyone

Nute's troops march on

Many students with an inclination towards music found their niche in Men's or Women's Glee. Being nonauditioned, it gave many new singers a chance to explore their talent, while providing experience for the advanced.

The 23 boys and 53 girls met every day during third and fourth periods respectively to practice for their many activities. Glee performed in such events as the Christmas program and the Spring program and participated in a number of festivals outside of school. They planned to host a festival on campus.

Barbershop and Barbarettes also provided an excellent opportunity for some of the advanced singers to perform more or less on their own. Miss Nute marked their independence as one of their key attributes as they could be sent out to a perfomance even when she was unable to attend herself.

Meeting before school or at lunch, the four boys and six girls practiced and refined their abilities and talents. They performed at the Spring Pops Concert as well as making appearances at many of the banquets and activities, such as the Mother-Daughter and Father-Daughter dinners.

They also were invited to sing for many organizations in the community. These they were glad to oblige, although it meant many times that they had to break up into smaller groups rather than go as a whole.

The Barbershops also planned to enter many festivals and competitions in Los Angeles and Santa Barbara, and even as far away as San Francisco.

For students with an interest in instrumental music, there were many outlets through which they could express their talent. The Jazz Club was one such organization. Made up primarily of Band members with an avid interest in relatively contemporary music, the club met at lunch to plan their numerous activities. One such excursion was their attendance at the Playboy Jazz festival. They also performed at the Feast of Lights choral program in December, where they entertained by playing Christmas carols in the lobby before the performance.

Humble or great, these groups provided entertaining music, community service and most important, a chance for many musically inclined students to express themselves.

Musical Magic

A Cappella and Charismatics sing out

If someone came to you with musical lyrics in hand and asked you to sing them so as not to inspire yelping coyotes to join you, you probably would have looked at him and replied "Are you kidding? Do I look like Frank Sinatra or Olivia Newton-John?" Or, if you belonged to the select group of headbangers with raucous, ear-splitting voices, you might have complied with a version of "Silent Night" that sounded rather like a Quiet Riot tune. Unless, of course, you were an A Cappella member. Then you probably would have run softly through the lyrics so as not to attract too much attention while hitting every note perfectly.

Mouths agape, Sara Ascher and Terri Wenta sing in perfect harmony the joys of "Silent Night" in preparation for the winter choral festival. Their hard work and dedication led to fine performances.

The forty-five-member A Cappella Choir, made up of auditioned vocalists, delighted audiences the year through while performing at school, throughout the community and even outside the valley. School activities that kept the choir busy were the "Feast of Lights," the Spring Concert and Baccalaureate.

Outside of school, A Cappella represented CV at the Pops Concert, local churches and various invitational festivals, including the Loyola Marymount Invitational, to which only eight groups were invited.

To cap off the year, A Cappella went on its customary, three-day "June Tour" which took the choir members through Los Angeles, where they stopped at an elementary school, to Santa Barbara for a short show, then to San Luis Obispo for a full evening concert and finally on to San Francisco for a day of enjoyment.

In cases where a smaller group was appropriate, the Charismatics performed. This fourteen-member, highly demanded extension of the A Cappella Choir performed many times for groups such as the National Charity League, the Board of Education, local churches and women's clubs. Christmas music dominated the first semester shows, and pop tunes were popular through the second semester.

Performing without the direction of Miss Shirley Nute, the Charismatics were led by Chris Robertson and devoted Monday nights to practice.

The Charismatics, members of the A Cappella Choir, achieved their position by auditioning. They were judged on vocal quality, accuracy, pitch and ability to balance and blend.

Besides pleasing groups with their musical performances throughout the community, the Charismatics also served as representatives of CV, enhancing the school's image through public relations.

Inspired Involvement

NHS and Speech and Debate advocate activity

NHS services go out to others

Are you endowed with leadership qualities? Do you go out of your way to offer service to the community and school? Do you have a 3.5 GPA or higher, but are still a well-rounded, involved person? If so, and a club based on these attributes sounded attractive, you probably found yourself a National Honor Society member.

Being a prestigious club on campus was a title not gained through inactivity. Serving as a role model for other clubs, NHS, headed by President Sean Williams and advisors Maria Leinenweber and Paula Shields, kept busy all the year. Rigidly enforced bake sales, one each semester, raised more than $100 apiece for the club treasury. A Renaissance Day bread sale, in addition to inflating the stomachs of innocent purchasers, also enlarged the club's financial resources.

Besides having to remain in good standing by maintaining their GPA, attending regularly and participating actively, members had to satisfy their individual project requirement by donating some service to the community. Many members met this requirement by caroling during Christmas, playing Bingo with senior citizens or visiting elderly residents at a local retirement home. For another project, the club donated a care package containing food, clothing and money to a needy family in the area. NHS services were appreciated throughout the community.

For all their work, NHS members were well rewarded. Other than the personal satisfaction achieved through such services, NHS seniors received a seal on their diploma and an NHS pin. All the members welcomed the year-end feast with voracious appetites. Food was always a favorite reward for hard work.

In keeping with NHS's ideals, President Sean Williams stated, "We have tried to assemble a group of students who are endowed with character and leadership as well as intelligence, to take part in a club designed to assist the community and promote scholarship."

Speech and Debate arouses orators

What is one of the most alluring incentives ever devised by man? Money. The possibility of winning a $1,000 scholarship or a grandiose $14,000 prize attracted many a possessor of oratorical excellence to speech contests. Needless to say, money was not the only stimulator of eloquent speaking. The thrill of competition, themes which stirred national pride and patriotism and a deep love for speaking also inspired students.

Themes ranging from patriotism, such as "My Pledge to America" and "What the Bill of Rights Means to Me" to California history, captured the imagination of many students.

As well as monetary rewards, winners of different contests earned the right to travel to the next level of competition, whether it was the next section, district or even region. Contests ranged from local ones, such as Forest Lawn's Memorial Day Speech Contest to the nationwide Voice of Democracy competition. Jim Thomas, representing CV in the Voice of Democracy Contest, placed a strong third in the district meet. This was an honor that would stand out on anyone's university applications.

Although speaking was the primary focus of the club, debating also played a role. Debating opportunities were optimistically planned to take place at the Occidental Interschool Invitational Meet, revived after a year's absence.

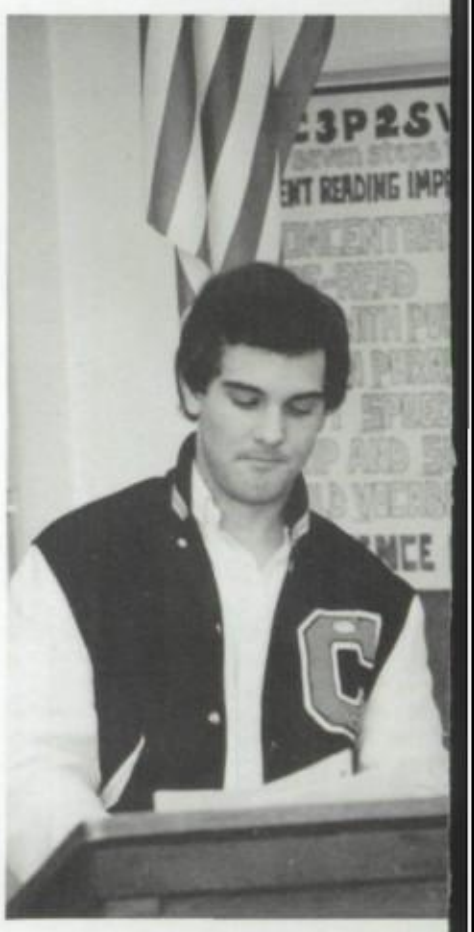
Joe Jensen, Speech and Debate Club's dedicated advisor for its entire four-year existence, devoted countless hours to speech training. Besides offering advice and help to speech contestants, he organized fundraising field trips to TV show filmings such as "Spencer" in December, which raised $150.

These trips not only provided money to be distributed as scholarships at the year's end, but they also yielded some of the most hilarious situations and moments of the school year which everyone will remember.

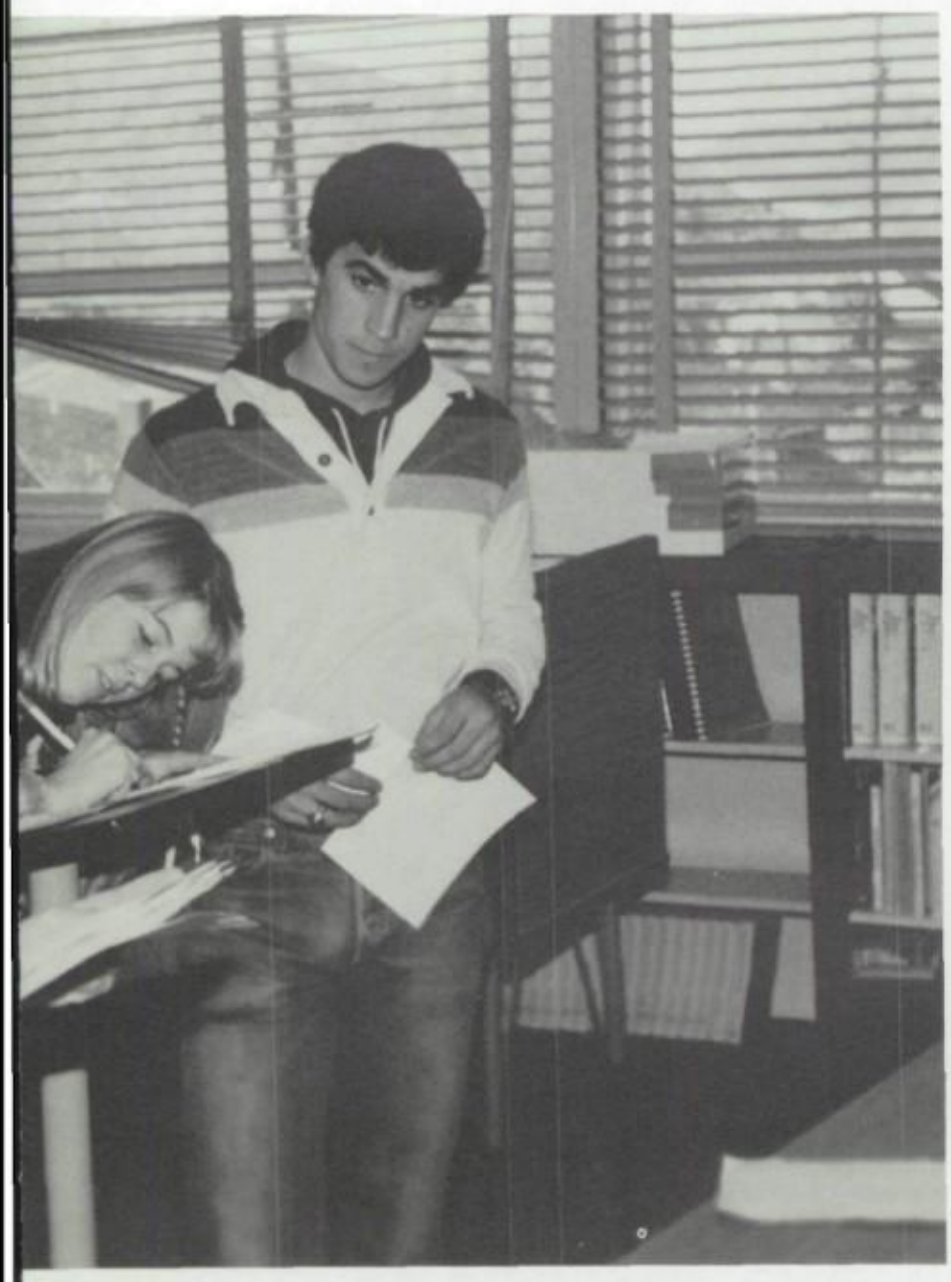
For students who could and cared to articulate their beliefs and opinions, Speech and Debate Club provided an organization through which to do so. It brought together students with a common interest and created some fun times as well.

"Even though we had our biggest turnout the day our yearbook picture was taken, those who did participate actively were the few that made the club successful and fun. Oh, I would also like to thank my officers for their help. Mr. Jensen is a great guy, too," remarked President Amie Freeman.

— by Bryan Von Lossberg



"My pledge to America . . . " was the topic of Jim Thomas' school-winning Voice of Democracy speech. An active member of the club, Jim went on to place third in the district competition, displaying his great oratorical abilities.



Hey all you wonderful, well-rounded, intelligent students, NHS wants you. Mrs. Shields hands out certificates of membership to last year's deserving members while Amie Freeman records new members with help from Tim Sullivan.

Language clubs add spice to CV

"Does the guy with the purple hair sitting next to you have more friends than you do? Then join the German Club and solve all of life's problems." So ran one of this year's most creative bulletin announcements. Similar announcements invaded bulletin space proclaiming sign-ups for the other two language clubs on campus, the Spanish and French Clubs.

Spanish Club President Brian Martin boldly stated, "El objecto del Club de Espanol es divertirse, y espero que ejecutamos eso antes del fin del ano." The Spanish Club began the year with great plans and many dreams. These included the annual weekend jaunt to Ensenada and the end-of-the-year celebration.

"Halt den Maul! Du bringst mich auf die Palme!" cried Martin Kies, calling a German Club meeting to order. Besides writing thought-provoking bulletins, the German Club also held several highly successful bake sales. In addition, they planned to raise money by attending the taping of a TV show. They also discussed going to Germany for five weeks.

"Que mangent la torte!" declared French Club President Cheryl La Mee when asked what her club planned to do as one of their fundraisers. This particular activity, the famous French Club bake sale, along with the chocolate sale later in the semester, earned them enough money to attend several French movies. They also journeyed to Magic Mountain and had several memorable parties.

Girls' League generates activity

In keeping with democratic tradition, Girls' League members exercised their ability to vote on anything with which the club was concerned. Colors on photo backgrounds and themes for events are examples of ideas that befell the Girls' League spirited voting process. With Advisors Shirley Nute and Margaret Peterson, Girls' League was run in an orderly, organized manner.

Despite the fact that any CV girls was an automatic member, the regularly attending girls organized the year's activities, such as the Dad/Daughter and Mother/Daughter Dinners and Backwards Dance. They were the ones who worked faithfully behind the scenes.

Officers were elected each semester at the Student Body elections. Susan Guzman served as President both semesters and was supported by eleven other officers from all grade levels.

The Backwards Dance, "Almost Paradise," was followed by the Dad/Daughter Banquet, "A Date with Dad," and the Mother/Daughter Dinner, "Double Trouble." All of the officers were also invited to judge Glendale High's talent show in early October.

As Friendship officer Lynda Klein said, "CV was overwhelming at first, but Girls' League got me involved in activities in which I made some great friends."

From Sea to Shining Sea

And we don't just mean America

Picture yourself sitting at home, all alone. You're munching out on last night's Chinese food, Travel magazine is sitting on the coffee table opened to page 179, the article about Paris staring you in the face. Suddenly, the TV displays a commercial advertising in flamboyant pictures and tantalizing words, "Australia in April."

Then it hits you.

You look around you, and for the first time in your life you realize how humdrum your life is. There's no excitement; you're just a simple, typical La Crescenta resident.

Well, it's obvious you've had enough! You flip off the TV, close the magazine with a "smack," throw down your chopsticks and head for your phone. You're soon booked on flight 207 for Madrid. Once you return, America will never seem the same.

Programs like AFS and YFU give students a chance to fulfill their love for travel. They get a chance to visit foreign lands, meet new people and be introduced to new cultures. Although finances are a factor, the six students who were in the program this year found a way, either through the International Club fund or personal finances.

Cherie Jensen and Steve Swenson left America last summer for Chile and Sri Lanka, respectively. Both regarded their travels abroad as "the experience of a lifetime."

In comparison, this year CV was blessed with four new students from foreign countries: Glenda de la Fuente, Argentina, Hanna Peltola, Finland, Carl Messemaeckers, The Netherlands, and Sandra Kruse, West Germany. Each of them took part in school activities ranging from sports to clubs to academics. Unfortunately, it had to end, and they returned to their mother countries.

Those who have never had a chance to travel, or even those who have, got that "worldly" feeling by joining the International Club. Along with parties and a candy sale, the AFS/YFU students in the club gave presentations of their travels.

So if you can't afford to leave America, you can still get a taste of what other countries are like right here on CV's campus where there's a dash of everything.

Service and Support

Key Club and Letterman's Club show spirit

Having fun while serving the school

So why does anyone join a service club? Besides the normal human need for companionship, what is it that prompts people to join such a club? "Some clubs are just fun to be in," remarked Key Club President Gary Chau, "and the Key Club must have been one of them."

One of Chau's ideas was to have a car rally and use the funds to eliminate dues. Popular with club members and the student body, over a hundred cars entered. Except for a few cars that never finished, one that choked white smoke at the finish line, and one car's acrobatic turn on Indiana Street, it was a fun, safe night.

Key Club also helped with the Dad-Daughter and Mother-Daughter banquets and the Blood Drive. Advisor Ken Biermann said, "This year's Key Club is one that I will not soon forget."

Not just another group of jocks

"Coach D. will be selling patches and chevrons in room 823 today at lunch . . ." If there was an award given for the most commonly appearing bulletin notice, this would have to win. It seemed to find its way into the daily bulletin so often that many of those 100 athletes in the Letterman's Club, to whom it was directed, knew it by heart by the end of the year.

The Letterman's Club has probably contributed more to the support of athletic teams than any other organization on campus outside of Pep Squad. This support was most noticeable at home basketball games, as members congregated in an area designated "The Pit." The enthusiasm of "The Pit," added to the usual mayhem, was enough to make CV, "The toughest gym in the area to play in," according to Tony Battaglia, a senior guard on Glendale's Varsity Basketball team, a team that had a record of 53-0 during the season and the preceeding summer, and continued to become CIF champions.

School reaction to the club has been positive, and praise has come for the most unlikely reasons. "Just think," mused Mike Fife, "without the Letterman's Club, athletes would be running around with their right sleeves naked, without patches and chevrons to cover them."

Entertainment: it's what everyone wants these days, and what anyone can get, especially here at CV. The Drama Club and Stage Crew went all out this year to put on performances the school will long remember.

The Drama Club got off to a strong start by putting on their Fall Play presentation of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," and wrapped up the year in the same enjoyable way with the Spring Play, "The Dark of the Moon." Both plays couldn't have been the successes they were without the help of the Stage Crew, who not only assisted in these productions, but also were the foundation of all assemblies this year.

The Drama Club has taken a new direction in performing by visiting retirement homes and Children's Hospitals. The skits presented to the young and old alike seemed to be appreciated and enjoyed just as much as, if not more than, a Broadway play.

Now that's entertainment!

Surf and Science Fiction Clubs strive on

Pray for surf

Hey, dig this — there were these two really rad dudes sitting around one day just back from a killer day at Bolsa Chica Beach, and they were gettin' really bummed 'cause they knew that when Monday came around they were gonna have to go back to school. And everyone knows what killjoys the people at school are.

But then they got this really killer idea: why not make a club for all the really rad dudes on campus? A club for surfers. Hey, let's call it the "Surf Club!"

Thus, the Surf Club was born, and since that fateful day, early in the year, the Surf Club matured and grew to boast a membership of twenty-three surfers, advised by Mr. Canfield.

Anyone could join the club, as long as he was willing to pay the ten dollars annual dues. Of course, one had to be into the normal traditions, like going out and shredding waves, getting tubed, or wearing only "surfer" brands: OP, Lightning Bolt, Pipeline or Town and Country.

In its first year, the Surf Club was very active around school and on its own. They took a surfing trip to Mexico early in the year and went on many local surfing expeditions.

War of the worlds

From the dark regions of space, from the vast unknown, came a group who boldly went where no club has gone before. They were the Science Fiction Club.

In its third year of existence, the Science Fiction Club took bold steps forward. Having grown in membership, the club, sponsored by Ms. Morris, was able to sponsor activities such as showing slide previews of movies to its members. These previews included such movies as "2010," "Witness," "Lady Hawke," "Mad Max: Beyond Thunderdome," "Goonies" and "Day of the Dead." The club also viewed the cult classic, "A Clockwork Orange," courtesy of Mr. Ward. In addition, the club attended several science fiction conventions as well as going to the home/museum of Forrest Ackerman, known by many as the "Father of Science Fiction."

In meetings there often was a science fiction trivia contest with posters and buttons from upcoming films as prizes.

The enormous success of the Science Fiction Club this year proved its worth among the many other clubs on campus. In the immortal words of Paul Koukeyan, "As treasurer of the Science Fiction Club I had a deep ... deep ... deep ..."

When the Going Gets Tough . . .

The Yearbook staff gives blood, sweat and tears new meaning

Yearbooks? Yeah, I like 'em . . . What's that? Work? Well, I suppose that someone puts it together . . . I guess someone writes these stories . . . Oh, yeah, pictures too . . . Well, I suppose that takes a few people . . . Layouts? What's that? You mean that you have to make your own designs for every page? That's a lot of work . . . and then what? . . . Proofing? . . . How many times? You're joking, right? . . . No, you're not! . . . Sometimes you stay 'till when? Wow, man, how can anyone care that much about a book? . . .

For those who have never tried to produce a yearbook, that is difficult to answer. However, for the twenty-one workaholics who signed their allegiances in blood and liquid paper in the beginning of the year, this question was answered long ago.

Some of this desire comes from pride. A yearbook is a collection of memories most common to the entire student body. It is therefore the most widely used vehicle for those periodic voyages down Memory Lane. This means that every year about twenty students are given a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to create something that hundreds of people will treasure forever.

Pride is not the only motivation, however. There is always the looming possibility of failure that drives some "bookies," most noticeably the editors-in-chief, to skip snack, lunch, sleep, meals and classes to proof pages and correct other people's mistakes.

Whatever the reasons are behind the apparently insane dedication to the production of "the sacred book," it seems that the effects of this disorder are limited and harmless. Perhaps the only safe solution is to quarantine all carriers in room 131 and tell them to keep up the good work.

Beauty and the Bizarre

It could only happen at CV

Although the Varsity Cheerleaders and the Yell Leaders were independent squads, they combined efforts many times to produce creative rallies and cheers. Both squads attended camp in Lake Arrowhead in August for a week where they learned many routines and stunts. The hard work these squads put in at camp was evident as students were treated to many elaborate pyramids and balancing routines, most of which were learned at camp.

The Varsity Cheerleaders also exhibited their skills at camp by earning two "superior" awards and an "excellent" for their various cheers. In addition to the time at camp and the many long hours of practicing, they provided players with refreshments at summer football practices. They also attended many outside activities, such as the Glendale High School Days at Dodger Stadium, where they performed for the pre-game crowd.

Mascots Renee Barone and April Russell, along with Director of School Spirit Chrissy Brown, were also great sources of enthusiasm, as they were seen dancing and cheering at the different sports events and rallies. Their spirit and dedication were strong assets appreciated by the entire student body.

The Yell Leaders, for the first time in many years, became a major force on the Pep squad. CV knew what it was in for from the night of the Yell Leaders' initiation, when they were held at gunpoint by the police on suspicion of stealing a car. Then of course, there were the unusual rallies where they exhibited such bizarre behavior as dumping food on their heads and imitating the group Van Halen to the song "Hot for Teacher."

The Yell Leaders attribute their hugh success to the fact that they don't take the "spirit stuff" so seriously, but regard themselves as entertainers.

Spontaneity was the key as the four admitted to having planned the majority of their routines the night before they were to be peformed. But apparently this was exactly what was needed as they received enormous support and enthusiasm from the students. All in all, the Yell Leaders inspired and amused the entire student body.

Working together — The Varsity Cheerleaders united with the Yell Leaders many times to produce elaborate stunts. These maneuvers were great crowd-pleasers at the rallies.

No Morals! A typical theme of the Yell Leaders, exemplified not only by their behavior and rallies, but also by their unusual stools, painted beer kegs.

E.P. Squad — Many students wondered at the meaning of the rather cryptic message printed on the front of the Yell Leaders' shirts as they typified the physical abuse an athlete must endure by showering themselves with food. Supposedly the first "P" in "Pep" was merely forgotten. But was this really the case? We may never know.

The Brady Bunch — Not really, but a clever imitation. In one of their most memorable rallies, the Varsity Cheerleaders impersonated the six Brady kids. Coincidentally, this day was also Halloween.

Stylish and Spirited

New Song and Cheer for an attentive crowd

If you were to choose a single word to describe the '84-'85 Pep Squad, what would it e? Unique? Different? Origi-al? Probably, because each ell, cheer and routine per-ormed this year had its own pecial ring to it. It showed in he confidence of the squad nd on the smiling faces in the rowd around the platform.

The Varsity Songleaders ere an especially noticeable roup. Everything from their utfits to their pom-pom pas-es to their song routines were efreshing changes from past ears. The traditional pleated kirt was often replaced by heir new creation, a frilly, gir-sh skirt and apron. They took chance by starting a new end, but it was quickly ccepted and admired by any.

Each routine was a show in self. Clever moves and popu-r songs made up this class act nd gave a whole new look to V's songleaders.

Crowd participation during llies and games was at an all-me high, encouraged by the pecial talents of these spirited rls. In several instances, the music for the routine could not be heard, due to the intensity of the cheers and applause from the crowd.

It's no wonder that the song-leaders' routines were so pop-ular. Their hard work and ded-ication reached the point of ex-cellence at summer camp with the award of the Superior trophy.

Don't exclude the JV and Sophomore Cheerleaders, though. Their obvious enthu-siasm, spectacular pyramids and rhythmic cheers brought crowds to their feet. Just about every team on campus got heartfelt support from these girls at matches and meets.

The lack of a JV football team didn't have any effect on the JV Cheerleaders. They were an added enjoyment to all the Varsity games. The Sophomore Cheerleaders proudly supported their teams to victory as well.

The entire '84-'85 Pep Squad made its own contribution to make this year special, and special it was. The entire squad will be long remem-bered in the years to come.

Bold and Daring

New excitement with success

Without a doubt, there has been a dramatic change in the personality of the performers of halftime activities, the band and the Drill Team. It is impossible to pinpoint exactly where the change has occurred, but it is quite clear that the show at every Friday night's football game was vastly different from last year's. These changes have raised a few eyebrows around campus, yet the reactions of most are positive.

"I'm proud to be a part of such an organization," said band-member Julie Brown, "and the ironic thing about it is that I never intended to join the band in the first place." This enthusiasm was typical of those who participated in band-related activities. As for the thirty-five stunning girls that form CV's Drill Team, the only way to measure the effect that they have is to listen to the exuberance that they create in the crowd every time they stand at midcourt. In all, there is much to be said for these unsung heroes of school spirit.

ACADEMICS

Students often complain about never-ending homework, strict rules and those who enforce them. What they do not realize is that tolerance is a two-way street. Teachers and administrators cannot cut class to avoid their students, and they do what they do for the benefit of the students. Although most do not have the problems that Alex Jurel and the staff at John F. Kennedy High School face in the film, Teachers, they still have times when they feel like a bomb waiting to explode. But through it all, they somehow find the strength and dedication to go the distance.

Are we enthused or what? At a faculty meeting, the staff attempts to listen attentively to the speaker. It seems as though their students' attitudes may be rubbing off a bit.

Teachers' Frustrations

Students who were so ready to complain every day about the smallest occurrence and only thought about how awful school was for them did not stop to think about what a teacher goes through every day. Contrary to popular belief, they did experience the dreaded "Monday Syndrome" and did not use their entire weekend to plan different ways to torture their students — or did they?

A teacher found walking into the classroom just as difficult as the rest of us. Imagine trying to get a point across to a class of kids in which not one is listening or attempting to calm them down right after lunch when they have all had their sugar fix. Hearing every possible excuse about why the homework was not completed or telling the students that they all failed a major test did not make the teacher's day, either. Few adults would want to handle 160 teenagers a day.

One major complaint from students concerned tests. Grueling hours were spent studying and wracking your brain, attempting to remember what you studied. The teachers, though, went through just as much. They had to create the tests. Essay tests are easy to make and slow to grade; scantron tests are time consuming to write but easy to grade, and all grades must be accurately recorded. When a couple of classes took a test on the same day, the teacher had hours of paperwork ahead of him.

The teachers breathed just as heavy a sigh of relief as the students when Fridays, vacations and summer came, perhaps even a deeper one.

So, whether you believe it or not, teachers do have problems, and they are human after all.

Korea, an Education for Educators

What would it be like to travel the entire country of Korea as guests of the government? Mr. Norley, from our art department, and Mr. Sambar, our Vice-Principal, experienced twenty days of studying the culture, language and history of this developing country in western Asia.

They left from America on Korean Airlines carrying the Korean Olympic Team. Once they arrived at their hotel, 3,000 students received the tourists, singing and waving flags of both countries.

The people of Korea were curious and eager to know about the Western world. "From out of nowhere, students accosted us to try out their English," said Mr. Norley.

The entire purpose of their visit was to study Korean culture. The forty-person tour attended classes most days and went on field trips on others. Mr. Sambar learned that teaching is the most respected profession in the Orient, and that there were no fewer than seventy students in each class.

Korean cuisine offered another learning experience. Waking for breakfast one day, Mr. Sambar found himself confronting seaweed toast and raw fish. Through his resourcefulness, he soon found where to get coffee.

The educators also learned that Korean customs treat men with more respect than women. Wives were not allowed to sit with their husbands at the head table and women were served after the men.

While they were in the various cities, Sambar and Norley visited all levels of schools during class time. Mr. Norley was amazed that students go to school six days a week; five days were standard classes while on Saturday they cleaned the school.

Their education was supplemented by trips to historical sights, resort facilities and national parks. When Mr. Norley visited a shopping mall, he met a graduate of CV who lived in Korea. Shocked and amazed, Mr. Norley summed it all up when he said, "This is a small world."

Faculty Members Explore New Lands

Miner and Johnstone experience the Orient

Buzzz. It's time to wake up and rub the sleep out of the eyes. This morning, it's off to the Orient. Two of our faculty members, Mrs. Johnstone and Mrs. Miner, took trips all the way to the other side of the world over the summer.

Mrs. Johnstone journeyed through Japan, Taiwan, Thailand, China and Malaysia. With her tour group, she flew across terrain in hours that took Marco Polo years. She toured such spell-binding sights as the towering temples of tile, buildings of brilliant Buddha's and a sea of silk.

Mrs. Miner's tour group went solely to China, traveling by plane, train and boat. This was her first time out of the country and it promised to be adventuresome. She walked on the Great Wall, photographed the Forbidden City and also marveled at Mao's Memorial Hall.

All in all, she was enormously pleased that she visited the country before our Western influence had infiltrated it. When asked if she would like to return, she readily replied, "Of course!"

Berg and Picerno descend upon Europe

Teachers are never too wise to receive an education. Over the last summer, Mrs. Berg enrolled in the University of Salamanca through the Los Angeles Community College. While she enrolled as an incoming student, Mr. Picerno embarked on an exciting month-long venture through England, France, Italy and Spain.

Mrs. Berg packed her bags, flew to Spain and studied the language for four hours a day, five days a week. After the time in class, she went to her hotel to hit the books and study.

While Mrs. Berg was readin' and writin', Mr. Picerno was stretching his knowledge by touring Big Ben, Fleet Street and the Thames River. He also visited Versailles, Florence, Rome and Madrid. Mrs. Berg did a little sight seeing in Madrid and Lyon, but she devoted most of her time to studying; after all, this was her second trip to Spain.

Since Mr. Picerno was in Italy, he stopped by the Vatican to get a glimpse of the Pope. "The security there was incredible. I was searched and run through a metal detector," commented the history teacher. He would love to go back to visit his brother again, but he was concerned about children dressed in fatigues carrying machine guns.

Okay, who's here? Roll call in squad lines is an everyday occurrence, and it is done in every PE class, including Coach Beckenhauer's.

Coaches Are People Too

A coach of a lady. Strolling across the quad, Mrs. Shoff heads to the gym to begin her Advanced Dance class.

He was drinking coffee in a lazy chair in the coaches' office. His feet were up and the television was on, so I decided it was safe to leave my regular clothes on for the day. Even though I risked a non-strip, my number-one priority was keeping warm. The bell rang and hundreds of guys filed out the door wearing shorts and tennis shoes.

The coach slowly slid the chair to its upright position with his eyes still glued to the mesmerizing box. The ground outside was damp and ominous clouds promised rain. The coach looked like a cat surveying a puddle. He grabbed his jacket and strode out the door into light drizzle.

I followed and stood in my roll-call line. He counted noses and called off names of absent kids. When he was done he roared with his lion-powered voice, "You must be cold. Put your clothes back on and we'll watch last year's Homecoming Game. Move it out."

He didn't even notice me. This coach can't be all bad. Then I compared his generosity with all the laps I've run.

Books: Are They Adequate?

Books were an important source of information vital to teachers for the classes they taught. Therefore, the quality and condition of the books could either make or break a course.

The general concensus was that due to the condition of the old books, new ones were definitely needed, unless they were bought within the last few years. Also, many students had books that were literally in pieces. Some departments even had to send away for books from other schools because of the shortage in their classes.

When asked about the quality of the books, the replies differed among departments. Mrs. Chapman, a Spanish teacher, said that the first-and second-year language books were terrible. "We want new books with more emphasis on oral communication as opposed to grammar."

In the history department, Mr. Keyes said, "The facts in the history books are precise but the reading is a bit boring." He also felt they didn't tell enough about certain incidents. However, when asked about his sociology books, he replied, "Their content is good and they are in excellent condition."

Some new books with improved content were used in a few science classes, while other classes continued to struggle with dilapidated textbooks. Mrs. June Peterson passed out rubber bands to her classes to hold the pages of Moby Dick together. "It's discouraging to find the last nine pages of chapter 34 missing, especially when there's a reading quiz tomorrow," she lamented.

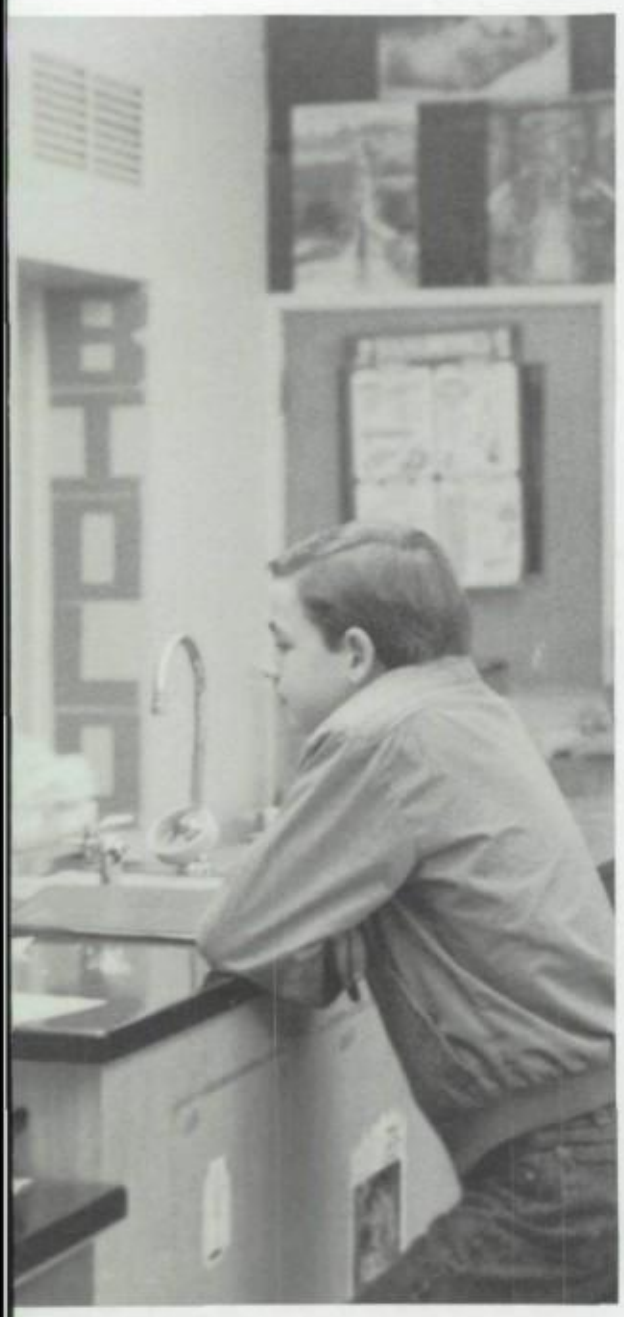
Staff Spirit Soars



Did you see how tall that kid is? Miss Bayz and Mrs. Martinson look on in awe as the basketball players rush from one side of the court to the other.

"We've got spirit, yes we do! We've got spirit, how about you?" This cheer rang frequently in students' ears, but the students and Pep Squad were not the only ones bursting with spirit. Teachers and administrators, on many occasions, also displayed a great deal of spirit.

During Halloween, ghouls and goblins ran rampant on campus. A closer look revealed several of these gouls to be mild-mannered staff members letting out their frustrations behind the protective mask. Other staff members dressed for the Christmas season in the traditional festive colors of red and green.

The faculty and administrators were especially gracious with athletics. Some coached. Others willingly let the athletes out of their classes for competitions. The staff showed their support and spirit through the students by allowing them to hold rallies to boost morale. Most importantly, though, they came to the games personally, to cheer on the teams.

Class representatives and club advisors overflowed with vivacity, and they helped to create fundraisers to pay for some of the great activities they had planned.

Staff members boosted some of the seniors into fame and fortune by writing recommendations for them. This gesture, on the part of the staff that aided many seniors in gaining entrance to the college of their choice, was extremely generous, considering that they did this time-consuming task on their own time.

Most students appreciated the faculty and administration of CV, without whose support and enthusiasm the students would not have had an experience as successful or as memorable.

Leadership at its Best

Head Administrators organize activities and oversee students

Who were those distinguished-looking characters that you saw at almost all school related activities? The most prominent man in view was Sam Nicholson. Aside from running the school as principal, he found time to jog and work with wood. Furthering the efficiency of our school as well as the quality of education were his objectives.

Another man often on the scene was Instructional Vice-Principal Chakib Sambar. His main goal was to improve scholastic performance from art to zoology, but he liked to have some fun too. After living in this community for thirty years, he said, "I've finally come home. It's a warm feeling here."

No less prominent on campus was Administrative Vice-Principal Ted Andrews. Twenty-five years had elapsed since his first step into CV. He had seen all of the changes from the unfinished swimming pool to the solar panels on the gym. Other than being the history authority, he also looked forward to increasing score averages on state and national tests. He set up times and places for faculty meetings as well as organizing sports functions. Over the years he had seen classes come and go, and with them the fluctuations of college entrance exams. With his silver anniversary came the cream of the crop, the graduating class of 1985.

Finally, Dean of Students Ken Biermann said he believes that reform, not discipline, was his main job, as he rounded up the off-campus delinquents. After hours, he loved to participate in outdoor sports. Sometimes he played against students in an after-school game of ball. As far as indoor sports went, TV was his favorite, particularly watching his son play football for BYU. In a casual picture session he said, "You're supposed to put the horse in my office."

— by Ben Edwards

Say cheese ... click — Sam Nicholson, Ted Andrews, Ken Biermann and Chakib Sambar flash smiles in perfect unison, which is how they keep the school running, too.

From CV to college, they help the whole way

A white slip of paper was delivered to your teacher. In front of the class the teacher raised her voice and announced, "John, go to the office, Mr. Campana wants to see you. Immediately!" The class murmured, "Busted. He's in trouble now!" You took the paper from your teacher and shuffled along to the office, only to be greeted by a smiling counselor.

"Are you John?" asked the pleasant voice. You nodded. "Let's get down to business. Your ceramics class terminates next semester. You have to change your schedule." The saga went on and you returned to class.

Encounters with counselors were always helpful. They assisted students with extra-curricular activities, schedules, college loans and scholarships. Each counselor was assigned a graduating year and worked with the same students all four years.

Mrs. Gale devoted herself to the Freshman Class of '88. Mr. King consoled Sophomores concerning complex schedules. Mr. Campana advised juniors to complete required classes promptly. Mrs. Bentley helped the seniors with college and graduation.

Hi Ho, Hi Ho, ... Our counselors, Mrs. Gale, Mr. King, Mr. Campana, and Mrs. Bentley, go cheerfully to work each day and often bring work home during weekends.

Biermann is king! "What class are you out of? Where do you think you're going? Let me see your pass. Get back here," were often heard by students when Mr. Biermann caught them in the halls during class.

Staff Members Encourage AP Courses

What is AP? AP stands for Advanced Placement courses, which are designed to prepare college-bound students for exams which, if they pass, excuse them from taking certain required courses in college. AP courses are offered in several different areas of study.

U.S. History AP courses involved more reading, writing and homework than the regular classes. Tests consisted of essay questions, and each student had to do a shotgun report. No term papers were required, but seminars were held at different people's houses. Each student had to write a paper which was discussed at a seminar.

All smiles — Mrs. Cohen pauses momentarily to offer a smile to a persistent photographer.

Mr. Gary Keyes, who taught the AP class, said that it was important for the students interested in taking the AP history exam to take the course, because it would help them a great deal with the test.

AP English classes also were emphasized. Mrs. June Peterson, who taught one of the AP American Literature classes, said that AP classes are excellent for two reasons, besides the obvious one of reduced college costs. First, it helps students improve their writing in general. Second, college burnout is an ever-present problem, and eliminating several of the general education requirements can help prevent it, she said. Success in AP work also meant they could get going faster toward the more meaningful courses and onto a career. Because of its emphasis on composition, the course did take extra work and preparation on the part of both the students and teachers.

Trigonometry and the advanced science classes, such as physics, also were considered AP courses. In trigonometry, there was a great amount of lecturing and fewer tests. The students studied applications of theory instead of examples of theory, and then they had to apply what they had learned to new situations. The science classes also involved this. Mr. Ron Klint was quite in favor of the advanced classes. In fact, he would like to have a calculus class at CV.

Another area in which AP courses were offered was foreign language. In the advanced classes, the emphasis was put on oral communication and reading literary works. Also, the histories of the countries were studied closely.

Although AP teachers did not get paid extra for teaching AP courses and did not receive recognition for doing extra work, they kept teaching the advanced classes, because they believed in AP and in the students. For this they should be commended.

CAP Test Rewards

On December 5, the Senior Class had the chance to earn $160,000 for CV. For the first time ever, the State Legislature provided special funds for schools whose students showed improvement in their CAP test scores over last year's scores.

Considering that CV seniors have always done well on the CAP test, the staff felt confident that this year's graduating class would beat last year's.

Seniors were warned to take the test seriously. When some students saw how simple some of the questions were, they might not have tried as hard as they should, so they were reminded to do well.

If the school received the money, it would go to improving the school program, which might include new books, new athletic equipment or just fixing up the school.

One thing the California State Legislature did accomplish with their reward proposal was that it gave the students an incentive to do their best on the test. However, the outcome had not been determined by our publication deadline.

Making the School Run

It takes more than teachers and books to maintain an institution of education. Storerooms of supplies, from paper clips to paper cups must be well stocked at all times. Every single absence, tardy, truancy and suspension must be recorded, as well as every grade in every class. Machines must move. Littered areas must be unlittered. Complaining stomachs must be satisfied. The behind-the-scenes operations are endless.

CV is proud of its clerical, cafeteria and maintainance staffs, without whom the great educational machine would have halted.

From time to time absences or a continuing shortage of personnel dumped an unfair load on a particular group, but they often cut short their breaks or worked more frantically than usual to try to stay even with the demands. Because of the combined efforts of the faculty, administration, and staff, CV, the highest scoring campus in the district, is one of the best run.

UNDERCLASSMEN

One of the inevitable obstacles faced by underclassmen was completing the rest of their required courses for graduation. Because of this, some, like Duane Fernandez, may have found themselves up in a tree. But, the underclassmen of CV proved that youth and enthusiasm could conquer all well, almost all, and that they had the ability to go the distance. No matter what fell in their way, underclassmen kept the following in mind: grin, bear it and just plug on through.

A Fresh Start

6:30 - wake up
6:34 - take a shower
6:52 - get dressed
7:01 - blow dry hair
7:16 - do last-minute homework
7:29 - eat breakfast
7:40 - brush teeth
7:43 - leave for school

A typical schedule of any student, but this one is of a special student, a freshman. Freshmen have big adjustments, as it is their first year of high school.

To begin with, there are the basic adjustments such as longer days, more homework, harder tests, bigger responsibilities, new room numbers and locker combinations to memorize.

But this is not as far as it goes: there are many adjustments in maturity. This year can be the hardest, most confusing year of high school. It is a time of change that is important for the future, for now is when basic ideas for college and career choices are made.

Other adjustments occur in the social life of a freshman. There are more dances to attend, many sports events to watch or even participate in, a chance to go off campus at lunch and many clubs to join within the school.

All in all, a freshman year is full of many opportunities.

Freshmen Officers — Front: Advisor Ms. Casale, Secretary Cindy Bozigian, Treasurer Heather McCormick, Advisor Mrs. Rothschild. 2nd: President Heather Sandin, Vice-President Brad Adam.

And the winner is ... Freshmen Kim Davy and Ronda Price reflect their class's happiness over finally electing class officers. The elections were finally held November 30.

Young Leaders

The Freshmen Class has proved to be a fine group of students. They have entered CV and showed their Falcon pirit by participating and becoming involved in various school activities.

In order to give the class time to adjust nd look for the students who would lead hem best, Mr. Nicholson and class advirs decided to postpone class elections ntil the second quarter. If the freshmen could choose officers who would be able to give good ideas for money-making activities, they would have a good start toward their senior year.

On November 30, the freshmen voted for and elected Heather Sandin president, Brad Adam vice-president, Cindy Bozigian secretary and Heather McCormick treasurer. The new officers were excited to get involved and serve their fellow classmates. "I feel proud to represent such a great class during our first year at CV. I will try to do the best job possible," said Heather Sandin. With these officers and the support of Ms. Casale and Mrs. Rothschild, outstanding advisors, the Freshman Class was bound to succeed.

"I needed to wash my face anyway." Stacy Gross shows her class spirit by bobbing for Twinkies during a Homecoming Week spirit contest.

Cock-a-doodle-do — Trying not to break their eggs while doing jumping jacks, Dave Hawkins, Kelly Moore, Robyn Fleisher and Steve Lightbourne successfully attempt the task.

A Hearty Welcome

For the first few weeks of school, freshmen had time to find their classes, memorize their locker combinations, meet new people and get adjusted to the high school atmosphere, but October 15 began the traditional week in which freshmen have the opportunity to be initiated to Crescenta Valley High School.

During snack time on Monday, A.S.B. President Cherie Jensen conducted the first initiation game. Five freshmen, who had hesitantly volunteered, locked arms and legs together while lying on the rally platform. Supposedly, five studly senior guys were to pick them up, but they had other plans for those freshmen. Whipping cream was then squirted into each of their faces while they struggled to untangle their locked limbs.

The freshmen were welcomed with planned games for every snack and lunch. Curious onlookers hovered around the rally platform, anticipating the next event. On one occasion, the freshmen participants had to put eggs in their mouths and do exercises, hoping the eggs would not break. When they had finished, student judges checked for cracked eggs. If the eggs were not already cracked, the judges made sure they were!

Good sports played in other games, such as bobbing for golfballs, which ended up in bobbing for soggy Twinkies, but the fun and games ended for the freshmen on Wednesday. Freshmen initiation was being carried out in places other than the rally platform. The older students got carried away and took it a little too far when they started tying freshmen to the flagpole and spray painting their hair.

Parents began to complain that their kids were being harrassed. On Thursday, in order to avoid prosecution for hazing, ASB canceled Welcome Freshmen Week activities. Thus, there was still a question as to whether or not the event will take place next year. Thanks to all freshmen who volunteered and were good sports. It's not easy to get up in front of people and be ridiculed.

Getting Around

Cars came in so many different styles, versions and colors that it was no wonder that the students drove such a variety of them. Everything from a cherry-red Firebird to a bashed-in blue bomb could be seen parked on the streets around school.

Many students, once they obtained their licenses, faced the problem of how they were going to get a car. Some of the resourceful ones had saved up money that they earned over the years.

Then, of course, there are those lucky kids who managed to talk their parents into buying them a car because they were such wonderful children or possibly because they just did not save up any money themselves.

If a student still did not have a means of transportation, there was always the good old family car. Many station wagons loaned out by Mom and the four-door sedans with the baby's carseat in the back lined the streets around the campus.

Once the problem of what a student was going to drive was resolved, there was the dilemma of paying for the insurance. Handling this situation was almost as difficult as obtaining the money for the car in the first place.

If all else failed, and a student still did not have a car, there were always friends to beg a ride from, or, as a last result, the old legs could probably use the exercise.

Predance Frustrations

Charlene sat sulking in front of the mirror, staring at what she thought was a horrid reflection. She had just noticed a zit that seemed to appear within the last five minutes. "I can't believe it. Roger is picking me up to go to the dance in one hour, and here I am looking uglier than ever."

Having heard her daughter's woes, mother came in with comforting words. "Don't be so hard on yourself, dear. You always look pretty to me."

"Yes, but you're Mom, not Roger," replied Charlene with a disgusted look.

She put on some make-up hoping to cover up the repulsive blemish and then put on her beautiful new dress of blue taffeta she had bought just for the occasion.

Meanwhile, Roger was at his house struggling to knot his tie. After having no success, he asked his dad for help. While knotting Roger's tie, he proceeded with words of wisdom, the man-to-man, father-son talk.

"Now Roger, remember to be a gentleman. Open her door for her and stuff like that. You know what I mean."

"Yes Dad. I've heard it all before."

"Oh, son, another thing, you can stay out as late as you want, but just don't let your sister know that," he said with a grin.

"Thanks, Dad."

Roger then went on to finish getting ready. He combed his hair, fixed his tie, put on his new sweater and splashed on his favorite cologne. Glancing at the handsome reflection in the mirror, he decided there was nothing else he could do.

At the same time, Charlene was a nervous wreck. While she was putting on her nylons, she got a run. Since those were the only ones she had, Mom had to make a quick dash to the store for a new pair.

Roger drove down the street. As he turned the corner, he gasped and made a quick U-turn. He speedily drove back down the street and parked in his driveway. Running back in the house, Roger said, "Hi Mom. Dinner was fun, but we decided we'd end the evening at that, and forget the dance!"

His mom sat smiling while holding the forgotten corsage. "How did I raise such a scatter-brained kid?" She handed him the corsage and rushed him out the door.

Charlene was finally ready after two hours of preparation. She stood nervously and hesitantly asked, "Mom, are you sure I look okay?"

"Oh, you look simply beautiful," Mother replied.

Soon there was a knock at the doo Charlene's little brother came running i to answer it. "I'll get it! I'll get it!" h screamed. He swung open the door, an there stood Roger. Charlene, utterl embarrassed, invited him in and apolo gized for her brother's behavior.

After the introductions, it was time t pin on the corsage and boutonniere. Rog er stood hesitantly debating what to d when he noticed Charlene's straples dress. "Uh, maybe you'd better do thi Mrs. Thompson," he stuttered to he mom.

Finally, when pictures had been taker they were ready to go. Outside the fron door, Roger shyly admitted to his bum bling preparations. With a surprisingl natural laugh, Charlene finally relate her own experiences. After enduring a the frustrations of getting ready, the cou ple went to the dance and were able t enjoy themselves for the rest of th evening.

Students in Politics

Youth gathered together from La Canada and La Crescenta every Monday night at the La Canada Y.M.C.A. to form Youth and Government. There were about thirty-five young people from this area in the program and about 900 from all over California.

At the meetings, they discussed and learned Parliamentary Procedure, how meetings are run, how laws are passed and how state legislature works. The kids elected their own officers and ran the meetings themselves. The advisors made sure everything was under control, but the kids ran the program.

In San Luis Obispo they met with other Youth and Government groups, which elected more officers such as a governor, a speaker of the Senate, a speaker of the Assembly, a chief justice and an attorney general. Everyone had at least one office.

Later, after much preparation, they made a trip to Sacramento, where Youth and Government groups gathered from all over California. Governor George Deukmejian spoke to them, and then they divided and combined according to the office they held. In those groups they learned their role and their responsibilities. They stayed in Sacramento five days, but they were not all work. There was a dance and a talent show, which gave them a chance to associate with the new friends they had made.

All this was unfortunately not free. The total was $290. To avoid paying so much, they raised money by doing fundraisers such as a Halloween Overnight, a Christmas tree lot sale and a silent auction. If one participated in the fundraisers, the cost would have only amounted to about $110.

"It is worth it," remarked Dan Schandel, an active member for two years. "It is such a learning experience, but it's not like sitting in a boring classroom. It's a lo of fun. You meet so many new peopl from all over California. One of the bes things is that we are in charge." Yout and Government was an enjoyable way t participate with other teenagers whil learning and discussing our governmen and how it works.

The Place to Be

Salty air, hot sun, crashing waves, sandy beaches and people. Thousands of people crowd the beaches every year. Some prepare days in advance and others just jump into their cars and head for paradise.

Most of us love the beach because it is a natural setting for social activities. There, we can share the sun and surf with our families and our friends. Some of the principal activities are swimming, walking along the ocean side, playing volleyball and frisbee, surfing and just lying on the hot sand, soaking up sun.

In a poll taken at the beginning of the year, statistics showed that there were also some annoyances lying in wait for us at the beach. Sand was a necessary evil; people hate getting sand in their suits, on their oiled skin and in their food. But, there is nothing that would stop students from going to the beach! And how lucky CV students are to be a mere 40 minutes from some of the world's most beautiful beaches!

Finally Falcons!!!

Mesmerized — Toby Carver is entranced by the Varsity Cheerleaders' Rally almost as much as he is by his Sees' sucker, sold by the Math Club.

Playful antics: Julie Hopper drops ice down an ecstatic Coty McMahan's back.

Fight to the finish. Not all freshmen made it through the year in one piece, as shown by Eddie Song.

Screams filled the air as the last bell of the school year rang and students rushed madly from their final class. Homework was finished, studies were over and finals were completed; another year was finished. A new gaggle of freshmen had been inaugurated into high school life.

They made it through the first week, making new friends, adapting to the work and getting used to their schedules. "It took me a couple of weeks to stop walking into classes other than my own," said Heather Sandin.

The newcomers survived Freshmen Initiation Week, abuse from upperclassmen and adjustments for entering a new school. "It was really hard to get into the hang of things," commented Jennie Spierman, "but after a while it felt like I'd been here for a long time."

It seemed to many freshmen that the year would never end and that the mishaps and ridicule would continue forever. Along with the final bell, however, came the realization that they made it through and survived the worst year of high school. "Now that it's over," said Erin O'Connell, "it did not seem as bad as I thought at times."

The people of the class of '88 are now truly Falcons. They can look forward to their next three years and the thought of being fully accepted into high school life. As Erik Anderson said, "Now it's time to get to the good stuff."

Growing Up: A Learning Experience

Back then, we were all a bunch of kids playing the silly game of life, but little did I know how significant this game was. I was taught to read, to write and to add, subtract and multiply. My parents taught me to make my bed and do my chores. Although I listened and tried to learn, only certain things sank in. My thoughts were based on playing with friends, eating chocolate chip cookies, riding bikes and chasing the ice cream man down the street.

As I grew to the latter part of my elementary school years, I began to take things more seriously. I liked to get good grades and do well in sports. Instead of just playing, we were competing. At this time I watched people around me very closely, especially my brothers and sisters in junior high and high school. They were so old, so big. They were not playing with cars and dolls anymore. They were busy going to football games, playing sports, being with friends, doing homework and being presidents, cheerleaders and captains. They were striving for something more and doing a little more to get it. To get what? I did not know, but I wanted to be like them.

In junior high I was "cool." My friends and I hung out together doing the stupid things young teenagers do. Trying to fit into the mold. Taking risks to see how far we could go. Homework and parents did not matter. We were old enough to take care of ourselves. This game of life was getting harder.

Now I am in high school. As a kid I had seen my brothers and sisters excel through their experiences. Now I am going to school and doing the things that need to be done. I am just beginning to realize, though, that there is something more to life than just doing what needs to be done.

In order to do well we need to make the most of life and push ourselves a little harder. We must get involved and be our own person. We must strive for excellence and achieve our dreams, or sit back and watch as others do.

We can win the game of life if we make the right moves, plan our goals, set our pace and work for the extra. Jog that extra mile, swim that extra lap, shoot that extra basket or study that extra hour. Give that extra smile to excel, to achieve and to win. After all, with so many people in the world, hustling and bustling to get ahead, that something extra gets people noticed.

Here We Go Again

Falcon students kissed the summer goodbye as they sank their "talons" in the door of another school year. Amazingly, nobody slipped, since Crescenta Valley spirit rolled so robustly, sweeping students off their feet. Displaying their uniforms and jerseys, cheerleaders and football players demonstrated their enthusiasm.

Immense numbers of students made their marks in appearance on the first day. The "in" clothing was everywhere. Dark sunglasses, dyed hair, shredded clothes and chains were part of the ensemble. "Where do these people get their funky clothes?" inquired Sean Robbins. On the whole, Falcons had never heard of conservatism.

As the first bell rang, groans were heard all over campus. "School again?! I was just getting used to summer," commented John Bevan. For many students, forty weeks of agonizing, irksome, uninvited worry followed that bell. Hideous homework clogged numerous lives. Other students found opportunities to join organizations, meet new people and become involved in school. The desire to be educated with a little nudge from Dad's steel toe overcame the urge to throw in the towel.

Student Store for Sugar Fix

For chocoholics, junk-food junkies and those with a sweet tooth, the Student Store was the place to go for emergency relief. The desperate always packed it to the point of overflowing during snack and lunch keeping Mrs. Taix and her help quite busy.

With their one-candy-bar-a-day habits, CV'ers stampeded to the store the second the bell rang. When they arrived, they were sweating and shaking, revealing the typical symptoms of withdrawal. Students walked out of the store, their addictions satisfied, until tomorrow, when withdrawal crept up on these sugar freaks once again.

Students could get most of their favorite goodies there, including Snickers, Reese's Peanut Butter Cups, Twix, Hot Tamales and popcorn, regular or cheese flavored, if they could stand in unending lines.

It seemed that some CV students forgot what their mouths were for, considering how much food adorned their clothing. Whatever happened to manners?

Of course, for those who got thirsty from all the munchin' out, there was a Hi-C machine conveniently located next to the Student Store. This machine was known for its greediness. It took our money, but did not always give anything in return.

The distribution of dance pictures at the Student Store created more havoc. Anxious females flocked there, not hungry for food, but for a peek at how they appeared with their boyfriends.

Other frantic patrons visited the Student Store because they had lost their pens or pencils, run out of paper or forgotten their protractors for geometry.

Students whose lockers are on the first floor next year, beware! Take an alternate route to leave the building at snack and lunch, or be devoured by the ravenous Student Store horde. If someone attempts to leave by way of the Student Store, he may never see the outside, until the bell rings, that is.

Let's Do It in the Road

"At least it stops," was one girl's reaction to the power brakes on the Driver Education car. She slammed the door and rotated with another student at the helm of the '75 Valiant.

These trusty vehicles had seen better days. The doors squeaked, the engines sputtered, the seats sagged and the paint lacked luster, but the brakes worked. As a matter of fact, the only saving quality of the cars was the brakes.

Whiplashing deceleration was cause alone to make students wear seat belts; the instructor was the other cause. A mere brush of the pedal sent the car to a shuddering halt.

In contrast, the acceleration left something to be desired. These cars boast four-squirrel-on-a-treadmill power. When the accelerator was pressed, more food was placed on the treadmill, causing the squirrels to run faster. Uphill, you had to flood the treadmill with food in order to get the squirrels to crawl. Downhill, students had to downshift, which tightened the noose around the squirrels' necks.

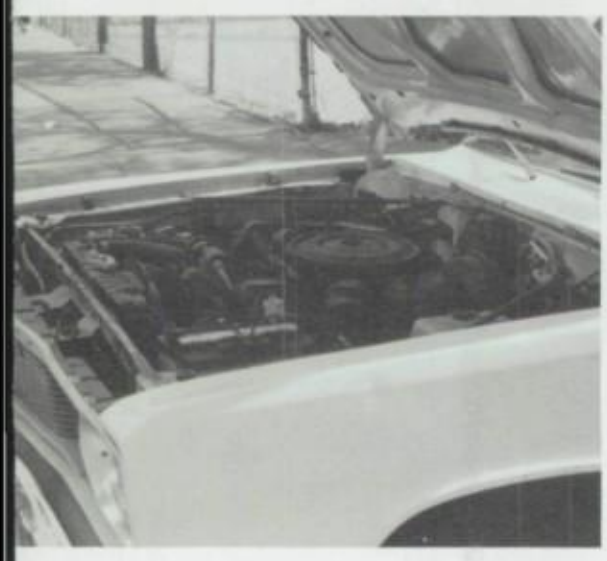
Cornering in these babies was another weakness. Squeaky power steering along with bias-ply tires made this a real granny car. The steering was as poor as the acceleration. Posted curve speeds had to be observed or the tires squealed and the instructor muttered his disapproval. The steering also had some play. One-half turn in either direction to drive a straight line was required.

Actually, these fine-tuned pieces of machinery were in great condition, considering the constant abuse of the student drivers. They suffered more damage off the road than on it. "Students love to kick in the headlights and the taillights. I think they were the favorites," said George Clausen, one instructor.

Vandalism consisted of spray paint, buckets of paint, broken windows and stolen tires, batteries and generators. In extreme cases, students have jumped up and down on them.

On the road, few collisions actually took place. In fact, the only accident in several years has been a fender-bender involving an instructor. In years past, one car was rolled in its infancy, having only 400 miles on the road. Since Crescenta Valley drivers are so careful, the cars just keep rollin' along. However, sometimes they choked along as if the poor squirrels were having epileptic attacks.

— by Ben Edwards



Cruisin' for some cute girls, Coach Gilliland pulls into the parking lot and flashes a smile.

Roaring muscle cars like this Valiant have huge power plants. Beneath all these tubes and hoses are four squirrels just waiting to get out.

Jump out of the way! The clean lines and modern styling of this vehicle make it look as if it is racing when it is actually standing still.

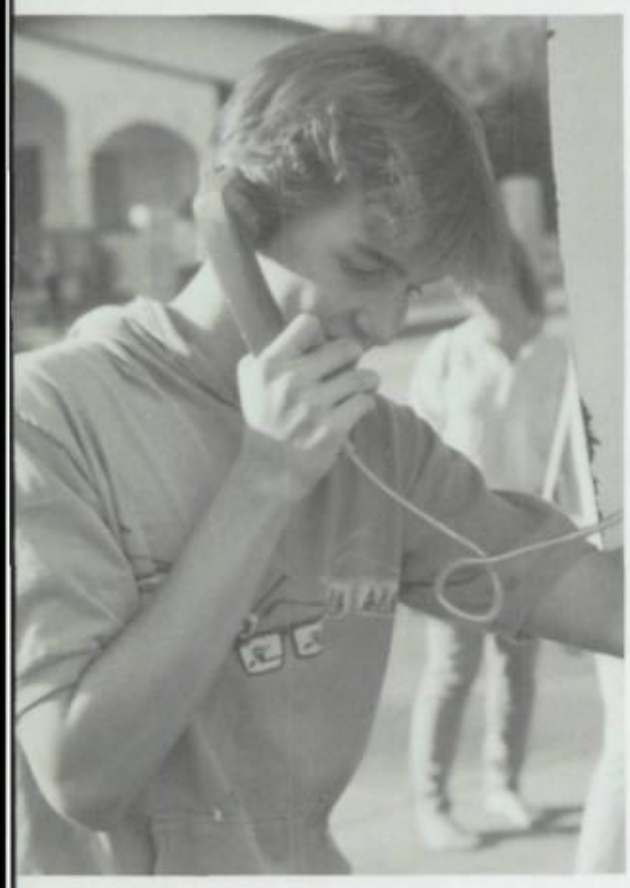
Gosh, the sky is blue today! Separated only by a cup of fruit punch, Melinda Ehlers and Mike Mirch keep with the embarrassing traditions of beginning romance by avoiding eye contact and using various unorthodox body positions.

Of course I'm alone! Although the entrance hall phones aren't the most common place for romantic calls, Beverly Ruff isn't dissuaded from making a call to some fortunate guy.



Ah shucks! Senior Bill Phillips takes advantage of the open air at the phone outside the auditorium to express his romantic intentions.

Boy Meets Girl

Romance is in the air. Sweet smells of flowers, perfume and cologne fill unsuspecting noses.

A lonely girl sits by the phone and waits for Mister Right to call. The phone rings and her hand trembles toward the phone. She gives herself a practice "Hello" before she picks up the receiver. The phone rings again and it startles her as if she didn't expect it. She puts the device to her ear and says, "Hello?"

The masculine voice replies, "Hi Candy, this is Ken." Her face feels flushed and she presses the phone closer to her ear. "I wondered if you had a date for the dance coming up?" He breaths a sigh of relief now that the courageous part is over.

"Why Ken, I'd love to go. I was hoping you would ask me."

"Well then, it's set. I'll see ya tomorrow at school."

"Bye, Ken. Tomorrow, right?"

"Yeah Candy, bye bye."

They both set their phones down and the not-so-lonely girl falls into a daydream. She and Ken run down a white sand beach, hand in hand.

After Ken sets the phone down, he starts to imagine himself and Candy parked on Lovers' Lane. The only elements involved are Candy, the stars and the steaming windows. The dream would go on, but the desire to hear her voice again prevails. Ken dials the memorized number only to be greeted by the beeping busy signal. The fantasy must go on. He returns to thoughts of beloved Candy while she passes time at her home thinking of Ken, and so begins yet another whirlwind, high school romance.

Box-office Busters

Have you ever seen Gremlins Romancing the Stone in Electric Dreams, while walking a Tightrope between the Streets of Fire and The Temple of Doom in Purple Rain?

Students with five dollars to spend had the opportunity to view at least part of this spectacle at theaters during the summer. Meanwhile, studio executives chewed their nails, waiting to see which films would rake in the most bucks.

Since most summer films were aimed at young adults, the studios did not have much to worry about. The box-office intake for the summer of '84 was one of the biggest ever.

The summer season started early with the May openings of Romancing the Stone and Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom. After that, the thrills, chills, laughs and tears were non-stop through September.

"Savin' the Day" and leading the way, with grosses of more than $100,000,000 each were Ghostbusters, which busted its way to the top and remained there most of the summer, and Tightrope, which surpassed Ghostbusters and edged its way into first place. Other contributors to the summer's popularity were Bachelor Party, Red Dawn, Revenge of the Nerds and The Karate Kid.

Unfortunately for the studios, for every blockbuster there is a turkey, and a few of them gobbled their way onto the screen. Some of these forgettable pieces of celluloid included Sheena, Rhinestone, Conan the Destroyer and Bolero.

The high admission price and the addition of the PG-13 rating did not put a damper on attendance. Megabucks flowed into the box-office, but not everyone left the theater feeling his money had been well spent.

Special memories of the summer's movies included riding through a department store with Gizmo, stomping through New York with the Stay-Puft Marshmallow Man, playing tennis with Tom Hanks, waxing on and waxing off with Ralph Macchio, battling the Russians with the Wolverines and hanging on for dear life with Indiana Jones.

One of the most popular theater locales for CV students was Glendale. The six theaters, along the infamous Brand Boulevard, provided them with a viewing choice. If one line backed around the corner and down two blocks, people cruised down the strip in search of a shorter line. Film-going was a social gathering for friends, a date for lovers and a means of escape for dreamers.

The summer excitement of the movies extended into the school year as a titallating weekend activity, such as midnight showings of The Rocky Horror Picture Show.

Make your day? Macho film stars such as Harrison Ford and Clint Eastwood made their return to the silver screen last summer. Eastwood's film, Tightrope, surpassed Ghostbusters as the summer's highest grossing film. It left many females such as Kim Stevens in shock.

A Gremlin did what? Wayne LeCheminant expresses his excitement over those little monsters. Steven Spielberg created another entertainment masterpiece for audiences to enjoy.

Who am I gonna call? Ghostbusters was the most popular film for students this summer. It was a massive moneymaker through endorsements for Diet Coke and the ever-present T-shirt worn by many, including Danielle Abeyta.

Clinging Ink Blots

You reluctantly kiss your hard-earned money good-bye, but eagerly hand it over to the person in charge. Just as you are about to enter the gym and boogie the night away, some evil person seizes your hand and performs the dirty deed. Your precious hand has been permanently imprinted with the dreaded ink stamp!

Every student at CV who has ever felt the desire to put on his dancing shoes and join the fun has experienced this horrendous moment.

The skin-penetrating stamps were ignored by their new owners while at the dance. Then, because of the perspiration from all the bouncing around, a minute amount of the ink transferred itself onto their clothing. It looked like another job for MOM.

The morning after, students scrubbed and rubbed their hands vigorously, while taking their showers, in the hope that the stamps would disappear down the drain, but to no avail. They faded only slightly.

By Monday, the stamps were still hanging on. The clinging ink blots on the students' hands were dead giveaways that the students had attended the dance.

Some of these ink identifiers were happy faces, hearts, Easter bunnies, Jack-O-Lanterns and other seasonal symbols.

Finally, after a month or two, the stamps lost their adherence and unwillingly let go of their owners. Of course, this was to make room for their successors, since another dance was imminent.

The Loser Eats Mud

Principles and friends were opponents in the game of tug of war, and I was the rope between the two. The game got underway when my friends took the first tug on the rope by pulling out a marijuana cigarette and passing it around the group. As it circled toward me, my principles joined in the game. With a great jerk of the rope, they challenged my friends with questions like, "Even though you cherish your friends, should you allow them to persuade you to do something you do not believe in?"

The rope began to creak and groan with frustration.

Gaining an advantage, my friends rebutted with the argument that everybody does it. The battle evened out again as my principles argued that I did not need to be like everyone else, and I should enjoy my uniqueness.

At this point, the rope commenced to unravel.

My friends put another massive strain on the rope by saying I was uncool for not joining in. With one last assault, my principles countered with the fact that if they were my true friends, they would understand and accept any decision I made.

I came to realize I delighted in my uniqueness, and that no one but me should influence my right to choose. Besides, there were many more true friends out in the world to be made. Because of this, the rope lurched out of my friends' fingers. My principles won, and the rope stayed intact.

Most everyone has played the role of the rope sometime in their lives. It may not have been under the same circumstances as mine, but the pressure still existed. This may have affected a person's choice of whether to drink, smoke or get involved with drugs, his choice of clothing or hairstyle or the way he performed his everyday activities. Friends were important parts of our lives and very influential aspects, but self-destiny was the best solution.

Beat the Bell

"One more tardy and she'll kill me," yelled Bryan Von Lossberg as he ran to class. He knocked books out of students' arms and hurdled others to get to his seat before the bell.

For some students, getting to class on time was a major problem. Long journeys up stairs, down halls and through crowded doorways made promptness physically impossible.

In extreme cases, some students had to travel from the third floor, down two flights of stairs, through crowded doorways, across the quad, through a hall, down more stairs, across fifty feet of playground, up five stairs and into a bungalow. The distance was approximately 200 yards. It was a brisk jog for a cross-country runner but civilians found the time limit a tight squeeze.

The standard punishment consisted of public embarrassment, detention and sometimes weekend homework, but at least everyone got some exercise.

Sophomore Enthusiasm Abounds

Energy and spirit abounded among the Sophomore Class officers. With the help of advisors Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Lee, they produced some terrific fundraisers. Class members dressed up as babies and little kids and sold balloons for Sophomore Spirit Day during Homecoming Week. They also sponsored a stag dance. These fundraisers helped the class get a start on senior activities expenses.

Leading the way was President Cheryl La Mee, and supporting her with an abundance of input were Vice-President Julie Oh, Secretary Lynda Klein, and Treasurer Jolyn Andrews. Both advisors felt this was a very strong group.

"I think they were great!" exclaimed Mrs. Evans, while Mrs. Lee added, "They were extremely enthusiastic and hard working, and they were overflowing with spirit!"

All in all, the Sophomore Class had a promising, successful year.

— by Karyn Foster

Acting as the president's right hand was Julie Oh, who assumed several responsibilities shared by the president.

The job of secretary was held by Linda Klein, who recorded minutes at each class meeting, which helped maintain order and arrange class activities.

Treasurer Jolyn Andrews directed the finances of the class and planned activities that would help reduce the cost of their upcoming senior functions.

Success describes the kind of year the Junior Class achieved, financially. Besides the Junior Dance, and Junior Toga Day during Homecoming Week, they planned a jog-a-thon in December.

President Allen Nalbandian expressed much optimism at these activities and about the class as a whole. "We have, I think, one of the most spirited and involved classes yet. We hope to make from six- to seven-thousand dollars from the jog-a-thon, and if we make enough I'd like to have a special junior assembly."

Much of this success Allen attributed to the dedication of the officers and Mrs. Bouldin, their advisor. "Our officers are extremely supportive and hard working. But I think our main advantage is that we are all good friends. We blend together, and as a result it's easier to work together and we can get more accomplished."

The class's main objectives were making money to defray senior expenses, getting the students involved, and above all, establishing a strong foundation for the upcoming senior year.

— by Mike Fife

"Our goal is to have fun!" Junior Class President Allen Nalbandian poses with Vice-President Janine Peterson, Treasurer Caroline Chanco, Secretary Moira Delaney and Advisor Mrs. Bouldin. These five combined enthusiasm with cooperation and hard work to plan many successful activities. This was no easy task, since the junior year's workload forces many students to attend to their schoolwork instead of attending to fun. Where there's a will . . . .

The Junior Year — How Did We Survive?

Despite the advancements in medical science, a cure has not yet been found or the madness of one's junior year. With ollege just a step away for many, panic ound a path into the hearts of scores of uniors. Thoughts of the PSAT, AP, SAT nd ACT tests loaded their minds, as umbers of students plowed through one f their toughest academic years.

Additionally, University of California- ound students had to work on meeting he new and often-discouraging "4f" re- uirement. The class of '86 was the first lass to work under this requirement. his adjustment of UC campus admis- ions regulations required four extra ourses of solids in various categories uch as science and math.

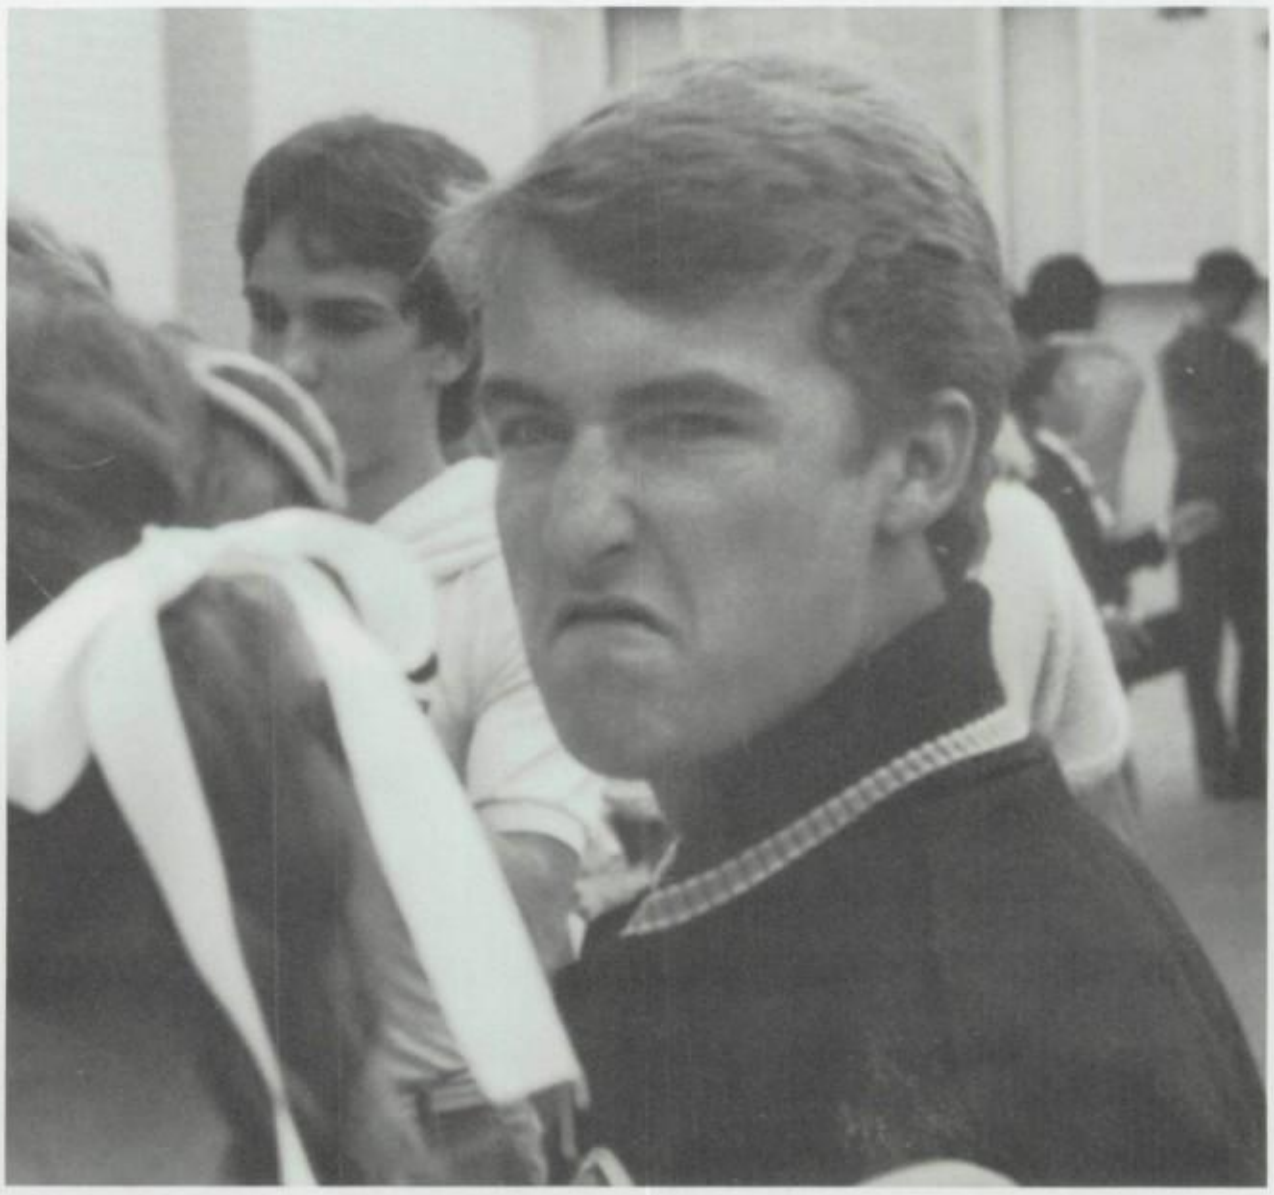
"University of the Pacific — 9 a.m. in he Career Center," read the bulletin. Stu- ents interested in college attended col- ege information meetings where repre- entatives from many universities discussed dmission, scholarships and student ife on their campuses. Forty-one juniors ound the February college tour of nine niversities, including Stanford and Berke- ey, helpful in their decisions about fu- ure education.

Organizations and activities accompa- ied the academic confusion. There was a vast array of clubs to join, and members often found themselves eating lunch in a cramped classroom during meetings. Students had the chance to participate in a number of club-sponsored activities; the not-always-popular-with-the-administration-and-parents car rally and CSF banquet were among these. Just about any interest could be pursued in some kind of club.

With more than sixteen sports programs at CV, juniors also incorporated athletics into their busy schedules. Undergoing long hours of practice and training, athletes strove ahead in their respective sports. Supporting the athletic teams was also popular as the wild and crazy spirit at basketball games indicated.

Activities outside of school worked into many juniors' lives also. Car insurance payments, five-dollar movies and countless other wallet drainers made working juniors prevalent, although the hours were usually terrible, fellow employees had basketballs for brains and managers were tyrants and ogres. Basically, there was no lack of activities in which to participate. Sleep was a luxury many relinquished. All eyes were set on that quickly arriving senior year just around the proverbial corner.

— by Bryan Von Lossberg



Where in the heck is Chico? College decisions face juniors daily. Jill Hoppe just found out about Cal-State's alma matters.

"What do you mean, 'Did I get enough sleep?'" In your junior year, sleep is a true luxury. Brett Siebert reacts violently when asked if he woke up on the wrong side of the bed.

I Mean, Like . . . Well . . . Uh . . .

In the endless quest for understanding the teenage vocabulary, a task most parents and teachers have long since abandoned, we at The Talon have attempted to shed some light.

The following definitions have been provided for our readers who are still in the dark about the teenage mode of communication. So, like, check it out, dude!

Cruisin' — (n.) A teenage pastime in which you go nowhere in particular, do nothing in particular, and get home in the wee hours of the morning.

Way Cool — (adj.) Very good.

Cool — (adj.) Good, but not as good as "way cool."

Eh — (flavor word) Used for emphasis, as in "How's it goin', eh?"

It's Casual — (adj.) O.K. or that's fine.

Bummer — (n.) A bad experience or situation.

Rag — (n.) An ugly or obnoxious girl.

Bail — (v.) To leave, as in "Let's bail!"

Killer — (adj.) Big, as in a "killer wave;" great, as in a "killer party."

Radical — (adj.) The greatest.

Bogus — (adj.) Stupid, awkward, strange, or bad.

Case — (v.) To leave, as in "Let's case this place."

Good Deal — (adj.) Nice job.

Wicked — (adj.) Terrible; ugly in appearance.

Dude — (n.) A guy; often used in a derogatory manner, as in "What a dude!"

Stylin' — (adj.) In fashion, chic.

Waste case — (n.) A person who relies on fun from artificial sources, i.e., drugs or alcohol.

Bud — (n.) Used as a salutation among good friends, as in "Hey bud!"

Totally — (adv.) An intensifier, as in "totally rad" compared with merely "rad."

Like — (no form of speech) A filler, used interchangeably with "um" and "uh."

As you can see, it does become confusing. But hey, bud, it's not so bogus if you hang with it for a while, eh?

Silver Celebration

In the beginning there was void. Then, out of the darkness, was built a school. This school was called Clark Junior High School. But as the population of the little city of La Crescenta grew, there arose a need for larger learning facilities. And so was created Crescenta Valley High School.

Prior to the change, what is now CV taught only seventh, eighth and ninth graders. Anyone above this level commuted to either Hoover or Glendale, but as La Crescenta came to be regarded as a desirable place to live, the population grew. With this growth came an increasing number of students. To accommodate this, two junior high schools were built and CV was established.

That was twenty-five years ago and today CV is still going strong. Yet the CV of today is much different. With the addition of a freshman class in 1984, CV now boasts a population of more than 2,000 students.

We have kept pace with technology, adding everything from computers to solar panels. Students can now, with a permit, leave campus during lunch. School now starts at 8 a.m. instead of 8:30, and ends at 2:55 p.m. instead of 3:15, though by 1987 the end of school will be back to the original 3:15. Recently, a security guard was also added to the CV staff.

This year marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of Crescenta Valley. It has been a school of change and yet, at the same time, one element has always remained constant: the spirit and enthusiasm of the students, evidenced in their academic and athletic excellence and through continued support of all types of school activities. We can only hope that the next twenty-five years, whatever they bring, are as good as the first.

Bang your head! Robert Mitchell and Pat Cisneroz proudly display their favorite concert T-shirts. A common dressing habit of many Falcons.

What a mess! The typical junior locker often displayed the students avid interest in music, through the debris. Food was also a major interest.

"Did You See That Song?"

Video music, created originally by a dying music industry to promote their major artists, has emerged to become a dominant force in the industry in which it was created. It has also become a great influence on teenagers.

Videos were brought into prominence in late 1982, when a new basic cable channel, MTV, emerged on a format of nothing but video music, twenty-four hours a day. MTV has the largest viewing audience of any cable channel in the United States, showing its popularity and impact. The average viewer is between fourteen and eighteen years of age.

The success of MTV spawned several look alike video TV shows, including Video Beat and Video One. The popularity of such shows is so great that even one of the major networks, NBC, has launched its own show, "Friday Night Videos."

Videos have become a necessity to the aspiring musician. More than one band can attribute its popularity to its videos. Duran Duran's first major breakthrough came not because of their hard-driving music, but because of their stylish videos shot in exotic locations such as Rio de Janeiro and Sri Lanka.

Even established artists have started to shoot videos. Many do this not out of pleasure, but out of necessity. Video has become so popular that even major artists fear releasing an album without videos to back it. Huey Lewis has said that he feels videos are good for the industry, but he also fears the day a worthy band cannot succeed because of a pimple on the singer's nose.

Video music has been successful in that it served its original purpose: it saved the music industry. Whether it turns out to be a good or bad influence on the music itself remains to be seen.

From Out of the Shadows

Crescenta Valley has had a tradition for always having great cheerleading squads. Our JV squad was no exception. Any student who attended pep rallies or sports events would have to agree. But just how great was our squad? How did our squad compare with those of other schools?

Our cheerleaders were given the chance to find the answer to these questions at the Southwest Specialty Clinics Cheerleading Camp, August 15 to 18, at Lake Arrowhead.

As it turned out, the JV squad was more successful than anyone anticipated. They dressed up every day as an outlet for their exuberant spirit. Such enthusiasm was rewarded at the end of camp for the entire CV pep squad, when they received the "spirit stick," an award given to only the most spirited school. It was a well-deserved honor.

The girls were also very successful in competition. Out of the five ribbons they were eligible to compete for, they won all five. Their ribbons, four superior and one excellent, were brought home to overjoyed parents.

The key to their success? According to Shanna Wierda it was because they were "all such great friends." Though the JV cheer might have been in the shadow of the Varsity Cheerleaders and the Songleaders, they, too, made a great impression on Falcon Spirit.

— by Ian Ullman

Hi Ho, Hi Ho — The JV cheerleaders were an integral part of CV pep rallies. They are shown here in one of their more popular rallies on Halloween.

"Are those the JV cheerleaders?" Anne Reynolds stares in awe as they prepare for a rally. The pep rallies were well-prepared and very popular.

As Time Moves On

As the end to the first day of school approached, all eyes were riveted to the clock, eagerly awaiting the traditional 2:50 bell to ring, and with it the end of the school day. Yet, to the dismay of many, it did not ring. Instead the day continued, now ending at 2:55.

The reasons for this change are based on studies which linked the amount of time spent in class with academic performance. Alarmingly, it was found that students in other countries spend an average of two years longer in school than students in the United States. Additionally, students in California spend, on the average, less time in school than students in the rest of the country.

To correct this, the California state Senate passed Senate Bill 813 listing over eighty reforms for the schools. One of the optional reforms outlined was a program to increase the amount of time students are in school.

By following this program the school district added seven instructional minutes to CV's day. This was done by adding five minutes to the total day and by taking two minutes off snack. Four full days were also added to the school year. Similar additions were made throughout the district at all grade levels, from kindergarten to senior high, and more minutes will be added in 1985 and in 1986.

As a reward for following its suggestion, the state gave the Glendale Unified School District this year $1,224,125. This amount more than paid for the additions.

The total of this extra time will give a student approximately one more full year of time spent in school by the time he completes kindergarten through grade twelve. Yet many complaints were heard that the extra time was in such small increments that it went relatively unnoticed, and thus was lost.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Robert Sanchis has a different view. "Taken by itself, the extension of time spent in school is not nearly as important as the quality of this time. Merely an extension of time will not necessarily improve instruction. All it will do is provide an opportunity for additional instruction. It is important to focus on the quality of what happens during this time. If the quality is present, this additional time will be meaningful."

The addition of time to our school day and to the year was but one of many reforms that came to our school this year. It was labeled a waste of money by many, yet, if nothing else, these actions showed this year that the State is finally taking an interest in California schools.

Bob's or Tilley's: Which Will It Be?

As the game came to a close, the familiar exclamation was once again, "Meet you at Bob's!" But then, amid the post-game excitement, came the fateful words: Bob's was closed.

Suddenly a dilemma developed: "Where now?" A few brave souls refused to accept the obvious and ventured to Bob's anyway. They found it not closed, merely restricted, a response to complaints of excessive rowdiness and large crowds.

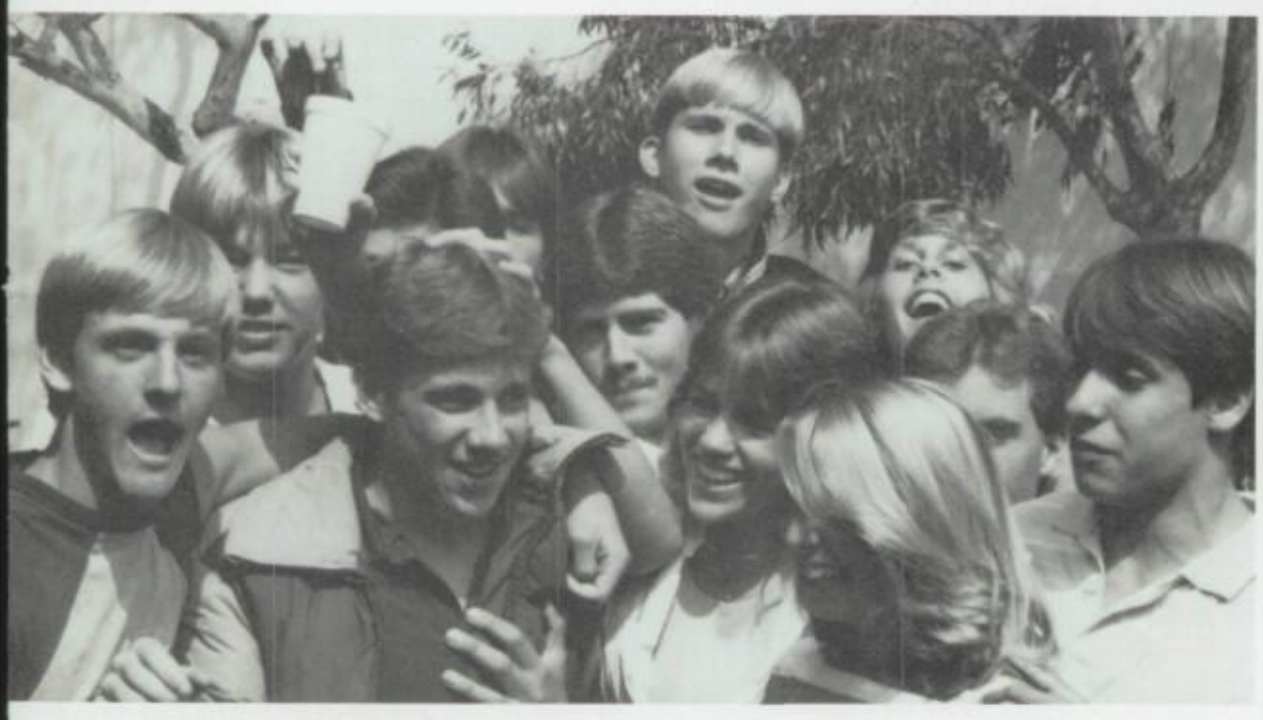
Students could no longer meander from table to table socializing with friends: they had to remain stationary and impossibly quiet. Finally, a limit was set to the number of students allowed at each table.

For many, these restrictions were exorbitant. These people joined with those who already found a new "hangout," and with phenomenal speed Tilley's Restaurant was it.

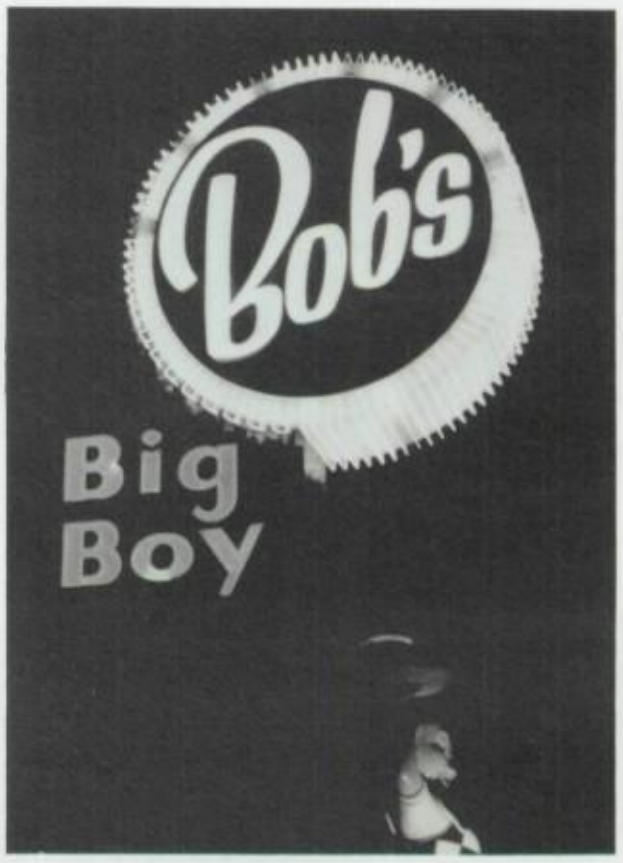
"We weren't sure quite what to think of it," said Mindy Roberts, an employee of Tilley's. "The first night we were not really prepared, but now we've got the hang of it, and we know how to keep the crowds under control." Mindy went on to add, though, that she no longer works there.

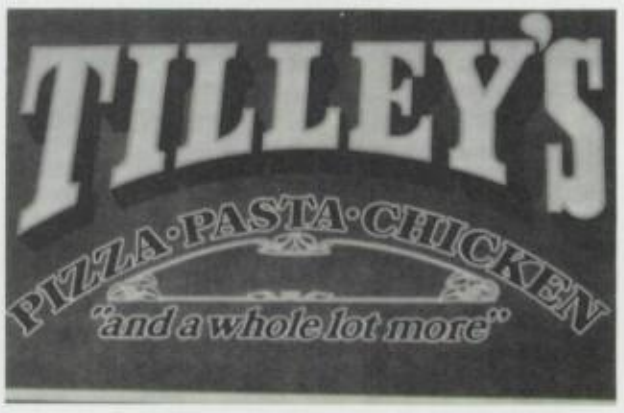
What do students think of the move? "I think it's great. We can wander and talk to people easier, and besides, the food is better," remarked Paul Miller, a junior. Most students seemed to hold a similar viewpoint, for they kept going back week after week. But alas, even Tilley's became hostile to the rowdy antics.

— by Ian Ullman and Mike Fife



Rowdy — Some CV fans show the over-exuberance that led to the original restrictions at Bob's. Though the fans cannot be blamed for their spirit, at times it did lead them into trouble.





The famous Bob B. Boy — This is no longer the familiar greeter of CV students after a sporting event. Though never officially evicted from Bob's, students have stopped frequenting the establishment as part of their post-game activities.

The new spot — Tilley's became the new post-game hangout almost miraculously. Though the change in diet shocked a few Falcons, acceptance came fast.

Decision '84: CV Students Take a Stand

1984 was heralded by two very important events: The Los Angeles Summer Olympics and the presidential election. The latter started off with the incumbent, Ronald Reagan, far ahead of his Democratic opponent, Walter "Fritz" Mondale. After the three televised debates, however, the margin seemed to be narrowing and the students of CV began to side with one candidate or another. This led to some heated debates in both the quad and the classroom.

Many students were so committed to their candidates that they worked at their party's headquarters to help in the election. Jack Aldrich, who worked in the Republican Headquarters, felt strongly about the re-election of Ronald Reagan. "I feel he's done a very good job and I'm doing what I can to see that he can continue."

The amount of Reagan supporters seemed to be endless. In a mock election run by Mr. Keyes, Reagan received eighty-six votes to Mondale's twenty. This shows that most CV students were in favor of a second term for Ronald Reagan.

It came as no surprise to either party that President Reagan was re-elected on November 6, 1984, by a whopping eighteen-point margin in the popular vote, the third greatest popular victory in U.S. history. The only states Mondale managed to win were his home state of Minnesota and one which was not a state at all, the District of Columbia, with three electoral votes. CV Senior Phil Nelson summed it all up: "Let's hope Reagan is as successful in his next four years as he was in this election."

"Hey Bud, Let's Party!"

The junior year is the hardest year scholastically, and most juniors were desperate for a chance to cool off and relax after a tough day at school. This was one reason why the junior year was often labeled the "party year" of high school.

What exactly did "party year" mean? It meant, obviously, that as a junior, the average student attended a lot of parties. These parties could have been as laid back as a group of students getting together to watch movies on a VCR, or so overly rambunctious that they ended in disaster for the party's host.

Why was it that juniors became so crazy and out of control? The general consensus seemed to be that overwork and stress lead these students into violent and sometimes destructive acts. It was almost as if a disease, "Junior Madness," was rampant throughout the class. If you were one of the afflicted, don't expect things to get any better. If you were still in control, look out, "Senioritis" is far more contagious.

— by Ian Ullman

"Hey, I was just joking." When a person went to the trouble of throwing a party, they wanted to make sure people would attend. When Allen Nalbandian jokingly refuses an invitation, not everyone finds it wholly funny, and the party's host doesn't laugh.

These could be yours! Lisa Erickson proudly displays the decorations for the night's party to Jenifer Larson and Krista Miller.

It starts at your arm — and works its way through your body, until it hits your brain. Even Caroline Chanco and Tina Quick are susceptible to "madness."

Super Seniors

The year began, and hundreds of new students made their debut at CV. However, the group of Senior Class officers reflected none of this new environment. The people involved were as familiar to leadership as the rally platform was to seniors. President Cami Pogue, Vice-President Kelly Levering, Secretary Mindy Roberts and Treasurer Sean Williams were all experienced leaders, and their combined experience has helped to make the senior activities special.

Among the many administrative successes of these four were the magazine sale, the toga stag dance, the senior banquet and all of the other events associated with the important and exciting rituals of graduation.

Strong friendship between officers, which reflected the attitude of the whole class, was one reason that the activities planned by these officers ran so smoothly. President Cami Pogue remarked, "We have great unity and friendship in the class of 1985, and I'm sure everyone will keep in touch after college." It has been a pleasure to have leaders such as these, and all of them deserve special recognition and respect for the job that they have done.

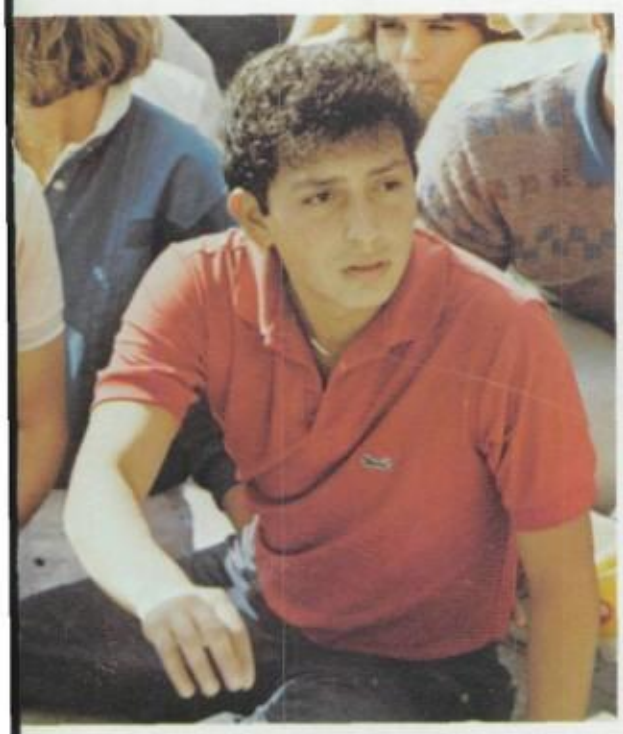
As CV's World Turns



Dazed and confused, Danny Rivero pleads with onlookers to quiet down so he can hear Van Halen played over the ASB stereo.

The time in high school was spent discovering ourselves. We were finding emotions hidden away somewhere and, at the time we least wanted to, we always revealed them. But this was just a part of growing up.

Much of the senior action revolved around the ever-present rally platform, the scene of many important happenings. Some of them were exciting and joyous occasions, some rather depressing. Most of the time, it was just the place to spend a boring lunch or snack with friends. The rally platform was senior territory, period. Many times we were annoyed by underclassmen just hanging around, trying to look cool and sophisticated, like us seniors.

Much of our mental dilemma concerned college. Numerous questions plagued us. Should we go? Where should we go? Why should we go? Doubts always invaded when we were becoming comfortable with our environment. The thought of leaving our homes and friends brought mixed emotions. We have grown to hate and appreciate Independence and Responsibility, accepting them as necessary to maturity.

Many tears were shed, some happy, some sad. All of them necessary. Uncertainty was necessary. So was fear. These traumas must have been experienced if we were ever to develop the courage to leave our secure homes and families and confront our own worlds.

The Quick Picker-Upper

They were there on that late night you spent on your last-minute essay or term paper; they were your prime energy source during finals week; they kept you functioning at work Saturday after that late party Friday night and they kept you alert and attentive through those unending English and history lectures. No-Doze caffeine pills, the coffee equivalents, were a student's best friend.

Hidden away from Mom, Dad and the teachers at school, these critters ran rampant through the stomachs of students. They could be bought in any drug store; they were legal; they didn't cause shaking or hallucinations, and, to put it plainly, they worked. Two pills equal two cups of coffee. But everyone knows that artificial stimulants can never equal a good night's sleep.

— by Laura Lalley

Old Place Gets New Face

Some places seem to last forever. They never change; they are always in the same condition, as if caught in a time warp. This is the way that the boys' gym has always been. It seemed that the old gym would never change. The only changes were a new set of victories and heroes to cheer and a new set of losses to mourn.

In fact, students who stumbled aimlessly into the gym immediately found themselvs the center of attention. Coach John Goffredo often dismissed trespassers with a remark such as, "This is a temple, and we are all worshiping, so leave!"

This summer, the shrine underwent cosmetic surgery. The old acoustic ceiling was removed and replaced with a new, higher one without acoustical tile. This change has had a mystical effect on the sound that a large basketball crowd creates. It was clear from the first deafening roar of the crowd to the final buzzer of the season that every sound had been amplified.

This new home-court weapon was not without its drawbacks, however. Many times a high-pitched explosion prevented cheerleaders from finishing a cheer, or rendered useless an inaudible official's whistle. Even as a small group of basketball players practiced, the noise level grew to the point that communication was impossible. Coach Goffredo, who has always exhibited a healthy set of lungs and vocal chords, found that sometimes a whistle was necessary to conduct practice.

However, with every change there will always be a few negative aspects. In this case, the tremendous boost of team morale was enough to outweigh any negative effects. According to guard Jim Smiley, "This gym has been incredible. It would have taken the whole school to make that much noise in the old gym."

Well, perhaps some places never change, regardless of how many years pass. As for the boys' gym, it would be incorrect to say that the remodeling has changed it. The gym will remain for years the temple for dedicated athletes, still captured in a time warp along with the many memories created within its walls.

Emotional Rescue

Music. What does it mean? How significant is it to the development of today's youth? Attempting to answer these and many other questions, I decided to do some research by flipping my well-worn Van Halen I tape into the stereo. As the last few chords of "On Fire" trailed away, I found myself devoid of excess energy, and in the proper frame of mind to confront an intimidating stack of homework.

It has been said that music will tame the savage beast. While I have no basis to corroborate this contention, I have known it to tame many savage trig problems and soothe many nervous athletes before games.

For most people, the relationship and interaction with music is highly personal. The bond that forms between artist and audience allows these performers to make a statement on behalf of the entire generation.

During the 1960's, the Beatles and Jimi Hendrix represented the consistently adolescent attitude of rebellion. These legends were followed by the 70's band that shook the world, Led Zeppelin. Paced by guitarist Jimmy Page and lead vocalist Robert Plant, Led Zeppelin began the gradual change from the psychedelic tunes of the 60's to the lighter, rythmic sounds of the 80's with such masterpieces as "D'yer Mak'er," "Gallows Pole" and "Fool in the Rain."

It is impossible to predict the direction that the music of the 80's will take. However, I am sure that future generations will see us as funloving and relaxed, and perhaps a bit crude. Anyway, let's quit analyzing and crank up the music. After all, we have the responsibility of studying the musical culture of the 80's, you know.

Condition Critical

'Tis the night before finals not a thing has been learned, not a book has been opened,
not a page has been turned.
The house is as quiet as a sealed tomb,
With the deadest quiet in the senior's room.
With tires screeching to the left and the right,
the senior arrives; he has partied all night.
On tiptoe, our hero avoids parental detection,
the dim rays of moonlight diffuse in every direction.
He takes off his shoes on the doormat outside,
in danger of losing a prized piece of hide.
Fumbling with the keys and stumbling through the door,
he knows he has to walk about twenty yards more.
He reaches his room safely, and his spirits are soaring,
when he suddenly realizes there are finals the next morning.
He brought home his books with studious intentions,
but his only hope now is divine intervention.
He smiles sadly and turns out the light, slowly succumbing to the drowsiness of night.
Then across the street there comes such a clatter, an awakening sophomore, what could be sadder?
He studies so hard to attain that "A," knowing that he'll be a senior someday.

This is merely a lighthearted description of a very grave condition. Seldom does a student finish his last year of secondary school education without feeling the effects of senioritis, the leading killer of scholastic motivation among the graduating class.

One early symptom is an overwhelming sense of apathy toward homework. Suddenly the student develops greater musical awareness and plays his stereo for hours each day. Finally, around 10:00 every night, the helpless senioritis victim opens his books and attempts to learn something. This effort usually results in an experiment involving the use of pencil erasers as projectile weapons or the dissection of a fountain pen.

Perhaps the only way for colleges to evaluate the level of contamination is to give suspected carriers a new type of SAT: the Scholastic "Apathy" Test. Students are timed until they begin to doodle on the tables, and the one fool who finishes this twelve-hour exam is declared disgustingly healthy.

Jeff Strawn, who has romanced such ideas as beginning an apathetic religious society says, "There is nothing you can do about senioritis, so you might as well just relax and forget it." It is this apathy toward apathy that climaxes the victim's long struggle with senioritis, and eventually leads to the decline of senior GPA's. Above all, this bout with laziness can reach its unfortunate conclusion with an incident such as, "'Tis the night before finals . . ."

— by Brett Pauly

Homework! What's that? This victim of senioritis is definitely destined to major in art. New artistic creativity was one of the signs of the disease, as many students chose to doodle instead of doing their homework.

Seriously afflicted with senioritis, Kurt Fuller gladly takes a snooze in his government class. Bowed heads and closed eyes were a common sight in senior-filled rooms.

The Inundation

Many students will remember their senior year as the year of escape, senioritis and the senior prom. Yet there is another important sign of the arrival of the senior year that is frequently overlooked. This is the year that thy mailbox runneth over.

It begins, innocently enough, with a few small envelopes. The student, happy to receive mail from any college, reads every last footnote. The letters continue to arrive for about two months. There are usually no more than one or two letters a day, and the student will continue to read zealously until the most psychologically painful point arrives. For two weeks, there is no mail. The student, afraid that colleges are no longer interested, makes a tragic error and returns some of the business reply cards.

Suddenly, every university in the United States becomes friendly, and at first, the student is pleasantly surprised. The mailman comments on the unusual amount of mail he is delivering. The garbageman comments on the unusual amount of trash he is collecting.

After a month or two, the student only skims over information that arrives, and the daily reading becomes less important. The mailman brings a shoehorn to insure that all of the letters will fit into the mailbox. The garbageman complains openly about his weak back.

Within five months, the student avoids trips to the mailbox, and constantly asks other family members to get the mail. Letters usually fall into the trashcan unopened. Each day, the mailman, exhausted from stuffing the mailbox, spits on the front porch and slams the box triumphantly with a few obscene gestures. Soon, the garbageman comes to the front door with a bill for his hernia operation.

Then, one day, in the stack of mail, right between the letters from Alaska State College and the University of Guam, The Letter arrives. Finally, a college that appeals to the student has sent information. All the trouble has been worthwhile.

However, it is too late to thank the mailman or the garbageman. The mailman has retired, complaining of headaches and the cruel treatment of rocks in scientific research. The last letter that he delivers is the garbageman's funeral announcement.

The replacements for the mailman and garbageman will continue happily until another student in the neighborhood, afflicted with curiosity, opens Pandora's box by returning a few business reply cards.

In the Beginning, . . .

Have you ever wondered how the Crescenta Valley High School, as we know it, came about? It hasn't been here forever, you know.

In 1960, the graduating class of Clark Junior High School was split in two geographical areas. A student's residence was the determining factor in his enrollment in either Hoover High School or Glendale High School. 1961 marked the year in which the Clark student body began a second three-year term on the same campus.

A student body vote selected our present identity as the Crescenta Valley High School Falcons. Other unelected options included Cannon High School and La Crescenta High School. A class with little more than 500 students initiated the legacy of the most spirited school in the Glendale Unified School District.

All structures south of the quad, including the gyms, pool and auditorium, were nonexistent. However, buildings to the north were classrooms which we still use today. The present woodshop then served as the auditorium, although it had a different appearance.

A small handful of teachers and faculty can testify to the growth of the school, including Mr. Gibson and Mr. Bachman, who taught language. Mr. Jensen headed up the communications class, while Mr. Carrington taught industrial arts. Miss Nute, who wrote our Alma Mater, was directing the choir, and Mr. Andrews was in administration. They were here at the beginning, and they're still here today.

CV has steadily grown in size, age and excellence over the years, and is continuing to do so. Faculty and alumni have worked together to give this school the mark of superiority it deserves.

Stanford, here I come! With fists clenched, Yoo-Jin Lim exits Glendale College Auditorium after acein the SAT. Observe the stylish pillars on either side o him. Now why can't CV's auditorium look like that?

But Is It Junk?

"'Same place?' 'Same place.' 'Same thing?' 'Same thing.' " "In-n-Out — that's what a hamburger's all about." "It's a good time for the great taste of McDonald's." "Where's the beef?" Good question! Do these sound familiar? Probably. If you were a CV student, the places these slogans represent were your homes away from home.

Those who had lunch passes, cars or friends with cars usually left campus for lunch. A few went home for a sandwich or Mom's homemade soup, but most made a mad dash to the scattered fastfood places along Foothill Boulevard.

Hamburgers, hot dogs, tacos, burritos, soft drinks and french fries; if you were to analyze the eating habits of every student at CV, you would find an abundance of these foods in every stomach. They were regularly chosen over the ever-unpopular cafeteria food.

The unfortunate students who had no lunch passes or licenses were stuck on campus, forced to eat out of brown bags. Some preferred candy from the Student Store, and of course there was the cafeteria.

Have sugar and grease taken over vitamins and proteins? Have we become "creatures of habit when it comes time to eat?" Have fruits, vegetables and unadulterated meats been forgotten forever? Let's hope not. Remember, an apple a day keeps the doctor away!

Wrath of the College Board

Streaks of sunlight shoot across the sky, announcing the beginning of a bright new morning. It is just one more of the many important days in the career of a high school student. However, the difference is that colleges will sometimes judge a student by how he was feeling this day.

No, this is not science fiction with emotional probes attached to students' foreheads, but just another perfect Saturday to spend locked in a crowded auditorium, trying to forget the abandoned trip to the beach and concentrate on the mass of paper on the small board. The silence screams louder than any of Brian Johnson's AC/DC vocals, and even the slightest noise comes as a welcome break in the tension.

These are the dreaded tests of the college board, and thousands of unsuspecting victims of this rapid mental drain wander into the strange buildings. Their purposes include the completion of the SAT, ACT, ACH, PSAT/NMSQT, NEDT, CAT, DOG, ABC, XYZ and an assortment of other tests, all victims of some crazed inventor of acronyms.

In actuality, the scenario usually is not quite as dark as this. These three-hour tests are simply a necessary evil for most college-bound students, and few ever suffer the pain of pruebacrophobia, or the fear of long tests with abbreviated names. In fact, most students endure three to four of these tests during their high school years, and the hardest part becomes the prolonged anticipation of printed college-board scores, which are the small slips of paper with numbers between 200 and 800, dictating the fate of these brave adventurers.

The students who seemed to be affected least by the pressure were the ones who worried the least. Gary Chau apparently found the proper perspective for these tests. He commented, "The most important thing to remember is that you can always take a test again. I never worry about it and just hope that everything comes out right." Perhaps if more students felt this way, the slightly declining average for test scores would rise again. Who knows? Anything could happen and they might start liking punishment.

— by Brett Pauly

Who. Or is it whom? Steve Swenson gazes off in space for some secret clue written on the wall of the ACT testing area at Glendale College.

Blondes? What are they? One certainly could not find out here. This mass is waiting to take the Test of English as a Second Language.

Done at last, an exhausted Cindy Ryder relaxes after a grueling three hours of the SAT.

Parking Problems

It is 7:55 on a typical school morning and you are speeding up Ramsdell Avenue at approximately sixty miles per hour. Your eyes are glued to the curbs on either side of the street, hoping to detect a few spare feet into which you could squeeze your car.

As you approach the auditorium, you slow down, because this would be the perfect place to park; first period biology is only one hundred yards away. No luck; there's not an inch left.

You're wondering how anyone is going to get his car out of that packed line when suddenly you hear screaming. Your eyes jerk forward just in time to behold four fifth graders in the crosswalk a few yards in front of your bumper. You slam on the brakes, leaving an impressive skidmark on the pavement, and yell threats at the little brats who are now running away from you as fast as they can.

Since there are no spaces in front of the main entrance, you make an illegal U-turn, trying to remember if you saw a spot on the other side of the street during your approach. The closest space is on the bridge over the freeway, so you whip another U-turn and head toward Community Avenue.

While turning right, you almost hit the idiot who parked alongside the curve itself, wondering if that's legal. No spaces here either, so Prospect Avenue is your last hope.

You turn right on Mary Street and take the ten-mile-per-hour curve at forty miles per hour, your squealing tires catching the attention of every spectator.

You're driving along and ... there's one! You slam on your brakes, throw it in reverse and spend five minutes trying to parallel park. Your car is parked at last and you run to class, ten minutes late.

You come back to your car at lunch to discover three papers behind your left windshield wiper. One is an obscene note from the person in front of you because you boxed him in, another is from the person in back of you who is going to sue because you dented his bumper and the third is a parking ticket; you parked in a red zone.

Most students are lucky enough to avoid this particular situation, but any student driver can identify with the difficulty involved in parking at school.

Panic swept across the school after the closing of the Baptist Church parking lot this year, but the problem was solved immediately. The lot behind Christie's Liquor is designated for school parking, and although it's been unpopular in the past, it filled rapidly with the evicted cars.

There was one foolproof solution to the parking dilemma this year; those who came to school at 6 a.m. had their choice of any spot.

— by Laura Lalley

End upon end. Because of the limited parking available, students were forced to parallel-park their cars with only inches of space to spare.

Something to Think About

In the words of the eminent Henry David Thoreau, "The only people who get anywhere interesting are those who get lost." That depends on where you are.

Getting lost on campus is an inevitable part of every freshman's first day of school. This can be interesting or scary, depending on which locker room you wind up in after some senior misdirects you.

As a child, getting lost in Disneyland was terrifying. For astronauts, becoming disconnected with ground control is an ever-present fear.

So the next time you get lost driving home from a party, just be thankful that you won't end up in the wrong locker room, the line at the Matterhorn or the heart of the Milky Way, okay?

— by Laura Lalley and Brett Pauly

Senior Statistics

Well, the results are in. Few will remember the survey of the senior class that was taken in the beginning of the year; yet, for all their worth, here are the facts.

To begin, only 79% of the senior class appears to have developed the Jeff Spicoli, "Hey, bud, let's party!" complex. However, we know better. As for the other 21%, we are reasonably sure that most of them are closet party animals, and the actual partying percentage is probably in the low- to mid-90's.

On the more serious side of things, students' average prediction for the time spent in college was 4.2549 years. The reason that these people would quit after .2549 of their fifth year is completely unknown. When we learn the answer to this, we will probably know why the average family has 2⅓ children.

Another consistent trait among the surveyed seniors concerned their future finances. Apparently 87% wanted to get rich, but over half of these felt they could accomplish this by doing nothing. In fact, a great majority of these listed "skid row bum" as one of their career choices.

Unsurprisingly, the most popular college choices were Glendale College with 23% of the vote and UC campuses with 17%. The other 60% chose different universities scattered across the country. Why doesn't anyone ever select Warsaw Continuation School or Tijuana Tech?

To sum it all up, everyone pretty much just wants to become happy, successful and rich, and have fun doing it. We hope everyone succeeds in reaching his goal, no matter what it is. Go the distance, class of '85!

At Last

It took twelve years in the making, cost thousands of dollars, devoured hours of time and provoked cries of happiness, sadness, frustration and fulfillment, but it finally arrived — the senior.

From day one in kindergarten to Senior Grad Night in June, our whole life was centered around education. This last year was the finale to education for some, and for others it was merely a preparation for the far greater challenge of college.

Credits accumulated over three years in mandatory subjects such as English, math, physical education, health and guidance, history, government, fine arts and practical arts. Innumerable tests were taken as well, some of the toughest including the NMSQT, NEDT, PSAT, SAT, ACT, ACH and for some, the AP tests. Three or more tedious hours were spent in a stuffy room, just to satisfy the college board.

The class of '85 earmarks the end of an era. They were the last to qualify for the old requirements for admission to the popular UC campuses. The future graduating classes must earn almost twice as many credits in some subjects to satisfy the new requirements, while '85 just squeaked by ....

So here's to the future seniors of Crescenta Valley High. May they make it through their first three years, go to their senior prom, grad night, and the college of their choice. But most important, may they never get "Senioritis" in their freshman year!

— by Laura Lalley

Hover — (Smith) Slurrrp! Hickey me big baby! (Hee, hee, hee!) Well doll, you must say we've had some pretty fun times! Remember: Yolijwa, Rally, "the" gummy bear, twister, G.I.T.P. and B.I.T.S., get firm, chasing parked cars, Homecoming, Backwards, five introductions, first impressions, T.P.ing, fake tights (sorry Marti), wandering hands, "spa" nights, the best body, balloon races. Ghostbusters, hot pink and red underwear, "I've got three girlfriends," you want what? from who?, tire swings, "Be my seatbelt," sports for the wrong side, Jack, Poems, Short dog — Long dog (worm, etc.), bouncing off fat girls, all of our loves (L.U.R.!), DSB, Do you know your nuggets?, "borrowed" vases (and flowers), kidnappings, the park with the killer dog — one dozen donuts between three girls?, one and one bite donuts left, charades, brother Eddie, "Get the ——— out of here," lost keyes, confetti on lawns and in mailboxes, birthday parties, flat tires, enraged mothers, tent-time in my back yard, Adventures with the Men from Burroughs, falling rose petals, Care Bear books and puppets, "the" twin, "We love you — Trevor and Greg," the saga of Friday the 13th's, wamba lips, trying to cover up all of your zits (with a turtleneck), "How'd you like to live with . . . an eyebrow . . . like this!," unhealing and heart-shaped scabs, "Look at that blind man — he's doing pretty good!," choir and the high notes, youth group, "our" sweatshirts, THE SKATEMASTERS (B.K.A. THE VACUUM SISTERS), you got gook on your shirt, our car, the dish (brush) washer (knife sharpener, glass cleaner, and that's not all . . .), wea-squeek, he wore the same outfit two days in a row!!! (white shirt and Levis w/the tag still on), the threesome hug, bowling — hard gutter balls, our diamond rings for $9.99, he's all mine, I wanna rock — woooaaa!, take a lap, Did you kiss him?, Smick, Rodney Dangerfield — eeeeek!, buns-o-rama, Harry new year, mistletoe hunting — yea you hit it!, the cheerleading jump, buttons undone, Freshmen think they know — Sophomores don't know, swimming in the Christmass tree, our concert with our songs, machine guns in airplanes — GROSS, I luv TV — U luv GP, my pants from 7th grade, FPC, elevators, foxy guys at hotel doors, my mom's "cutest" pigs (no, no), twist and shout, colored ears, jumping for balloons, spare B.B.'s for Greg, "Hi Jenifer," the BIG nurse and needle, Class Reunion, the gross fat kid, the airplane at McDonalds, "Do you pluck it . . . or pick it?," and tapioca with no balls! Well, I could go on forever! For anyone else who reads this: guess you had to be there!!!! Thanx soooooo much for everything — your smiles, tears, and especially your laughter! You're such a fox!! I'll never forget these fun times, bestest friend, and I hope you'll never forget them either!! By the way, Greg wants to know, did you mean it when you said . . . ? Luv you lots and lots and lots — Eurika (Mickey) B/F/F! P.S. We're so bad! (We know . . . GOOD!)

Lisa, You're the greatest. Love always, H.M.

Peeps — You're my bestest friend! What? — him up the —?! That's not my kind, mine are around the corner. Gosh buddy, I'll never forget all the fun times we've had! — blue darts, retarded cars, loving boyfriends, fun parties, the Amitville house, scary dogs, "you've got a fly on your donut," cheap roses, rocks in burritos, NEIL, tricky moves in basketball, cheerleading with Brett, "kiss my lips — you can still taste it," slamming, cherry drinks, T.P.ing, Weird guys sitting behind us in theaters, DSB, writing notes that you can't read, talking forever, sports for the wrong side, twitch, weed-wack, bah, chi, bah, bah, chi!, airplanes with machine guns, and so much more!! "Three's enough for me!" Lu ya lots, Jeneeefer P.S. Do IT!!!!!!

Hose Welp — It's been rad. Us Lowell Locals stay cool together. The past year has been the best. The WALL. "I don't know where I went", does Winchell's deliver?" I'ts Mark's stuff. Really! Teri Nunn 3:00. Cars sidewalk sleepin' Yell Dance is the start of your career. SKIING! Best pals for life. Beach house partyin' next year. Save some time for it. But if it happens again, I'm leavin'. Later, JB

Chris "Big Bor" Robertson — I hope you're successful in everything you do. You sure deserve it. You're a great friend and a great "Big Brother." Stay that way. You show people what the word "happiness" means. I'm glad I'm one of those people that found out. Your "Little Sis," Tedie

CV Yell It was great. Barstow road trip, campsick, cake fight, party, hat day. Oh, ok Wayne, you got shotgun, ooh ooh. Kill Rallies. Hot for teacher, Party, rad football games, would-be Mac Beth, Yell video? Picture car rallies, Party, the best of times, Rocky Horror Madness, Bob Roberts E.P. Squad forever. Bohn Jenson, Bob, Dude

SUPERIOR SOPHS, Well, we've made it through the year as Sophs. Varsity here we come. In this past year you guys have become the best friends I can ask for. You're always there when I needed you. Camp was the best. What about all our champ teams? "Keem" remember Newport, Scammers, Hems, Huey, winners, "the's," our hand-shake, parties and all the boring Saturdays, songs, Mc D's. You're my best friend and I love you. "Pidge" remember 2 A.M. calls, sneaking the coke into the basketball game. our anniversaries, talks after dances, our lovers, and red burritos with sour cream. "Hoff," remember Spencer's and all our jokes, cool aid, locker rooters, what about our talks after dances. And of course Trey. "Juls the Gools" the names you came up with, all the times we were bored, the movies, and eating, we were always "heading for the big time," "Annie," I'll rub your stubbs and we can sing all day long. "Come on all you Falcons and show your blue exterior" you were sure "lucky" weren't you. Well guys, someday we'll go to MM, remember sleepovers. I love you all. We'll always be together. No one will ever forget us. Soph '84-'85 forever. Love always, Babbles

Baby, its been a long year and just let me say, you are so super picky everyone calls insatiable another legend. Wild is more the word of the year. Sunrise talks, what's he doing up at 3:30 in the morning? Memories, Elvis sang that song and his mom died. Remember? The exorcist finally. Phone sleeping. Sand meets water, the best. Green bottles everywhere. So comfortable. Morning wake-up punch. Very early morning couch visit. It has been a pretty great year. Except for the bad times for which I formally apologize, whether you like it or not. We've been through a lot. Crying on the phone and talking in the park. Good times too. Midnight whats? Poems. You crazy, rad, adorable, darling, ski bunny. We're friends forever and don't you forget it. Don't forget me, I won't forget you. Love Always Ryan Christopher

Black Sheep, Men Ketzler. Snake spit lead shreddin', so good everyone pukes, guitarists. So much for your shortboard. Oh well. This year has still kicked. The beach gave many nights to remember, but how? Sitting on the pier talking about everything. Jeff in the trailer too loud for words. Yell camp. All the yell activities. No black lines this summer. We'll have to make a point of it. Yea!! So many green bottles. I won't leave you alone with her, don't worry. You must visit me this summer. And next year for more beach experiences. No matter how shreddin' you become. When Gar puts me in his hit windsurfing movie, you and Wayne can do the soundtrack. Later Pal, J.B.

Caitlin — Well, I know some of the times we've had have been good and bad. Even though we have our bad times, you will ALWAYS be my best friend. You sure are a great one. Take Care. Love Robin (Tweety Bird)

Jen, Hi! We're finally out of here! Totally! We've been buds for almost 8 years now! Golly! I'll never forget our little memories — work in Spanish — never! Numero-Uno Pizza! Mc's — brown and green sauce. Green sauce is better anyways! UCLA acceptance, yah right! Steve! Rincon! Love ya lots, Lisa

Suz — A.K.A. twin, sis, St. end, Suke — Wow! Time to hit the beaches! CV has been Mego — fun! — Sometimes. Let's see — remember Mc's, used cars, Dang, it's a Ford Fiesta. Oh well! Mc Nuggets — Yummers. My Paul, so sad. Watch Phil's mouth! JH, PB. CSUSD? Love you, Be fri, twin, sis, Liks

Shelly, Deena, Commie, Jimmy, Bobby, Mark, Shawn, Jennifer, You guys are the best friends anyone could have. Without you guys I never would have been able to handle life. You guys gave me hope and courage that everything would be alright. When you love someone so much it just hurts to see them hurt and in pain. You guys help bring me through a tough milestone in my life. Without you I would have been a bundle of nerves not to mention the basket case that I am now!!! It's gonna be all right! Thanks for being there. You guys are really special people and deserve the best throughout life. I love all of you. Thanks again for being there. Love and friendship, Tiffany

Bellene, Stephanie, Laura — first, Belle, did you ever think we would be friends? Steph, look at all we have been through together! P.E., badminton, remember those days? Laura, you are always there for me. What happened to our valley girls days? I would never trade you guys in for anyone else. You guys are the killer friends. Thanks for being there during the Accident. I would have never made it. We will never lose touch 'cause we are the only ones that understand each other so we would be lost without the rest of us looking out for each other. I'll always be there for you guys. Love Tiffany

To Bookies — Mr. and Mrs. Editor, you are a pain in the posterior! If it wasn't for my creativity this book would have been a dud. Gods-in-training, what a joke! Thanks for lettimg me express my artistic ability. (ie. color co-ordinated layouts) You're the best! Brett — you cad you! I'm glad I found someone else who is bright with a sense of humor. Ian — you're short. You ought to grow up! Mike — remember that I'm the trend setter. Jan — Hi-poxy! C.J. — We have too many activities. Jeni — You're too nosey! Di — You're the best secretary in the world. Jennifer — Yes you Brehm. Some days I don't like you. And "HI" to everyone I'm to cheap to write to. I love you all. (Not seriously) Jeffy P.S. — Tim, it's your ———!!!

Varsity, there have been some times that were awesome Let's start at the beginning. Let's call it a day — Sport Challet, I've got asthma, what time is it? Peanut butter, blue-light special. Squiggy, do you have a Visa for these movies? What? No! Bob, my skid mark; what stop sign? (me) Boycotters, toilet covers over our heads and Bob's telephone game, out the window — flying flutter and go in, picnic in the quad, summer practice, fock, camp! Funny, I Liked it, early morning humor, Bengay, our prayers, it is a firm brown log that floats to the top, because we hate you, forgetting, emblems — When you look down don't you feel naked, thinking about hamburgers, Shananana (boxes), get the beep out of here., our songs 17(92) and sexy, cool it now, and then you fell down, the word basketBALL, x-mas presents and every two people were the same, kidnaping the cops, ice cream haha, No sleep, — 4:00 A.M. cracking up, I know! It's all been great, guys, and I will treasure these memories forever. It's been a fantastic year and I love you all dearly. Remember: Happy trails, how long have you had this problem, Hot tip! Love Marcia. Varsity '84-'85 lives forever.

To my sweet Baby — I can't stop myself from smiling when thinking about all of our times together. 4th of July, a dip in the pool anyone? Freeway time, "no, the car is going up!" Let's move up to the wildlife now. The stars and the moon sure look bright, they shine the whole night. (a private heaven). Colorful wedding on your B-Day picnic! First half day of school and what do you know? The T.V. is broken! October was the month that turned us into an unseperable loving one. In ruby, a precious stone, OUR love will shine through. A Great ending to '84 and a special start of '85. New Year's at Mammoth will always make us grin. SH SH SH SH SH SH SH SH ! Our memories will always last and our love still goes on. I Love You. Lady P.S. You've stolen my heart 4-ever.

Mikey — Sweetie, you've been so good to me the past year and a half. Thanks for being so kind, loving, and understanding. I'm so glad that Kim and John introduced us. You'll always be my little bunny. I'll always remember the good times. Love Therene P.S. If the sun refuses to shine, I would still be loving you. When moutains crumble to the sea, there will still be you and me . . . . . little drops of rain whisper of the pain, tears of loves lost in the days gone by, My love is strong. With you there is no wrong . . . together we shall go until we die . . . And so today, my world it smiles. Your hand in mine we walk the miles. Thanks to you it will be done. For to me, you are the only one . . . . .

To the gang . . . Juls the gools, Hoden, Amboochment, Hondumondu, Hadubadu . . . well girls, we're out for a big three months. This summer we're hittin' the beach. Who's driving? Well, I will. This year was so fun . . . Toga party at Amy's . . . only 10 people . . . baseball games — "come on down!" Football games . . . movies . . . stag dances . . . etc. Thanks, you guys for being there for me. You are all so important to me that I don't have enough words, but I love you all and always will. Love, you Hindu Pindu

Yearbook staff: Had any deadline nightmares lately? You know how they go. You're in a room of checkered picas. Crumpled layouts engulf your feet. Croppers buzz around your head, and copy sheets plaster themselves to your body. Then the ultimate horror comes. White out oozes from the walls, slowly filling the room. Suddenly you wake up and find yourself in a worse situation. Deadline. It's just so ridiculous . . . It was pleasure working with you all. Success to you all — Bryan

Wanet — You've been a good friend. Remember all the good times. Mikey's party and Gordy, the moon at Delta Flats, Julie's "B-day" party. I hope you and Ryan last as long as Michael and I have. Hopefully we'll have some more good times. Your friend, Therene P.S. Remember sweet 16, hair in my sundae, and "JTMOTTCABM!"

Hadubadu — well baby, we made it through another year. We've had some pretty great times together. We'll have a lot mote too. Remember Palm Springs . . . Tony . . . Mr. Potato head . . . Carpinteria . . . Tim . . . Scott . . . Midnight walks . . . beach bus . . . no male escorts . . . relax, don't do it . . . the kitchen — sick! It looks like a BB!!! We've had so many memories, too many to keep going. You're my best buddy forever and ever and 20 days. Thanks for being there all those times. Love ya Hinduism

Danny . . . Hey, hey, hey! You're out of school. How do you feel? Great. Hope you had a fun year. Have a great summer, too. Thanks for being a great friend! I'm glad you are. Hope you have a wonderful life. Take care, Cindy

Laurababy! Hey — Foxy! Thanx — 4 being the "greatest" friend ever!!! "R — friendship has grown so close! Yeah! Remember all the fun-x's together: "H" and "B" dances, "F" games, Wild parties (Halloween), getting caught, nerd-day and so much more!!! Always remember the "no-no's!" You're the best and I-luv-ya! Friends forever!!! Cindy-Lou

Michelle — Hey locker buddy! Next year you'll have to use your own locker. I'm out of here! Good luck and best wishes to you always. Make the best of the next two years. You'll have fun! Thanks for being there for me. You are a very caring person. I'll write from UCLA! (I hope) Love ya! From Rah-Rah!

Parties — let's go look for garage sales. Let's tape some shlongers! Where's your pillow? Diana has it — oh no! I think I'll like a new guy next week. Then loose my cameras. Let's party while my parents are away. Remember all the guys I've been through — Holy cramoly. I will get a boyfriend yet. You are great and I love you and thanks for everything. I am glad I can always count on you. Remember, get a night job. Beach time!!! I love you always, Blana Chinchana Blaka Chen

Mc, we sure have had some great times — Mrs. H, L & S, A.N., J.P., & Tony. Moby Dick essay — radio, popcorn, nothing accomplished. The tape syndrome — screaming with Prince, Neutron Dance; Jermaine, and our favorite Ray Parker Jr. "Oh dear" you are lots of fun, and believe me, I'll get crazy! Luv Ya, Kel

Webby, Geeze we have been friends for a long time. Fifth grade softball forever! Sixth-grade Farrel's party. Lake Cachuma and latenight munchies. "Web, it is a big potato." Remember who got thrown overboard? Solvang was great. Our eighth-grade summer was one for both of us to remember. We have been through so much. I hope the best is still to come. One more year and we are out. Yeah! 86' Forever!! Our next summer vacation will be so rad! Debs-n-John! Thanx for being there this summer. I could not have handled it without you. You know that scummy lady on the bus was your twin sister. Ha-Ha!! Well, best xe going. Thanx for being my sis!! Love Wanet P.S. We're outta here! The beach, the sight-seeing and late night street races.

Hi Chelfie Belfie, you're the cutest little amazon I know. I hope you have a lot of fun in your next two years here at CV. It was close but I made it. Have a thrill and take care. I love you lots. Love, Stevie Beevie

Little Cheron and Leee SA, we sure have been through it all, huh? Time to reminisce. remember Matt, Donny, Paul, In'n'Out, bathrooms, tunes, pinecone Darryl, Tian, and all that. I'm glad we went through it together. I love you all. Keep the good times rollin' and keep in touch. Step

Hey Bellene, life's a trip. The pier is a blast. Joeh is hot. Coz is not. Well, when we get to NY, we'll show them all. You better be good to me, cause now you never even Caaaall me at AAAlll. Oh well, hope we're friends forever. Stephanie Camillia and Michelle: Hey you spazzes! Have we had some crazy times or what? Remember all of these? The Arcadia football game, driving around at Bob's, Tony's, Bon Jove, Applying at Miller's, the dilemmas with Cami and her men, the minister's cat, Michelle's house, Beverly Hills Cop, lunches with Colleen, and the list goes on. We have had a lot of great times! I'll miss you when we're separated. Friends are forever, let's keep it that way. I love you guys. Your Secret Lover?

T.Bear: My love, where can I begin? We have so many memories together! How about if I start with the best? February 17, 1984, that started it all. There are so many others: S.R., Magic Mountain, Disneyland, the pancake house, the beach house, Tom's parties, your chain, my ring, love bear, poems, Rush, the Cars, nachos, Raging Waters, backwards dance, the one-eyed stare, making eyes, T.G.I., SLO, and so many others! I will always love you and you will always be "my Timothy bear." Heartbeat City forever, eh? Although, I do think you're crazy! I love you. Pal, or is it buddy?? N.Bear

Cami — Hey baby!! You're the greatest! What fun we have had — so many memories . . . Mr. Dupina, following cars — almost getting killed . . . driving around in-in-our- "one more time," . . . driving on sidewalks, parking in people's driveways . . . the handicap sticker — I still want one . . . my house with Tee and the you-know!! "I didn't take the tapes — did you!?! . . . parties . . . I still don't understand you — "We 'saw' Beverly Hills Cop?!" — NO WAY! . . . Tony's . . . "They all hate us?!!?" Whatever!! There's so much I want to say — you're a #1 friend — I love ya! Friends forever. Love, Chelle

RAD Girls . . . My dear CV friend. 12 years now. Tea in the morning, CC at night. Pity me, pity me!! I think you should wear your GREY PANTS. The Rose Parade, Chip, John, Cary, Sean . . . Oh No!! Jr. Prom, life goes on. Curt and Eggburt forever! Twin beds, ice cream for depression. I love you like a sister; you give me peace! Luv, Kris

Legs!!! Get off the stage, yuck! Why do guys like her? We have lead feet! Let's do my move! ABC? I love you always and forever, my sweet dancer, you give me strength! MONY MONY!! Luv, Kris

Nat, it's over! Yaaho! Too bad John (headache) just kidding Jen. Too bad you aren't graduating Albert (headache no. 2), only kidding. I'm gonna miss you all. I'll come and visit (bull!). Not too often. Remember me (Bowie lover) & when you look at the sun (& my enemies). Moni

Lauryssa Dreewws, hi ya Baby! How R-U? Well, let's go crazy! In Mexico! (HeHe.) ATC's, J.B., Adrienne, Christian, guys period! Your house, those guys listening to us! How embarrassing! OHMIGOSH! Noway! Oh yeah . . . I'm serious you guys! Stop it! Ouch! P.S. Are you Becky's little sister?! (Ha HA . . .) Luv ya lots, Chris (Cree)

Suzanne — "Whooooooahhhhh!!!" Love ya, Michelle

Donna, even though you've graduated, I'm still gonna write you one of these. CV just isn't the same without you. Actually it's horrible. The trendies are multiplying. Thank goodness I'm graduating. We'll always be lovin' it at Mary's. Until we turn gray. OOOOO Raul OOOOO Ian. Loving you at Robinson's. Mocha

To the Save-on Football Gang: Remember all the fun we had; Tilley's, Straw'Hat, games, bowling, donuts, weekends, homecoming, my house, and most of all Football! I will never forget the times we had together, they were the best! I love you all very much, your pal forever, Kelly

To my good friends, Beverly, Christie, Bobby, Juan, Dan. Thanks for being with me in good and bad times. You are all special to me and I hope you know I'll always be here for you. Remember the good times we've had and LAUGH! Danny Boy, thanks for listening and understanding. I think we're both crazy! WAA! Juanald, don't worry, we'll always eat ice cream to gether! Boo, thanks for helping me forget; tell me, I understand. Christie Lou, always remember the fun in our past! Bevvy, you're my pal, we will have lots more FUN! Love ya all! Kelly (Weirdo)

Kathy, "Hello? Yeees? Who? Oh, hi Mrs. Kimball." The picture over the shower curtain trick, Westwood, Balboa, limousines, yacht rides, Terri, Darrin, will we ever see them again? "Almost Paradise," "Against All Odds," building moats. We've had sooo many good times together! Let's relive them this summer! Friends forever, Cindy

Here's to the CVHS Marching Band — We dit it! We've had an interesting year with many changes. Thanks for making it a memorable one. You've all been great. Good luck to all of you! Marianne (D.M.) . . . by the way, thanx for the EGAMAD NIARB!

Jim (Captain), the twenty-first, lifesavers, inner-space, freebees, "don't worry, we'll never see these people again," teepeeing, "green is not a flavor," green M&Ms, "Inspiration," spinach, "great ball of fire," "Yakamashi Chimpo," beach, shrimp, yawning-cold, "what's skidmarks?" I picked a weirdo, talked to yourself lately? Hershel and Bubba — sorry about Bosley, "Can you see through the phone?" matching, dumb jokes — Ron, Bob, cruisin' in the parking lot, "closed." Jim, you have been so special to me in ways I cannot even express. Together we have fought for our dreams and you have helped me obtain some of them. I will never forget how you have touched my life and "inspired" my dreams. And I pray that you will never forget yours, because they are within your reach! I love you always and forever! Linda (your princess)

Little C.C. — not little O.C., I cannot even describe our friendship in words. You have listened to my problems and always been there for me. We've had so many good times, so many memories. You are the best friend that I could possibly ask for and I love you for it. You have shown me the light, and together we have grown towards God. You are the person that I feel I can tell anything to. The laughter and tears we've shared I will always remember. Love in God, your best friend L.T. — SBFFF . . .

Varsity Cheerleaders 84-85 or the Brady Bunch kids — Hiii! What time is it? It's brownie time, blue-light specials, "stick your briefs up your ————," sorry about my vanishing socks, Dr. Ruuuuth Westheimer, "and then you fell down?" "thanks hun," "CVHS have fun cleaning up our mess," Bob's 6. Squigy 6, Chinese fire drills, "thaaaat's not what you said before," "my dog fell down the stairs and hit his head on the ocean," Eddie Murphy's "geeeet the ———— out of here," I was the only one who kissed Bob where we were supposed to, "but Lucy, it's just so ridiculous," cheek hugs, cute Sir Andrews, Madonna — goes without saying, didn't I make a great blonde? "Don't ya just hate it?" "Ya know, it just goes to show ya," the Rose Parade, Cindy, you did not even know him! "The peanut butter fell off the cliff?" Kissing the driver's training cars, Cindy P. and eating Twinkies with no hands. Jungle love — K&M, remember? Jennifur — did we really bother you in McDonald's? Sorry that we almost got you fired. Let's call it a day — "a day," copying the way we sat at the last football game — "Linda stop crying" — pretty contagious huh? kidnaping, being kidnaped, the wonderful smell of sour ice cream, the list of our inside jokes could go on forever. Alisa — congrats on UCSB. I'm glad that you achieved your dream. Jennifur — you were the BEST head we could have had. Terri — Happy trails! Cindy — Hiiii. Inspiration. Cindi — when will you rid your BAGOPHOBIA? You guys are the five BEST friends I've ever had. The memories we've shared I will cherish forever, I will never forget how close we became at camp, laughing, crying, praying, I hate to leave it all behind, but we must move on. Although cheering has come to an end, our friendship does not have to. You all mean so much to me that I cannot even express my feelings. You have taught me a lot about myself. Through all our fights and bad times there were always the good times to make up for them. God bless my best friends, Greg, Peter, Bobby, Marcia, and Cindy! I love you guys! You're my SUPERIOR friends! Love, Linda (Jan)

Sean — we have something very special and I hope it lasts for a long time. You are a wonderful guy and you will always be special to me. Love, Karin

To Wendi Elliott, I know you don't attend this school, but you are so special to me that I thought that everybody who reads this will know who my best friend is. You'll always be special to me. Love, Brenda Goforth

Lisa, a girl with charm, with beauth, with sincerity, a girl with a warm heart and a bubbly personality. That's what you are Lisa. Never could have made it through all those Wednesday Writings without you. You've been such a good friend — thanks. Love, Michelle

Sean S. — I'll never forget you. I may be mean to you but you know I,ll always care. There's a special place in my heart for you and the memories. No regrets. I guess surfers aren't that bad! Just one thing, I hope we can be true friends someday. Andrea

Michael M. — Thanks so much for being such a special, caring friend! So far this year has been great, and I'm sure it will continue to be so. We've shared so much! Let's see . . . Purple Rain, Tightrope, etc. Skiing was a blast! I'm sorry I almost killed us though! We have one heck of a guardian Angel! Thanks for being there when I needed you. Remember I'll always be here for you! One more thing; don't forget: I would die 4U! Love & Hugs, Melinda E.

Cami, hey baby! Another year and still B.F.'s. Working out our problems and just being friends, makes things great. So many secrets and so many to tell. We've gone through a lot of changes. There are so many things we've never said but felt in our hearts. Although we're different, we've remained Bestest Friends! I can't express how much I enjoy our friendship. You're a great friend and a good ear. I love ya for caring and always being there. Thanx Cam! Love always and best friends, Laura Michelle, hey baby! Can I borrow this? Ha! I am soo glad you came to our school. We've created a life time of memories. Friday and Saturday nites, Tony's, learning how to drive a stick and blocking traffic. Oh, there is sooo much more! Thanx for making my life so wonderful! You're super and I love you. No matter where we go, we'll always be close. Your pal forever, Laura P.S. Chelle, who could ask for more in a friend? Not me! I love ya!

My tilley goon. You have made the biggest influence on me, more than anyone. You are my life. Brad, let's stay together forever. All my love, Rachel

Buckwheat (cowboy) — we've been through a lot together and our friendship is everything to me. I hope over the years you'll treasure our friendship like I do. Please don't forget about me! Love ya forever, Rachel

The Senior "GIRLS": Janel, Kelly, Kim, Lorna, Reenie, Jamie. Remember all of those great times we have had? Cal Cool, cruising, scamming, hand talk, tee-pee, beaches, burping contests. Those were just a few that I remembered. Well, you girls are the best. I'll remember you forever. Good LUCK IN THE YEARS TO COME. Don't forget I'm just a phone call away. Love ya, Torty Julie

Kelly K. — to someone I've spent so much time with and all of our little secrets. It's too bad we ended up like this, but I guess that's how God wanted it. I wish you all the luck in the world. I cherish the times we've had. Love, Lorna

The girls: Picasso, Sylvia, Torty, Grandma Mo, Mouth, Pearl — we've been through a lot and we're finally getting out and going our separate ways. I'll never forget y'all! You'll always be special in my heart. Going for pizza, basketball games, football games, troubles with boys, talking hands, pearl necklaces, T.P. from every restaurant, going out to lunch, troubles with boys, stopping at yellow lights (Torty), walking fast (beep! beep!), one ear cut off (Picasso), forking lawns, troubles with boys, the 4 invalids minus 1, and more troubles with boys. Well, that's just a few and hopefully we'll have many more. Gosh, I love all of you so much and I couldn't have gone through my senior year without you. I'll love you guys always!! Your fastest buddy, Road runner

My Lil' Hindu, Hiya, baby! Well, another year has passed by. Thank goodness! This year went by pretty fast, huh? I couldn't have gone through it without you, though! You mean an awful lot to me, and you will forever after! No matter what! We've had a heck of a lot of great times together! Like the time we were in the kitchen . . . ooops! The beach bus, all the football games, Carpenteria, Scott & Tony, my birthday at the beach, no male excorts! "Relax, don't do it!" When your dad asked us to wash the car, "Oh, I know how to drive!" Palm Springs, the hollow potato, and many more. I don't even know where to start, except to say you're the BEST! This summer will be rad, ehh? I know it will! I'll let you go, deary, and I'll see ya later. Love you always, X Hadubadu O

Our Gang — Well groupers, we made it through our second year at this fun-fulled school! Yeah. I just wanted to tell you that you all mean a lot to me! There's no way I could have made it through the year without you! We've had a lot of fun times together, and I know we'll have many more to come. Remember all the football games, "Whose mom is going to take us?" Bob's, "Let's have a party," stag dances, "Shat's on the agenda for this weekend?" "Nothing!" The time we took out the car, Erik's moped, the beach bus, Utah, well you guys get the picture! Just thought I'd say I luv ya, and always will!! No matter what! I'll be seeing you later, I sure hope so! Or else! Love you, Hadubadu XOXO

Shelle — let's go the beach with Sam and laugh at fat men and lose your keys! Let's go dancing and you can tell strangers I love 'em! Let's take a drive with no brakes and get stopped by a cop! Let's go talk with the Judge! Let's buy some gas fluid (no brake fluid!) in Pasadena! Don't be scared of your Monster — where's the hamster!?! Guys spending the night at your house?! Nosey Neighbors! Let's go to Balboa and scam on Punkers with funky hairdos! You talk Japanese?! You can back up and hit me with your car dooc too! Let's spend the night in Glendale — on a water bed?! Let's follow some guy and run out of gas and talk to a cop and have some old man watch us — walk to a gas station and get picked up! Let's break into Mike's house! Quick, hide, he's home! In the closet under the covers! Let's steal his car too! Oh no! Don't slam on the brakes — watch out for the sun-roof! Why don't you serve everyone cat food at parties! We need to get pictures for Lor! Cam's party! Our friendship started out fast and fun, and Ernie and Bert say "Friends are fun!" Don't let it end now. Renee

Bill, I love you and together we can make all our dreams come true. Trust me and I'll trust you. Believe in me because I believe in you. I love you. Renee

Kelly — Hey fox! We're in our last year and it has been great, especially since the day we became such good friends. THANKS for always being there. I'll never forget all the fun and crazy times. I wish you the very best in the future. Friends Forever, love ya, Julie

Terri (St Nd), My Favorite Freeway Jumper (and bicycle buddy); we have been best friends for three years, a short amount of time, but much has happened to us. Funny moments, sad moments, and of course, most embarrassing moments. I'll never forget how mad people got because of all our "private jokes."

1,2,3, . . . which one will it be? Ninth grade brought us together. Tenth grade brought us so much fun and madness that we were uncontrollable! Eleventh grade again brought us much fun, but of a different kind. And twelfth grade has been the best because it has brought us so close together. You're the best friend a person could have. Remember, the good times won't stop here; there are many more to come, so watch out world, here comes Terri and Patty! I love ya lots (tons), Terri. Love always, your Favorite Freeway Runner (Patty, Be Frie)

Mike, Chris, Phil, and Ian: I'll never be able to tell you guys how much fun you are to be with. We have had some crazy times together that I know none of us will forget. You are a Mighty Crazy Pack, indeed! I love you guys. Love, Patty (Patrol)

Cindy, my bud, we have finally made it. All these years that we've been through everything. I could always talk to you about my Harley men. Thanx especially for being there when I needed to talk about my Robie (every day). You're the only one who slightly understands. We've done a lot together this past year. Going to Chinatown every Saturday, shooting bands, playing around with Quan — oh, Mr. Mihalik! Smushing in the elevator, I can't breathe! Meow-meow, spilling coffee at break, horn fights. My-my. JBG! Those days will definitely be remembered 4-ever. And all the times we laughed in Mrs. Miller's class, the sagas of Genstar and Bell, T.P.ing each other's car, our wicked thoughts (I think I need some protein!). Oh my! The memories could go on and on. Now it's time to graduate and get on with life — finally! Cindy, wherever you may go in the future, always take care, be wise, wild & wicked. Love ya, Erika

Audra, this last year has been filled with so many things . . . good and bad. Of course, all my memories of the great times will never fade. All the feelings we shared together. For example, the "classics" (what ever), oh-ok Guy! Hi, pal. (That's a compliment, you're supposed to say thank-you.) You were the very best buddy a friend could have. Audra, what happened? We used to be so close. I hope the future is nothing but the best, and may you someday get your teal Porsche. Love you . . . always, Erika

Krista, I don't know what I would have done all these years without having you there to make me go crazy. You do that so well. But, really, we've shared some really fun times. You were there at some crazy moments. Like the rainy night at 7-11, with the rose we never delivered, and that night we very first went to Tujunga. Oh my. Well for that, for dropping me off at work, for driving me to my car, and for calling me sometimes, . . . Thank You, Krista for being there. I know you always will be. Love ya, Erika

Strokers: Well, what can we say, our name says it all. K.P., L.T., D.J., and K.F. Oh well, it's their loss. Take it slow and we'll show them. Fellow Stroker.

Fellow Strokers: Well guys, up to now we've all been pretty unlucky with the female types. It must be the immature high school girlies. All I can say is that they don't know what they're missing! Some day they'll wake up and we won't be able to get them off of us! Fellow Stroker.

Fellow Stroker: Columns left and right, HO! Indian Dunes, up and off, SMACK!, OUCH!, racing to the puddles, and Bernie. Water skiing, we were the best on the lake, catfishing at night, cleaning your first fish, rafting, cliff diving, 98 degrees at 1:00 a.m., and blowing away lizards. Shaver, your Gramps' at lunch, and San Diego. Oakhurst, golfing, spearfishing, you killing that little fish right through the mouth, doubling on skis, "Are you up yet?" Getting burned on, Kristen, milkshakes after pizza, hatin' it, and summer football. We can't forget the Corvaire! Mr. K, gas is down to 98 cents! The Tri-School dance, and bike rides in the summer. These were the best of times, and I'm sure there's more of them to come. Take it easy, Fellow Stroker.

Space. Hey pal, what's up? Yes, we have become good friends. Thanks for the midnight convo's and the food runs! Your parties are always fun. Have another all-day bash. Your house is the best. Thanks a lot for everything and all those rides. Your good friend, Danny

Herschell. Hey Fransua, what's up? Yes, we've gone through a lot from register to ankles, etc . . . If you and 44 don't mix, it's 44's mistake. You have definitely helped me through many problems. Do good in the major, because I want free tickets. Good luck and thanks for being a great friend! Friends forever, Danny

— To My Secret Lover — Hey baby, what's up? I am really glad that we became good friends this year. We've kinda gone through a lot from the fun Backwards Dance to the Great Homecoming Dance. It is sometimes hard to understand why you and me get in weird fights. But eventually we work it out. THE MOVIES, Hall & Oates, Battleship has been fun! So I just want to say, thank's for being a friend. Love always, Danny.

— Insiders — Hey studs, what's up? Yes, we've gone through a lot from the bench to Silver's B's. These three years have been fun!! Such as the beach, In-n-Out, miniature golf, get-togethers, movies, Bon Jovi, garment district, Tijuana, quarters, football, tennis, frisbee golf, tee-pee chases, golf course, poker — "Let's Play!" Mike's Christmas Party was great. You guys are the best! Wait, Jim and Wally, next time invite your parents O.K.? . . . Well, I just want to say "That you guys are great, and let's keep in touch." Catcha later, Danny.

The Senior Girls — We have all become closer this year and you guys are a part of it! All those tee-pee chases have been fun. Seeing you at the beach has been exciting. You guys are really wild! Give me a call and maybe we'll do something (ha). See ya later, Danny

To The Insiders of THE SILVER B's. Wally — next time you have a party let's invite your parents instead of having them crash it. RABBIT — You're on your own, Pal. You're #1, git it? A.J. — Who taught you to drive? Get some real door handles. SLICK — Yearbook is over; You're free. LEGS — You're the best pitcher I've ever faced; stick with it. SPACE — Shotgun for the first ride in the 228. OATS — You mastered the game of quarters. HEY! No sliding! BARISH — Nokof — Football's your game; stick with it. I'm proud of you. DOLBY — What's up? How's the fish? In-and-Out forever. Well guys, this is it. What can I say? It wouldn't have been the same without you. You made it all worth wild. Let's always keep in touch. I'll never forget you guys. You're the greatest. Love ya always, HERSCHEL

Linda Kay — What can I say? Where do I start? We've been through so much. How about the time you redecorated Mark's parents' bedroom? What fun! The dances, Numero Uno, and the graffiti. Hey! Who wrote that? That's so burnt! T-Ping your house and getting caught by #44. Great Legs! Why did we leave? How about cruising after Tom's party? What a blast. What about the pageant? I knew we could do it. My favorite Princess. The new and exciting words we learned, like impencunious, expectorate, and yakamashi. They sure came in handy. Trading clothes, cool it now, and 6½ hours of typing. But we had fun. Then we have the unforgettable day at Disneyland. Freebees, Lifesavers, and our adventures through Inner Space. And don't forget the gum pass. Always remember the dreams we had and shared. And never forget how much I care about you. Luv ya now and always. JHS

Brenna — Dutch, Dou dare da dreat driend! Remember Knott's? I'm glad we know each other better. By the way, you still owe me for lunch every day. Congrats on cheer, etc. Anyway see ya next year and we'll have lunch! Love Kel (DD)

Matt — Well, the year is finally over! You have been the best friend that I've ever had!! You are the best, and the sweetest. I hope our friendship lasts forever. You better keep in touch with me!! Remember all the good times we have had. Remember me. I love you!! Mo

Susie-Q, Toy Toy Pookie Bear, Pinney Parhe Spaaey Bucwheat Aaa-Haa, Whaaat? Listening to lies, Yahtzee, "The Heater" gymnastics, motorcycle riding (the wipe out), rough housing, "you're gay." We've been through so much together. (remember Blue Birds?) and I cherish every minute of it! Best friends Forever!!! Love, Cindy

Patti — Need a ride? In our car, of course — a horse and a monkey. I think somebody needs to be briked. Where should we go? You're driving. Let's get some McMaggotts! Don't you hate it when the box comes altogether void of the little birds! Talking about our problems — rarely solving them, but we had fun trying. Nobody will ever understand the friendship we had; nothing will ever stop it. Those hours together meant a lot to me. I'll never forget you. Call me sometime and I'll scratch your back. Watch out for officers. Metilda. Banguo. Remember who loves (Vons) ya baby, Mike.

Mrs. Martinson — Like, Deb, what am I gonna do without you next year! You're my partner in crime, remember. I've pep-ed out this year, and I loved it (most of the time). Ya know boys will be boys and men will be . . . nowhere on sight!?! Don't lose your wildness (in both depts.) ha ha! I love ya mom, buddy, fox-lady! Love, Chrissy D.O.S.S. '85

Carm, Carebs, Kimmy, Vera, Oogly, Katheryn, Michelle: I love you all. Thanks for the last three insane years. I hope we'll always be friends even with the Limericks, insults, "Where's your locker?," movies, guys, ding-dongs, and all the rest. Love, Percy

Ken, Gary, Wayne: Well boys, girls, what ever you call yourself. We have made it through a swell senior year and a wild Christmas dance and Valentine's dance. Thanks for the support behind Disc Jocking. Sorry Wayne, I'll always be one day older. Stay goofy guys. THE HOSE

Phil and Chris — Are we the original trend setters or what? Ever since the Cars' concert, things haven't been the same. Disc guns, The Arrangement, food runs, let's do a Tony's run! Dimes, Quarters, "You're such a vagrant!" We need an empty house. Phonebooks, McDonald's. Drive fast so that no one can stop you. The fun we've had will never stop. Those nights we talked will never be forgotten. I love you guys; we're gonna make it, O.K.? Adios, Mike

A.J. Freeman (Could she be related to A.J. Foyt?) For richer or poorer, in sickness and in health (and not to mention deadlines), through the toils of broken crappers and crappy pictures (Which weren't Sean's fault), unfinished copy, uncaptioned photos, unproofed layouts and uneaten pizza you have dedicated yourself to this three hundred page masterpiece (only to be equalled by The Bible, Moby Dick, Deep Throat etc.) and you should be extremely proud of it. Never forget: Ricky Ricardo, searching for a screwdriver at your house (So you dad finally gave us each one), I'm sorry I couldn't hold your hand on the blood drive, but I sort of had to go to Physics, a certain headline, a few choice words of copy, the Straw Hat delivery with Mike, "Who's not pictured in the girls' chorus?" and "What is the mearning of Liberal Arts?" are just a few memories that I won't soon forget. You know what? You're one person I'll probably never forget. By the way, I would like to formally forgive you for your Evil Kenevil job on Honolulu and apoligize for getting so upset. After all, who could stay mad at someone who will kiss your shoes to apoligize? Love, Brett

Mi Harriest — Hola, Chuparne . . . etc. anyway, it's been an okay year for both of us. I thought I should write a few things that we can remember when we look back at this in a few years . . . Halen, Scorps, Rush, Zep., AC/DC, Priest, pulling knives, getting canned, going to the gook market for my older brother for a party that I wasn't even invited to, different stages of consciousness, etc. I wish you luck in getting into Stanford. For all you do, this bud's for you. — Yo

JV maggots: That's pretty-Hot-diggety dog — wizzing in my drawers, if I do say so myself, awesome!! Al: well babie, smak/ kissed only brought heartache, and pain. How many times can we see Betsy Wetsy at Thrifty's?, the Golden Arches, and vurture V, Hynau, "Don't push me!", my little songleader, "I promise, I'll never do it again, if you just please do the dishes!" Shamoo: Cyndi's house; wizzing, no, no I don't!, Marilyn's, teaching them to dance, we should go to the YMC sometime, what's in the bag? Love ya, Ralph

ALOHA KIDS, it's me the guy who makes BEAUTIFUL animal sounds and loves ARRRT. It is my last year here and I just wanted to say keep in touch and the best of luck in the years to come. P.S. MERRY CHRISTMAS PBR

Dearest Der, Hi pal, how ya doin'? I can't believe we are seniors and going to be out of high school. After high school we will probably be going to school for another couple of years. After that, we are going our own ways toward our careers. But our friendship has lasted through thick and thin. We have always been the best of friends. You are the nicest person I know. Let's stay friends, ok? You have always held me up when I have fallen. And you put me back on my feet. What more can I say? Except you should learn not to bite shirts. Love, Nam

Dear Jen, Hi, we're seniors, yea!!, 10th grade was really great, 11th grade didn't really work, and now 12th, the best of all. We're really good friends and I'm glad we are too. We survived 3 long years and now we graduate, See ya when we graduate. Love, Michelle

Dear Zaffy, We made it! I've known you now for over 10 years and pretty good years too and if you move to Saudi, then I will really miss you. But anyway, we survived over the years and we will through the continuing years. Love, Man Power

Dear Lena, well chick, we finally made it to our senior year. It's so hard to believe that we are seniors. Having you for my best friend for 2 yrs. has been an experience I will never forget. You are truly the kindest, most wonderful friend that I have ever had. You and I have shared so much together. You have helped me with my most troubling problems. Sometimes, I know you think that you have not helped me, but you have by just listening to me. If I am such a terrific person, then you deserve most of the credit. We have so many memories like going to Newport Beach, watching Superbowl games, watching our soap, "Another World," and many things. Most friendships seem to perish after high school, but I know ours will last a life time. Love always, Baffy P.S. You're still leaner to me.

Holmes, Carrot Lips: Westwood, Huntington, Hermosa, Berlin, "State of Shock!" D.T., W.C., I'm on fire, parties, scary movies, Pepto Bismol, hot dogs, Prince, "I'm buring up," Hello, beach buds, our "talks" at night! And so much more!! Memories which will last forever. Even though we have our fights, we'll be rad buds forever! I love ya, Zah, Potato Cheeks, Sherlock

K-K-Katie, J.B., talks, beach, Huntington, Aug. 21 & 22, Laguna, W.C., "Do you have a 'B'?" Spearmint shorts! "I'm buring up." Homecoming, parties, dances, shopping, teddy bears, key rings, Taco Bell, Mustangs, guys, "I'm so confused." Let's go cruisin'. Guy in that truck, being hyper. Thanks for being there. Friends forever. We've been through so much. Memories forever. Chumbles. I love ya, #1 Lady

Kimberlee, the Cars, Refugio, the group, J.P., weekend my parents were gone, sailing, the beach, all of our classes together. Being wild 'n' crazy. Thanks for always being there. There's so much we have to look foreward to, and we've also had lots of memorable times. I love ya, Friends Forever! Suzanne

Cindy Lou, best friends forever! Twin sisters. San Francisco, Berlin, parties, T.P., W.C., H.M., M.M., Sparks, Casa Maria, sneaking out, spending the night, ESPRIT, Genesis, polo, shopping, "what's up!" Valley girls? Going out with the family. And so much more! We have so much ahead of us, and we'll go through it together! Friends Forever. I love ya! Suzy-Q

Peewee: It's been a great year. But BBBB wasn't the best. SUMMER. How could we forget? This year, make your poems rhyme. You are sooo strong . . . smelling. VACUUM, etc, etc. How are ya? And please don't in the tent. Thanks for being my best friend. Love, Peenlaween

Paul —.bro, 10 yrs., H.R. Herman — Sanders, Bingo, Subs, S.F., coin machine, exams, Safeway, Mark, take me to work, come out when I honk, girl problems, whose turn to burn, S.F. party, NOT Purple Rain, Hermosa, swimming day or night, parking lot, suspension, bug gulps, I need a girl, . . . Mark S.

Dan — Business law, new wave, KROQ, ADAM and GO-GO's concerts, big gulps dizzy at Safeway, girls — can't make up my mind, Westwood, Carl's Jr., Galleria — always, parking? homerun before Christmas or die, dep, Network again, Marilynn's, Ghostbusters, jobs at Altadena Burger King. Birthday wake-up, IN-&-Out . . . Mark S.

Brent — Sociology, orange and fast, get off my speaker, Westwood by coincidence, bus station, suspension, big gulps, notes in 3rd, sayings on calendar, polyester sweaters, one drop breath freshener — it's really hundred proof, switching book reports, take me to school, home by seven, parade, carrying you, Danny's head . . . Mark S.

Susan, I LOVE YOU! Mark

Mark Z. — no license — no junior homecoming, drafting seats one & two, motorcycle, same shirts and ties, glasses, Beach Boys, green store, Network, in love again, PE, yes or no penny, '67 truck, no radio, 1st car rally, mud, suspension, big gulps, Mom, I'm at the movies, Limo, Cover H, . . . Mark S.

To my dearest Cher — Cher! No words will ever express all that your friendship means to me. You're my sister, best friend and inspiration! All the fun that we have had will always be remembered. Venice, the bus, '83 guys, football games, Homecoming, Sweet 16 — we survived them all! This year has been unforgettable and I am grateful for being able to share it with you! Just think of all the problems with guys we will go through in the future — they will make all the problems with Pokey and Nicky seem so trivial. Good Luck. Je t'aime, Dawny

To Mike, Chris, and Phil — What to say, eh? You guys think you're leaving me, but little did you know! No one gets rid of me that easily, ask Terri! Let's have a brief overview of this year: The party at Phil's (it's on tape, eh Chris?); The party at Mia's (comfy fireplace, eh Mike?); The party at Dave's The U2 concert (and 100+ mph on the drive home); Taking incorrect turns on the way home ("I know the 134 is here somewhere," eh Phil?); Trying to find the Long Beach Airport; The Arrangement; Money owed and borrowed; The Trials and Tribulations of Ian Ullman — a soap opera for those willing to follow it; The Rush concert (eh Chris?); Ronnie the track star for God; Westwood; 1984 (a great book, a great movie, and interesting night); The World Secret Service; The Navy and Unpopular Essays; "What I hate about you!"; Phil's dancing; Chris's Jelly; My breath; Yearbook (the 80-year-old woman); Junior Section ("These could be yours"); The JV Cheerleaders; An endless array of women (Lead us not into Temptation); Coach Oliver and injustice; Close calls and E-brakes; Eddie Murphy ("Hey Fred . . . "); and the various uses of a vacuum. You guys were always there, sometimes at the wrong moments. You will be in touch because you will have never truly left me. So long, I love you guys, Ian.

Jerri Shelby, It was a toughy, huh? We never really talked too much, but I want you to know that you're the best little PUD! (Hee! Hee!) But, back to life . . . Thanks for everything! I want to see you, even if you're in Arizona! I love You, Blessings to Michie

Amie, I just want to say that I love you and thank-you for all you've taught me about life! Please, don't forget me when you go away! Lynda P.S. Watch out for the Stepford Wives!

JoJo Meza, O.K.! We're outta' here! What can I say? You're all I ever wanted in a friend — a sister! I know we'll always be together, even if one of our husbands takes us all across the world! Thank you for crying with me over my Princess. She was one babycake! I loved her so much! I love you! I do hope we get our houses with sky-walks! And, it's very possible that you and Paul will marry! I can't wait to sing at your wedding! Just think Public Relations and the Petunia! (Hee! Hee!) Post Script (the other Paul) — Stromoski, may never know what he missed! What a doll! Maybe, he'll get the message when he reads this stuff! Let's T.P. a few more houses before we turn 30. We'll make Expresso Bar ours — Round Table, too! About Pasadena . . . let's not get lost anymore. We may be able to get to Fuller and Danny and John and RON's dorms, but we can't find our way home! I'll never outgrow our simple fun. Let's laugh forever. We'll make our love and laughter carry over onto the times we cry. God Bless You. My love to you, sis', Michie Cole P.S. You're very lathargic in your thinking! THINK! THINK!

Hi you guys!! Three may be a crowd, but four is perfect. We all have so many special memories, separate and together. We all know the reason that we are so close and sincere, and I know that is what makes the world go around. I love You! Lynda

To the Unenlightened of CV — A few words of wisdom written by a not-so-wise 16-year-old. Avoid rationalization — Follow your heart. Your heart is always right — If you act against it you are doing yourself a grave injustice. Rationalization is man's greatest enemy — even undue passion is safer. When you begin to rationalize, though possibly saving others, you deny yourself. A satisfied person is ruled by his heart, not his passion. Only a foolish man is swayed by passion alone — If it's truly from your heart it will be there tommorow. Your heart cannot trick you, for if it's how you feel, it's how you feel, and if it's right to you, IT'S RIGHT. Is sacrificing yourself to save and shelter others correct or honest, or is it stupid? The answer is left to you. The intelligent person is not only strong, but also weak and vulnerable — and sincere. Sincerity is the greatest strength — if you can be sincere you have to be honest. Don't just take my word for it — LIVE IT. Happiness is a state of being, not a state of mind. So get out there, roll up your Levi's, take off your socks, and enjoy life! You only go around once, make it count. From Brutus, an enlightened one.

To the JV Cheerleaders — Forgive me, I know not what I do. A joke's a joke, eh, and some are better than others. Accept my apology and remember, you are the JV Cheerleaders. Your yearbook friend, Ian.

Varsity HOOPSTERS — Well MEN, the year is over and summer's here. These past few years have really gone by fast. We have experienced many peaks and valleys together throughout our careers and for those who plan on continuing to play ball, the best of luck. Let's keep in touch. Luv ya all, Sweet E., #11

To Smiley #2 — Thanks for all the special times. Notes on cars, the park, little kisses, Top Secret, skiing, ohh . . . especially fireplaces! Can you breathe? Telephones have never been so dangerous. MR. BIG MAC!! Say hi to Jr. and the gang. Not enough money at Shananagins. Love you forever, Italy

Hey ugliest Wickman, Mom is gone party time. Does she have blonde hair? When are you going to be out of the bathroom? Who stole my shoes, make-up, your clock radio and the blow dryer? Going to really miss you. Love, the prettiest Wickman.

Willie Swick — the way you treat people has a lot to be desired. The way to show people you care is not to hurt them. You have a lot of growing up to do. I hope the next person you touch with your coldness will get you back, because I couldn't! H.J.K.

Bob and Dave — Gentlemen, it's been fun. Now those of us mature fellows, unlike yourselves, will move on and become millionaires. But seriously, we've all shared years of our lives together. Through Little League, Glendale Bears, to Soph. Football. Let's continue to be great friends and let's not let others take away our friendship. Ed

Darren Martin — Well, it was a great year having you in Biology. You are a very special friend to me and I hope our friendship never ends. Take care over the summer and keep in touch. I hope the best of EVERYTHING goes your way! Love ya lots, Rachel

Krissy, Hey my foxy "songleader!" I'm so proud of you. We've been chumbles for four years, and even tho' we have our ups and downs, I want you to know I will always care. Laguna, every year, dancing, all our long talks, guys, borrowing clothes, laughs and tears are all a special part of my memories of you. Let's go skiing! You love the cold. Huntington, Madonna, Taco Bell, and Mac's! Our senior year should be radical — can't wait. Then on to college. Let's make it the best summer ever. You're the best and I love ya' cutie. Loveya! Kates

Ronald — Why do i always call you Bryan? You should feel flattered, he's a great guy! Well so are you I guess. No, really, your friendship means a lot to me, after all, we've been through a lot! I still think she has a horse face and you should have stuck with me (just joshin'). Actually we're better off now. I am a better skier than you are, you have to admit. And i did beat you in trooper's equitation. Are you ever going to take my advice about how to treat your girlfriends? Eagle rides were fun but you get too tense at competitions i think. (i don't talk too much, you're crazy!!!). Best of Luck, i know we'll keep in touch. Love, Amie

Dear Wanet, Remember all those great times? There seems to be so many. Hey do you remember at Darren's house it was "space out"? I was in hysterics all night. Then there were the jerks Greg and Rick what babes huh? We all had fun that night. What about the "door slamming." ha ha ha now we can't forget the "potatoe" what a bozo. We can't forget our many years of softball when we first met and our favorite coach Mr. B. Have you forgotten your first time at the street races? What a night! I can't believe we are almost out of school gosh I can remember when we were just children at Farrel's huh. We have grown up haven't we? Well you're such a great friend and you always seem to be there when I need you. Hope we stay friends forever and ever and I have a feeling we will. love your sis Webby. (P.S. how about going to Chatsworth or Lake Cachuma?)

To John S. You are very special to me and I am so glad we have been together for as long as we have. You are my one and only guy and I will never leave you for as long as I live. "Forever Love" love ya always and forever. Debby

Therene, We have been through so much. "Five more minutes just five more minutes." Halloween '83 and '84! Remember the broken speaker? AW! Your Birthday party at Mike's? Gordy, what a fox!! Groce, Darrin, Andy, Timmy, and Terry! Why do we always get the real winners? Kernville and Lake Isabella. Yeah! We are almost big senior now. Look Out! We're styling! John's big bashes were great! How 'bout Julie's Bash? Yeah!! Congrats to you and Mike. Good Luck in the future. Well, this scene is bad. Gotta jam. Your B.F.F, Janet '85

C.S.B. — Thanks for being my bestbuddypal; I love ya! Remember, it's gonna Get Better. Think of Me When You Close Your Eyes and Save A Prayer for The Boys of Summer, but I Can't Hold Back (from Greg)!!! Hey, It's The Wild Life. We live for weekends. Let's play dimes! Love, Marti

Alli Beatty!! Who would've believed last year me and you as good of friends as we are now? Well I'm glad we are! We've been through so much! From toilet paper to Cougar, Ewok, Mr. Basketball Himself! (Both of them)! Two-Strike park, walking (running) in the rain! Getting lost. Bottles flying down stairwells, shoes flying off roofs! Oh my gosh, where's Steve! Shut up! Shhh! Salt Shaker, Homecoming, (interesting huh?!) the Backwards Dance! Togas! Football games, Basketball games, walking home in the dark! Let's go to Subway! Well, LUV YA LOTS! Oh yeah, remember to always "Feel the Music!" Luv Chrissie Swete Sue!

Metalic Pea — Kids go back to bed! I ordered fish. I think i'm gonna throw up on you Joel. Lindsay lonely nites in Glendale. Sad nites with Love Boat. Confidential secrets from DEEP inside, "Don't tell anyone!" Dumb seat belts! Fat friends and crude enemies! Sling and his wardrobe — he will always be cutest! Annoying family life. Lefty dancing! Poor boy! Fry attacks and yellow car. No gas. Flying Tacos! Frisco! Rick! Ripping Tony! Messy locker! "We are so alike!" Never pitch a tent! Love you — Antaratic Blue

Linda, We shared some of the best times together! (movies, concerts, skiing, dancing, etc.). Those memories will stay with me forever. You are very special to me and I care for you in every way. Don't ever change. Remember, if you need me for anything I will be here, Love always Steve Superior Sophomore Cheerleaders "84-85," Julie, Juli, Angie, Stephanie, AND Gabbi. You guys were the best! I love you guys so much. The year wouldn't have been the same without you. We've all had do many special memories that will stay in my heart 4-ever. Thanks so much for making my Sophomore year the Best!! Gabbi — (my little babs, Gabbo, booch, Gabs), by best friend ever. I love you and our memories will last forever. Newport, songs, living with you in the summer and much more. I'll remember u 4-ever!! Julie — (hoo, hanson, hoodles), Ensenada Forever. That was the raddest. XX. Remember HOO-DEN-HOF-FER! I've had some pretty good memories with u! Love ya always! Juli — (Pidg., hoo, cheeks), We've been friends since drill, it was so fun. "We're exactly alike." You're little eggy. My little Craigy. Thanks for your friendship. I love you. Angie — (Squeaky, Ang., Lucky), "Is that your face??" Angie thanks for being a bud, we've had our moments, but I love ya. Also staying up with me all night. "Get me the paper!" or this zit just won't go away!", Love ya always. Steph — (hoffer, Cinnamon,), "Are you a god or something?", Steph thanks so much for everything. "Bom-Bom-dip-de-dip-de-dip," almost paradise. Radical times we've had. love ya' always. My Piggy's: kidnaping, Glendale game, Farrel's, b-ball practice, swim meets, softball, camp, Superior sophs, "the mighty blue . . . ," "shirt, please," shopping, 1st rally, birthdays, football, locker rooters, Kool-aid, Daisy's, Beach, winners, Parties, Eric's, Dan's, Eric's, Amy's, the Enterprise, McD's, Del Taco, Red burrito, my house, b-ball players, Martinelli's, the cake, "the tiger's . . . Juli, Gabs, and me (U.S. 86-87) I hope !!!!!!!

Mighty Mouse, Good times, bad, fun times, sad. Tim then Chris, boy the whole family. Thanks for listening when I needed you. Hope all your family is getting along. Good luck in the future. Red

To my Baby, Three and Seven (Love always your honey.)

To the grooven Klan: Bryan, Ian, Paul, Lynda, Kim, Jill W., Stacey — Hey you Knotts people been scared lately? Bryan, no more boogy'n in the . . . . ! Hey you look mighty cute in those jeans. Homecoming what a joke Lyn! No kidding, no no no kidding — two more; whose house should we tee pee now? Ian you're always late! Bryan get your mind out of the gutter. Paul need Jill to drive home? Lynda smile! Kim where's your honey, Beer, Stacey where's the 210 freeway? Jill how do you get to the Student Store? Love you guys, Jill and Diane (P.S. WE HATE FRESHMEN!!!)

Karla — Well buddy, what a year! JV cheer, before the dances, kissed and Smak, the bottom of our cups, camp gay-ben, fighting in our squad, the C.M. Bible, that's pretty . . . , Awesome, Thrifty's, McDonald's, massive babes, and kidnapings. Thanks for always being there! You're the Best! Love ya kiddo! Shelly

JV Cheer is here! Well, what can I say: We're AWE-SOME! You guys really mean a lot to me. I will always remember the YEAR THAT WE HAD. Well, Brittles, Dollfeet, Shamoo, Hyndu, and Karlbuddy, I love ya lots! Thanks for all your friendship! Good luck in '85! AL

To the awesome, un-organized, always late, geeky, funny, spazzy, fighting, totally hyper JV cheerleaders! Well, the year has been exciting! I've never seen people more crazy! You guys are the best and even though it was hard, I did have fun and I won't ever forget it. I don't think I can. Good luck in '85 and remember JV scums are #1 and we are here. JV '84-'85 4-ever. You guys are super special. TO: Al, Hyndu, Shamoo, Brittles, and doll-feet, all my love, Karla, your ex-head, the biggest geek ever!!!!!!

Kathy, Thanks for being a great friend and all the good times we shared. I'm glad we spent our two years together at school. Remember all our fun times we spent with Greg and you know who? You're a sweet friend and I hope you will stay that way forever. Love Always, Maureen ("Mo")

Laura (the awesome driver like me!) — to you i bequeeth my wonderful driving ability (not that you need it!). Thank you, thank you, thank you for understanding me in times of need. By the way, your B-day party was the GREATEST!!! Too bad none of your rooms have locks!!! (he was a little frustrated about that!). I can't even believe you three tried to roast a fly in MY microwave!!! What made us go into the jacuzzi the way we did? And then to slow motion that part in All the Right Moves, I can't believe they actually showed that (but were we complaining?) NO!!! Thanx for the free sandwiches (even if Mary makes them better.) Oh, you have a very nice green teddy! Watching Breathless (boy did he leave us breathless) when you got your tonsils out! I really think the most fun was raggin' on S.P. she is a rag in the true sense of the word don't you think? Junior guys are great, but some of the girls . . . ; Well sweetie, I wish we could be seniors forever but at least we can still be friends forever!!! Luv Ya, Amie

Cyndi — You're the greatest! I'll always remember the friendship you've given me. It has meant so much! I'll always cherish the fun times we've had! Thanks for always being there during cheer! Have a terrific year on Song, you deserve it!! Good luck in everything!! Love, your friend forever, Shelly

Jeni, You're a great friend and I'm glad that we became good friends during our years at CV. We had a lot of fun together in dance, and I hope to see you soon in the future, too. Stay Sweet. Forever Friends Love Always. Maureen ("Mo")

Ed, You're the greatest thing in this world. When you came into my life you changed everything from bad to the best it can be. I hope you keep on doing so for as long as we both are alive. The best thing about my life is you and I love you more than you could ever imagine. I couldn't live without you, and I hope I never have to. We've had the best times. I hope we roll in many more years with good times such as these. You're too much in my life for me to ever lose you. Please stay with me forever and believe that I love you because I do. I never thought I could love anyone so much as I do you. I love you babe and will forever. Love Ya' always Tyla!!! (P.S. thank you for being here for me and for being the person you are.)

Kevin . . . Craig . . . Mack . . . John . . . Eric . . . UH . . . YA . . . CJ

Shelia, ha! spelled it wrong again, oh well, The year is finally over and you've been able to put up with me talking about Bob every two seconds! And we won't have to hear another FRENCH word again. You've been the bestest friend in the universe. Luv, Mary Lou.

To my Cindy Lou! — Hey babee, what's shakin? Can you believe how close we've grown? From strangers to y-buddys! I'm soooo glad. Remember our tennis games — Tracy Austin — look out; The play — missing the party of the year for "our" men, and do they appreciate the roses?; Skiing adventures — Mt. High, move to bigger and better. You love wind and ice, I know ! Yum, gray turkey! All our long talks from our "Y.L." men to parents to friends are so special. Cruising in the car — release the anger — scream! OK! "There's no such thing as a dumb blonde!" Positive! Can you believe turning onto J's street, and she was standing by his car? "Quick, where are we going?" Pictures with 18-yr-old Santa — Hispanic! 3 retake! Forget It! Windsurfer, dig the keychain — so does he!; Hope there are millions of more memories to come. Senior year should be rad — we'll make it that way! You're the bestest anybody could ask for! Thanx for always being there, and for listening. You are like the sis I don't have. Take care baby! I love ya' sweets! Love ya! Katie Lou

Brett Pauly (basketball stud) — It's just so ridiculous! I think everything was at that time of night. Pizza deliveries (and you hogging it all!), dirty names for the NP in girl's Acapella (too bad all the good names were boys'). My awesome driving (sorry!); Hey Fred! . . . . ; Please don't make me squirm on the floor! (tickling me but of course!); The Rag Association of America (so far only 4 members); My dad making us orange juice and . . . ; When i think of you these things come to mind and make me smile. You were the greatest help any editor could ever wish for (and you always came through with the best messages when i needed them!). I will miss you next year. (Ask Laura what i said about you last year and i still maintain it to this day!!!) Love ya', Amie (P.S. What does Liberal Arts mean anyway???)

Mrs. Van Halen: What can I say?! We finally have made it!!! Believe me I never would have gottem this far without you giving me a little kick here and there. "All" the things we have gone through together no one would believe! We definately have had many good times, with many more to come! Thank for helping me with all my problems and for being there when I need a shoulder to cry on! Time for a Road trip . . . The River; Here we come! Well Bud thanks for being the best friend ever! Party Animals Live!! "Friends Forever," Sharon

VARSITY CHEER 84-85 — the raddest squad ever ho hit CV!! You guys are the greatest! I will never forget our incredible times like summer picnics in the quad, pigging out, kidnaping, "Let's melt ice cubes!" "I feel it in my bones!", getting corrupted by Yell, summer practices till midnight — "On no! Not the Sprinklers!", "Are you sure you guys are okay? — Promise you won't drop me!" camp, the spirit stick, evaluations, SUPERIOR RIBBONS!, being totally crazy, "What time is it? — It's brownie time!!", "Yeeeeeeeeessssss . . . . Who?? . . . Oh, hi Mrs. Kimball," Sleepovers, "But Lucy, it's just so ridiculous!", Squiggy 6, T.P.ing, Bob's 6, a little early morning humor, "Funny . . . ," football games, "And then you fell down?", briefs . . . (you know the rest), " . . . I know," BRADY BUNCH FOREVER!, "Did you see her ———?", yep (etc.), basketball games and monkey noises (just to name a few). Linda — remember your song: "My doggie fell down the stairs . . . and hit his head on the ocean!", stringy, blonde wigs, you Madonna queen!! Jennifer (J-FO) — TRIG PARTIES — "But Mom, we're doing our homework!", aerobics in my living room, "oh, that's HORRIBLE!! Cindy — "Hiiiii!! . . . Kitty, Kitty, Kitty . . . ", our "list," "Can you hold my hairspray?", essays, eating your chips — EVERYDAY!!! Alisa — Drippits!! "You're putting on MORE hairspray??!", Senior Problems, "I'd like you girls to . . . stop talking" (said in a nasal voice of course), laughing at you-know-who!!! Terri — "So . . . how long have you had this problem?", playboy underwear, "Happy trails!", You are soooooo weird! I never thought it possible to have a squad such as ours. We shared almost everything together — far beyond what was "required." We weren't just a squad — we were much more! You're truly my best friends. Even though our time has ended being cheerleaders, we will never end being friends. I LOVE YOU VARSITY!!!! — Friends forever, Cindi (Shellack)

Hayley, I'm glad that we are still good friends. Remember Eddie Murphy? "I have some ice cream. I have some ice cream . . . " We had a great time that night. I hope we'll always be friends. I love ya girl! Jay-Jay (P.S. I wish last years seniors were back because this year is sooo boring!)

Lisa, Cheryl, Stacy, Thanks for the bathroom antics. Snack, lunch wouldn't be the same without you! Let's "S A B," does that sound familiar? Take care, expecially you Stacy, you can make it one more year! Everyone please keep in touch! "May your lives be Happy." Love ya', S.Z.

Kim — Disneyland — the best place. "Kim, that man is following us." Wendy's, John and Jim, what couples! Crashing the parents' car. Playing poker. Teepeeing. Throwing up burrito in YOUR sink. "Burnt toast," Superman on space mountains, CV park. Kris — "There is your french fries," We'll be b/f's forever — Kris a flash of my past was seen before my eyes. It seemed fun, thanks to Greg, Brent, Al, and Danny, "I love the girl, who cares who you like!?" "It's time" for "one more shot" of the Big Gulp! But "I might like you better if we ——— together" Yeah!!! B.T.K.

Chris, orange juice (nothing added of course!), Ian, dress up day, leafy green vegetation, trivial pursuit, brownies, cops in the park, leather and chains, the top of Kim's car, "Don't pull your earlobe!" Mia — who corrupted, I'll miss you, Ian, Mike, and Phil. The innocent one, Vera

Karabs, Well Bert, looks like we make it. Our high school years are almost over and then we're left alone in that big ol' world. We've shared soooo much these past three years; Our hopes, our fears, our dreams and our tears (many tears). This has been said so many times before but thanks for being such a special friend. You're my Karabs and I love you. Karabs 2

Faye, It's been really fun this year! Just think one more year from now you're a Big Senior. Stace, you have helped me through so much! Remember w.w.w.f.? Even, Half of chicken? What about three fingers? We have so many fun times! Remember Sean? Well sis, I love yah lots! friends 4-ever, Mick (H.H.D.)

Pool Women, Hi yah Lin, I just want to let you know you've been a great friend. I've known you at least fifty years. We've been through a lot! Remember Jim Greer? There's so many things I have to thank you for. I can't even start to name all the good times we've had. Thanx, again for always being there Lin. Love Yah, Michelle

Dora, Oogly, Karabes, Kathryn, Kimmy, Carm, Patty, Terri. Wonder twin powers activate. I couldn't have found a weirder group of friends. Safeway, ding dongs, gaybee guns, thumbs up, 31 flavors, the creeps on our treewell, M.B. has a boyfriend! illegal u-turns, "cat" scratches on faces. Love to all, Vera

Michelle (CowNow), We've been friends since I can remember. You and me have been through so much! We've always got a long really good. No matter what anyone says, you will always be my best friend. Please whatever you do about Marine Man, don't get hurt!! Remember Colorado — "In the water". Let's try in the future to forget the name Scott, okay? I'm still real sorry about the boat situation! Well Shell, you really have been the greatest best friend. I love yah lots! Friends 4-ever, Fish Lips

Cami — What's gonna' be our excuse for Capt. Nemo today? Where do ya' want to go, Del Taco, McDonald's (how many times were we there that day?), or Jack-in-the-Box? Oh my Gosh, do you have the answers 'cause i don't? Oh no, an English test?! What is "humorous melancholy" anyway? Hawaii here we come!!! Amie

Dean, Babe, Let's remember through our two years together. I get happier every second we're together. Night and Knight, every day. Were together for good. You and I will never stop loving each other. We'll make our love last. I love you with all my heart. And forever is a very short time; it seems to express all my love for you. Love is candy kisses from you. For me, there has never been anything more important that you. For all my life it's been you I've dreamed of. Over, over and over again, I feel thankful for you, And Babe, I'd be lost without you. I remember New Years and of course Joe's house! How about all the schools we've been to in La Crescenta? Our lives have just begun. I love you. I know we have good times ahead to look forward to. I love you! Love, Laurie

To Mike Perry: All those smile's across the room, the many balloons at the hospital, Friday nights with little Matthew Brown, Sunday night lasagna, Police Academy with Stellie and Vinnie, three-hour logs in San Diego, waking up with little Stevey in your face, and the train ride back with Neil Young. Thanks for all those fun times. You foxy bum. Love, Michelle

To John: My best bud in the whole world! You're leaving me! What am I gonna do? I hope you make the most of your life because you deserve it! I'll never forget our fun and special times together. I LOVE YOU SO MUCH! Your best bud, Laura

To sexy red and the hot chick, life in Crescenta Valley High wouldn't be the same without you! With friends like you, high school life is great. You guys are TRUE friends and I appreciate you two so much! You're very special and I love you guys! Legs!

K squared, Memories . . . Our Friday night Safeway runs, "Twinkle Man to the rescue," "animal cookies yeah!" "That's not a very good picture of him," "I have the urge to expectorate on you!" Laughing so hard we almost peed in our pants, scumbags at the Galleria, being followed, Kinny getting pinched, "Oh how gross!" By the way, have you checked the dog? Whoever said you can't have this close of friends in high school didn't know you guys! You both are so special and I wuv you sooo much! There are so many times I don't know what I would have done without my 2 k's. I love you both and remember k cubed forever. The other K (P.S. if you ever get kidnaped remember the blue glass.)

Tracy F. — I wanted to tell you how much you mean to me, so I thought I'd put it in print. Remember Mrs. Burrow's class? the masks we made? Those were the good ole days, weren't they? Thank you for what you wrote in my yearbook last summer. It meant a lot to me. I only wish I knew about it then! This summer was fun. I miss the talks we had then. Remember the beach? Suntan oil? What a mess! Well, my special friend, thank you for you! I'll miss you, so keep in touch when you are away in college, and this summer, too! I'll be thinking about you! Lots of luck and love always! Melinda E. xoxoxo

Laurie, It's been two years of the three we've been here. I have a century worth of memories and another full of dreams with you. High School is almost over and we made it. I love you; you're my princess and if you'll be my queen, we'll make it again. Love, Dean

Buddy! I might like you better if we ——— together! Westwood Ho! Diana, Ingrid, Stephanie, Lisa, Cory, Leslie, Diana, oh, Well. Beach Boys Blonde B's. Death nears (Football). Bunny Love. Sunglasses at Night. Mickey Don's. Your friends and mine . . . Big Gulp. But, Hey! It's Casual.

Stephanie R. — Hey you rad Soph. Cheerleader ! Just wanted to say thanx for all your help! I might not have made it without you. Wait till next year! Can't wait to teach you a cheer! Have a great summer. Remember me when you're having fun! Thanx again! Love, Caroline

Varsity '84-'85 — Hi guys! Just a note to say thanx for everything! We'll never forget the encouragement you gave us! Keep this in mind . . . always SMILE, and show some Personality! How about some vaseline for your teeth Linda! We'll always remember your spirit and friendliness! Remember to come and visit . . . if you're not too BIG for us! Love Varsity '85-'86. Caroline, Colleen, Shelly, Brenna, Teri, Kim.

Shine — Shine, Times that we have had were tres bien (Dance class, aerobics. French, parties at USC and Dan's house). All the problems with Steve and Nick were rather hard to overcome. Thank you for being there. You are very special to me. I love you lots. Your Friend, Dawnee

John — Though I don't remember all the jokes, I sure remember the joker. You withstood (and enjoyed?) my songs and 'valley girl' highlights. Does your tooth still hurt? I'm sorry I'm not your Nanny, or else I'd "help." We didn't even have a fox trot! Still, remember me. Medea, 'course!

Harv, Drew, Mike, Beave, Andy, Cave, Marcus, Raphi, Ed, Phill and Smiles; hours of practice, buckets of sweat, loads of bricks and tons of laughs. We were all world. You guys are all Falcons in my eyes. You were the heart of my high school years PRIDE TRADITION HONOR — AL

Cheryl, Hey hunnaay! I'm glad that we are still friends and have never argued. Remember the night when you and Alli and Carrie spent the night? "Caarre. Where's Poookeeey?" "Cheryl give me back my drink!" We've had some pretty good times and I hope we'll have a lot more. Thanks for always being there. Je-t-aime Sweetie, Jay-Jay

Soph Cheer 84-85: Well, it's over. We've had so many good times. You guys have really been a special part of my life and I hope the friendships we've had will last forever. So many memories! Remember camp? SUPERIOR SOPHS!!!!! "If anybody cries I'll be so mad!" So, who's the first to cry? Hoffer! We've had some great names. "Lucky," "Cheeks," "Peanut," and "Cinnamon!" Good, guys. I miss the banana man! Poor Han! Nothing in 4 days! Softball was fun. All to Julie's poems. But, football was the best. LEAGUE CHAMPS! We all cried. The L.C. game. "Chrissy, look out the corner of your eye." I forgot about Ben-Gay! We love Ben-Gay! We were so devoted to them. We cried when they lost to Burbank. We did so much. Staying up to 2:00 in the morning for locker rooters. All that candy. Even Martinelli's. Homecoming rally. I Love L.A.!! That was soo funny. Then it was over, and we went to the football banquet and got . . . . a daisy! Wow! A whole daisy. Remember our jobs on the bench: Steph? What about "Is there anything up there?" Trey's mouthpiece. You came up with pidginal. I love that. My Big Bro. Hoo-DEN-hof-fer. Jools the Gools!!! The love seat. What would I have done without you. Remember, we agree on everything! Expecially that time at Chrissy's! What's wrong with just Farrells? The night of kidnaping. The you-know-what on the toilet seat. Well, Jools the Gools, your little Jools the Gools loves ya! That day when we got the rings was so special. I'll never forget it. Steph, forgot some things "lil-A" Now you've got Trey, but I've got Quad. Promise you can be the godmother. I know things have changed but you'll always be a special friend to me. Angie, year's been great. What would I have done without the talks in the car? Remember our nice dinner ar Reflections when we didn't have enough money? Did Steph ever pay you back? (just kidding, Hoff!) I'll never forget everything we've done. "I love you a bushell and a peck." "Show us your blue exteriors!" "It's a good time for a great play from the Falcons." Chrissy, at the beginning, "look in the window we do the cheer exactly the same!" Loft games, sss. "Meet us under the bleachers." All that peanut butter. "Lick Gabbi's hose." The Backwards Dance. "Watch her eat." Red burrito with sour cream!!! I love swimmers! I really don't know how I would have survived this year without you. "Do you want me to punch you in the face?" Grandpa Gordy, Uncle Beck, etc. Football was the best. Glad you're over Skuh. You're the best! Gabs the Pabs. My Queen Egg. All our eggs. So many of mine are broken. I've got a new King. "Princess Gabbi, I have won." your honeymoon. "Let's go look at our seniorees!" Mrs. Turtle! Yuck! "You think just because you're cheerleaders you're special." Excuse me! Our late night calls. "HI, I know you're sleeping, but I just called to say HI." What would I have done without you to talk to? "Gab, what if they foget my birthday?" thanks for listening to my sob stories. Chrissy, you, and I hopefully will all be US's in 86-87. O.K.? O.K. Thanks for bitting my cheek. Well all you piggies, I know I've forgotten to write so much but we'll always keep out memories. I LOVE YOU GUYS!!!!!! Don't forget me. Love, Pidg

To my little Brittles: Gosh, we've been through so much this year. You-know-who's been between us, but I'm glad we're on the same side again. You are super special to me; I consider you my buddy, always. You are awesome! Love ya lots, your awesome pal, little Karls!

Amie Jo — "Cutiecake" What can I say? The times I've had with you have been some of the happiest of my life. Shotguns behind your front door, your parking brake and your magnetism to manikins. The dances have been memorable. Such pretty dresses. I can't believe I'm still alive after driving with you. Ha, Ha. Very funny. I hope my mom doesn't see this. The U2 concert. What a night! Thanks for getting us those great seats. Now, Amie, you know that early . . .; How about another whip cream fight? Hitting the blue fire hydrant markers (no dogs or small children though). Soft? No wet! Thanks for putting up with my moods and various other things. Buffy! Baakk like a chicken, now! Golden locks, fireworks, "Total Eclipse of the Heart," your Ranger shows. What a rider you are! Shogun. 16 Candles, "No more yankee my . . ." Fun times with Craig (you knew your way to Westwood so well!). Big hugs, sweet things in my locker. Scruffy loves you. I love you thiiisss much! Thanks for the gift on our year anniversary; it's the best gift I've ever gotten. Thanks for making me a better person. Love always, Bryan

Dear Lener, Hi, you know we rarely had a fight. But, we have always stayed friends. And we always will. See ya Lener from Pasadener, Ana, Lenerwener, and so on. Love, Michelle

Hi sweetheart Guess what? It looks like we're out of here. Finally away from a world of plastic people. Think of the projects and things we've gone through! All the secrets and times we've shared! Hard habit to break, baby. No one can take you away from me. I love you.

Ken — 3 yrs and 3 months ago we met and my life hasn't been the same since. From "Open Arms" to breaking up to being together again, there has not been a moment when you weren't in the back of my mind. You have touched my life like no one ever will again, and I will always love you for that. Although the distance between us may change next year, my love for you will stay the same. (Besides, Jasp. and Jas. will keep us together). You have become a very special part of my life and I will never forget the things we've shared. I LOVE YOU — Karryn

Natalie We have finally reached the point of our destiny and have (almost) fulfilled our desires, but in college we'll reach them completely. I wish you success, happiness, love and laughter. Tu es ma chere poulet. Alors! "Relax, do it . . .!" Ton amie, Diana

To all of my dear friends: I wish you good luck and happiness in the future. I hope we still see each other and go out to do crazy and wild things. Love ya Diana Malinova

Shanna — Hey Dovey, what a year! You sure are a special friend! You always made me happy when I was down, and I thank you for that! As for memories, they are all great! You still have to take me to the beach in the convertible! You're Awesome! Love, Shelly

To my Kimberly — Well, even though I wasn't with you at school this year, I feel our relationship has grown far closer. You and I are a perfect couple. We've had our ups and downs; those are expected, but we stick it out always and resolve our differences. That's why I love you so much because whenever I've been upset, confused, etc., you've been right there to guide me through, whatever it was. I'm so happy with my life right now and I know you feel the same as I do. But when you think of it, our lives have only just begun and we have so much to live through and to look forward to together. I really do appreciate you putting up with my Van Halen insanity. If you can handle it, I can handle your infatuation with Rick (I guess). So here's to two loving, caring, and understanding years together with an infinite number of years to look forward to. I love you so much Kimberly! I'll love you forever and always, Michael

Hi Deb! We've had a great Junior year! It's been a lot of fun! I'm so glad we've been there for each other and become the best of friends! You've helped me with so much. Remember we're too nice, driving to the games, and stuck-up?! Keep smilin'! Love always, Shelli

Dear Tim, thanks for all the special times! We've had so many: dances, movies, our birthdays, anytime. You know you'll always be in my heart. You've made this last year of my life so special. You're the best! I'm so glad that we've shared what we have together! Love, Shelli

Sister of the KK, "I just called to say I love you." Oh, help bring the money in the blue glass. Kimmy, there's something under the bed! The robber's flushing the toilet! Don't you think Ruffels are too salty? Norman, Norman Balte!! Always remember me when: eating Ritz crackers with cream cheese at midnight saying "archectect" or "ardeechoke." Discanso will miss us and my P. We've made it through, with a heck of a lot more to go, and if we ever lose our closeness I will have lost a Big chunk of me. I love you and miss you.

Tinibob, Deb, Karyn, well guys, only one year to go, and may it be our best! Let's have fun! I love you all! Loves, Jules

Spaz #2 — Hey geek. Oops, I better not call you that. Well I'm glad we became closer friends this year. You are a great person. I'm glad I could always make you laugh. Disneyland forever. Thanx for all the memories. More to come. Best to you in everything. LA&F Spaz #1

Dearest Lori, Thanks for getting me through this year. You are wonderful friend. May happiness and luck go with you everywhere. We are still the "fabulous duo." Best Friends Forever, BLUE EYES Always, and good luck in Jobies. Love Chrissey

Antarctic Blue: What do you mean Bob's is closed? He's holding her hand Stace . . . I thought you said — RAY! But he's so cute! Fries, oh, that was the pool waitress, which freeway? Sling! Lefty! Frisco! You guys are ditcher! He might be there! Lindsay! Spit on her! Love, Metalic Pea

SIS (twin) You are a super friend. Thanx for everything. We have had some great times. The parties and sleeping over at your house, cleaning the refrig, changing oil and more. You always make me laugh. I'm glad we became as close we did. LA&F Your almost sister.

To my squad — Gabbles, Keem, Jools the Gools, Ang and Stephenhoffer: Well guys, it's over. The memories live on forever though! All of you have made my life so much fun, I could have never lived without you! All the fun times we've had together when we just laugh and laugh. Here are a few memories: Bananas, the luv seat, Jump for my love, Chrissy! The stupid names like Lucky and Peanut, the crying, "Oh" the Vacation rally, living for food, "the winner takes it all," Rocky Smurf, me and Angie's hard moves, Doe a Deer, that is what I'd like to be song, Big Bro, our long diets, poo puffs, being on the end, Hoo-Den-Hoff-Er, me and Gab's tap dance, Huck Finn's, the coaches' office, our cardboard car, tourists, groupers, the senior olympics, Dodger Stadium, Martinelli's, the guys who broke our hearts, the mighty blue cheer, the stag dances, Reflections, Hard Habit to Break, the social gatherings, Chrissy's braid, the winner rallies — we've warned you once and once again! Me and Steph's worrying or dirty cheers, dreaming about Burritos oozing with cheese! Pidgenol's squeal, Gabbi's bites, Big Muscle Man Billiard, my blue bomb, my artistic ability, Chrissy's chicken routine, Angie's motherly voice and faces, Steph's fake smile, Oh knows, Sophs! Get over here! Top of the Charts, kidnaping, agreeing with Jools the Gools, and much more things I can't recall! All I know is that you guys have made my life so happy and fun. I really love you! You all mean more to me than you will ever know. Cheer was one of the happiest events of my life, thanks to you. Even though it's over, Soph Cheer 84-85 lives on forever! A happy memory none of us will ever forget. Love forever and always, your Hoodenhoffer, Jools the Gools, Hoodles, Hanson, Juls, and anything else I forgot.

To Rod and Kristen 3rd period biology. I have had a blast with both of you. Rod singing all the latest tunes, and Kristen sharing her lab and filmstrip answers — Thanks! You both mean a lot to me. Good luck, in your upcoming years! I love you, Michelle.

Sailor, You're my best friend and more. I have learned a great deal from you. You're the best and most unique person I have ever met. I have great memories that I will hold onto forever. There is no one like you. You are truly special. I have enjoyed all that we have shared together and I know the future holds more. You are going to have a hard time getting rid of me. Know that there will always be a special place in my heart forever. Thanx for everything but especially YOU! Love you always & forever, Your Dear and Secretary.

Little K.R. Isn't it hard to believe we've come this far? Remember our Hollywood adventures and our hourly chats about everything! (Del Taco) and now we're off on our graduation trip to wherever we can afford! I wish you the best of luck always! Love, your fellow sis — Michelle

Superior Song — Hey girls, what a year we had! It was the best. Summer and camp. Two major things to remember besides rallies and sport seasons. Remember all of the great things: food, football, practice, water fights, the locker room, burritos, sleeping in the "rah," our room at camp, kidnapings, "You're head, turn out the light," "Oh, put some Ben-Gay on my feet," late hours of practice while others partied, 3:00 in the morning — who knew what was going on — Oh the moon shone sooo bright, three JV's and three Soph — what a combo, us being kidnaped for making song, lipstick, King Song, fights — which we overcame, Top of the Charts, crying laughing, jackets, homecoming, our stools — what a pain at first. So many memories end not enough time. SUPER — you always seemed to be getting mascara in your hair! Thanks for keeping us up with your hiccup story. (Ha Ha!) Love your nails! DOLL — Love your purple! We finally got along this year. Yea! WIZZER — You seem to have a problem with that. You always put full effort into everything. You never let us down at camp. CRAZY — Hey did you enjoy Kid's cabin in the mountains? You might just have forgotten your head if it wasn't for us. KID — Weekly lists! Least we never forgot what we were supposed to do. I'm glad you had the job and not me. Guys there is so much to cherish and to hold onto. Great memories to look back on always. Thanx for all the fun we shared together. I wish the best to you always in everything. We are SUPERIOR SONGLEADERS til the end and always will! Good Luck in the future. Love You All A&F MB

Well sweetheart (Shelli), Another school year is passed and one more year to add to our growing relationship. I'm sure this summer will be better than last year's. We'll go to the beach all the time until I'm finally darker than you. Well baby, my time is up. I love you! Love, Tim

Dearest Kirsten — Well babe, what can I say? I've said it all before, but I can never say it enough. You were the most beautiful thing that ever walked into my life. I will never forget what you have given me. You are the inspiration in my tomorrows, now and forever. I will never forget the wonderful times that we have shared together. Maybe, some day, we can spend more time together. Kirsten, this is a brief reminder, from the heart, to tell you how much you mean to me, but I will never be able to express, in words, all of my feelings for you. What else can I say, except that I care for you now and forever. Love always, Brian

Allan and Lena — Special couple. Love Allan lots. Lena is sweet. Remember on top of the hill, we had a lot. Scarface and Paul, how funny! We should go out more often, it's a lot of fun. Thanks for always brightening up my day. Allan, don't forget to keep our little affair a secret. Love, Red

Dani and Karen, Congratulations to both of you with Jose and Dave. Happiness to the both of you. Good luck with future plans. We should all go out. Love, Dawn

P.R. woman, Well honey, I'm sorry this year went so fast, but it's been great! I wish you weren't graduating, but I wish you all the luck in the world! You're a fantastic friend! And just remember: Twice less!; T.S.S.C.! and Todd: And remember I love you! Love always, Julie

Kathy — You have made my three years at CVHS great and enjoyable ones. Don't wave at too many old ladies when you are in Bob's. Love, Susan

Lover Button! Remember . . . Mammoth, "Hello," cookies, Rice Crispies, Teddies!!! Santa Barbara, bulls roar, hugs, honda, Sacred Heart, pee wee, KITCHENS, Palm Springs, Caca grande, and us!! I can't believe that this year is over! You have taught me so much about life, Bobby. As long as I live, I will never forget all of our special times, sad times, hard times and just you! Bobby, I love you more than anything, and I don't want you to ever forget that. I'll miss you L.B.! I love you! Heather

Laura and Steph! Giovanni's forever! love you guys! Heather

Terd: I can't believe that our day of graduation is almost here. It seems like so long ago when all we could do was dream of it, but now it's here. We have grown so much together, and you'll never know how much you've made me see the light! The future is so unsure, but I know if we stay together we can tough it out! This summer is going to be unreal! I'm so excited Teri, we have had this planned for so long, it's like a dream come true. Through all the good and bad in the past or future, remember that I will always be here for you because I love you now and forever. Love Cutie.

Katie — So many fights, but so much fun. Westwood! The four musketeers and how can we forget — Laguna! Richard and John — "switch." Brandy my fav but Katie "Where did all the time go?" La Canada, Newport. Perrish? Is that really your name? So many guys, so little time. Friends forever, Love Kris

To my favorite proper-false — Clever? Now that you know who you are, read on . . . This year I've learned so much. Probably more than I have my entire life. One of the things I've learned is how unfair life is. We never had a chance. The odds always stood against us. We should have been together, you and I, and we were, but it wasn't enough. Maybe I'm greedy, but the time we spent together was never long enough, and at the same time, too long. You understand. Maybe God will give us just one more chance (not that He hasn't given us enough already). He just might. Time will tell. Now off to better subjects. I'd like to tell you a little about what else I've learned this year; you were my teacher. You taught me how to love. I mean, really, truly how to love someone. Look at me closely the next time you hear me tell you that I love you. It's not just friendship anymore. It's grown to so much more than that. You know how serious I am because you know how I feel about love and how that word is used. I never wanted it to happen, but I'm tired of fighting something that's too strong to deny. I've fallen in love, and with someone I can never have. It hurts, but you, with your unselfishness, make it bearable. Thank you for giving me what part of you you could. Wherever life takes us, whether we're together somehow or half a world apart, I'll never forget you, my best friend. I don't think a signature is necessary. You alone know who I am. Always remember, I love you. And if you don't know what kind of love I mean by now, then you never will.

Ian: Trust me! There's plenty of time to go to Carl's and get back on the bus. Thanks for your walkman, too. Aaron: Get a heater for your hands! Get a real wardrobe. Sean: Great home movies. How about a game of raquetball? Brett: Baseball. Saturday morning. 6:30. Be ready. Your reconditioned car is great. Brad: Oooh! Oooh! I be the ghost of . . . You added spice to English. Paul: Nice nose, eh? Work on your height a little, will ya? Diane: Oh, the fun we've had. I still want your U2 sticker. Jenifer: Compliments to your nose, also. Keep up the good work in everything. Jill: Smile. Be happy. History was fun. Lynda: Dingy? "Does the 'C' on your letterman's jacket stand for catcher?" Tommy: Tommy C from the top of the key. Keep it up Kareem. — Bryan

To Boop and Sesska. I love you guys a lot and hope to be friends for ever! This has been my best year ever. Thank you very much. Boop, if you ever see anyone falling, it's most likely me! Again, I'll love you always! Love Lana. Your best buddy!

Howday Jilloppe. No Wham tickets but we love George. No way did you see him? Let's go to Whomp's, no, Bobby's is better. Huey's rad. Wait a minute, we want to stand up. My hair is so gay. Take the sunglasses off. Put the sunglasses back on. Love ya, Dan

Johngriffin! (hee hee) You've been THE best! K-Mart — love their gum — ouch. Laugh hestierically in the parking lot. Yes I use my parking brake! All our Lori and JB talks. They're special. Football game for Lori — Chris, my bud! Gary must've been hungry! Drop me on Brand, make you laugh! Thanx! You've been the best "pal" (love that word!) ever. Thanx for all the memories! I still can't find the taco, and we owe people a tp job! Take care! Love,me! P.S. You owe me a car stereo,K?
Thanx to Julie, Stacy, Larry, Stephanie Hannon, Robin, Tiffeny, Lettie, Christine, and Brian — you've made things a lot easier for me. Coming to a new school is so hard — Plus having friends so close yet so far away. I love you guys — Jenni
To Sleepy, Sparky, Clewda and Celest, This year was fun although next year will be the BEST! Too bad Celest won't be here. Remember the parties we went to — Florintine' even though I left. Remember April 14th, a party every year. Will see ya later. SPANKY, the class of '86.
HEY! SHANNA BANANA! My pal! We've had so much fun together! Stink bombs at Disneyland, rollerskating in the same outfit, (no socks of course) and toiletpapering CERTAIN houses! Thank you so much for helping me through the rough time when my mom died. I LOVE YOU!! Love, Lori Thacker
Marta Bop! Hi ya Martini! Well, I wish I could put everything we have done in the past on paper, but there is not enough room. What can I say except you're a sweetheart! Two-strike, C.C.'s, T.T., Roofs! Subway, Malibu, La Canada, Burbank, (He, He) (Kenny and Norman) Sixteen Candles! (He, He again!) Food fights at Burger King, Hermosa, The golf course!, Bus Boys, "No way, my car is gone! Oh my gosh, where is everyone?!" Just always remember, "Save a Prayer." Luv ya lotss! Friends Forever, Chrissie Sweet Sue Heidikins Hurst!! You mean soooo much to me! Whenever I felt I couldn't go on (my mom) you always kept me going. Thank you for always beign there to cry with me. Let's keep the good times rolling!! I don't ever want to lose you! I LOVE YOU!!! Lori Thacker
STROKERS, We can't give up. I know we all hated life at one time or another, but you know how it goes; sometimes you just have to say "WHAT THE ————!" Take care of yourselves, and K.I.T. We will have an annual reunion. Signed, FELLOW STROKER
CHRIS — I LOVE YOU! I LOVE YOU! I LOVE YOU! I LOVE YOU! I LOVE YOU! I LOVE YOU! I LOVE YOU! I LOVE YOU! I LOVE YOU! I LOVE YOU! I LOVE YOU! I LOVE YOU! What more can I say? Cheryl
Krista Lynn — M-A-R-T-Y . . . M-O-O-S-E . . . Marty Mosse, Marty Moose! Hu, hu — that's all folks! (fill in your own song!!!) Well doll, we've really had some fun times together!!! Remember: Night on the town with THE GIRLS . . . you should become a Roto-Rooter!!!, Balloon races in the quad with Lisa, pretend bowling, kidnaping you and taking you to Pizza Hut, the Care Bear sticker books and puppets — the fun placemats, Nightmares, charades and total guesses, Brett jumping on me, Homecoming and our dresses . . . don't ever wear a strapples dress to a dance again, they're dangerous! (and embarrasing!), we are really TWO WILD AND CRAZY GIRLS!!!!! LUV YA LOTS! Jenifer Lynn
To Lisa, Stacy and Smirly, my bathroom buddies, wanna S a B ha ha get it. Thanks for all the free pizzas and all the other goodies. Take care ya all. May life bring you each what you want. Love always, Lisa P.S. Tipton fans rule.
Walk a path of righteousness; Live a life in dreams. It's not fooling everyone. 'Cause I know what I've seen. Thanks to Erik, Bryan, Cecil, Spelunker, A couple of other for reals. The rest can ride the Fudge Train. So, Big Indian thinks every Time he is scared. John Grassel
Kris, you party animal, you! Well, it looks like we made it, finally. I'm so glad we're the friends we are. You and Sharon are the greatest. I'd say us three musketeers are in a class by ourselves. Thanks for being there when I needed you. Love ya lots, Lisa P.S. Van Halen Rules!
Trevor: You are such a special friend!!! Even though I'm the #2 G.I.T.P., you're the #1 on my list! I'll never, ever forget all the fun times we've had!!! Like: deciphering codes, the T.P. — orangecone — confetti — toiletseat wars, our note, Rally, Yo-lijwa and basketball games, Algebra 3-4, work days at church, trapping my car, Flamingo Kid, Beverly Hills Cop, "Get firm and Sit Down!!!," "Ooooh, kinkey!," "Keep your feet on the ground!," (two parallel lines), the screws, and everything else!!! I really am glad we became so close this year! Our friendship means soooo much to me!! I'll never forget this year and you! Luv you LOTS & LOTS!!!! You know who (V.S., E. that is) . . . Mickey
To the Gumby Gang!!! O-Aileen, Leroy, Ladybug, Crammy, Cassers, Trashy, GinaTey, Hey, where's the party? You're on the wrong side of the road!!! SCAM!!! Natural!!! Catch-up!!! 5 not enough! McDonalds, Yum!!! Buy one — get one free! Game!!! Wipe-out! Study huh? FUN! FUN! FUN! Luv, Gumby Fan 4-ever Jeni
God — we have been through it all together, bud. All those concerts, (ZZ Top, Quiet Riot, Uriah Heep and that other band that played that night, Boned Jovi, Scorpions, Gary Moore, RUSH, Billy Squier, Tommy Shaw, Van Halen, etc.) . . . All those women, (!) well, maybe I shouldn't mention that since you're married to Charlene . . . All those nights working at the Hollywood Bowl . . . All the great times we had with the Reserve Corps (in Basketball), "Take a lap, Pele . . ." Well, bud, you are certainly one of a kind. Who else could put up with AC/DC at 250 decibels but you? (you know that people have tried, but I've never found anyone else that could). I even quoted your holiness in my senioritis story, and I made sure that your most important activity would be included in the Senior Activities section. You're awesome, dude. Never Fortet: Your only-two-days-before-the-summer-vacation-is-over-so-let's-party-bud party! (The neighbors din't complain until we sang "Happy Trails" so far off-key that it hurt their ears!) You will succeed in life if you remember that Rush, Led Zeppelin, Van Halen, Scorpions, AC/DC, Billy Squier, and Judas Priest rule. (In that order) Take it easy, and may the you know-what be with you. — The Pope
Terri — They'll never understand us or what we shared together, but we made it in spite of everything. Dolphins will talk, and we'll listen. Call me sometime, I'm only five dollars an hour. Need a new light? I can blow out any fuse. Bubblegum is good even if it's been chewed for six hours and has no more flavor. Stay honest, and you'll make it, I know you will. Don't worry. I'll find you, and whenever you need me, think of me and I'll be there. Love always, Mike
S-H-A-W-N K. McEwen — This has been one wild year and I wouldn't trade it for anything! Remember: Silkie, #62, princess and her escort, THE TALK, the beach, Rodney Reindeer for the sick boy, late nite phone convos, football BBQ's (I play football!), your GRATEFUL DEAD FOREVER — hippies live!, being our party animalistic selves, the windy night on Foothill — then your house for a candle-lit nite, In-n-Out runs, and how could we ever forget our incredible times at all those dances: Toga! — get wild in those sheets; Homecoming — Princess & the Republican: Backwards dance — the obliviated crazy Hawaiians! Mr. Intriguing, you are a special part of my senior year & you just have that something about yourself that won't leave my heart. XOXOXO Chrissy (Silkie) Brown
Pep Squad '84-'85 — Even though we had our ups and downs at times, I hated to see you leave! Songleaders — all your enthusiasm — perfection really came through. Varsity Cheerleaders — All the multiple fun personalities gave everything we did an extra spark. JV Cheerleaders — Even through the little traumas. upi all are a great-looking squad. And last but not least, my Sophomore Cheerleaders — my singing — do everything — you're so cute — I love you — Squad! Always so happy & cheery to start a day with. You all were the main part of my "dirceting" & the memories live forever! Love Chrissy b.o.s.s. '85
Jennifer Carole — What can I say babe? You've been my special love-pat person, friend, listener, all the above. All our times: beachin', parties, drives to the lights for talks, fallopian tubette, the obsession for those old baseball games, and all the wild thing we done. I know this year has been a tough one for us, be we'll make it, Mrs. Brown. You're always so thoughtful (remember my daises for my awful "date") & caring, that's for our real school days & onto the real life! Get set, my special one, we have more to come & an exciting life to live! I love you, Jena. Christine Jolynn
Kris, You're friendship means alot to me. You've always helped me with my problems and have always been there when I needed you most. You're my best friend and I hope our friendship last forever. You're a great person and the best friend a person could have. Love,Bo
Cyn — I survived without your friendship two years of my life. I missed and needed you then: I've always understood. You came back into my life just when I needed you most. Thanks for being there; I'm always here. Friends forever . . . Love you always, Kris Cassidy, I wish you one handsome ex-gorilla man. Your card? No way. Me, I am marrying "Little Pink Houses." He got his "wanna new truck." (stick) Chem-chem with nem-nem. What else have you learned? Don't look at it, just eat it. More ketchup, Shell? Friends forever, but no baths in a bathtub full of jello, was he serious? And don't go out with Arabian Knights. Close enough, right? He, my name is Cassidy. Please be good to me. Country music forever. Greg's k-hay. That was great. Try not to belly? Hula? Too loud. Love, the Sundance Kid.
Dear Mo, I'm really glad we became friends this year. I hope we can always be best friends. We've had a lot of great times, like going to Ensenda, Ventura and expecially to the Troubadour to see all the foxy guys! We have the best times when we're alone together, and I hope there's many more. Love always, Lisa.
Slime Scum, A strange relationship? Perhaps. But it was fun. From the store where they sold Kenny's Larfs to the refrigeration of your home, you've been a good friend. Keep in touch or I'll teepee your house again. Tim Creed Stef, Wise man say, "If you walk of rim of glass watch out for salt." The year's over, so here it goes. Good bye, Adios, see ya soon. Oh, by the way always remember to be fun. Time to go. Gary
To the girls: Janel, Julie, Jamie, Lorna, Kim, Reenie — Hello girlies, let's go out Friday Night, yeah ok. — right! What should we do? T.P. — it never changes, but those are the BEST of times! Remember Toga, parties, numero 1, In-&-Out, and all the wonderful times! You guys are hos amas and I love you! Janel — remember the movies with S&G — coke bottles I'm sure! Julie — remember computers — Fun — heavy conversation times for sure! Jasmine Jamie — remember sitting in the back of B's camaro with smelly towels and OOPS I think we got his — I know we shouldn't laugh but we're silly! Lorna — remember — "You're the only one I can talk to about all this court busin«ss" — true friends! Kim remember the bush across from Danny's hous«? I bet the neighbors loved you — not to mention Jamie's jumpsuit! And my Reenie Beenie — I can tell you anything and you're always there! Thank you! Remember when Janel and I kidnaped you and ate ice cream and washed cars? Girls you are the best and I'll always love you: through all the slumber parties we've been together — and isn't that how it should be? We'll always be together! I Love you girls and thanks for sticking together — you are definitely my best little Gals! Love ya Girls, Kelly L. 'remember "mouth") P.S. Let's have a blast (full on) in Hawaii — Aloha surfer babes, maybe we'll get a little more exotic than our infamous . . .
Teg — After 3 yeats look at us. At least you're talking to me. Whatever! Save me from the plumber! I love sequins! You're right (as usual). It's all my fault! All my "stunts"! Innocent? Oversensitive? Boring?! But you love my clothes — PLAID! At least they aren't $70. TP? You'll never get me back! Wanna bet? Dinner? I'll pay — how about Jan. 16? Myron (Edward — the table") Dad/daughter combination — you loved her! We've been through a lot. Thanks I guess. Ha! When do I get my horse, Merceder? Doc? Love always, CP
Soph Pigs '84-'85 — You made my year! There are so many memories, I can't list them all! I'll never forget our "rad" times: shopping for cheerclothes, our F.B. superstitions — nylons, the P. my strap,CIF softball, Food!! Camp!! "Doe a Dear . . ." Superior Sophs! Blue ribbons, excellent ribbon — "Don't cry or else!" "Let's get L————" "I Love L.A." Bananas! Keith = Bananaman, #1 top of the charts, "Jump for Chrissy" making up our camp cheer, Mc D's! Red burrito! Summer: Eric's Marcos, B-days at Reflections, "The cheese stands alone," Kool-aid, Tilly's, Winchell's, Football!! PACIFIC LEAGUE CHAMPS! Camp!!! The food, constipated Hoo, JV's never slept. Basketball vs. Glendale! "Look at the scoreboard, Ladies." "Shut up Big Mouth!" Gabbi — Spencers! Mike maluc, F. Song, oee,oee, oh! Nights at your house after parties, Poo Puffs, wouldn't share Camp Donuts! I love you Bouch! Chrissy — "Learned about love in a church parking lot!" Super Bowl Sunday, Backwards! Some Paradise! Bom, Bom, Dip da, Dip, de, dip! Your clap! LOVE ALWAYS! Julie — The end, W.L. and S.L. Food!! "I'll try harder," "Are you sure?" The mirror, V. Cheer '86-'87. Thanx for you ear. Love ya! Julie — Squeez, Falc, Mike's car, "I love Juli," Jab-Jab, M.M., F.B. players! Backwards! "blue paint on my shoe!" My Love 4/ever. Angie — "Shoe us your blue exterior" Axel at homecoming staring, "There's no sweat on my upper lip!" Squeaky I'll never put that brush down! "Here's to the driers!" I love ya lots! Soph Cheer was the greatest you guys! And my mind will always be filled with endless memories! We are Full of Daisies! Remember Gpa Gordy, Uncle Beek! So much we've gone through! You are the best friends anyone could ask for! I hope we're forever buddies! Sophomore Cheer '84-'85 will never be topped! We were and always will be "The Superior Soph!" By the way — "Do you want some Gas?" Love Forever — Hoffer, #1 poo-puffer, Odie Cinnamon!
L&M — My greatest friends, we've done it all. Can there be more to come? Yes! — Lor — 5 years! Whew! Take care of my blood! Who are you today? Madonna? The sponge! Our serious love talks. Never forget your 18th! Best Buddies Chelle — It hasn't been long but our weekends make up for it. We've done so much in one night. Handicap stickers, chasing cars, and dreaded In-n-Out! Howz Woody? You're the Greatest! Thanks you guys, love ya! Nancy — You make me laugh! Howz "Dad". Double Dates! Love ya, pal! Pril — Softball! Whew! CSUN! Cool! Thanks for 5 great years. Amie — Capt. Nemo. Did we ever go? Food Run! Good luck! Diane — Big gossip in 4th! Thanks. Good luck, love ya. Reenie — You're crazy! Remember Halloween — Bill? Aloha? Love ya! Colleen — ha ha ha. Salt & ketchup. Volleyball. Drivers Training. You're great, love ya.
Linda (my SBFF) — From being JV's to crazy VARSITY CHEERLEADERS, we've stuck together. Through all the good times and the bad, we've always been there for each other. All of our crazy high school times I will never forget. Remember: summers at Newport Beach, wave on our rad boogie-boards (DUDE!), parties, long talks about EVERYTHING!, candle-light dinners, GUYS!! (the pros and cons), being each other's shrinks, frozen burritos, JRP, dances, showing our school spirit, being totally crazy — "Who cares what people think — we're seniors!" — But no more. We're almost "in the real world" now. What we've been dreading (graduation) is finally upon us. It's hard to let go, but the memories we have made I will always cherish. The good times won't end now, though. A long'lasting friendship like ours is one of a kind. You are one of a kind. That's why I love you sooo MUCH!!! Best friends forever, Cindi
EP Squad, Never in the traditons of yell leading have four people done more to destroy the traditions of yell leading. You guys have created a legend that will last a lunch time. Bob Roberts
Trisha — I'm really glad I met you. You mean a lot more to me that you probably ever realized. You were the first person I ever really cared for. I'm sorry things didn't work out. Maybe another time. I'll never forget you. I hope you don't me. Love you always, Marc
To all the gang: Hi boys and girls! Class of '85 all the way — we're hot! Good luck to all of you; we've had a super year — all of our T.P. and parties were great Everyone of you will always be special to me and I love ya! Love Kelly L.
Varsity Cheer '84-'85 — I'll start at the beginning. It seems like such a long time ago. It was a time where I was not sure what was ahead of me. I hardly knew you at all. Our first rally — let's start on the wall! Baseball season. Our first sport to cheer for. April Fool's rally. "Just kidding!" Performing at Dodger Stadium. We were on the big screen! Summer! "C-V-H-S! A winning season's a conquest!" The Superior Cheer. Camp at Lake Arrowhead. No, we didn't get lost, we were on our way to Las Vegas. First day, geeky men. Varsity Cheer takes a dream vacation! Falcons on the warpath. Varsity Cheer is here! The One-Hour Cheer. ". . . and beat you, you lazy fool!" Our cabins filled with food. Eating, praying, crying, laughing. Going home. "Cindy, did you sleep on a donut?" How exhausted we were. All those late night practices at the track. Football practices. Making up chants. Painting our stools. Is this the right blue? "Can't wait for our first game!" Breakthroughs in the parking lot. Posters in the quad. Football games, at last. Funny, nobody wants to be on the end! The Football locker room! Rally with football players, Halloween Rally. The Brady Bunch is cool!!! Groovy! Basketball season. "The dance" for halftime and rally, oh wee oh wee oh. Do you guys always do cheers at McDonald's to make the employee laugh? Alisa — You always look so nice at practice. Nice sideburns, Greg. "Hi. How are you?" "Fine." "Okay. Bye." Nod nod nod "I know." What's your dog's name? Scruffy? Oh, Scampy. Don't forget to wear your uniform with pink shoes and orange socks. You are so funny! I love your sense of humor! "You do?" You're my perspiration. Oh that's horrible! Your truck is one of a kind. Do you like KROQ? Cindi — Shalak, Burrito woman! Get away from my stool! "Sure." Trig parties are the best, but don't forget to do aerobics after. Don't forget the food! You are the only person I know who would melt ice to get ice cream out of your hair. It's brownie time! Who's on the end this time? Thanks for always keeping track. What would I do without you? Peter "When it's time to change!" Cindy — Hi! Kitty, kitty, kitty, kitty! That's not what you said before! Do you always kiss strangers in Pasadena? Well, that's good! Camping at the beach in April, what fun! Keep those video tapes! You sure made a great Cindy Brady! "You're beautiful, don't ever change!" "Hi, my name is Andrea." Thank you for listening when I needed to talk. I hope you never run out of hair spray! Linda — Jan, your hair is great! "Don't you just hate it?" Rozanne Rozanna Danna. You're fine. How am I? You are going to be a great comedienne. Don't ever forget New Year's in Pasadena. What does Choose Life mean, anyways? Your dog fell down the stairs and hit his head on the ocean? You do the best Madonna impersonation. Don't worry. We'll always keep in touch. Terri — How long have you had this problem? Oops, your hair is getting straight. Puff it up with your hands. I will never forget you on the very early morning of Jan. 10, 1985. I have never in my life laughed so hard! It was so bizarre! Thank you for always giving me your support and advice, doctor. How much do I owe you? To all of you — This year has been an absolute blast. Through the good and the bad, we've made it! I couldn't ask for better friends. I love you all, sisters! Don't worry guys we'll see each other. We are going to live on the same street, remember? All our kids will be good friends. Remember, no matter where you go that's where you'll be. Good luck and best wishes to you all. Varsity '84-'85 is forever! You have changed me so much. Have I ever used hairspray or watched General before? You are, by far, the best! Yes!! Love, Jenfo (Momface) — ME!!
Stephanie — My sweet pumpernickel. I really love you a lot, even though we're both geeks. It's fun going out with a geek, and a wimp, and a mooch, and always mad. No. Just kidding. I really love you. We've had great times together. Sitting on bus stops, passing each other colds, you dropping hints. Sorry if I'm the one who turned you into a geek. Lets go see "Ghoulies" and sing "Careless Whispers." I really love you and I wouldn't give up on our relationship for anything. We've had fun times, especially when I started kissing your nose. We'll have to do something about Harry, though. Maybe tie up the old guy and shoot him so he'd stop pacing the halls. I really mean it, I never want to lose you. Even if something happens to us, I'll always remember you. Always. Sorry if I got you "busted" a lot for being there and on the phone all the time, but you mom's cool. Sorry about the affair your mom and I had, but you weren't home and I needed someone. I'll always need you. I'll love you always and forever and ever and always. I'll always be your little cabbage. Love Always, Trey
Sis, well, this year's been fun. We've had many good times. Remember football games? Who's going to take us home? My license buds in the car dancing, the mansion, odyssey, yellow bugs, silver Targas, 53 Chevy's, cheeze bag, homecoming weekend, Duke's room, Chuck's room, scary movies, Long Beach, croissants and Cappuccino, skipping classes, Micky D's, Jalama, are you going to sneak out? already! Trans-X and Paul Young, Sciroccos, Becky's Flesh for Fantasy. I guess I've said enough. We've got more fun to come through; Prince! The summer and then there is always next year. We will be friends forever, Salsy
Terri — What is love? Definition — the willingness to suffer great hardship and adversity in hope of the golden outcome. I've given you my heart, yet the story hasn't ended. No matter what happens I'll always love you as much as is written in my Christmas letter, use it as a reference if you'd like. Things haven't always been as easy as we wished they could be, but what good thing isn't worth fighting for? Think of our four-hour telephone conversation, our first night after Dave's house, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," the Ice House, and of me. Follow your heart and be willing to take a gamble. Gold is just a heartbreak away. Avoid confusion — reality is a state of mind, not a state of being. I'll always be around. I won't say goodbye because you'll always be here with me, whether you realize it or not. Some more things to think about: the roof of the Glendale Centre Theatre, New Year's Eve, pomp, Chemistry grades, "I thought you were smart!", Billy Idol Roq blocks on KROQ ("No way, they're playing the whole album!), the haunted house, Angeles Crest, failed attempts for Descanso Gardens, and never knowing where to go and never really caring where we end up. Things will only get as good as we let them. I'll always love you, no matter what happens. Remember this — if you try you'll get what you need. Love always, Ian
Carmen, I've missed you but you're all grown up and so now I guess it's my turn. You've helped me to gain my independence and a whole lot more. Everything can be yours: you're smart, pretty and ambitious and I always knew you'd go far. I hope you're happy always. I love you dear sister. Love Kim
Bookies — Remember, we make better layouts! Thanx for all your time and dedication. It all paid off in the end. The countless food runs and late nights, weekends (looking up dirty names in the phone book & playing with Sean's electric eraser), and parties helped make yb so much fun. Did anyone ever crop a picture to Tim's satisfaction? I never did! I'll never forget you guys. Your fearful leader, Amie
The Girls: Julie, Lorna, Kelly, Kim, Jamie, Diane, Vicky, Janel, Reenie — Well, I'm really glad that I've gotten to know each and every one of you; you girls are the hottest. Let's not let graduation stop the rad times from happening. Keep in touch, best wishes to you. Love you always, SJH
Dearest Carrie Doll, We made it to the end! You are a great friend. We have had our differences, but we soon made up. Thanks for getting me through tough times. Remember Camp Fox, late nights at the broomball games, "LEE" and Coast Guards. Love, Corey Doll
Dearest Christopher Doll, We finally made it! Thanks for always being here when I needed you most. You are the bestest friend any person could have. I'll cherish our friendship forever. Good luck in everything you do. Remember Coast Guards, lifeguards, and Camp Fox Summer of '84'! Love Corey Doll
To the sweetest guy of all, Tod Novack. "Success in a relationship is more than a matter of finding the right person; it's also a matter of being the right person." Hey!! I think we found each other. I love you forever, Vicky
Lisa, It's over! (huh, that's what you think!) Now it's on to UCLA! I'm thinking positive. Remember Spanish (let's all read one word each), lunches, where are you going, Lisa?, McDonald's, SAT seminars, taking the tests, what did you get? taking government in summer school, and all the other good times we've had. You've always been there for me, no matter what and I appreciate it! Friends forever! Love, Jennifer
Chennie and Carol — On my 16th birthday I was so shy. Not yet a woman but ready to try. Thanks for making it such a great year. It wouldn't be the same without you. Thanks for all the memories. Remember all the parties in the new room and how tired we were the next day, you're gonna laugh, how ya doing?, hold on tight, remember the guys pushing us off the bench, and all the wonderful — crazy times we have had. We love you guys and always will. Love always, Cande
Imac — The past two and a half years together have been the best of my life. As we both know, there will be many more to come. We share the most intimate of feelings for each other and always will. Thank you for making my life so special. Love always and forever, Jeff
Wende: You're a great gal and a blast to be with. Too bad things didn't work out with our friendship. We both put a lot of effort into making it work. Maybe in the future we can make it work. Remember I'm always there for you. All my love, Tami
Jenn: Hey, "Should I stay or should I go". Remember that! I sure do. I sure hope we stay friends for the longest time. You're a great pal and a blast to be with. Don't forget to stay in touch over the years. I love ya bunches. Always, Tamms
To my good friends Patty and Joy, Thanks for being my friends through all those years. You're both very special people. May God bless you always in the years to come. I pray you will reach your goals. Love always. Remember, SMILE. GOD LOVES YOU. Love, Jill
Dear Mr. Gibson's first-period class: You really have to admit Spanish 1-2 was a blast. I know I had fun! Everyone did so great in there. Good luck to you in the future years. Have a fun-filled life. All my love to you all. Spaz
To the purple prince of Catalina, You are a very special person. I will always remember the good times that we had, the friendship we shared. Always take time to dream and never lose sight of those dreams. I wish the best for you always. I love you! The Purple Poet

Dearest Corey Doll, Well baby, we made it! Thanks for all the laughter and standing by through all the tears. The pier talks at camp. You're a very special person. Here's to a lasting friendship through the years to come. Friends forever! Coast Guards Rule! Love ya lots! Christopher Doll

Superior Song of '85! Remember: summer practices, (Kim and Di) #44, wearing our jackets when it was 95 degrees out, scrubbing my driveway, spiders and Ben-Gay at camp, sleeping in the "Rah" and seeing a "Yell Moon," practicing all hours of the night, giving people goose bumps, got a problem "cal 1-800-957————," "It's a miracle," sleep over and kidnapings, first rally, "renob," and "contagiousness." Thank goodness girls, we rose above the quarrels. We have had great times together cheering, camp, practices, and everything else. Let's hear it for the milkmaids! Do we set precedent or what? We finnaly got to see the locker room, yea! You know "we're not groupies!" Smiles — always looking perfect. Can't believe you finally started smiling. Dizzy — thanks for always being so concerned with everyone. What happened to the Cauliflower? Mabear — special friendships should endure all. Thanks for taking care of us. Liddles — will we ever forget those X's, my Bodarrion twin? Baby we will always be stars. Twinkles — contagiousness ran rapid with us C.L.'s, M.M.'s, and marriage dreams with our first dreams. Thank you for "the best of Superior Times!" I love you all and with the best for you in all you do. I hope as Head I did a job you all could live with. It had to be at least okay. None of you died. Well my Superior friends, I'll never forget Senior Year '85. We'll always be at "The Top of the Charts." Love, Vicky (She-Bop)

Val and Mia, The fearsome foursome. We've had some great times. New Year's Eve, Disneyland. Val: you're cruel and unkind — the green M&M. Don't lose your microscope. Mia: don't forget to test them out. And remember, the dead can rise again. You guys are the greatest. Love, Karen

Christina: Hello my little ant. We have been through a lot these past three years, haven't we? But how can we forget all of the bad times too? All I know is that you are the best friend I have ever had and ever will have. Thanks for staying with me through all the bad times and for making the good times happen. But it was Saturday night I guess that makes it alright and I say what have I got to lose? Remember the six best things in life, we have to talk, I am so confused, Prince, Van Halen, problems with parents, party!, your attitude rubs off on me, Grease 1, Grease 2, all the right moves, little red Corvette, you need a love that is going to last, Blue skies forever, cruising, Carol and Jeremy, aim your goals high, surf buds, softball, softball tryouts, cars and driving, pandas, romance, summer and the beach, 1984, 1985, flirting, Mr. Right, older guys-Lance-Baby, horoscopes, green, plan A,B,& C, Chippendale's, music, money, no money, Keith Hagamen, sharing clothes, the blues sisters, dancing, wild summer nights, Bryan Adams, Scandal, bad relationships and some good ones, burning on Randy, wonder twins activate, Hawaii, our own house, your operation, hebe-gebe, bessy's, hey I need a job," Carlsbad, you're my inspiration, Atkins-who's that?, Tony breaking his leg, CRX and Mustang's, sharing everything, Tom Cruise, God, Blondes have more fun, surprises, surfer Joes, no hall buddies, heart-to-heart talks, "going" to parties, and that I love you very much. I am sure I have forgotten some things but I am sure you know what they are. Love always, your sis, Candy

Candy: it was Saturday night, I guess than makes it all right. Remember, Blues Sisters now and 4-ever. Skydiving Magazine You know what you gotta say sometimes ($18.00 worth), college guys. Remember the furniture store in Oceanside? White Carpet green chairs and UCLA. Our favorite and most-said line "We gotta talk." Remember "They're always together, one of them is walking up or down." Or, take off your shirt Brett, and Eric quit falling out of cars. "Mom, we're babysitting until 12:00." Remember the fight? Against All Odds — constantly. That's over with, THANK GOD. That was the worst time of my life. You're my Inspiration, You Light up my Life! And always will. "A Perfect Friend." And we make all the right moves, or wrong ones — no not anymore. Mrs. Popularity. Everybody watch out, here we come. Blue Skies Forever — all those memories. This could be our last chance but next year . . . I would die 4-U. Remember Tony stepping in the stormdrain.? Remember, Randy is such a ———? We must have said that a million times. And Wonder Twin Powers — Activate. "I hafta help Candy with Spanish." Remember all those wild summer nights — more to come. I wonna a cool rider, I need a c-o-o-l r-i-d-e-r. Mr. Sandman, bring us a dream, remember black'n'decker ——— wrecker. Why is it always us, you wonder sometimes, ya know. Loverboy, Prince, Madonna, — all memories, but I'll never forget your Grandpa and Van Halen. All the great times I've had were with you. I'll never forget them. Thanks for the memories — many more to come. Ya know what I mean. This summer is gonna be fun with our cars and cruising and everything. Beach, money from working and having fun. Thanks for everything, you're the greatest. I love you. B-B always, Love ya, Christina

Karebs, Remember: New Year's Eve — Sophomore and Junior years. Jay and the basketball game. Camp and the cute boy. Dressing up like ladies of the evening. Karen? The list goes on. We've had some great times doll. You're so special to me. Thanks for the memories. Love ya lots, Karebs

To Ben, my partner in both debate and yearbook: What can I say except you are terrific! You have put up with me through the deadlines. Unbelievable! You are my glue, meaning you have kept me together when I felt like forgetting about it all. All I can say is thank you for your patience and understanding. Don't ever change. Enjoy! Karyn

Shelb, Bill and Troy — our loves. We've spent more time discussing them than you've spent at school. Remember: Taquitos at your house, spaghetti at mine. Nights cruising Hollywood, days tanning in the sun. Hawaii — beware! We're on our way. Love ya, Karen P.S. I love men in uniforms.

My Darling Marine, I fondly remember our first kiss, the Ball, and Christmas together. You've always respected my wishes and I love you for that. Thanks for caring for, sharing with, understanding, trusting and protecting me. They mean so much. I love you dearly, Your China doll.

Hi Babyface Sweetie! Can't believe you're a senior. Now you're gonna leave me to bigger and better things. Going to miss you so much! We've spent a great 2½ years together and I know there'll be forever more to come. I love you so much! Love always and forever, Imac

April, my darling "lil" sis, you're bestest sis and friend ever! I'm so proud of all that you've done. You can now keep up the "tradition" you Sop "Pig" Cheerleader. I hope your years at CV are the best. This year was very special for me because you were a part of it. Thanks for the secret talks and listening to all my boy situations; there certainly were a lot of them. Well, I don't have to worry about your fitting in anymore. You certainly have found your place. Remember not to break too many hearts. Love your sis, Vicky

Melinda, don't you think we should be join a demolition derby? Anyway, thanks for standing by me. I was really glad to have your support. Plus, I had fun babysitting you, even though you made me fat on your Cookies'n'Cream. I wish you well in the immediate future and beyond. Don't end up juggling too many guys! Your most humble pal, Karyn

Dear Ghandi! Remember always, L.C.H.R.P. River trip, Butterfingers and Hanson's Mandarin Lime, Guido Vido Pope Power. Drink a Pepsi catch a wave, Dave's party palace, surfing with the Neva clan, Correy's aftershave. Hey cupcake face, Ay hoser. Shorty and Roney. 4 wheelin' Little-rock style. Let's see if anyone notices we're gone, Shh. Sending smoke signals from John's truck. Supercross. I wish I was Eddie Murphy. Mr. Rogers is my buddy. Dean? Man or myth? Bob and Doug forever. Drive-in movies. Man dares to go where only cows have gone before. Bandini Mountain. Bonfire at Disneyland. Love Harri Krishna

Trish, (T.J.), where do I start? We've come such a long way together. You and your friendship have become a part of me that can never be replaced. How could it be? There is no one like you. You understand me like no one else does and I know that I have put you through a lot! Thanx for sticking around. We have so many experiences: Newport, parties, football games, stupid arguments, sad moments, and happy ones, more parties, and so much more. And believe me that is just the beginning! There are only 3 words that can really describe what you mean to me: I love you! Who knows what my senior year will be like because you won't be here? I already miss you so much. Trish, what will I do without you for a whole year? I know I'll stick it out, but it's only because I'll be thinking about college, moving out, and being roomates with you. We both have grown up so much! Thanx for being more than my best friend!! Love always, Kirst

Brian (Doc Marshall), where do I begin? We have been through so much. But we made it. You mean everything to me and always will. My feelings for you will never fade. There are only 3 words that sum it up: I love you! Thanx for understanding and putting up with me. The memories I have of our being together are so special. You will always be loved by me no matter where our ambitions or goals are going to take us in the years to come. Thanx for making my junior year worthwhile. Bri, you are the best!! Thank you for letting me be a part of your life. Just remember, "I care for you more than words could ever say!" And also remember that I love you! Love, Kirst

Michelle, Micky, Shane, Markos, Mark, Vache. Thanks for being such great friends. I've had so many fun times and so many memories. Remember skating, our bet and the losers buy dinner? That was great. I know I'll see all of you during the summer. I love you all! Christine Burkholder

Deena (Dingie), Hi! I'm really glad we're best friends. You've helped me out with most of my problems, and you've always been there for me. Thank you for everything you've done. I love you and I'll see you this summer. Love always, best friends, friends 4-ever! Christine Burkholder

The Mighty Yoo-Jinoid! Welcome to Pizza Hut! Make it a large; medium charge. Remember all the bad times of the past 3 years? Algebra teachers, study sessions, perfect essays, chemistry, The Cud, bent lockers, bloody knuckles and learning BASIC at 1:00 a.m.. Regardless, we had some gnarly moments too. Blondes; let's go bah 'opping; 302 Boss; PCC registration — "You can trust me"; College Tour bunk chats; Granadas & 4X4's rule; career choices, and Karate Champ. Whatever college we go to, we shall surely be buddies forever, even if I'm just a clumsy white boy. With all luck, we'll have Stanford, sizzling blondes and success. Take care, and wash your car. Irish Stud.

Gurly! We're halfway there! In ten more years, you'll be a doctor and I'll be a lawyer, each of us handling the other's problems! Remember junior high, video games, computer programming, cars, Homecoming, insane driving, your speech, confirming my picks for you (as far as women are concerned) physics problems, and baloney essays. You're a great friend, Gary, and I hope you enjoy college. Your pal, Sean. P.S. keep an eye out for those cute Oriental chicks.

To the best two guys to come from Needles. Painting the inside of the house was not fun. One very special summer. Long talks, swimming, listening to problems. Those memories are made forever. Life-long friends and friendship forever. You guys are so special. Love, your sis

Dear Tyla, I'm really glad I met you. I love you more than anything. You're the greatest person in the world, and I couldn't live without you. You make my life a lot better and I couldn't be happier. I look forward to being with you forever and always sharing our lives. Without you, I'm lost. I couldn't be happier with anyone else. You are my inspiration and I love you because you are you and the best. I will always love you and no one else. I look forward to seeing your happy face every day and to have you be there for me when I need you. You have been there when I needed you and I love ya very much. I know we'll be together forever and ever. I hope I can give you as much happiness as you've given me. We've had a lot of super times and lots more to come. Let's always look forward and never backwards. You and I shall have a great life and I love you very much. Remember, we're going to be together forever and you are my inspiration. Love you always and forever, Ed

To the silver B's: Sully — say "hi" to your mom. I love yearbook, no pressure. Hershel — Glad you found a woman. "Howz it goin' Huck!" River — Meatballs are my favorite. Don't eat at my house! Rabbit — Let's talk about woman problems. Or how about basketball with your pop? Johnny — Can I study your physiology and anatomy? Let's go to San Luis. Only 24 hours in my car. Belushi — It's Christmas time; who are all these people at my house? Damon — Wake up. Psychology is over. "Won't you be my neighbor?" Jeffrey — I'm glad the feud is over. You funny fella. 100 dollars at 11:41. Eric — Let's build a pyramid! Who will buy . . . call Jeff. Dolby — Let's race to Homecoming. We were both mad! (Double Meaning). Guys — A toast to us. C.L. Tennis Open rules. Hi Ho Silver. Can I have a ride to the beach? Don't get grounded. Love, Wally

Brett J. Anderson — Where do I start? You're such a special person to me. I spent 2 of the most important years of my life with you. I promise you I'll never forget them. I know I didn't always make you happy, but I never stopped loving you. We had so many special times together that I will never forget. Especially the beach. I meant everything I ever told you and still do. I'm gonna show you someday, so I can make you proud of me. The love is gonna always be there. You're always gonna be my favorite baseball player and I'll never forget your baby-fine hair. All I ask is to never forget this: NO ONE WILL EVER LOVE ME LIKE YOU HAVE AND I'LL NEVER LOVE ANYONE LIKE I LOVE YOU. I mean it and I love you. Kim November 30

Vince, Jan, Jenny, April, Vicky, thanks 4 being my friends (Hope you are my friends). Your sister Jessica is a . . . . April, glad we are friends, hope we become better friends. Vicky, Hi, hope you have a radical summer and never change. Remember Darrik, Cort, Mike, and I Would die 4U? (Ha, Ha). Vince, Jennifer DUD likes you. (Have you noticed). Prince is a flamming foe along with Bille Idol. Manny Norman Chavez. How's the guy, guy? Eric "Stark" Naked is a geek and suffers from W.B.S. 2April I can't fight this feelingmilo.

Gary, Hey 12-year buddies, not bad, huh? CV Yell and Bob Roberts for ever. This year has been killer. We have a lot of rad memories in pics and mind. He's too young to die? England was hot. They're waiting for our return. The all-American Pub. Dude I'll pay for that. Genstar. Ha! You'd better go to Hawaii. Tim woops! Well I talk to you every day so I'll talk to you later. John B. P.S. I want a starring role.

Trish, you're such a special friend. We've had so many fun times together. I want you to know that you're very special to me and I'm gonna miss you a lot next year. Don't forget about the fun we had at Newport, Drew's house, parties, etc. It's been great. Thanx for listening to my problems. I could never have made it without you. Thanx for being my friend. I love ya, Kim

Dearest Maureen, What a woman! You are a terrific friend. For the past 10 years we've been real close, and I hope we remain that way for the 10 years to come. We've shared so much, all the talks and fun times, it has been wonderful! Best of luck in P.C.C. "Are you ready for the summer?" Ha-Ha keep in touch. I'll always be there for you. Don't hesitate to call. Oh well, remember the great times in the past as well as looking forward to the new memories. I love you! Love always, Kath

Dam Hi! Gotcha for once. This year sure has been different, hasn't it. Things didn't exactly go how we wanted them, but look how things ended up. I couldn't ask for a better friend. We've been through a lot together, and believe me, I will never forget about it! I'll never forget about P.D. and I hope you won't either. I'm gonna miss your smiling face next year, but you know it will be in my thoughts. You hold a special place in my heart and will forever. I gotta motor! All my love, Kim

Chrissey, (Correy Doll). Do you believe it? We are seniors! I never thought we would make it. Well, we did. And to top it off, we are friends too. There were many times when when I thought we would end up enemies. I am glad we didn't. Love Always, Michelle (Carrie Doll)

Dawn, Sharin, Christine, Kim: Thanks for making my senior year the best it could ever be. I will remember this year for the rest of my life. I hope your senior year is as much fun as mine was. Have a great senior year. Love Michelle (Shellie)

Jill, (Christopher Doll): Well we made it, we are graduating. We have been friends for six years now. Our friendship has gone through a lot, but has made it. I am glad we are still friends. Friends for life! Love Always, Michelle (Carrie Doll)

Merd the Mary Cathrine — My Kids — Roj — Smell ya. We are on a mission. Juliane's Doll Dance — Supergirl — Nightwatch Munchies, Night Rehearsal, the guy following us knows. Teach me how to drive, Roj. Your clutch doesn't smell!! 42nd Street. Thanks for all the great times. I love you! Mom — Chris AAAMMMYYY! Remember Homecoming? Rah! Vacuum! Yellowhead! Helium! N.Boy! Oedipus! Andrew! Andrew??? Maybe baby! Broadstreet! Proceed to your right! Odyssey conversations, guys! I could marry that fool! We have had an incredible senior year — I hope the RAHS don't end here. Candy grams — we were so subtle! FRIENDS FOREVER, MEENAH! RAH!

Andrea: You've been such a great friend — listening to my adventures with Taylor, my crude jokes, and now my indecisiveness about Nick(y!?). I just know I couldn't have made it thru francais without you!!! We still need to go scamming! Now! Let's stay in touch wherever we are. Love, Mina

Hey Captain! How ya doing! Well, it's time for old Shimo to check out of this dump and get on with life. I'll still be around, so watch your back. We'll have to go to the Rose Parade again and reassemble the Bomb Squad. Hey Dude! What's that? Battery Acid! Let me try it! Wow . . . I can't breathe! I forgot how to breathe! Taste Great!! Less Filling!! Taste Great ! We have to send Scruffy some obscene letters. Brad! Janet! Dr. Scott! Rocky! Uh! Everyone's here. I know it! Alan's an Iguana! Rush JAMS! Khemistree sucks! Laserium, the cons, movies, Rose Parade. Like the world's a blur! The tear's were a lot of fun Capt. and I'm glad we're still friends. You mean a lot to me and I'll do anything for you. Never surrender, my friend, because there's a world out there to conquer. Remember, PLAY TO WIN! Your Friend, Shimo

Bryant, We grew up together, you and I. Singing songs, making mud pies. Running around till after dark, playing together in the park. Going swimming at the beach and always within each other's reach. You were always there to lend me a hand, to show me you care and understand. You helped me with problems at home or at school. You showed me the way, you taught me the rules. And now, big brother, I want you to know that in my heart you'll be with me, wherever you go. Love, your sis, Debbie

Cort, You're one of a kind and so very special to me! I always say I hate you, but my heart knows I care. I look into your eyes just to find an empty stare. You never have time for me, because of someone new. I know that she can't love you half as much as I still do. It shows she's won your heart, that much I already know. I at least deserve your friendship, don't pretend to be my foe. When I couldn't find myself, you were patient, you were there. Please don't say you hate me, show me that you care. When you first asked me to dance, I knew it had to be fate. Just answer my one question, does your heart say love or hate? Your admirer now and forever

Spacey, Hey Baby! What more can I say, except you're the best friend a person could ever hope for. We both got stuck with the biggest jerks of the world, got hurt, and still loved them. Talk about stupid! Then there's church. L.O.T.S. Never had a worse time in our lives. We've shared so many laughs and almost as many tears. Cheer — Song tryouts, two school nights at Rhonda's. I've never stayed up so late actually working. Coming home sick together to watch movies. Sixteen candles, Jake Ryan, our Chinese exchange student, and of course our beautiful red Porsch. A great dream huh? What am I going to do when you graduate? I guess you could wait a year or I could leave early. Then we'll go to University of Newport. Is there any such thing? Then there's my sixteenth birthday. If anyone can keep a secret it's you! But I'm glad you did. The mustang, the car radio, the door, Chet and Dan, Mr. Stampman, I got a twitch, moo, napkins, I stepped on it and broke it in half, broccoli and A1 sauce, circle drive-ways, It's too quiet! Vitamin C, shaving cream, lysol, toothpaste, bubble bath, and endless memories of my sixteenth birthday. Fifties music, "Oh my heck" were getting old. Microwave popcorn, yuck! Taking the station wagon. Parties at your apartment. Ha. Ha. Just laugh. We've never stopped scamming or gotten over what's his name and what's his face. But sometimes you gotta say . . . I could go on forever, but why be boring like some people at the breakfast table? Just want to say that life is going to be Supercalifragilisticexpeallidoshious!! Or SSSSSuper hot! Thanx for being my inspiration. You helped me through so much! You're the greatest, besides me, of course. HaHa! Keep smilin'! And remember "Bunny rabbits" every time you're on the rally platform. Love always, "The Material Girl" P.S. Do burritos and orange spray light on fire? Let's try ice cream next. Otay Buttwheat?

Brett — I wanted to show you how much you really do mean to me, so I decided to write this just for you. You are a very special person to me. I love you so much. I know we've had our share of problems but hey, we always seem to work it out. I truly love you and I always will. We've shared some special times and I'm sure there will be many more. I hope we stay together forever and forever. I'm so glad I met you because you taught me how to love. I love you, Karen

Karen Denise — Six years of devoted friendship — Quarter after 5:30? I promise to go to class today. Want something from Jack-N-the-Box? Bet the guys won't stay home since we are out. Tell Joe to get a grip and die! No more being detectives. Waitress, do you have something else besides pizza? Oh — Ya big circle of friends huh? You're the best and you could never know how lucky I am to have a best friend like you. I love ya, Chris

Al-bear-Allister! Hey, are you ready for the summer? (haha) I'm glad you're my buddy — pal. We've had some real blasty times! Ski! You animal! Who do you wanna attack? I attack Greg! I got some Ilcee Creem! Wanna lick? Hi — Dawn O., Laraysa, Steve W., and Jenny E. Love you, Marti-bear

To all the people I have encountered in this senior year. From suspension to New Years to Graduation, I really had fun. High school is over, but the fun, the laughter, and the heartbrakes have just begun. Even though I was always grounded, it was sure worth it. This summer will be super. To the gangs the groups, the triads, the friends and especially to all those problems: Life's worth it all, don't waste it. Love, Brent Gilmore

Cindy P., "toy-toy, poky bear, Pin-e, Por-he, Spank-y, Butwheat, Ahaah, Whaaat!" Beach bums, motorcycle riding, "kid America!" "Cleaning belly buttons," Beef jerky, Bike riding 19 miles! Gymnastics, Boys, "baby oil tans," Parties, McDonalds, "rough housing," Yahtzee, Teepeeing! Tumbling down Waterman's face! Love Ya, BEST FRIENDS always and forever! Good Luck! Susie M.

Teri — Where do I begin? Do I start back when we were 5, or just hit on the greatest times of my life with you? Like all good friendships, ours had its ups and downs: I can't even remember! The times I had the most fun, and the memories I hold so dear to my heart . . . those are the ones I can remember like yesterday. Remember that summer at McGrath? Pretty much where it all started, huh? Or did it start when you went to Europe and sent me that postcard? Or was it when you came over to my house when we were really little and played the Wizard of Oz game — remember? — I was Dorothy and you were the Tin Man. You do have a heart, Teri. And as we grew older and closer I realized this more and more! You have been such a special friend to me. I can't even begin to name the many things we have shared. Emotions were probably the most eye opening of them all! Love, hate, hurt, excitement, pain, happiness, and yes — even victory and defeat. We introduced each other to things such as sports, jobs, and other past times (not named) that have grown to be an important part in each of our lives. I cherish the time I have spent with you and will never forget the late-night conversations, the tears, the smiles that we have shared. Without you, Teri, I would not be who I am today. I love you, Teri. Kara

Heather — The ups and downs seemed to be never — ending, Heather — but I think we are both big enough to overcome our differences . . . even though we are probably more alike than we will ever care to admit. I do enjoy your company, and I do value your friendship. You are an important person in my life, and I do love you. (I just had to clear that up!) We can't change the times we have shared, both good and bad, and I don't think that I would want to. I think that we are both better people for those times. Thanks, Heather, for being there for the times that I did need you. You are special to me. Kara xo

Col: hiya noodle buddy. You're the very best friend anyone could have. We've had so many good times! Hello ladies, Camp Fox, Rincon, Bishop, Darwin, Moonies Mother's Day, one hundred retarded boys, Disneyland, "Come on in . . ." Wonder Twins, Clark nights, STOP! Bobby Mc Gee's. Love, Chaca

'84 Drill Team: CAMP — Sweat box, southern accents, Julie's all-blue ribbons, Kelly and I go Aloha, Melissa's crazy stunts, car trouble, too hot. HALFTIME — 8 to 12 summer practice, 7:30 morning practice, performance uniforms we all loved, music mess-ups, learning routines in three days and you guys never complained, a grand finale of "Jump," a "Spirit Pom," a first place in Verdugo Days parade and at Chaffey. ALLTIME — special friend Bayzie, greatest learning experience and most exciting 5 months of my life. You all game me something fabulous — confidence in myself. Remember, FRIENDS ARE FOREVER and ONE SET OF FOOTPRINTS. Love, Brenna

Christina, E really don't know where to start. All the times we've shared have been the best. Some of the people we could've done without, but at least we experienced them together. Thanks for always stickin' by me when I needed you most. Thanks for all the times you would talk to me on the phone just because I was upset. Remember Kevin's truck? I don't think any more needs to be said. I'm sure you remember. All the times we shared were great and sometimes unreal, like Ron's house, Brian — Paul language — Eating at Del Taco — Toro Do Oro (gosh, if we weren't there, where were we?) I'll never forget your first time eating while driving on the freeway. You're the best, Chris. We are almost out of school; I hope we can keep on being the best of friends forever. You are so special to me; you've helped me so much. It's hard to write about the great times we've had because there are so many. Thanks for everything. I love you very much, bestfriend. Hi Darren! We'll get to know each other one of these days. I love you Chris! Love Always, Your Best friend, Karen Denise Brettzoid, Hey big guy! We're busting this joint for good! But we have had some superb times in school, too. Remember 6th grade-archeological digs? Playing Space Battle in Rosemont's amphitheatre, English teachers, baseball, computer-mania, Cool-Ray glasses, Nike pouch jackets, Health and Guidance women (big mistakes), ditching band, cafeteria conversations, American History seminars (gonna catch a big one), ragging on bad presidents, politically-oriented arguments, chemistry labs, group tests, trig study sessions (big logs; chain gang rule), drooling over women in adjacent seats, pageant-winner, pencil-throwing revenge, College Tour (Music infection, head-banging, slime scraping, & strong aisle walkers), College Board tests, applications (Express mail), Calculus dawn patrol with "The Cud," Grrrr Watson, Quock, Sneeze rule, all the uglies, casual parties, double-dating, Eddie Murphy, Animal House pillows, Yearbook copy, great music, Homecoming, Basketball games, giving (and receiving) pinches from sexy women, and finally, just talking about everything that was part of these memorable years of our lives. Wherever we end up — Cal, Stanford, Cornell, Yale, Princeton, or Brown — surely we shall reap (not rape) success. You are a great pal, Brett, and I hope we can remain brothers forever. Your friend, Sean (Irish name, of course). P.S. Take off that hat.

Mon amour, "Sans toi je ne pourrais plus vivre mon amour," volia ce qu'on dit quand on aime pour toujours. Ce qu'on a est vraiment special pour nous deux. Mais a ce temps je vais dire comment je sens. J' espere que cet juste le début d'un long et joyeuse amitie. Je peu te donner un part de moi que personne a ni connaitre. Je tiens proche les temps quand on parles, les temps quand on est juste silencieux, quand on s'engage dans des aventures et quand on fais l'amour. Tu est le prince que je toujours revais. Il n'a pas de mots qu exprés comment je sens quand tu est proche, quand tu tiens ma main, quand tu regardes dans mes yeux, quand tu me touche. Je peu seulement dire: Je t'aime mon amour. Ton meilleur ami et amour.

Diana, You are a dear friend and a wonderful person. Thank you for being always there and caring. We have shared a lot of good times which we will always remember. The whole world is waiting for us. Il y a beaucoup d'hommes; ouvre tes yeux et regard! There is someone just right for you out there waiting. Hee Hee! Love, Nat.

Sheri, Fufu — What can I say, buddies forever? of course! Your friendship is special to me. Thank you for the support and the laughs. I expect to see your name in lights, babe! Love, Nat.

To The Staff and most wonderful advisor, Mrs. Peterson, Each and everyone of you is special. I could spend hours and take up piles of space to write what you deserve to hear. What the world needs now is You! Your hard work and dedication proved that we can always perform better under pressure. It was a very rewarding experience. Thank You! Love you all, Natalie.

Laura: The person who was always there to support and help me when I was down and to laugh with me when I was in my hyper moods. All of our convos, all of the advice that you have given me, all of the laughter and tears that we have been through together in only a year and a half. Sis it seems like we've known each other forever. You're a special friend which I could not have done without. Thanks for putting up with me at my worst. You're really special, and next year I'm really going to miss you. One more year then we can have cheesecake on surfboards with no Santa Claus. I love the friendship that you have given me and all that you have done for me. You have everything going for you. Make your senior year the best. Love you lots and always, John

Boobala, learn to drive and watch out for those mailboxes and hang on to your turn indicator. I won't be there to lend you a fork. Where is your locker? You are such an individual. I love you, so we are going to stay close. Mia-the-Mess, I'm going to miss you. You can make me smile when I'm on the verge of tears. Don't ever conform! Love, you locker buddy

Laura — Well, what more can I say than THANKS! You've made this year one of the best I've ever had. You are the greatest! I hope your college days are good for you because you deserve it. Just remember you'll always be close to my heart. With love, Brett

To the legendary unit: Drew, Ed, Smiles, Al, Mase, Mad Dog, Beav, Marvelous Marcus, Doctor Defense, Phil and Squirrel. You guys are awesome. I have memories of this team that will last forever. Who ever thought that within frames all less than 6ft.,3in. would beat hearts the size of mountains? The 1984-1985 team restored school enthusiasm and faith, and that's something we should all be proud of. Take it easy, guys. I'm gonna miss you all. — From the man who added new meaning to the phrases "frozen rope" and "personal foul," CAVEMAN P.S. — Just to clarify things, the rims at Palm Springs were not too low . . . the floor was just springy, O.K.? (I won't tell if you don't)

Amazon Pal, are those shoes from Saks Fifth Avenue? Bookends are the best, Rha, Rha. I owe you five dollars and always will. You are a special person. I love how you accept people for who they are. I love you hoardes. Thanks for being so tall. Love, Amazon Pal

Brian Martin — Friends in Kindergarten, friends in high school, friends forever. Thanks, Phil, for everything. Jim Smiley

Brock Pauly, the world's best young comedian, and the only living being that has made me laugh more than Eddie Murphy. Golly Jeepers, Shucks, Gee Whiz, Wow (all the preceeding were dirty words until the yearbook staff edited them) Anyway, it looks like you'll be back to terrorize Hollwood Bowl patrons and employees with your mean penknife this summer. Good job. Well, Bruiser, I'm going bye-bye to the big school in a few weeks, but you know that we'll be together forever as the uncles of each other's children (I put that one in so that people would have to think). You will always be the best friend and greatest brother that anyone could ever have, as well as the biggest party animal the world has ever seen. You're the greatest, Brock. Love, Big Brother (Harry — mano mayor)

Raph — Our three-year term has expired. We have come to the end. No more early-morning practices, no more late-after-school practices. No more screwing around. You're a good man, Raphi. High school is where I first met you, and now it is gone. Roundball was worthwhile because we made it that way. You'll never forget all of those things we've done; those funny, crazy times that we had that will go unmatched in life. What a high school life! Although high school has ended, our friendship goes on. Thanks, Raph, for everything. — Jim Smiley,

Egg, thank you sooo much for just being my good friend. We have spent a lot of good times together and I hope for many more. Too bad this year could not have been better, but next year we will make it our best. Thanks again. The pipe buddies, your friend Stanky

J. Horan — Well, bro, you made it through your first year of high school. Three more to go. Make them the best years ever. Stick to CC and you'll definitely make CIF. Watch the MXC's. Take care and best wishes to you. Love, your bro, John

Steven J. Allen — What it is. What it was. What it will be. What it is — It is the end of our happy-go-lucky control-the-school lives. It is also the beginning of our real lives, the lives of more responsibilities, and the lives that will provide us with a bigger playground to control and reign over. It is a turning point. What it was — It was perhaps the best three-year stint of our lives. It was a time that we accomplished feats we had no business accomplishing. Remember taking the "A" away from Gary K.? Getting the 30 hours of work for government? Who can forget yelling for "Walter"? The list is endless. Our staff was great, they were so helpful. All of them, Kenny and Sam especially. What it will be — It will be exactly as we make it. It will be . . . And we both know it. We can't let it get away. — Jim "Jump-Back-You-Know-The-Rest" Smiley

Irish Cameraman — I know we argued and fought about some pretty dumb things, but you were always considered a friend. Thanx for confiding in me. Don't ever change for anyone!!! And try to remember that no matter how hard you try, you can't please everyone, especially members of the opposite sex! (I think you found that out the hard way.) Once Berkeley gets a hold of you, Sean, *you'll never be the same nice, conservative Republican again, I guaran*tee it! I'll still love you, though. (It's that leprechaunish grin!) — Amie

To the author of the above expression — IT's JUST SO RIDICKULUS!!!!! HEY, FRED, HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO . . . (I'm sorry, Tim, I just could not control myself . . .) Well, Amie, do YOU know who this is?

Julie Beeee, TLG, I'm so glad that we have become so close. All of our talks and advice. You are a special person to me. You still owe me a pizza. Take care. Keep in touch. Love you always, TLG. John

Hey my woman. Just wanted to remind you of how much I love you, but you already know that. Oh, well, still, anyway, did I get all of 'em. I love you. Remember, Rythm and Blues forever. All my love, you Baba.

To Eddie Earlobes and the Stormin' Mormon — Three years has never been more fun. The 'Stang is looking mighty sweet. Thank heavens for the A/C in the Camino. Whoa! There go some "elbows" For Free my ———! Hey!! Thank you!!! You weenie! There go your books and doughnuts!!! Get Back! (Cough) Sub, babe! Insert left thumb in left ear and extend hand across the face . . . "BUH!" B.B. has been great. Norm, you missed an interview . . . Buh! Powell giving us the notices for Andrews. Buh on me. George, you gotta grab a !doo! (So do you, Jim, in the Soph. picture) "But Coach Goff., if they're deaf-mute, how can they hear each other?" Als, you're 22 down with JW. You're so hatin' it. Paul McC. was sweet in Vegas. Als, Harv, what are you using the lighter for? We keep Winchell's and Pecos in business. Smiles, you can't play Yahtzee at all! Ingrid and I schooled ya. Wow! Look at all the candy. Als delivers a mighty Buh on the USC band. They gotta go! Hey la-dy, look at the coupon. Buh, Jim! Get off our bench! Ow! A golden splinter! Jim, you had 11 T.O.'s and 10 assists. Funny, I only counted 8. Three-in-the-key against Muir! Sorry, Als. Als, grab a smile in the JV picture! (Lawdle, lawdle! Say "peanuts") Hey, this is getting expensive! See ya. — Phil

Cherie — You're the most special girl in my life. You will always hold a special place in my heart. The times we spend together are so wonderful, I never want them to end. I'm the happiest person in the world and I owe it all to you. I love you — Mark

Lynda — Hi, cutie! You are so cute, unique, special, loving and loved. You have so much going for you. I could never complete a list! We will go shopping and you can choose my wardrobe! I'm jealous, but I love ya! Your buddy, Stace

To CV's #1 swimmer! Oh, Kara, I just can't believe we are graduating! What happened to the little girl who cheated at the Wizard of Oz? We have been through so much together and you have had such an impact on my life. You brought out a side of me that I never knew existed: The crazy side! I'm going to miss you so much! I know our opposite personalities have clashed before, but I think that is also what I love about you — you are so different! Don't you dare change. "I need no reminder, Kara . . ." Teri

Senile E. Williams — (A.K.A.'s — The Mad Irishman, Sean-Boy, Shutterbug, etc.) "This is History, bud, you can't fool me, I see the globe in the back of the room . . . Hey, Mr. Hand, what's your problem? YOU ———!!!" Wow, has it been nine years? Well, I hardly know where to begin. How about a "never forget" list: Space Battle, Polish-Irish-Oriental jokes, you shaving your head, the car rally, passing the basketball bus, Eric Keyes only said three sentences all night, but they were all the truth. Unfortunately, the only time we listened was when he said that he was going to lose his dinner . . . 4-wheeling atop Verdugo Hills Hospital, trying to convince Mindy and Laura thay they would not lose their innocence if they came over Saturday night, losing sleep and losing our minds over a 7:00 Calculus class, "Now everybody, . . . Have you heard . . ." You chasing a finback or two, and, Sean, what about those girls' locker room pictures that I ordered . . . I mean, do I have to do everything myself? Weeelll, Oookaaay, if I must, So, how do you work this gadget, anyway? Sean-Boy, don't give up hope, Nixon is still alive, and he may become President again someday. Yes, I'm sorry that he had to take a vacation too . . . . What's that? Democrats are what? . . . Well, of course you're right, but that's not a nice thing to say, and they wouldn't print it anyway . . . . . By the way, I would have listed every girl that you half-fell-in-love-with, but our pages and my bank account are both limited. Take it easy, you know that you're a person that I'll never forget. — Brettzoid

Jim, remember: creating truancies, twisted ankles, Student Awareness club, FITH, getting the grade, shampoo, dropped notebooks and wallets, Presidential rallies, campaign hours, essays, the gun, Pecos and Winchells, bulletins, Ben, Sam, Gary, Walt, busses, Jitterbug, monkeys in sports coats, water over the stalls, "hey, come here and help me fix the lights," and a can of blue paint. We held the school in the palms of our hands. Now our high school years are over. We made the most of them. I'll never forget the times we had. You've been a true friend. The world is ours. Oh, by the way, before I forget, you're up 26. — Al

Darrin — Well, the year is over and you're out forever. I hope your Senior year was fun. I just wanted to tell you how special you are to me. I'll love you forever. Thanks for all those great memories. There are a lot more to come. Have a great summer and a great life. You deserve the best there is. I love you, Cindy

To the boys! Poker anyone? What was that? Spoons! No, let's play killer. What was the question? What size? One size fits all. So when are we gonna race again? T.P. John's car? No way! Let's go to In-N-Out! What was that? Party! Hermosa cars, Hall and Oats, Golf course. F. test hot line! May I help you? "That's so burnt." Well there is so much to say and not enough money to pay it with. We love ya! Good luck to you all. Kim Suzanne and Kristy

Shputz, If you haven't guessed by now, you're the most important person in my life. Thanks for just being you. You're the greatest. The past two years have been the best. If I hit 21 before you (prophesy), then I will at least have fulfilled one thing in my life. I will have had the best friend anyone could have. Do you realize how big the universe is? URFITH2, you mean a lot (Two Words) to me. Thanx. Your friend forever, "Dark coffee, brown and tan." I love you.

Sher Bear . . . Well, we've made it through another year. Remember the good times, with Randy — of course. And the bad times like being stranded at La Tuna. Well, you'll always be the greatest friend. — Love ya, Pickle

Heidi — What can I say? You're the most caring friend I have. You've always been there for me, during each crisis. You've made my senior year gr — 8, the only regret I have is that you aren't a senior too. I'll never forget all our memories. I luv U!

Wendi, Lisa, Jeneane, Trisha, Kem, Kirsten, Theresa — Girls!! Wild Girls!! In Trisha's car to Del Taco. Always boyscounting at the beach!! Switching boyfriends from one of us to another. We never miss a function or a day of school because we love and cherish CV. Wild Times and Friends 4-Ever. Theresa C.

Al, What good times we've had and some bad. Dilemas with Jack, Elton, and Dave. That party, boy what fun!! Tripping over pebbles, stumbling down stairs, talking to cute strangers, boy were we wierd. Being uncomfortable around Larry and Art. Lee picking his teeth and looking at himself when he walks; all that hair! How funny! Always friends no matter what. Forget the past, think of the good times to come; what's done is done. Good luck in the future. Love, Mike

Karen, Friend of the 3.333's forever. Safeway and animal cookies! D.N. and B.M. you'll get one with that well-structured pinky. I am going to miss you everyday and telling you everything. You are such an incredibly special person and I wish you knew it. I've been able to admit my feelings to you almost before I could admit them to myself. Thank you for understanding me — At times I felt like you were the only person who did. "Scarecrow I think I'll miss you most of all" I love you sooo much. Love, Kim

To my not-so-little-sister Nan. We've been through so much these past years, and we make it without any marks. Now that I'm graduating you'll be the last of the Beaver's kids in CV. Make this last year of yours a good one! Sit back, relax and enjoy! But keep those grades up. Love always, Your BIG sis, Suzie

P.V. (Perverted WHAT?!?!?!?) — It hasn't been all that great between us this year, but I think everything's finally gonna' be O TAY!! You were my bestest buddy, and I still look back on the crazy things we did and wish it could be the same. Oh well, our memories still are and will always be special. Don't get too strange up at Berkeley! (you know, all the free-thinking liberal radicals who might take advantage of you). Next time we have to go to the bathroom, let's find a better place than a dark alley in the middle of Glendale ok? Well, did you teach him how to ———— to your satisfaction yet? Thanks for all you did in YB, esta muy bien (ah, but good at what?!? that's the question!?! I bet he knows !!!) "You've got a friend," Love, Amie (CRAP)

Dear Philip Cortney, you survived with a little of your sanity. But that's okay! I want to wish you the best of luck at USC. I will always remember all the fun the two of us had together — Thank you for being there! I love you lots, Lumpy

Jeneane — My bestest Pal — Where are all the boys?! How about a date?? Dreams — R.R. and N.F. Robbie, we are BEST friends!! Let's go shopping to the Beverly Center because by the end of the week I will have $1,000 from cleaning houses. Then we will be beach bound in your new convertible rabbit, but I will have to drive because you don't get your permit until next month. Oreo cookie-ice cream, California lenomade, FOOD .....DIET?!?!?! Wow, Madonna!! How do you get to 321 club?! Who is Ann Taylor?? Trader Jows!?!? See ya!!! Your Wild and crazy friend — Theresa

TO SOME SPECIAL SENIOR GUYS: John, Damon, Mike, Jim, Darrin, Danny, Jeffs. You're the best!!! So many memories but enough money to express them all. I wish you all the best of luck always. Let's K.I.T. Love Ya all very much! Julie

Lorna, (roadrunner), thanks for becomming so close this year. Bob? No, that's Bill. Running out of gas on the freeway, T.P.ing with Tortie and Grandma Mo, Numero Uno's onion rings. You've been a great friend to me. Please let's keep it that way. Love, Jamie (Van Gogh)

Superior Songleaders of 1985, what a year!!! Music never working, "our jackets are where?!" I want tall stools with backs. Yuk, they turned yellow. Painting until 10:00 pm. Scrubbing Vic's driveway. Summer practices, my funeral. Then there was camp. Going for the GOLD!!! 5 superior ribbons. We deserved the trophy. The raids at night. Shut up and go to sleep. Vicky, turn off the lights, you're head. Our boats, which bow? Sleeping in the ———!! Getting caught by yell. Contagiousness, Oh, ———!! Practicing until midnight while Arcadia partied with Yell. I have Pompons!! Spending the night at Janel's. Telling Kim we're at Vicky's cabin. Kim believing it. Vicky's miracle. From "Betty Lou" to "Lucky Star" and, of course, "I'm number one," cause that's what we are/ NO other squad will be as SUPERIOR. I will always remember our days together. I LOVE YOU SONGLEADERS!! Love, Twinkles

Kim, Not enough words could describe the times we've had. Sop Pigs to Superior Songleaders. Laughing, Crying, Dreaming, and loving every minute of it. Driving around in Peggysue all night looking for B.C. Playing our stupid games. Please don't forget the friendship that we've had. I love you, Jamie

Whooshka — Can you believe we've become this close after being so far apart? It's been great. C.L.'s then M.M.'s, Florida and Mission Viejo. What a guy!! Contagiousness. There just isn't enough space to say what I want. Just that I love you. Let's continue to strengthen our friendship. Love, Whooshka

Be Fri Christine: We've had so many good memories together. I'm really grateful for our friendship. It's lasted through thick and thin. Thanks for being there. I love you. St Ends Deena.

Janel — Lifetime friend! I have so many memories of our friendship that I can't start to write them, but I want to say "THANKS" for someone to talk to. I hope all your dreams come true sometime in the future. Best Buddies, Love ya! Julie

To the two C's, I could say life is really movin' but I won't, cause we already know that — I will say just remember — Blue Skies forever, friends until we die, Six Best things in life, guys aren't worth it except for Jeremy! See ya for a fantastic life. Love, Carol

Suzanne, my Buddy! Well sweets, we made it through another year! Thanks for always being there! May we have many more years together. Love, Jules.

Stacy Blacy, Hi this is Diana with Olan Mills. Remember — Oh no where are we? . . . L.A.!, Scorpions — fun! Rush — Boogie Boarding —

To the guys, you are not as great as you think you are. T-peeing was a blast. Thanks for supplying the cars and houses. We love You. The girls

Hey Ho Songleader of 1985: Twinkles, Ma Bear, She-bop, Dizzy and Smiles. Song was a big part of my life this year and I will never forget. You guys are so special and I will always remember the funny things we said and did. Contagiousness, Jamie's Pom Pom burial, the Cauliflower mystery, sleeping in the nude and being interrupted by brightness, "put Ben-Gay on my feet," "turn off the lights," "Conclusion . . . guys are just big jerks." It was definitely one to remember. I love you 5 songleaders of '85 (the CV Puff Puff originators) Love a Songleader, Lidles Agonia

Erika, Audra, and Krista, Hey guys, let's hear it for the good times. Rick Davis, Good, and Springfield. Bryan Adams. Disneyland, Football, Bob's and Conrad's. What do you want to do? Tujunga — no the wrath of God! Magic Mountain? We made it! Don't ever forget the good memories. Luv you, Cindy

Kelly L., How about my Uncle Bill, chicks dig me because I . . . What about my stretching in class? You know you enjoyed it. I'm glad we became friends and I hope we remain friends after preschool is over. Love, your record-keeping bud

Karryn and J — "The room" and "open arms" Daquiri ice. CV park, late. Arv and May, two more pals. Sunday picnics, sweet Adeline, she finally did it. I'll burn a K for you. Listen to more metal and put the keys in the wane. Let's bother each other. Love ya, Ken and J.

Scott — Let's not "terminate" our time stuff. I love you at two-strike, but watch for the wolves. Van or not, I can't drive home. Let's go to the Saugus races and run across the freeway. Clayfeet, brontosauruses, slurpee, party beast, the maksk. Study together? HA! Aptitude garbage. Success! Ken

E. &S. Twin metal madmen — Jazz at 7:oo am? Beatles in Montrose? Where's Ingwie, Akira, and leatherwolf? Wherever they are, we can't go in the green monster. Hey, shut up so we can play. Savage Metal Cruise successfully over and we'll jam. Good shreddin', Ken

John — Watch for the black lines if your eyes aren't bleeding. Dinner at Bobby Magee's for a jump. El Moro ears are still ringing from the J.H. ordeal. O Julius or shoot 'em? Val Rossoli, is that an ice cream place? These are hot improv. Happy trails, Ken

Kel, We've now been friends for about two years. I'm really glad I have become close friends with a person so terrific and good looking as yourself. I hope we continue our friendship above and beyond what it is now. Good luck in everything you would like to do. Love you, ?

My darling Jennifer, Well babe, it's been about 3 years since we first started GOING OUT! These past years we have shared together are years I will remember for the rest of my life. Your are the closest friend I have ever had. If something happens in these next few years, I at least hope we will continue to talk. We have shared many joys and sorrows together holidays and birthdays. I know we have fought and probably will again, but let's just make sure the best comes to each of us. I hope your adult life is everything you want it to be because you really deserve it. I have respected and supported you on every decision you have made. You are a terrific person and anybody would be proud just to know you. Please never change! We may have many years together in front of us, so let's make the best of it. Time will pass swiftly, so let's make every day a great day. God Bless, Love you forever E.J.W.

My little Bro — Hi Sammy! we've been so close all these years, you are like a best friend to me! Thanks for always being there! Good luck with pep and the rest of your high school years. Keep up your great character and you'll go far in life! You are a very special person and I love you Sammy! Love, Big Sis Kelly

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Potter, You kids are never apart. Mark, we have become extremely good friends and will continue as long as you two are together and have a jumper. Cherie, Cabinet was a blast because of you. We have become good friends; let's keep it that way. Good luck at BYU. The best to the both of you. Sweet E.

Reeni — are you Amie Freeman? No, I am!!! Calcools at Giovani's. This place makes my eyes water. See ya' in the islands. Aloha, Amie

Soph Pres: It's hard to believe you still have two years left. We've only had one class together, but hopefully that was enough to keep us close friends forever. We tried for more, occasionally, but we never tried enough to work things out. Who knows? I'll still be around and if things work out, they do, if not, they don't, but let us be the judge of that, right? You are a very bright, cute, and goodlooking girl, so stay that way. Let's keep in touch this summer and the years after. Love you always, Mr. VP

Trish! Hey weirdo! I swear, you're the greatest. I luv being with u cause we always have the best-X's together! Honestly, you're a real special friend 2 me and I appreciate all you've done! You're one of a kind, and I luv ya! Don't ever change and remember I'mma always here 4 ya!! Stay sweet and friends forever and ever!!! Luv-ya, Cindy-Lou

"K"-Lou! Hiya! I'm soooo glad we've become closer friends! Your — a real doll!!!!! We've had so many "fun" times and so many more to come! "Skiing," "Y," parties, roses, tennis, pizza, long drives, "R-Y.L.'s," Brand Blvd., etc. . . . Thanx — 4 always being there and for being u! Don't change! I luv ya baby! "C"-Lou! P.S. "NO SUCH THING AS A DUMB"!!!

Suzi-Q!!! I wanna thank-ya for being the best but ever!!! I appreciate all you've done and 4 all the special memories shared together that'll never b-forgotten! San Fran, (Northern men — yah!) Tahoe, "parties," Arrowhead, BERLIN, more "P"'s, all my "H soap-operas" (Mike!), dances and zillions more!!! It's not everyday ya finda "indentical" R-T-S-! I have!!! Thanx "4-R" "lifetime" friendship! I luv ya! B-F-F! Cindy-Lou!!

Kristy, so much to say and not enough room to say it. Westwood, Huntington, singing in the car, Disneyland, superman Chinese men, a maniac chasing us around! I've only covered half. We have so much more to do and just a little more time to do to. Best pals, Kim.

Suzanne, you're a wild and crazy girl. Was it 110 in the emergency lane? Really though, where would we be without each other? Refugio, Huntington, Westwood. Just think of all the guys. Let's tee-pee tonight! We'll meet you at the La Canada Country Club! That just covers half. Love, Kimberlee
Katie, HELLO! Hello Again! Westwood and Huntington are just a few of the fun-loving things we've done. Roll the window up! No way, we're racing a Porsche. Hey you in the limo, you're cute! Oh, no, there's girls in there. That's just a few of the memorable moments. Kim
Bobby — You are a wonderful person and hold a special place in my heart. We've had some great times and I hope they never end. Please don't drift away. Let's be friends forever, ok? Lota love, your forever friend, Rachel Pattycakes, you have been my bestest friend now for 3½ years and it's all been fantastic. I can't believe how much alike we are. We have the same thoughts and speak the same things at the exact time. Running has been the best; it's always brought us closer than before. The times we've had are forever imprinted in my mind: flirting and certain goals (10), homecoming dances, movie trips, McDonald's, strobe lights, snow, and cracking up all the time. Things will change in September, but we'll be strong and I know we'll make it if we try. I love you, Terri
To my one and only love, Karey. My love for you cannot be written; it is truly beyond words. My love for you and the love I receive from you feels so right and so good nothing can compare to it. You are truly the best thing in my life. You have given me a new burst of happiness and joy. Eternally above us shine the sun and the moon, for the days and the nights that I spend with you, forever cherished in my mind, and for the days and nights to come to be with you, which I look forward to with all my heart. With forever love. Dane and Karey forever. Love always, Dane
Lisa: you're the best. Becky; may you never be any funnier than you are, or louder. Kim; you'll always be the pickiest person I know. Kurt; sell that orange thing. Neal; talk to me. John; well, you're the greatest yank yank I've ever known. Tumbleweek; cut it. Long live the polo team. Dance. Get grounded. Ditch. Get detention. May we all be successful. May we all get what we want; Duke, Mark, a surger for Becky, Shean, Prince and maybe someday a nice guy named Neal if things don't work out! Bless us all. Forgive us all. Mother Jennifer Tracilee — Don't cry! Everything will be okay! I'm not going that far away. You can visit me anytime you want! I still love you! High school will be almost over by the time you read this, but life will be just beginning! We will never lose each other! — Ingabarg
Gio Girls only! Heather — we get you the job and what do you do? Leave us! Mitch and Guido. Mmmmmmm. Lacucaracha, la cucaracha . . . Remember your advice to me? "Just go for it! It's not that big of a deal." The hunk of corned beef still gives me nightmares. Steph — Comet fights, wearing potato salad, "you're slicing it too thick!" The French bread — "that's it! That's what size it is!" Telling people your life story, "you'd never guess that we're best friends." "Quick! Put the pizza box under the fridg!" Our Sunday with every psycho in La Crescenta. By the way, I do not deserve all the cuts I get! Merd — Yeth! 20/20's, el sol, you should get a boyfriend and see what ——— they are! You party animal you! You always had something interesting to say and strange to do. Rob's rad, so was the Tilley's party. Peanut M&Ms; green are the best! Turn your Wednesday Writings in on time, please! You guys are the best. Oh, I mean GIRLS. Working any other job will never be the same. We DO accept credit cards and checks, but only with additional identification. And remember, it it's not 12 inches, don't eat it! (especially if it's moving). Love ya! Laura
To the omni — (not im-) potent guru from the University of Guam: You are the best writer on the staff, by far. The senior section will never be the same. "Welcome to Glen Dale!" (we're lucky he was a senior!) Something to Think about . . . Fitting the entire gym into a 15 by 6½-pica picture window: true genius! Late nights writing awesome copy. Why didn't you ever take advantage of me? You know I wanted you to. "What are you doing this weekend? Wanna come over?" Your awesome shoulder massages and darling disposition. Somewhere in time you got a body and MY,MY! Most impressive!! You know, I've always felt you'd make the ideal prom date. I mean, you, with your wonderful manners and being a true gentleman, in a tuxedo! There's more than just that, I suppose, but I think you'd be perfect. The two things I'll miss about you most will be those great daily hugs and mysterious brown eyes. I'm so glad we became friends; you're adorable and I'll never forget you. Love your worshipful, admiring section co-editor, masseuse and friend, Laura Dearest Stefanie Plumley, too bad you're not leaving this school with me! Remember Silent Night? Hi, my name is Stefanie and I'm an ———! "Touch me!" "Shoulder time! Oh no, get a towel!" You are a very special person to me! I love you! Never change! Luv ya! Betty Boop
Timmy — (fellow honorable(?) NHS officer) — You are rad!! We are rad!! This book is AWESOME! Do i sound the slightest bit exultant? I know, i know, you get mad too little and i get mad too much, that's what makes us so great together. (i think) Well, we made it with our friendship intact and i'm so happy, happy, happy! You'll always be a special friend and if you ever need someone. i'll be here. This isn't Russia! Is this Russia?! The imbeciles, i'll kill them! Our whole staff was dead at one time or another! Love your favorite co-editor, Amie. (P.S. Just once? Bryan and Nancy will never know!)
Debbie, Randy, Kenny: It's been fun and you're the best. You guys have made this year worth while and I'll never forget you for that. I wish this year could start over but it can't, so make a good life for yourselves. I wish you the best. Love always, Barbie
Kel-Laverne, It's been seven years! Girl Scouts with B.J., Funny and Mrs. H. "Day is done . . ." Johnny Appleseed "Beep Beep." Remember the driveway? "Get the ambulance!" I still say we got kicked out! "Tea for two old chap?" Mr. Family and Mrs. Ross. Twenty points. The Galleria parking lot, "Merry Christmas!" The Jewish Church. Tuna, Brownie, Chicken Legs, B-boy. Six-thirty running, this summer for sure. "Somebody get me out of here!" Macaroni. Mrs. Peterson and the hole in the roof with pencil. "Days." What memories! You're my best friend and you're like a sister to me! Thanks for being there for me! Someday we'll move out to San Diego to our apartment, okay? Friends forever, Love always, Mc (Shirley)
Colleen Holleran; Wow, time has gone by so fast! Remember, "I'm Chris and she's Kelly and we're sisters!" Remember Mike and Ray, Chris and Sean, and "Dark Fantasy!" Our rollerskating championships! Colleen, you are so special to me! You've been there when I needed you! I love you. Betty Boop
Lissee-loo-loo — How I love you! We're going away, far, far away! But now we have places to go when we want to run away! So many memories to leave behind. So many people that we'll be glad not to see anymore! You are the bestest in the whole world; we can never lose each other! You, Tracileee and me will be the three musketeers forever and always. Nothing can ever kill a friendship like ours! Don't ever forget me! — Ingabarg. P.S. The cow goes moo when the turtle doesn't talk!
S.F. (stroker-poin-field) It's been fun! First time snow skiing, oops, sorry Ra. Oakhurst, catching "Z"'s, 7 golf balls in the pond. Shaver, mad dash from van to rocks, Lisa, strolling in at all hours. The river, skiing double. Are you up? What studs, both shore and deep water starts, rafting, cliff diving, "light" fishing spear fishing. Tri-school dance, pretty cool, backwards dance, get a clue girls. Getting burned on, S.R., D.J., S.V., C.C., K.F. What is it? Auto — "You know you're really trucking up." Thanks. Football, bicycling, getting lost in L.C., the Dunes, you front fender sure kisses well. Thanks for all those times. Friends forever. R.C. (stroker-dex-stream.)
Gabbie, well, we're finally outa this place! This summer won't be the same without you. I know you'll meet the guy of your dreams in Spain. Thanks for making the last two years the best. Through the good and bad you've been there for me. Short but sweet. Love, Crystal
To the three greatest friends in the world — Cake, Razz (JV's) and "Coach." It is so hard to express my feelings in such little space. Many people do not experience the closeness of a special friendship, and I am honored to say I do! It is friends like you who come when all others leave. You share in my joy, and comfort me in sadness. You know all about me, and the amazing thing is, you still like me. You have shared with me and taught me more than you know. It is you who have made me who I am. It is said that friendship is the only cement that will ever hold the world together. With this, I know that "our world" is holding strong I love you all . . . now and forever! — Cath
Gio girls — It's wet! . . . It's not! . . . It's both! . . . FFP! Work owns! 20/20's. Help customers. Let's pig out on peanut M&Ms. Love ya guys! Merd. P.S. If it's not 12 inches, don't eat it! Swell!!!!
Christina — Apartment? Get minked out. Try to dance. Watch clown, "He's so slow!" Go to night watch Pigout. History class? Jenn's house and Del Taco visited constantly. Jack 'n' the Box 3rd. Great times. Never got caught. I'm moving to Saugus with you. Lots of love. Baby Merd. Bing
Kathy, Susie, Cindy, Tahnee, and Cherie — We made it through junior high and now high school. I'm glad we have all stayed friends, even though we don't really hang around everyone. Hawaii is going to be a blast! And then Balboa! Ouch! Love all of you wild and crazy gals. Merd
Denise, We met in American Lit class, which we both did pass. We became good friends and went to parties, and talked about Dan's, Brian's, and Larry's. Whenever we would get depressed we could feel a hungry stomach progress. If you weren't able to drive, I would volunteer, to try not to stall it and of course to steer. I knthese are going to be old memories in the past, but our friendship will always last. Love ya, Merd
To the photo god — of course that's you, Sean! This will be short, and sweet. You've come a long way, baby! From hiding in the back of geometry with no hair to sexy hugs, shoulder massages and winks across the room. I never have, and probably never will receive a dozen roses like the kind you sent me. I'll never forget that as long as I live. Thank you so much for being a friend, for always smiling, and for never yelling at me because my photo reservations got screwed up. You're a doll, and I still want to take you up on my birthday present!!!!! Love, Laura. P.S. What exactly went on among you, Brett and Mindy at your house that night?!!!! Hmmm? Mindy's still talking about it!!
Sundance, Well, kid our junior year is over, leaving behind lots of memories. Dave is so cute! Greg is your true love. I can see your Little Pink Houses now. I'm gonna join the convent though; you'll have to come meditate with me sometime. We spent most of this year laughing. Remember Chem-chem with Nem-nem? Stac, your chemistry books are on the floor! He does not walk like a gorilla! By the way, are you 17 yet? My love hexagon. You've got lunch detention in 821 for the rest of 1985. I don't want to be mean or anything but . . . would you please stop following me!!! Love and friend 4-always, Butch Cassidy
Talon '85 — I just couldn't resist! Here I am, amidst all these expressions, and I just had to say something to you guys! WE'RE AWESOME!! Okay, that's all. I mean, we deserve the credit, right? The pictures just fall on the page and you have a layout, right? Deadlines? What deadlines? You mean the ones where everyone swears, screams, kicks, loses sleep, curses the typewriters, Hunter Publishing Company, the croppers, Dunlap-Turney, the editors and poor Sean? (just kidding, Sean. I never heard anyone curse you) Yeah, I remember those deadlines! Hey, admit it. We loved it. Look at this masterpiece; it was worth it. I just have to say that I love every one of you guys from the superior(?) "cough" editors-in-chief (who would you say is more "in-chief"?) to the worst typist on the staff who shall remain nameless, right Jeff? Tim, Amie, Bryan, Brett, Mike, Ian, Sean, Ben, Karen, Janice, Suzie, Jennifer (both of you), Steve, Cherie, Diane, Jeff, Natalie, Mindy, and of course, you, Mrs. Peterson. Thank you all for making yearbook the experience of my life. I guess you know who this is from by process of elimination by now. Best of luck to all of you in whatever you do. Love, Laura. P.S. "Hey, Fred! How would you . . ."
Katie B: I'm glad we became the good friends that we are. Thanks for being there when I needed someone to talk to. We have had some fun times this past year like the movies for what was it, 20 minutes? Then when you fall in the middle of Brand and skiing and driving your car with the emergency brake on. Stay good looking, girl. Love ya. John G.
All right, dudes. What's the plan for the weekend? I say we stop by Aunt Jan's and see how good our credit is. Then we can have a lemon war or spray paint dirty words on the street. TURN IT UP!!! It still isn't loud enough. Does the dairy sell you? Me neither. I bet I can drive to Madera in 3 hours. Remember what your parents said. I think I need new tires after this car rally. Slam that Java you caffiene addicts. I must have a hole in my pocket. Toastin' while skiin' is the life for me. N.B.F.G.'s, Mc Spam, and Spamologists are the future of America. I say this to Tikitorch and Burner, Throw pebbles at my window. — Ben
Brett S. — Do you remember how you used to always tell me to be careful of what I say because I might regret it, or not mean it, later? Well, this is the only way I can think of to convince you of my sincerity. You're going to look back on this a month, a year, ten years from now and it will still mean just as much as it does this minute. You ARE special to me. The time we've spent together has meant more to me than you'll ever know. You came along at one of the lowest points in my life and made me feel like a princess. After all, you are my prince, right? We've shared more with each other than we have with anyone in the past, and you know what I mean. Just remember this: you made my life wonderful, you made me happy, and I will always care about you and cherish these memories. Thank you. For everything. Love, Laura Tim: sometimes my boss, always my friend. Thanks for never throwing a cropper at me and for always being there when I needed you. How long now? 3½ years, at least, and best friends right from the start. Wow! We probably know more about each other than we do about ourselves. We've never fought; never had a reason to. We've been through it all, and that, my dear, is no joke. You really are the best friend I've ever had, and you never stopped being that. I don't know where life is going to take us; we'll either be close or distant, but I'll always be here for you. I'm going to miss you. Thanks for everything: help in trig, advice and patience in yearbook, all our talks and all your smiles. Keep it up. You'll never be a cynical old man, and you're going to be a huge success. Ha! I know these things, you see. Only the best for you, 'cause that's what you deserve. Best friends forever. Love, Laura. P.S. "Tim, I just just met you, but I think you're a really nice guy."
Amie Jo: friend or foe? Ha ha, just kidding. I only said it because it rhymes. Oh, my friend, where do I begin? At the beginning, I suppose. Where is the beginning? Good question! I know, I'll make one up. You came to visit me when I could not talk. My tonsils, silly! What a pal. You still drive like a maniac and you probably always will. I should have charged you money for all those chem answers I gave you first semester. I loved early lunch second semester. We had the best talks; everything from sex (c'mon, this is your book, so I'm going to say "sex") to school to yearbook to boyfriends to horses to . . . and the list goes on! You have always been a fabulous friend; one of the best, even back at our first homecoming dance. This summer, let's go to the beach when it's NOT windy, okay? You gotta try popping flies in microwaves — it's a blast! Let's also slow-mo and watch Tom Cruise do "All the Right Moves." Oh, yes! "This isn't Russia! This is a democracy!" "Hey, Fred! How would you . . ." Oh, yes, my friend. This book will go down in history with classics like Moby Dick, Gone With the Wind and "Deep Throat." You're the best and I love you to death! I'll never forget you. Have a blast at SB. I love you. Laura Hoppy, you're incredible and I love you! Where would I be without you? There are so many things that we have shared and experienced and I will cherish every moment. You're my best friend and the best boyfriend. Italy is not too far off; we can make it. Forever, Lisa
Vicky: I'm glad I got to know you this year. Thanks for just a few of the good times like eating pizza at 2:30 a.m. on New Year's Eve and the movie Caddyshack and everything else. Stay excellent looking like you are now and remember the song "The Beautiful Ones" by Prince. Love ya, John G.
Mike M: Well cheesebag, I'm glad that we have become friends this year. Dating, partying, talking, partying, just five swell things we have done that have made me wonder why it took us our last year in school to do, but there is more to do. Remember to turn on the radio and listen for your name from THE HOSE. Your good pal, John G.
To the Senior Class Officers — Cami, Mindy, Sean: We made it! Through all the meetings, looking for the prom and all the duties we stuck together! We're way cool all the way! Good Luck in all you may do! It was Great with you guys and I love you, Kelly (V.P.)
Scott — Well, we have been together for a long time. Remember all the fun we have had. I really do love you very much, and I hope our relationship grows better as we get older. I hope we can finally learn to get along. I'll always love you with all my heart. Love Always, Mo
John B: It's been the best school year for us out of the years we have been friends. THE CARS, dancing, dates, skiing, partying, and long serious talks we have had were just part of the good times this year. Through thick and thin I will always be your best friend. Just remember to turn to the right station and listen for THE HOSE. Your best friend John G.
Jerri Pooh, well, we made it! You've become such a special friend! Thank you for being here! We've had some fun times going to Westwood with Paul and John and the beach. Paul, you, and I climbing trees, sliding down slides, and swinging on swings at CV Park! All these times have been special! I wish you much love and Happiness! God bless you! SMILE! Love ya lots, "Joni"
Gia, my best friend, remember all the good times? Newport, STIHL, Dan, dancing on Honolulu, at 12:00 p.m., my house, Chris, WBTYM, Magic Mountain, Matthew, all that pizza!, dancing at 7:30 a.m., your house, etc. I love you lots and will cherish our friendship 4-ever! God Bless You!! Jackie Symana & not M!
Vic, this spot is just for you! You've been a really great friend these last two years! I just know we'll be best friends for a long time and bad! You've always been someone to turn to. Thanks, Luv Ya, Kim
BOB AND ED, Well, good-bye Crescenta Valley, Hello UNIVERSITY! (WELL MAYBE NOT YOU BARTL, because you need to take prep classes, not basket weaving.) We have had so much fun, from Dunsmore all the way to now. Ed, remember Spanish? Mrs. Chapman — "Roberto donde esta su tarea?" BOB — "Heck, I don't know." And of course I was quite like you Bob. Anyhow, whatever comes ahead of you, I give you my best, take care and K.I.T. Skiing sounds like a plan, or maybe just a get-together to cause some trouble, Bye till later, Steve Hello my little Clams! This has been a year never to forget. How could we? Remember clam & Chowder, Yor! Darin's party, X-mas vacation (bless you!), running at Freemont (yes, yes I do want to), and all our vegetation on the hill at Oakmont View. (Dawniell: Chick . . . look at those lights!) Our paranoia — cops, paula, cops; Tracy's paranoia — "I can't breathe or cry or . . ." Dawniell, be careful of Madison, my weasel. Remember summer, guys? D-Steve & Tim, the tourists, your work (Commo sa yamma, mama?) L-Michael! Richard Simmons, the New Yorker and "I can't date until I'm 16." T-????? All of our strange lingo: What are ya thinking, no doubt, hatin' life, yes siree Bob, etc. Well it's been real. I love you all! Have a great summer with me. Kansas.
There is no beauty without my beast. Where is my beauty? Where is my beast? You gave me some happiness when there were tears in my eyes and love when there was hate inside. Don't ever go too far! You're like an Angel; you were there when I wished for you. Love you.
Lori, what can I say? You've been the best friend in the world to me! Never forget all the fun times we've had. Laguna, rollerskating, TP'ing Kermit, Oh my gosh he's got a hose, etc! Love, Amy P.S. Don't tell me anymore dumb jokes!!!
Laura May: You are so great! I have missed you this year but you are always there for me. I will always be there when your feet fall fast asleep! But when you lose a knee bone — I don't know! You are the best! Always friends, Stace.
Bench Buddies: Actually we didn't spend much time on the bench this year. The truth is I didn't spend much time with you guys on the bench, (you know how social life goes to my head), but I noticed you all have been hanging around the tree well lately — Did the band crowd invade? I just want to say you're the best friends. Medra, Tahn-dog, and Kathy-Jo, I'll always consider you as my buddies. Love always, — THE NOSE —
Geek: I want to let you know you are a super boyfriend. I'm so glad you chose tails and lost, because I got you . . . I love you even if you like halves of movies, #1, and that disgusting hanger. By the way, how is that "big" pillow doing? Are we ever going jacuzziing! I hope I'm still single at 25. How 'bout going into the Cabinet room during snack, and please don't stand up — I'll wait — (Duke isn't around to cover-up) Don't pet your dog, I hate dog hair! Remember the 28th! I had a great time at the Rose Parade. Do you always feel like cuddling? I do!!! I'll never forgive you for shutting the door in my face at homecoming. Thanks for the flowers at work. I'm going to miss you while I'm at college — especially your compliments. I can't believe you think I have a small waist, and my skin really isn't softer than anyone else's. I promise to watch out for college men, if you watch out for girls in jacuzzis, and don't you dare say yes to any questions they might ask you. You're going to miss my notes and my soft lips. At least you'll have my teddy bear. I know I'll miss you. You're the greatest, sweetest, most special boyfriend. Love Always, YOUR TEDDY BEAR
Bryan (my sexy cutie-pie captain) — Moko kisses are still the best kind. You are NOT fat!!! In fact, i think your body is rather nice; Do you ever clean your room? I doubt it! By the way, i don't think that four months is the normal waiting period! Oh well, it was worth the wait; I feel wet!!! No wet, no wet! Scirching (i think you like that!); BIG hugs!! (the highlight of my day); Stop it or you'll make me walk funny!!; Soft; Pitty songs; Teepeeing on New Year's eve (excuse me sir, which house is the Roski's?); Hey, lets play strip Trivial Pursuit!!! I think that game backfired on you guys!; The Rose Parade (and almost getting fired from work); Getting lost three times when Craig came down (you and your temper!) We still made it to the Go-Kart place, even if you did lose to me around the course because i am the superior driver!; pizza's at Straw Hat; I'm very much in like with you!; Marie Calendar's (our first dinner date, how fun it was); Movies at my house; nice cozy nights at your house with your family; my conspiracies with your mother and us ganging up on you; Only on the weekends huh Bryan?!; I AM NOT INSATIABLE!!!!!!; Disneyland; Shogun (i got the distinct feeling that you liked my dress!); my monday-night-i-just-called-to-tell-you-i-love-you phone calls to you and your not-so-frequent wednesday-night-i-just-called-to-tell-you-i-love-you phone calls to me; Young Life; Ice cream on the ground at Thrifty's; Picnics at Two-Strike and CV Park; YB camp was Awesome (with the exception of one wench who flirted with you and rubbed your knee at Sea World who shall remain nameless!); Our talk on the steps at UCSD; Giving my cousins piggy-back rides after the science museum with my aunt before you had to fly to Utah; Please don't hit us we're in love!!; Shopping together and knocking down manequins (i can't even believe you blamed it on me!) and attacking me in a rack of JC Penny's bath robes; holding fingers; lally lally lally; being Fred and Wilma (your mom and i will never know how i got you to wear that); my horse shows; your b-ball games; #17's girl and I love Droopy buttons on my VonLossberg shirt; spending the night at WHOSE house?!? Pepsi and WHAT?!?; "Total Eclipse of the Heart"; U2 and my white (?) jacket; Big Country; i don't really love milk more than i love you (it's a pretty close second though!!); Flat tire in the middle of a freeway in San Dimas (of course you do know that you stopped on the wrong side of the road. Bad handling of the situation); Do you always wear a bow on your head when you take you girlfriend out to breakfast for her birthday???! Sorry we can't get married (maybe if i got a nose job); I want one!!! My ring (intertwining hearts); Your Bible (your reaction was the greatest compliment i've ever been given); "Brawny" man shirt; i can't wait till i'm 37, that's in 20 years!!! Never again at my house eh?; Bryan, how do blind people know when it's time to get off the freeway?!; Bufu (i'm the buf queen!); Being paranoid about my great driving abilities (i haven't killed you yet have i?); innocent faces; All you have to do is give me a sad magwi face and i would do (almost) anything for you. Laura's party (no locking doors); Tom's party (ocean motion); Edgar; Homecoming Night -85, YOU ARE NOT A FAILURE!!!!!!!!; "take my hand . . . this love lasts forever"; I love you thiiiiiis much! "You are my sunshine, my only sunshine . . ."; Fufu loves Tata; Christine, Von and Moki love you too (not as much as i do though!); You are my warm. There will never be anyone like you for me. i hope you can always "hear between the lines." You will always be in my thoughts and prayers. I love you, (your terribly sexy, golden locks, cutie-cake, buffy, goony-bird, #1 fan, and still the mother of your children) Amie xoxo Cherie — my humble and modest friend! Wow, what is there to say? We've known each other all our lives, but only been friends for I guess three-and-a-half years. Since the summer after eighth grade. Just think, before then I hated you. You were the stuck-up snob who thought she was the funniest, greatest thing ever. Well you haven't changed!! I've just learned to cope with it, or in other words, I've become the same way! So here we are. Stuck being friends. Don't ask me why! I guess it's because we're so much a like. The Devilish Duo — the two that raise "Cain" at camp, have the biggest mouths, exclude all the younger girls (including little sisters), have FUN in whatever we're doing (even service projects), and can pick up on guys any place — any time!! All the times at camp — Five guys: we'll pull you in! Blue Darts: 13 people in one tent; how did it smell in the morning? Roll-Brew! Burned Buns! "Puddles" in the tent! Campfires and General Napolean! Sleeping on top of the tower, cuddley bears! Dancing with our walkmans. Mining for gold and talks of dreams and "you know what" while sitting on the rocks. How about Carpenteria and our La Canada men!! Miss Midri!; we're from La Cresenta prison camp. How about San Diego — sure we can windsurf. Let's go catamaraning with anyone who will take us! Motorcycles, I'll ride with him! Cookies and Cream around the campfire. A silly feud. "You're really bugging me!" Scam, Scam, Scam!! 5+5= a perfect 10. Ski Bums we're so awesome! Mammoth — 3 days of scamming. Paul and Kenny, San Diego men. Through the trees! We'll do anything. Geeks! Let's get out of here. Jump out of a two story building into the snow! To the beach in the "booger." Honk at the goodlookin' guy. Just one look, that's all it took! He was gone!! Oh Well! Westwood-ladies night on the town. Can I borrow ten bucks? Cherie's definition of titter! Magic Mountain and our "ruff" men. Early mornings — "To the library!," "To the library"! Football games with licorice, M&M's, and gum; ammunition for the songleaders. Smile, Clap, All right team; future cheerleaders!! Talent Show — what a joke ! Making fools of ourselves is our profession. I'm proud to be a "yearbookie" are you? Brothers and sisters, We're Losers!! Rumors; we're so innocent! Pains — You're boyfriends and the lack of mine! Our "sinful summer." You in Chile; me and my bikini!! Well I better stop. I don't want to spend much time on this, since you typed mine in two minutes. Procrastination!! Well Babes, I just have to say you're the best, and I love you like a sister. Probably even more since sisters fight and we usually don't. A friend like you only comes around once in a lifetime. I'm glad you came when you did. I'll miss ya sooo much next year. I can't believe you'll be gone. It won't be the same, I'll adjust though. Good Luck in college. I know you'll do fine. After all, you're Cherie Jensen, the best at everything!! Hopefully I'll be up there with next year. Then we'll be back to causing trouble!! Buddies Forever, from your only friend who'd write all this baloney!! Love, Janice.

Dear Jennifer, well, can you believe that we're almost out of this place. Having you for a friend has been interesting, I know we've had a few rough spots but I am so glad we were able to overcome them. Going to the Rose Parade with you was so much fun. I hope we will remain friends after high school. Love ya, Baffy

Dear MAN, I am so glad we're better friends now. I want to apologize for all the* rotten things I said to you during our sophomore year. Sometimes I feel that I do not deserve your friendship. You are such a great friend because you really care about me and you've listened to all of my problems to attentively. Love ya, Zaffy

Heather, geometry, "Break away and make new friends," Catalina, Gradie, Hubba Hubba, Blonde surfer, Monte Carlo Woman, my socks! "I'm so excited," Courdoroy, "The wata look jus' fine!" Killer bugs, Penny Lover (you know what I mean!), Burger Forest, where has the time gone? Do you think the world is ready for girls who stomp out toast with their slippers? 12 years my friend. We have grown and changed so much. You have always been one of the best things in my life, and my world is full of you! It scares me to death to think of the day we both leave for college. I have faith in you and I know you will go far. Believe in yourself, Heather, and share your love for life with those around you. I can't believe we are seniors and I am writing this to you! A part of me will always look back at all of our good times, but I am so anxious for the future. Europe to be specific!! Our dream is finally becoming a reality. Heather, I don't know what else to say except that the future is yours so LIVE IT! I love you so much. Teri

F.L.G., you're a great friend. "THANKS." Wish I could've found a girl for you (he-he). I'm glad we're such good friends. Can't wait until we're 25, pizza, all the rest too. I hope your life ahead brings you challenges, and accomplishments. Please K.I.T. Johnny Poooo! Love ya lots S.J.! T.L. Girl

Jennifer: All the good times and memories. I'll always remember them. You've been a really great friend. I wish you all the luck and success in the world. I know we are both going away to college, but let's keep in touch. Always keep an open mind and follow your dreams! Love always, Suzie

Lisa, well, we have made it through, and we are graduating!! Remember all the good times we have had? Remember: the Crest, the trubadour, the country club, Ventura, Jeff, Mike, Scott, Vince, Brian, Jerry, and Matt. Those were the fun days. I hope our fun continues, even though we have to face the real world. You are my best friend, and the best I've ever had!! We have been through a lot together!! I really appreciate all the help you have given me during my hard times. I will always be there for you, all ya have to do is call. Your the best, and I love ya. Love, Mo

To my bestest friend Lisa, a.k.a. be-fri, Lika, 'sis'. This year we've become closer than we have ever been. I will always remember all the great times. There were times when I felt like giving up, but you were always there to give my a helping hand. Your friendship is priceless to me. All the memories, I don't know where to begin. We'll get to Santa Monica Beach one of these days! Football games and J.H., McDonald's and P.B. Want to go to Van Nuys? The list is endless. Never give up on your dreams. I will always be here for you. Love you lots and always, Suzie a.k.a. St. — Ends

Varsity Cheer 84-85, can I say something? Yea! We made it! Baseball, track, football, basketball, rallies, stool painting, (Dripit), and all! Camp — it's brownie time. Funny, we're superior. Funny, this joke never got old. "The password." What? You sat on the donuts? Baboons. Brady Bunch RULES! On the mainland, we call it school. And then you fell down? Huh? Nuke the "you-know-who's." Cindy — here kitty kitty (Mrs. Kimball). Linda-Fosanna, don't ya just hate it? Cindi-Shellack, I know. Terri-Hot tip! Have you ever been mellow? Jennifer-Mom-face, pink shoes and orange socks? You guys are all so great. I'll never forget any of you or the "superior" times we've had together. Keep the spirit and humor alive forever. Love always, Alisa

To Trav. Teammate, Class of 88, "She said no!" Look Stokely is doing his Paul impression again, everybody duck! Call the six o' clock news. Polly's team won one this week. I'm only anchor cause I'm the heaviest. How do you spell release? F-U-L-L-R-O-L-L-E-R. Wally Ferrcira says: Lights out, end of the world!! Wow, look at those legs, Brian put some pants on. Eeeeek it's Heather Lieberman. So. Cal's newest fashion color, "Alpert Orange." That's all right, he's colorblind anyway. Don't make that left turn . . . you'll kill yourself (the pedestrains too!). Brian is spelled B-R-I-A-N not B-R-A-I-N. The tennis team, well I guess you're a super jock now. Join the movement of bowlers against discrimination — Bowling is a sport!!! But seriously now, Bri., spirits up! The rookie year's tough and you'll be beating me by next year. Besides, it's your turn to continue my bowling legacy at CV. A junior career doesn't last forever, and mine is dwindling. Me, NCAA All American for UCLA: Dream or Reality? We'll soon find out. But remember, you helped me as much as I helped you. Love ya like a bro, but now it's time to go. Muscle Baby '85

To the gang! Mike, Jim, Jeff, Danny, Jeff, Darrin, Damon, Fom, Tim; we've had the best times: parties, beach, golf course, In-n-Out, tee pee, convos, poker, girls, poker, poker, poker, dances, having quarters, Silver B's, movies, 6-ball, games, bowling, etc. There have been so many good times I can't even name the all. No matter what after graduation, if you go off to a huge university, play in the majors, go to work, or just kick back, you nads have to keep in touch no matter what — no doubt! Remember all our radical times. I can't picture how boring school, summer, weekends or life would be without you guys. You are the hottest, most radical people around. I wish you guys the best of luck in anything and everything that you do. Friends Forever. Best wishes!! Love, Frisco Lewis and J. Horan

The boys: Mike, Jim, John, Jeff H., Jeff W., Danny, Darrin, Damon — we're out, yeah! I'll miss you all next year and never forget you and our T.P. wars. I'm so glad that I met all of you this year. I love you all! I wish you the best! Love ya, Lorna

Lor — Hey!! You are super!! We still have to go skiing . . . oops — I lost my keys . . . I lost my brakes . . . did you have fun with me, eghops — yah, I bet!! You are a great friend and thanx for always being there — you better not change. I'm always here for you — I love ya. Love, Chelle

Patty — Hi! How ya doin'? Have you ever put construction signs on doorsteps? It's the funniest thing! Chicken McNuggets forever. Yes! May we? "I would die 4U" — the best song. It all started with the play. I'm glad we've gotten to be so close. I love ya, Hunsaker! Friends forever! Your neighbor always! Giff

Potato Cheeks — Hey baby! "The twins are back," "Why, hello there." Beach bound, dinner at Zan's house. Late night talks — sharing secrets. The dreaded "Banana." Berlin, picking up guys, English accents. Huntington, pink and blue wetsuit, Honey, stop throwing grapes. Chinaman #1 buds — forever. Carrot Lips

Mina! French (our gossip) was a blast, thanks to you. I'll miss our talks immensely. Whenever you feel like sharing some gossip, just pick up the phone. I mean that! Just because we're about to graduate, doesn't mean we have to end our friendship — okay? Au revoir mon ami! Andres

Gary, Mark, and Steve. Please Steve! Not the flaregun! You guys are sooo obnoxious! What have "you" been doing?!? Music loudspeaker! Gary! Put out the fire! Shoes flying off roofs, 96.8% The piggers . . ., RUN, Oh my Gosh, where's Steve? Mark, you and your receipt! Noway! The car's gone! Happy trails from Mark (Ha, Ha) Ah-HA! We caught ya!! Gary's talented criss-cross design! Steve! Stop it! My neighbors! Wh had to clean it up guys! Thanx for the memories . . .! You all are the best!!! Luv ya lots! Alli and Chris

Amy (PREP) Pfeiffer!! My main woman!! I cannot express how much you mean to me!! You've always listened to my problems and helped me through the hard times when nobody else would, and then there were the fun times! Movies, car rallies, rollerskating, skiing (ouch!!) toilet papering (who? Ah, some weird girl!!) baking cakes, (wow! It's everywhere! Remember?) Bentely, come back with my bra!! Stuffing our faces (Gee Lori, all you think about is food and . . .! Well gee Amy, you're always hot and bothered!! Any, I hope we're friends forever and ever!! I LOVE YOU ALOT!!! LOVE LORI THACKER

Carrie Long, I'm really happy that Alli introduced us. "Just shut-up O.K.? Just shut-up!" "Carrie, you're such an airhead! I can't even believe it!" "Carrie! give me back my Ice Chest!!" Remember Halloween? "Jammie doesn't need a hallo, she all ready has one." "Yeah right!" When you move, I'll miss you! I love 'ya, Jammie

HEY! Shanna BANANA! My Pal! We've had so much fun together! Stink bombs at Disneyland, rollerskating in the same outfit, (no socks of course!) and toilet papering CERTAIN houses! Thank you so much for helping me through the rough time when my mom died. I LOVE YOU!! Love, Lori Thacker

Tina and Debby — You guys are the best! I'm so glad I met you both! Remember: when the lights went out, our running, the guy in the red CRX (I saw him first, Tina) all the food we've eaten. Deb — I can make good root-beer floats. Tina — Bob's after tryouts. Did we feel sick? — Thanks for being my friends. Don't forget about the "French Dips." Love, Susie

Ding-dong, what's up? Remember Leo Carillo always Careless Whisper. Don't look back, you can never look back. I'll always remember our special times together. I know you put the Trivial Pursuit cards in the fridge. I will love you always, K! Don't forget June 1, 1988. Love always and forever, Bebe

Dear Bob Beachin, Hi! I'm so glad we met in 9th grade. You are very special to me and always will be. We have a lot of great memories: skiing, Two Strike, "Love is Blind, But Your Neighbor Ain't," and special talks. Let's make some more!! I Love You, Betty Beachin

Mitch, Hi ya! This was a great year for our friendship. Surfing, pen-collecting, parties, dancing, your Saturday Nite Special's — cake and cookies! Thanx for always being there for me and helping me when I wanted to give up. I Love Ya! See ya at the beach! Love ya, Bec

Janine, Hey mama! School's great, huh? Yea, sher is. And we love American sun too. David is a Babe. Last summer was Rad, the beach every day, then a party. Remember the geek from Marilyn's? Did you marry Mike, Billy Idol, or Bill Kohn? or "BOND." When's your next party?! Love, Becky

Lisa, Hi. How's "L-A-R-R-Y?" Being a local at the bustop was great. And our jobs as R.T.D. entertainment was satisfying. Where's "Cojak?" Wonder what happened to Vernon and Rich? Beaches, parties, dancing, and laughing — what else is there? Oh yea, detention! You're a great friend, Lease, thanx. Love ya, Buck

T.J. and Hol Bell, Hi ya! You girls have played a very big part in my life these past two years. You are both very special to me. In the short time we have known each other, we've experienced more than I thought could happen so quickly. Although we never became "Super Sand Skimmers," it was a great idea. Trisha, now you're outa school and off to being an adult! Don't ever lose your fantastic personality. Holly, you have really done great this year! I'm proud of you! Always stay happy. Thank you girls for all the memories. I love you. Beckaroo

Brutus — My Best Friend. Thank you for everything! Who would ever think our friendship would last so long? We've come a long way, darling. This year has brought a lot of problems, but we will work them out. I'm sorry for all the times I've been such a witch. Things are going to be great this summer and next year. We're going to be seniors! A new year to make new memories. But for now, don't forget: You first B.F., HATB, (I will get that picture!), Spanish, Doritos, other junk food, Moby-Dick, and Carpenteria. We will go away more this summer. Remember all the guys we used to like? How could we have! Boy, have we changed. I can't put everything down, but I know we'll never forget those things. I Love You and may our friendship never die! (How Sweet) Try not to worry about things! B.F.F. — Suzotts, A.K.A, Sushi, your foreign exchange student.

Trey, What can I say? I love you. That's just enough, though. You are my whole life, Trey, I really could not live without you. Each day we get closer and closer to each other. I think we have a special relationship that will never end. Trey, there are no words to describe how I feel for you! I love you so much!!! Thank you for making my life wonderful. And my dreams come true. We've had so many good times together! There's just too many to list them. I hope we have many, many more! I'll never forget the First Time you walked me home. Ha! Ha! Since then, have we improved or what? I know, I'm a "Geek," but whose fault is that? I never want to lose you, Trey, "You're My Inspiration." I'll love you forever and ever!! I'll try as hard as I can to be the W.G.M. and A.P. that you adore. You and I have to be the gayest "peoples" I know. Trey, I'll always love you no matter what! You're someone I could never let go of. Yours Forever — Steph. P.S. I Love You

To my Prince Charming — So much to say, I dunno where to start. Remember the Exorcist; Poltergiest (I know you jumped!!); The Burning, dumb but I love it anyway; sleeping on my couch; Elvis movie; Physical Attraction — Madonna!; 2:00 A.M. dreams, "I'll tell you later!", visits at 3:00 (A.M.!!); I'm sweeter if you call me when I'm asleep!; Skiing at Easter — Mammoth and "The Cornice" Who Knows?, I love my smoosh bear, he's still in one piece! Roses (long stem, at that!!); The hospital — you looked sooo rad!; Snuggle weather — the very best kind!; PHONE CALLS AT ALL HOURS OF THE NIGHT — we can talk about anything! (When we're awake) Trading bandanas, "Yes it's spearmint!" A White Scarf and special stories too.; The bestest ever was the beach. Yes, we were, couln't you tell? I couldn't! No fair! What are you and her doing? Oh my gosh! Where's she gonna sleep? I would have been so disappointed if she got the bed!! So obnoxious, let us sleep! Love your dishes! Ooops, we hit his car! Quick, see if he notices! Sorry, baby. I was so happy because of you, not the spearmint shorts man. By the way, Spearmint means you, K? Ultimately sexy color!! Thanx so much baby. It was really special to me, and Suz!!; our 8-hour phone? Convo was rad. Let's watch the sunrise — is it up yet? Good — goodnight!; "Hard to Say it's Over" says it all. "Sea of Love" reminds me of you, totally dude! I really love your eyes — you use them rad! Sexy teeth too! Umm! I'm so sorry for all the pain an stuff that I cause you. I hope you don't regret it. You are the best friend anybody could ask for!! Thanks especially for being my P.C.! It means a lot. Should I buy a white horse? kidding! Remember when you need me, I'll be right here! I'll miss you more than you know. Don't forget about me, O.K.? Take care of yourself. Oh, one more thing . . . I love you, sweetheart. Always, your baby. P.S. Smile (reeeee)

SH — The original unnew and unimproved. Well, we finally quit Tilley's. On to bigger and better things. How could I possibly sum up one year of fun, especially our style? Eek, ach, fooey. So there. What goes around, isn't that how the saying goes? Anyway, life as a senior has been different. You know it's strange to think that we're about to enter the world of the ADULT. Why is it that whenever any of us begins to fall apart, the other two come through? I guess that's what friendship is all about. Do you realize we are about to go to Hawaii and we STILL can't surf? I'm almost there, though. July 17-31 will be the best two weeks of our lives. Too bad we'll have to leave Tim, Brett and Peter behind. But always remember that where there's a will, there's always a way. Which you tended to forget the day we went skiing during Christmas break. I don't think I've ever witnessed anyone yelling obscenities at a tree before. Now are you having fun? I'm beginning to realize now what a big part of our lives Peter and Tim are. I'm also glad we can talk to each other about them. I wonder is BS and ISH will last . . . Well, if he makes her happy, then let them be. But when he's a pain, look out. From our first Christmas dance to popping flies in microwaves, we've come a long way baby. Pxxxxxxxx Vxxxxx

Amie Jo — What did I tell you? I knew we'd be friends eventually. This book is full of the memories that I'll treasure all my life. I don't know of two other people who are more competitive than you and me. Whatever you're in so am I and vice versa. I think it means a great deal that we are still friends . . . somehow. Love, MR

Dear CRAP — now for the good stuff, you cradle-robbing-active-pervert! The good gets gooder, that's what I always say. Remember Family Feud and Laura's elephant patties? Whatever happened to so many men, so little time? Oh well, next year. Whoever said flies pop in microwaves? See you at the top. Pxxxxxxxx Vxxxxx

Attention Band Auxiliaries — Congratulations on a . . . great . . . year! Thanks for your cooperation — It's been super. Good luck, and keep on smiling! Marianne Plotar

Salute to the BAND!! You have made it through a "unique" year. Thanks for the memories! Mrs. Plotar

Chris and Tracy — My favorite Capt. and V.P. — It's been an unforgetable year. Thanks for keeping things alive. You guys are two fo the best friends a person could ever have. You're the greatest! . . . D.M.Marianne

To JV Cheer '84-'85. Guess who? It's me, mother head . . . uh-oh, wrong skirt shanna and your socks are on backwards . . . Bridget, you're 5 minutes late, minus 10 points. Well, this is it, dwarfs, here's to camp, our superior ribbons, our spirit stick, our first encounter with the "BANANA-JUMP," the massive "GAY-BEN," and to "MICHAEL J." Of course we would be the only squad without our winter outfits; sorry Shan. Karl, I love you flaring N's . . . Al, we don't want to wear "white and white" . . . we don't care if it looks SHARP! Shelli, get some SIZE on those little feet . . . I know, practices must be one week in advance . . . but always remember, "we're here to make a profit!" Finally, Shan and Karl, you can "Get a Job!" Nevertheless, if "I don say so myself . . ." you're "AWESOME, let me tell ya . . . you got to know what I mean!" Love, Me, your keeper

Michael, you are someone special and one who I will always care for. Thanks for coming into my life. You're the "someone" I've always dreamed of. I'll always love you forever and ever. Love, Jamie

Shelly, thanks for everything. I don't know what I would do without you. I'm surprised you still put up with me. Don't forget that I'm always here for you. Never hesitiate to call when you need to talk. Are we still going to join the convent? Someone will come for both of us soon. Thanks for being the greatest friend. F.F. — Susie

Wendy, Christy, Cindy — You're all great friends. Sorry for all the problems that happened this year. Thanks for staying with me. This summer and our senior year will be great! Let's go camping again, and of course have a frosting fight. Thanks for putting up with me. Susie

Lori For al long as I can remember, we were rivals because we were put on different baseball teams. It sure does seem a long time since 4th grade! Doesn't it? Remember when we saw Footloose or Uncommon Valor? (great movies!) Or when we danced in the street as Candy and Chris sang "Dancign with Myself" by Billy Idol? Well, now that we can drive at the close of this year — one man named Aaron better keep off the sidewalks. Ha! Ha! Life is just starting for us girl! Fun Fun Fun in the sun sun sun. Carol

Laura F — What a way to meet, on the freeway! Just think, you actually gave up a nite of skating to go with us. Your friendship has been the best thing that has ever happened to me. Some of my best memories will be from this year because they have been made with you. With all my love, Bear . . .

Mr. Rivero — Well, Love, I got to know you like I never thought I would this year. You mean a lot to me and I love you lots. Talks we have had, Hall and Oates, Homecoming, my radical kisses, cold showers I will always remember. Friends forever, your secret lover, Kimberly Ann Agonia.

Gary — spices to the game, it's tradition. Can I borrow your bathing suit? Hop in the alignment mobile and go to the office, but don't get stuck to the floor. Let's go seis to seis. I'll see ya in the theatre. Good luck, Ken

E.P. Squad — let's lick tongues! Now off to the happy hunting grounds. His hair was really poofing. How about some Taco Bell? In uniform? Wait until I do my laundry. Who's doing the S. squat? Fun and no automotive work, the Blacksheep

Future Guitar God — Production begins on Regurgitate right after our sauce at 3:00 on a school night? Go sleep on my grass. Let's go to Iron Maiden! Well, look out Shredder II, here we come. One in a million luck to us both. Ken, FGG

To the Girls, Roadrunner, Beep Beep, Pifcasso, Sylvia, Pearl and Belly Bear. You gals are great and without you I would be nowhere. We have had many laughable memories. "Hi, Julie, how are you today?" Janel, your lucky number is 7.5. We all know what that means. I love you gals even if you are a lidle too wild for me. (What a joke). Girl buds forever, Grandma Mo

Hey miss Lou — I hope I never lose your friendship cause it's really special to me. Everything we've done will always be good memories. I know there are many more to come. You've always been there for me. I don't think there's anyone I could be closer to or babble to like you. You know I'll always do the same for you. Hopefully we'll be able to get something going with Sand C. That would be fun. If not it's their loss. Don't ever change and remember, I LOVE YA. You'll always be a special friend. Ove ya Always, Miss Poo.

To Sharon, Well, what can I say? These three years have been something else, haven't they? But even with all hard times these have been the best years ever! Thank-you for being there when I needed a SHOULDER TO CRY ON OR A WALL TO PUNCH . . . Remember all the things we've gone through such as the guys, the cries, the parties, Van Halen, Night Ranger, all those morning cruises and the days, boy have we learned a lot since then! Thanks again for being the best-of best friends. Friends 4-ever. Love Ya Lots Lisa P.S. Party animals rule

OAileen, Dingy-Jeni, Suzy-Q, Leroy, Cami-Lou, Miss Cassi, etc. You're the BEST Party Buds anyone could have. This year will definitely have many memories. Aileen's car with 2,000 people (you're hurting my leg!), playing quarters on my table every weekend, going anywhere and everywhere, cruising Mc Donald's, etc. You've been the best, Trish

Sandy Baby (Heckle) S.B. and B.S. forever! Remember Thrifty's ice cream, french fries, Winchell's, Twinkies: Anybody for a hot dog? Oh! Hide the pepsi! You "horn" dog! You're a pepper, I'm a tab! . . . Vanilla shakes. Hey, thanx for everything. I love you. Friends forever. Luv ya, Betty Boop (Jeckle)

Lady Di — The year is almost over and it looks like we will be going off to college. You have made my year worthwhile. The nights at Sugarloaf: the time in front of the firelight; all the movies; the parties; and every minute we spent together. I don't know where I'll be or what I'll be doing in the future but it won't matter as long as I'm with you. This is only a beginning; not an ending. I love you. Your sailor

Al, Remember . . . Beach-Capitol Rules — Girls just want to have fun — Weasel — Down to three? Games with Brian! 7-UP! My car! No more mom! Rocky Horror! The Time Warp! Art! Magic Mountain! Knott's! Disneyland! Tram rides! Parlez-vous francais? Snowed in with Scott! You're the greatest! I love you. Cheryl

Mike, You insane, intense, wild, crazy, so cool, radical skier. You will have to become a rad windsurfer with me. Z28? Was Mammoth at Easter rad? Remember the first time skiing? Funness. KB.? You are a totally cool friend. You must come to the beach with me some time. Plenty of rad times to come. Be ready. Luv 2BSOHIP

Wayne, Guitar god, insane yell leader, mondo coconut man. It's been great. You are the coolest. Obviously, who could even come close to you, you shreddin' intellectual. Metal in the ———— and Zeppelin after. The best year. EP squad forever. J.B.

Chris Bowie, (Cree) Hey ya! I'm serious! Are you serious? I'm totally serious! J.B. — "You really love." oh no! Christian, Adrian. . . . no more, please! Mexico '84 — getting kicked at 2:00 am. Tujunga Canyon, "OK Chris, you can drive . . ., Chris, we're not going anywhere. That's the brakes, not the gas." Bob's Big Boy — "Do I want a club or a Big Boy Combo?" Hard Rock Cafe . . . "Hey, that waiter's cute." "Hey, you're cute." "I don't usually wear my hair like this," "Oh no Shelly, don't say that! I'm embarrassed!" "You guys, we don't have enough money, oh no." T.J. Hooker . . . "That's not Heather Locklear, I'm sure! We've had great times, and I'm sure we will have more. Love ya, (but what about Christian?) Laurysa

Krissy Sue — Hey, bud, I'm glad we're close friends this year! In such a short amount of time we've had so many good times. Feel the music, Kris! Football games, phone convos, guys (talking 'bout things that make us crazy!) Cougar ewok, X-Basketballers, Tweety, and Shyboy. Backwards was rad! How 'bout Laurysa's house? The rain . . . What an enjoyable walk. (Ha, Ha!) Let's get Pete! Did Ewok ever even come? Gettin cooler . . . yeah! Parking lots, spying, 98.6, shoes, stairwells, Steve Wadi cars, the pigs, t.p., cleaning up! Oh, no way, it's Mark! Guys, just prove us right, okay? Looking forward to two more years. I'll kill ya! Love ya, Alli

Hiya! Marti-Bear-WOW! There's sooo much to tell! You're such a good friend! The football games are the best! Especially Muir's! The toga dance was hot! Please! don't pour gas on your feet anymore! Then comes Steve's 21st B-day party, Brendon and his 50x cuter than Kimberly. I'm soo sure. Our little ice cream stops; hey, how 'bout the Night of the Comet? Crazi! Backwards. I've liked Ewok, forever and a day! Your line! Gettin cooler Marta! I love them! Beverly Hills Cop! Total wildness. No way, "where's my car?" Mammoth is gonna be awesome. I'll miss ya! Love, Baby Care Bear

Tracilee Novakaine — Wanna borrow my calculator? See you in Jersey. We've had such great times, I can't even begin to mention everything. And the future holds so much more. Thanks for making my high school years almost bearable. You and Ingrid have been the best and "fanciest" friends that I could ever ask for. Love always, Liseeloulou Trappezoid

Mark Cole, Bunky, thanks for being my brother! You're always with me in my heart. Princess loved you very much, so remember her, as I always will! Continue to walk with Jesus, and even though it seems He's gone sometimes . . . it's actually US leaving him. Don't stray too often! Good luck in all your moments! You deserve all the best. Yes, you do look like Grandpa — you lucky guy! I'll miss seeing you every day at school, but know that I LOVE YOU! God Bless, Bless, and Bless you! Your sis in blood and in Christ, Shell

Pinny, Lady Di, Sandy D., Shelly Woman! Did I get them all? (hee,hee) To "me" you will always be Michelle, the BEST SISTER and most SPECIAL FRIEND. We've had 5 wonderful, fantastic years! We have so many memories . . . we changed and grew up from that "Oreo cookie." We've moved onward and new people have entered our lives with new memories. Round Table Pizza, (pastrami), Mr. USC, Mike F., POST SCRIPT, Public Relations, Donnie (forever in my heart), forever getting lost in Pasadena! Collect calls to Danny! Running into Ron (forever in your heart), "Expresso Bar," "I'm a sweetie," "Toasting," Get with the Christmas Spirit! Beware of T.P. and Company! (beware of the dog!) Yes we're crazy! But someday all our dreams will come true. Post Script and Public Relations. Our houses with BIG windows for our X-mas trees. God will be with us! He will guide us through our lives. I thank God and you for being here for "me" and sharing your life with "me." I love you sis! God Bless you! Lylas forevermore! Jo Jo p.s. SMILE!

Honeybunny, it's been almost two years of happiness and good times. You're the best thing that's ever happened to me and I hope we'll always be together. You have brought me such happiness, my life would be empty without you. Jeepers, we make such a great couple, we'll just have to stay together for the rest of our lives. It's hard to remember everything that's happened with us, but it's all been swell. Remember our first date, drive-in, Cranberry juice and Vitamin v, the park, Richard Pryor, notes with Bobby, KFC, I was wondering — do you have a girlfriend? so — are you doing anything exciting tonight? we can use my parents car, but they want you to spend the night on the couch, 114 Chestnut, Beef Bowl, New Year's Eve, the NIGHT AFTER, I like you a whole lot and then some, Scott and Michelle, Scott and Janel, the zoo, Antonio and friends with pizza, the Maverick, well it's got character, I don't know why, It's great — I love it, roses at school, roses at home, the beach — I've only got first gear and reverse, Disneyland, Oingo Goingo — both times, all the dances, Sean's sheets, thousands of movies, Shaker Mtn. Inn. Damon's, lunch at KFC, Sunday dinners, the Olympics, graduation from GCC, the Rose Shop, Genstar, let's sleep on the phone, let's go get some ice cream. These are just some of the many memories between us, and I know there are many more to come. I just want you to know that I truly love you honey, and nothing in the world could ever change that. Congratulations on graduation, and gool luck with whatever you do in the future. I just hope that the future will never tear us apart; you're too important to me. I love you forever and for always. Love, Sugarbear

Sugarbear — Hi sexy man! Can you beleive almost two years? It has been "full of" happiness, my love! You are honestly the best thing that has come into my life, sweetie pie! So many wonderful memories, I'll never forget: our first date! A drive-in?, the park!, Let's talk!, KFC, Thank you Bobby!, notes, I was wondering? Do you have a girlfriend — who wants to know? I'm glad you had a good laugh! Mom wants you to spend the night, we can take my parents car!, Antonio, 114 Chestnut, the infamous Beef Bowl, IWO, Scott and Janel and the zoo, Scott and Michelle, the mighty Maverick. Hey, it's got character! Gosh I love you — I don't know why? I like you a lot and a bunch more — oh yeah, well, I love you! Roses Roses, Roses, my charm, chain and ring — yes I love them! Oingo Goingo, Disneyland, Magic Mountain, the beach, Olympics, dinners at my house, Chinese food, your graduation, I'm so proud!, Two Rose Parades, especially the first one, let's sleep on the phone, ice cream, SSS, Genstar, KFC, dances, spiders, Sugarbear and Honeybunny, Damon's, Shaker Mountain Inn, movies, kicking back, all the wonderful times I love, especially you! "You're My Inspiration" I love you Scottie pie! Thank you for being mine — you are my sexy man and I'll love you forever! I know there is a wonderful future ahead of us and I hipe we live it together! You mean the most to me! Thanx for always being there — you are the best boyfriend a girl could ever have and I'm glad you're all mine! I love you for always and forever Sugarbear! Love, Honeybunny

The Brady Bunch: You guys are great! "The table for squiggy e is ready." "Well that's good!" McDonald's equals happiness . . . Good clap sequence! A little early morning humor. Let's be different. Did ya see her ————? Pete: (shelack) To the girl with a great name. "What time is it? Its Brownie time!" Our initial list. Do I have enough blush on? Your loud laughs. Bobby: (mom) "If this is it" Party dude "Hey, that's great" Fantasy dates. "I would die 4 U." Boys, Boys, Boys. "Dip Riding" You son of a bun. "Hi, my name is Andrea." Jan: Your hamburger is getting awfully thin. "You're my inspiration." I'll help myself to some gum. "I've always wanted to sit on the wall for a rally." Greg: My biology buddy. Phlem. Crying in showers. A wild and crazy gal. Good facial expressions! Hi. Kitty, Kitty, Kitty, Foc. Hi Scrappy. Are you sure the alarm is set? Dickos. Chicken Delight. Marsha: The girl who has so much in common with me. The way you scrunch up your face and go "what?" Pic-N-Save parking lot. Don't turn your neck. "Do you want to frisk us?" "Are you in a good mood today?" Never untuck your sheets. I'll never forget any of you. You all hold a very special place in my heart and you have brought me a lot of happiness! Love Forever and ever, Cindy

Ingabarg Larsonpoo — Who's have and why do we have to be him? Where we ever? Finally, time to blow this hic town. Watch out world! Thanks for always being there to listen, or just put up with my occasional craziness. I'll never forget you or the fantastic times we've had. Love ya always, Liseeloulou Trappezoid

To: Ian — and his Ian costume, Ingrid — my idol who is a big, mean pokey, Jennifer — woowoowoowoo, Karen — Take your foot off the clutch when you stop, Kathryn — T-delke, Bije, Mike — Oh where oh where have morals gone? Mia — Thanks for letting us destroy your house, Lisa — want to play trust? Patti — They were so HUGE! Phil — Sorry, I still hate the way you dance, Terri — When do we get to carry you to bed again? Val You O.J. — loving, brownie-eating, leather-and-chain-bound airhead. To Laura and Mindy — very, very sorry about the car.

Drew! — Well, bud, it's now over and The College life is here! Through our years we have accomplished everything — Some things are . . . No class on games days . . . Is Brian Wade, or Drew there . . . Our weekends at the river and Palm Desert. How about the bathtub and Heather in P.S. two years ago? What about L.V. and supporting our gambling habit? What about the first time we . . .? What about our John Travolta and Micheal Jackson acts at all the dances. Your little one-night run to the Boneu. It's been great. See ya at Cuesta. It starts all over again . . . Sweet E.

Tami, I'm sure glad we had at least one class together. We have really come to be close friends, and I hope we can continue to talk. Now that school is over, I sincerly hope you enjoy your college and later life because you sure deserve it! Friends Forever, Your Psychology Buddy, E.W.

Scott M., John P., Steve P., and Darrin R. — Have you seen that Baboon, chicken or sorority girl lately? Gov't was a blast, but without you guys it would have been extremely boring. A couple of you I've known for years, the others just a short time. You're all great. Let's keep in touch. Eddie

Ish — There is so much to cover!!! Life has definitely been an experience with you around. Pushing SH's car through Hollywood while strange people atare at us and marvel at our singing. No, really, I can jumpstart it. Just push me up that hill. Yeah, yeah, sure, sure. So the Cars' concert was a bit short, we made it a night. I thought you told me that light was a long one? So I looked like I was in a different stage of consciousness, as I lay sprawled in the intersection of Torrance Boulevard, staring at the stars. No problem. Just a day in the life of PV,VH and ISH. So here's to July 17-31. Hawaii will never be the same after those two weeks. Yes, Peter was a bit talkative at the Christmas dance, but that did not seem to matter to you . . . Pxxxxxxxx Vxxxxxx

Timoteo — We still haven't exercised Maybe I should say "exorcised," looking back at some of those classes we had together! Remember Spanish 5-6? Tim, you're touching my neck again! I'm glad you are yourself again. See you at Berkeley. Mindy

To the three wildest, craziest, funniest, bestest "chicas" in the world: Lynda-giggles — You've been really special to me for 5 years now. And you sure are one #1 sis as well as a best friend. You're totally There (capital T), and will always be my big (but li'l) sis, Giggles! Love Snickers. Kimbers — I'm sooo glad we've grown this close in friendship. You're one great gal and I'll se you on "Seventeen!! You sure know how to boost my spirits! Thanks for always listening to my 'woes.' Luv, Jillser. Cathy-Lem — "Hon" (as we can now say!) we have been through tons this year: grades, friends, guys and now cheer! We've survived the nerveracking times — now on to the happy times. Love, Razz. And all three of you — Here's to memories in the past and future! I luv you ALL very much. Love in Christ, Your (plural) Bud, Jill. P.S. Watch out summer — here come the four of us!!!

ISH, What a gal! How can I describe a young lady with both dazzling beauty and a personality that could melt an iceberg. You're a superb gal, and I know happiness will follow you wherever you go. Have a smashing summer and a great time in college. Your bud, Irish Stud.

PV, Copy Ed. of the century. You've been a great pal these past 3 years, and I know you'll knock 'em dead at Cal or UCLA. Tim & Amie, Editors extraordinaire! You guys have done a tremendous job with us Talon crazies, and this awesome book goes to prove it. Thanks for being there when I needed you. Take care in college, Sean.

Jam on it, remember the girls on Super Bowl Sunday (Joe Montana), Hayley's house, all us dance buddies! Janice her pocks, let's play dot to dot? Don't hit the zits! Spending New Year's Eve wheezing, 6-teens having a blast. Hylah — Mexican bean wagons, bus stops, where's Hoover? We miss our men don't we Hayley? I love you all especially NEW SONG 86. Can't forget Ken, don't touch his property! Love you with all my heart. I hope we'll be able to spend many more years like this together lovers and best friends! Kisses, Love to you, Wheezy!

Ding Just think of all the crazy times we've had — McGrath (Partners) Gold Skate — Parties — Castaic — Homecoming '84 — your fantastic make-overs — Peanut Butter cookie dough — Senioritis — Insecurity — I feel . . . "Pretty" — Concerts — Summer 2-do's — Guys — Confusion! I still have not signed your yearbook — Do I have anything on my nose — let's eat dinner off of samples at the Galleria — 2 minute fights end in laughs — Sherman Oaks Eating tostadas while driving — Straw Hat men — Dear God — Never scam in the library again — Hi my name is Tami and this is Diane laying out with the hose — "Our" 1st teddies — Will we ever grow up? I hope not — Be Fri's forever — Whizbang —

Unofficial Songleaders of the 1984 Summer Olympics — Watch out I've got the runs and . . . It's contagious — Don't forget Homecoming wreaths mine's a geranium — Had so much fun painting stool's 1st time we did them again — 7-11 runs, All Camp food consists of chicken.Cheap Deals — Puff Puffs — Kidnaps w/ cowl whip & dog stuff — My Pom Pom is having a baby — Top if the Charts — We're Superior — ½ Nude Raids — I still smell like Ben-Gay — Dizzy's cute quirps — Lidles is deaf — Twinkles Bumps — Ma Bear's eyes are pink — She-Bop get a boyfriend — I love 'u' all — Smiles

Sweet "E": You're awesome — even if you molested me in Cabinet with that dumb gravel everday. You owe me one for the Candy Gram. Don't sleep with that dumb dog Duke — he stinks! I think you're great! Love always Cherie

Christopher Robertson, I told you at one time I liked you the least, but I never told you that I'd miss you the most. The best of luck to you in your long lasting future, and remember life's worth it! You are an okay brother but a good friend. Love, Sis

To a Falcon, this year was definitely a different one for us. Not too bad but not too good. Well babie, we have many memories together in this school. I will remember them forever just like I will love you forever. You mean more to me than words can say. I hope all your dreams come true. I'll be here for you whenever you need a friend. You know where I live. Honk Honk. Forever Yours, a secret note.

Mina, Hey baby! We've had so many fun times this year! (Scream!) All those football games and interesting times in English! Oh boy! You've been a great friend to me — I'm sure we'll be friends for a long time. Rah! If I had been blessed with your problems . . . Love, Amy

Whizbang, Call me TAM! We have done a lot of crazy, fun things together. Remember: Squirting fat women with windshield wiper fluid, Jeep men . . . OOH AH!, Howling at guys — AAAAAAH! — Hi, I have no brain. Don't look now, but you're walking funny — Hey! What kind of animal do I look like? — Wolf man at the Library — No Doubt!, and men at Straw Hat. It's so silent out: Remind you of someone? — We should go to that fantastic beach in Arcadia again this summer! We'll be friends forever, and yes, every cloud does have a watt socket! Love Always! Ding

To The Girls, Road Runner, Beep Beep, Picasso, Sylvia, Pearl, and Belly Bear. You gals are great and without you I would be nowhere. We have had many laughable memories. "Hi Julie, how are you today?" Janel your lucky number is 7.5. We all know what that means. I love you gals even if you are a lidle too wild for me. (what a joke) Girl Buds Forever, Grandma Mo

Janice — As you can see I put this off and didn't get it written, but hey that's us. We're awesome 5 and 5 makes 10. Men dig us. I love you. You're my best buddie!! Love, you know who — the nose

K-squared, excuse me madame, but it looks like you're having a bit of trouble in the junk food department. What's that you say? You can't find the TWINKIES? Never fear, TWINKIE MAN is here!!!! Taa-daa! Achtung! Please stop expectorating in my hair, miss. You know how I feel about things like that. I find it UN-ROH-MAN-TEEK!! Honestly, I don't know why anyone would want to have a kid! Oh, slap your face in orange bottom! Eat my shorts! I hope you choke on polished cotton! Now don't forget you guys, the BLUE GLASS!! Anyways, I just called to say I love Yoooo! Caribou queen, and we're sharing the same tree! Safeway escapades . . . animal coodies, YEAH! I'm a what? a what? (I can't read your lips!) a — glee? (Well thanks, buddy, you're ugly too!) Anyways, you're just jealous because I have the hurricane look! (and I look so pretty in pink chiffon.) Kim is tree . . . now don't forget to wrinkly your nose and bite your lip! Well, what I'm trying to say through all this mess is that I love you guys. You are so special to me. Thanks for always caring and being there for me. And most of all, thanks for just being you, k-squared. You're the best! Now Are you ready? Thumbs up. COOOOOOL DEAL! Love, your most affectionate pro-nutrasweet friend, or (otherwise known as) THE OTHER "K"

My #1 Lady, hey what do I say? We've had so many good times! The Cross, oh, hi Mom, this is Suzanne! Cruising the beach scene, foxy men in trucks. Racing on the way home from Laguna! The EC DW Stroy, diary material! Our songs: P.Y.T., Big Country, "Cut like a Knife," "Take Me With You." All our specials! All our talks, growing into friendship with each other. Laguan 21! Oh, gosh, we hit his car. "B.S.," foxy men at the gate, Max, "why didn't you tell me?" Mr. Spearmint Shorts and friend, thank goodness for my wounded foot! Yummy dishes. Obnoxious boys! Let us sleep!! Our huge convo on the way home, T-tops off. Cool. Down the C.C., "It's been a long day!" Being bees! Hee-hee. "I've got muscles!" No way! Summer of '84: so rad! Then on to more . . . Romance at school. Run. Tearful talks and tearjerker songs. Soo BEE DOO! We heart teddybears and '83 football players. Cute little rear ends. huh? You mean a lot to me Zanado, and even though we have our rough times, we always manage to stay friends! Good!!! I love you baby! K-K-Katiebaby

MPCI, the four of you are my best friends and some wild and crazy guys. It all starts at the Hi-Y dance, Halloween, Westwood, Dec. 31, McDonald's trips, and much more. Each of you have many memories in my mind and I'll always remember them. It's been great! Love you, Terri

Twin sister, this is it, girl, and it's all been great. You have been one of my dearest friends and the memories will forever be imprinted in my mind. Homecoming dance, cookie dough across the pool and laughing so hard, we thought we'd burst. I love you always, twin sister

Crystal: everybody has their ups and downs but we have each other to pick up the pieces when they need to be picked up. That isn't the only reason why you're my best friend. You're my b-friend because you're you and I don't know what I'll do when we have to go our separate ways all I do know is that you're very special and I love you very much and you'll, always be my best friend. And remember: teddy bears, chocolates, pizza, and most importent of all, all of those lonely guys in Apain. Waiting for a little menudo. Love, Gabbie

Poodle, Vera, my love, Brut Amazon Brutus. R E S P E C T A B L E Franks earring clashes. Oh no, not the boer worms! The psycho mailman's watching and Drew hasn't eaten for weeks. Ozzy kite flies with killer bees. Was that Von's or Alpha Beta? Stop! A yellow light. Din Dongs, FU Fersher Totally, Magic Mountain Broomball Que Honda 3 hours at bottom, 3 at tilt sparks, oasis, lars, brian, dan, "He invented the printing press and discovered lightning" Rev, my shoes "Is the flag blowing?" Bobby the bunny — my Toyota, the basketball band, Bowie, "Weren't we two lanes over?" We care about you — Super-star '84 Pan Pizza, Espanol voice #1, ugly ho, "Journey's true rock," Tim still 9-10, clap clap "There she was . . ." Where'd they go? Don't leave the bag in the bathroom. Guard the house. Go down to Glendale with CV jackets on. Climb the holy touchdown, Trivial Pursuit — one good idea — Orange Juice with Matt in the freezer. Jake, we're finally free. Thanks for being there for three bizzare (with 2 z's) years. A backdraw? "Why does he shave one off?" My father doesn't pay you! Keep passing the open windows. Love, Droopy

Georgia Blorgia, Hey ying yang, Is that roaches you have crawling up your neck? Tickle, me? No Nobody likes me. I have two dates this weekend!!! (Damian, Scott, Chris, Kraig) you didn't, yea! Fluffcano is a ying yang. Charlano is cool. Msusche — elevator button — Don't touch my head, Let's go to Dr. Mc Nicholas and word (sleep,party) I think I'll put your skirts on pant hangers. Sure i'll go get you a soda and an In&Out. Summer was a blast — Cambria — paulipe — you didn't! Bob-i-know-seine. Let's have a party at your house. Thanks for letting me live with you. Okie-dogs — Let's take pictures and play music. Slongers!! Let's Bong Dell. Where's the tamborene. Oh! I'm flying! Eddiechone! Dragon Breath — I'll never forget — m-3+1-1. Wow! ankle dancing. Elvis in your Blue car. sounds kind of tasti. I love you forever. Hang in there. Lets measure legs! Don't cry when I go home. Best friends always. By gaga! Diana BlanaBlanaBlana etc!

Pokey Lever — He really makes you happy. Well, so does 7-UP. Earlier I thought our friendship was over. I realized friends need time away from each other. You're very special to me. There's been so many great times. Disney was the most! Cousins, she's Swiss, Stud in a gift shop. Hold me back!!! Snow land, driveways, snow fights, cake! Laurryssa's house. D.B., Ewok, basketball players, "I'll kill ya!" "sooo sweet!", "Ya! You're burning!" I'm so sure. Wen, not the car again!!! New year's — Can we take this? Run!! Wind, Brian and Ed. Pop!!! Vince. Vicetory sign. USC guys. I miss K-baby. Thanx for being there! I'll always be there for you. Love ya — Friends forever, Alli

Conny, Dude! What memories, huh? Your love J.D., my love Dave J (I'll never figure him out), going to Hollywierd, Ted, Hollywierd on Holloween, "Are you a guy or a girl?" Frisbee golf, the Trobador, Sportsman Hall, Harlot, Christopher Terrance Bennet!!!! Wow! Soverniers! Your glass and my cap (teeth marks)! You're in one of your kinky moods again? Doritos, grilled cheeses, pickles, wienerland, AVOCADOS! Killer munchies! Dave's Monte Carlo and El Camino (they are too small!) Sean's house! Cooking breakfast for all the guys, my party, backwards clap, suzi Q, fights, "Do you have my clothes?" Christopher's house! Bannaman, Channel 9 all night, monkey faces, "Get in bed and sleep NOW!" DIO tickets I hope, NOT Ratt. "Eat your heart out!" I bet you want base lessons! We best be pounded tonight! Living with me, you got a job??? J.K. could go on forever, but I won't, it seems like we've been through so much in such a short time! Well chick, good luck!! Love, Jennifer my new sis, well kiddo, you're the greatest. I'm glad we've become as close as we have. Remember that I'm always there for you. You've brightened my life by just being you. I love, SIS. Your big bor, Chris

To the sexy seniors editor, Your contributions to this book and my happiness are beyond description. I don't know how I would have ever made it through those hairy deadlines without your cheerful spirit and daily hug. Thanks, Laura. You'll always be my favorite bookie. I'm gonna miss you. Love, your male counterpart on Seniors and Clubs, Brett. P.S. So, how about coming over Saturday night and watching a movie or two? What was that idea? How did you want us to pose for that Senior section picture?

In the realm of photographic institutions, one encounters a myriad of companies both great and small. It is uncommon for a corporation to provide personal service as well as large-scale operations. Dunlap-Turney has done both. The 1985 Talon would like to express its gratitude for the hours of work done for us. Truly admirable. Dunlap-Turney has helped us go the distance.

Dearest daughter Miss Freeman, Never forget this truth: For what you say and do today will be what you are tomorrow. Therefore, with the passing of time you either become better or worse, but most certainly not indifferent, a human being — otherwise you have left nothing of yourself. Love, Daddy Freeman

Maria, the sky is no longer the limit, look to the stars and beyond. This graduation is only a beginning of all that is possible. Take all your enthusiasm and go for it! Congratulations! We love you and are very proud. God Bless. Mom and Dad

Amy, Congratulations! We are proud of you and we love you! Mom and Rod

Dear Sharie, so proud of you. May all your special dreams come true. Love you. Mom

A legdragabb kislanynak Diankanak. A sok munkadnak es szorgalmadnak ez a legszebb eredmenye. Gratulalunk, es nagyon buszkek vagyunk Rad. Sok szeretettel Anyu es Apu

Lisa McCamy, Congratulations. We are very proud and happy! Reach out and know you can make your dreams come true! Love you, Mom and Dad. XO

Roger — Time is going by so fast, we can't believe you are graduating already. We are very proud of you. We love you. Mom and Dad

Normy, It's been great! Thanks for taking such good care of my kid. We wish you the very best in life. Love, Rosie's Mom

Vicky; Okay boys and girls, it's time to exercise! You're unforgettable Vic. Our love and best wishes to you. Mom and Dad

Hey, Rivero. What can I say? Coming to Rosie's rescue twice, saving her from lifetime groundation. Check in for that breakfast sometime. The best to you. Love, Mama Palm

Natalie: You have travelled far, enriched many lives and warmed many hearts on your way. Bright is your future and fortunate will be those with whom you choose to share it. We are proud of you and love you very much. Nick, Mom, Dad

Dearest Donna, Congratulations on your graduation! We have enjoyed sharing these school years with you and look forward to the college years. We are very proud of your many accomplishments. You have brought much happiness into our lives. Love you, Mother, Dad, Debbie and David

Karen: We hope the next 18 years of memories will be as wonderful as the last 18 years; the wooden chair at the Big Yellow House; Falling out of the tent trailer at Oak Flat and other great memories. Love, Mom and Dad

Dear Steve, Heaven and Hell! Ups and downs! Pride and Puzzlement! Through all we are proud of your ability to rise above and to strive to direct your own life. Always continue to be able to hold the mirror to yourself! Love, Mom, Dad, Cathy

Congratulations, Michelle on your graduation. Dad and I hope your coming years will be full and happy. We love you very much! Mom and Dad

Dear Susie: Congratulations! You are a very special daughter, small size and organized. You are a high achiever with positive goals set for the future. We are very proud of you. Love, Mom and Dad

Dear Jen, now it's out of school life and into life's school. We wish you happiness. Love, Mom

To have had Antoinette for our granddaughter has been a never-ending source of delight, wonder and bewilderment. We have been privileged to watch her develop from rebellious childhood into a lovely and endearing young woman. May she always be of sweet yet sturdy spirit.

Lieve Marianne, van harte gerfeliciteerd! Congratulations on all your accomplishments. Having a Drum Major in the family made this year special. Follow your dream — we know you will make it! Love always, Mom, Irene and Marqie

My Dearest Dani: remember, see the world through the eyes of what you are, and you'll do fine. Love you, Mom

Dawn, all your hard work and preparation for the future now near a more beautiful and more challenging stage of life with your graduation near at hand. We're so very proud of you for being who you are, "you." Always stay as thoughtful of others as you have been, keeping God always in your life. To have things come your way; you must go after them. With God in your life you will attain your desires. Love, Mom, Dad, and Doug

Congratulations, Tracy. High school graduation, what next? Who knows? For you we wish happiness and success. Always keep smiling and know we're very proud of you and love you. Don't stop dancing; you're the best. Love Dad, Mom and Tod

Dearest Michelle, your graduation is as meaningful to us as it is important for you. We have expectations for your bright future, and we are very proud of you. Congratulations from you mother, father, grandmother and brother — all worthy nickles

Suzie, Congratulations! May you have your heart's desire. Love, Dad and Mom

Lisa, the time is here. We never thought it would come. Through the tears, pain and anger we made it. Only you can know now where it will take you. Life is there for you, my friend. Be happy. Love, Mom

Dear Bobby, Congratulations! We are so very proud of you. Best of luck and happiness always to you in whatever you do and wherever you go. You are a very special son to us and we love you. Love, Mom and Dad

Patty Connolly is a beautiful young lady with a great sense of humor who is loved and admired by all who know her. Patty's school spirit, positive attitude, and loyalty to her friends are only a few of her outstanding qualities. Mom and Dad

As time goes by, I see more of you in me — more of me in you, and I can trust and let go. We are very proud of you and celebrate our relationships with you and the occasion of your graduation. Mom, Albert, Lance, A.J. Grant

Kimberly, your father and I are very proud of you. You've set high goals for yourself and we know you'll accomplish them. You are a beautiful and loving daughter and you will always be the light of our life. We love you, Mom and Dad

Mindy, you are truly a special person. Our lives are much fuller and richer and we are so proud to call you our daughter. Love, Mom and Dad

Mindy, now you will be the Under-Classman and we will be the Upper-Classmen, so let's see some respect! Jim and Jeff

Dear Lisa Riley, you've come through Girl Scouts, violin lessons, braces, Drivers Ed., Decoration Chairman for Girls' League, and all the wonderful events leading up to this moment. I won't be saying to you any more, "Did you finish your homework? Get off the phone. Be home by 11 p.m." I'm going to remember all with fondest memories. Always do your best, help those in need, and keep Jesus in your heart. You're very special to us, Lisa. Love, Mom and Scooter

Rick, now comes the real world. We will always be there when you need us. All our love always, Mom, Dad, and Dawn Levine

To Karen Simon: Congratulations to a daughter who is deeply loved. Mom and Dad.

Toe shoes, tennis shoes, pom-poms and a Bible. Prom pictures, G.Q. and Seventeen magazines. Dried roses, stuffed animals and helium balloons. Rehearsals, finals, football and basketball, too. "See you later, gotta go, Mom," what's a parent to do? Memories of you, Vicky. Love, Mom

Dear Brett: Congratulations son — you are above and beyond anything we could have ever hoped or prayed for. May God richly bless your life always. Love, Mom and Dad

Corbett — My expectations for you are high: to care about others and show responsibility. Achieve those goals you have planned; don't compromise with your future. Love, Mother

To all of "Big Rodg's" friends at CV: Thanks for the friendship, love and fun you provided during his life. Live your lives for today and tomorrow; the future holds much in store for each of you; make your life meaningful. May health, happiness and love be with you always. We appreciate all of the support and concern you expressed toward us. Although the flame that was Rodger's life has been extinguished, the glow will remain on our hearts forever. John, Barbara, Eric Hanson

The Lord, in his loving mercy, has gifted Anthony Wilkins. He gave him the most cherished gift of all, a very best friend, Rodger, to go through infinite time with, to share in extended happiness, joy and fearless forevers. Not very many people are so gifted. We wish, most sincerely, to extend to you our gratitude for sharing in Tony's short but truly well-loved days here in this world. God will grant us a wonderful reunion someday. Anthony's Family

Stephanie, you're very special. Here's to the kid who always marched to her own drummer. Good luck always, Steph, we're proud of you. Love, Mom and Dad

Cami, thanks for 17 "full-on" crazy years! You have made us very proud. We love you. Mom and Dad

Kare Bare, we are very proud of you. Have fun and stay out of trouble. Mom and Dad

To Laura Farrow, remember when you were never at home because you were too busy on trips or other fun things? Now you are ready to go to college and work to help pay for them! Love, Mother and Dad

Dear Mina, we are more than proud of you all these years. We know that your determination and ambitious attitude will enable you to attain those further goals you have set for yourself. Thanks for sharing everything with us. With all our love, Mother and Father

Jeffy — We are proud of your achievements. We love you deeply and congratulate you on this milestone. Mom and Dad

Lorna — As today is yesterday's future, tomorrow is YOURS! All your achievements will be watched with pride and love. Your beauty, strength and faith make the world shine. You are my joy! ("Now get off the phone!") Love ya lots and lots. Mom

A.J. — From '66 to '85, 17(+) years of ups and downs. I'm so proud of our "Bubble Baby," you really are a "Bubble" in our life. It's with great pride that we say congratulations. Congratulations on your graduation, your growing up, (a job well done), becoming a young lady, and yes, even doing it your way. You've shown to yourself and us that you are your own person, accepting life and always pushing forward to better yourself. We couldn't be prouder as your parents. We wish you all the best and you have all the rest. Your life is and will be what you make of it — don't ever forget to dream 'cause you'll lose your "Amie" personality. Keep it up A.J. Whadda' ya' mean $7,000 a semester for college?! Luv ya, Maw & John

Corbett — 'Twas a rough three years but you made it. The wide world is out there waiting for you, but I have no fear you will come through with flying colors. Mona

Lisa, Needless to say you have brought me great joy and happiness. You have been, and always will be, a very special daughter. Always remain the sweet, compassionate, and loving person that I know. Continue to touch people's lives. I love you. Mom

For our Lori, we are so happy as you achieve this milestone. Grandpa would be so proud. He has given you the encouragement to accomplish all you wish. He will be watching for your happiness. We're behind you all the way. Love, Mom and Dad

Julie Beedy, you have always been special. We are so proud of you, and we hope that you become everything you want to become. We will always be there for you. Love, Mom and Dad.

Chrissy, Congratulations! You're our last child graduating from CV. We are proud of you and your accomplishments these past 18 years. You are a terrific daughter, but more important you are a good friend. Always keep your happy smile and positive attitude. We love you, Mom and Dad

Dearest Natalie Dixon, congratulations on your graduation from CV! We know that you will continue to bring pride to our family in all your future endeavors. We love you deeply and respect your individuality and know that we have the best of the Lord's Blessings in you. Love, Mom and Dad

Colleen, through your optimistic outlook and dependable sense of humor, you have kept us enthused with your energy for life. (In spite of the blue skirt!) We love you, Al, Mom, Cole, Titah and Lisa

Ah, that sly look. Mindy's eyes are roaming again!

The latest in bathroom attire — Caught unawares, Ian gives that come-hither look. It gets 'em every time.

Oh no — Cherie asks Mrs. Peterson to help fix the typewriter that's broken . . . again!

He loves boys?!? Don't try to deny it Bryan, the proof is plain to see!

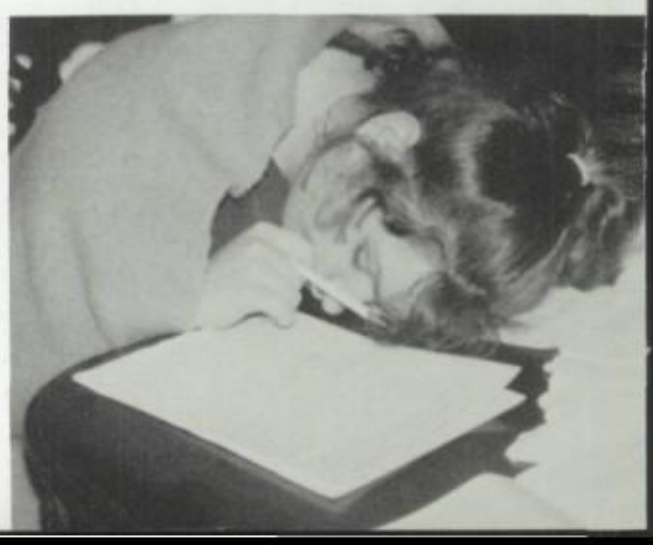
The impish (Irish) grin — Sean demonstrates the leprechaunish look.

He loves me, he loves me not — Diane dreams of her Romeo.

Hit the beach. Cool dude, Jeffy, tries to catch some rays in the quad.

Moi? The off-the-wall personality of Jennifer shines through.

Life's rough — The Macbeth essay is of secondary importance to Natalie's desperately needed sleep after the March deadline.



Spontaneous Generation?

The birth of a yearbook

"We the willing, led by the unknowing, are doing the impossible for the ungrateful. We have done so much for so long, with so little, we are now qualified to do anything with nothing." I think we can all relate to that one! With twenty-one "natural leaders" shut up together in one crowded room for as many hours as we were, and all the possible and real controversies that could and did crop up, I think we did pretty well for ourselves. Now you have all passed the "gods in training" stage and are qualified to go on to even bigger and better things!

Diane — Who's great(?) idea was it to add eight extra pages of color?!? You pulled through admirably, thanks!!! Jennifer — Remember "grunting and sweating" with me in the quad? Your help was invaluable. Jeffy — Your jokes helped us through many a tense moment and your artwork is incomparable. Aaron — Never once did you complain about anything (at least not that I heard)!! You were among the most reliable and certainly the sharpest dresser. Cherie — You busy girl, I don't know how you ever managed to find time for a deadline, but somehow you always did. Laura — Your skill in yearbook is definitely not reflected in your driving habits. How we managed to stay on the road and off the sidewalk, I'll never know! This senior section is the BEST! Natalie — No talk and all action! Seriously, you did the best job on the most monotonous things and with the minimum of fuss. Ben — You sexy yell leader, put your tongue back in your mouth!!! Karyn — You took one of the heaviest loads and did a wonderful job. Thanks for all those lunches spent in 131 and all the hard work. Jenifer — Sports turned out excellent, much of which is thanks to your organization and dedication. Bryan — Thank you for all your support and advice when it was needed. Your perfectionism made my job much easier. Mike — Hey, let's order a pizza! Buster, Breaker, Ben D., and Mike H., my, but you are creative. Susie — Although not the most exciting section to work on, Freshmen turned out to be awesome in the end. Janice — Tripling was fun; sorry about the misunderstandings. I really do appreciate all you did. Steve — I voted for you! Your football layout turned out fine after all. As a matter of fact, it's better than most. Ian — I don't think you're too short! Your size certainly didn't hamper your work, you did a "pretty decent" job! Mindy — All that copy and Sports too! Your talent is apparent throughout this book. Sean — I know it was rough going at first, but you came through with flying colors! Brett — Even if you disappoint me and don't trust me, you're still my favorite tickler. Timmy — You're my favorite Editor-in-chief! Our hard work, blood, sweat, tears and curses are all made worthwhile in this, our piece of immortality (like Shakespeare?). Mrs. P. — What can I say?! Thank you a million times over. I'm glad everything worked out.

I would like you all to know that I am truly grateful for the contribution each and every one of you made in your own unique way. The times we've shared in room 131 I will never forget; they have helped me grow as a person and have given me many memories to cherish. I only hope that each one of you got something out of this experience that made it worthwhile to you. Don't ever forget that "Bookies make better layouts," (among other things!!!) Love, your fearful leader, Amie Jo.

Bookies: Whoever decided that lunch should precede fifth period should be hanged by his cropper! What a year! However, many of you made all the pressures bearable by being just plain terrific. Thanks for getting everyone past the security guard, Jeffy, but the hall pass on the Schnauzer? I never! Mike, how could a guy as sophisticated as you not know if Laura's in her nightie yet? Steve gave Cherie WHAT to spray on the Charismatics? Who said, "How come, in all the football photos the ambulance is always on our side?" Tim (Senator): That was quite a performance during the March deadline! Amie: Macbeth is a WHAT? "Do unto others ... before they do unto you"? Laura and Brett ("Hugger"): Are you sure you're not involved? Nat: Next time, take off your shoes when you and you-know-who go puddle jumping in L.A. Pirkl-itis and Burn-out Brehm: You can discard your pompoms and your layouts at last! Mindy: You were a heckuvan editor. Aloha! Sean (Irish Stud): So were you! Editors: The book is superb, thanks to you! Juniors: Looking forward to '86, right?

— Mrs. P.

Have a coke and a smile! This lively group of yearbookers believe in having a good time. Ten people in one jacuzzi?!?

I'll kill you!!! Irately, Tim glares at yet another unfortunate yearbooker who has dared to leave a 1-pica margin between captions.

Oh my gosh — Ben is awestruck by a girl in last year's senior section.

No problem! Hey, six spreads in two weeks, it's no big deal! Karyn could always be called upon in a tight squeeze.

Go the DISTANCE

Love makes the world go 'round — This certainly seems to be the case with John Camarata and Collen Linnemeyer as they appear to be wrapped up in their own little world.

In September of 1984, twenty-one people got together with an idea in mind. This idea was to get a point across to the rest of CVHS. And in June of 1985, the idea came into being. It was "Go the Distance."

Hang loose dude — Many freshmen tried to fit in and establish themselves as being cool by adopting such gestures as junior Mike Riach's.

Ready, aim, FIRE! Steve Cho displays his physical prowess during Homecoming Week activities.

Mid-day munchies — The lunch-time hunger attack has beset Claire Ross and Claudia Gonzalez, but food has been forgotten for the moment as they pause to view the "scenery."

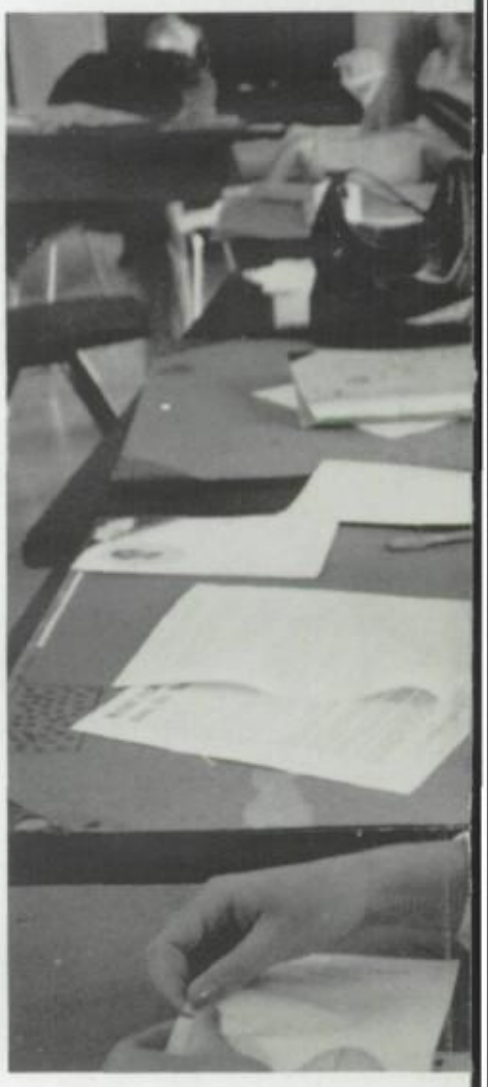
No way, is this for real?! In order to handle the pressures of dance before an assembly with one's sanity intact, a little humor is necessary. Suzanne Roski, Kristin Western and Jolyn Andrews prove to be an entertaining trio as they provide "comic relief" to what can be a rather tense practice session.

Enough is enough! Santa DeMonbrun is overwhelmed by the response when he offers to have students "sit on my lap and tell me what you want for Christmas."

Go the DISTANCE

Time out . . . I have to pose! Suzanne Urban flashes a half-hearted grin while Janel Finigan really gets into the song that's playing at the Christmas dance.

Oh my goodness, in public?! "Bashful" Shelli Henson looks at boy (girl?) friend Tim Pirtle in surprised amazement at his somewhat-shocking change of gender and the fact that he would accost her so in the middle of the quad.



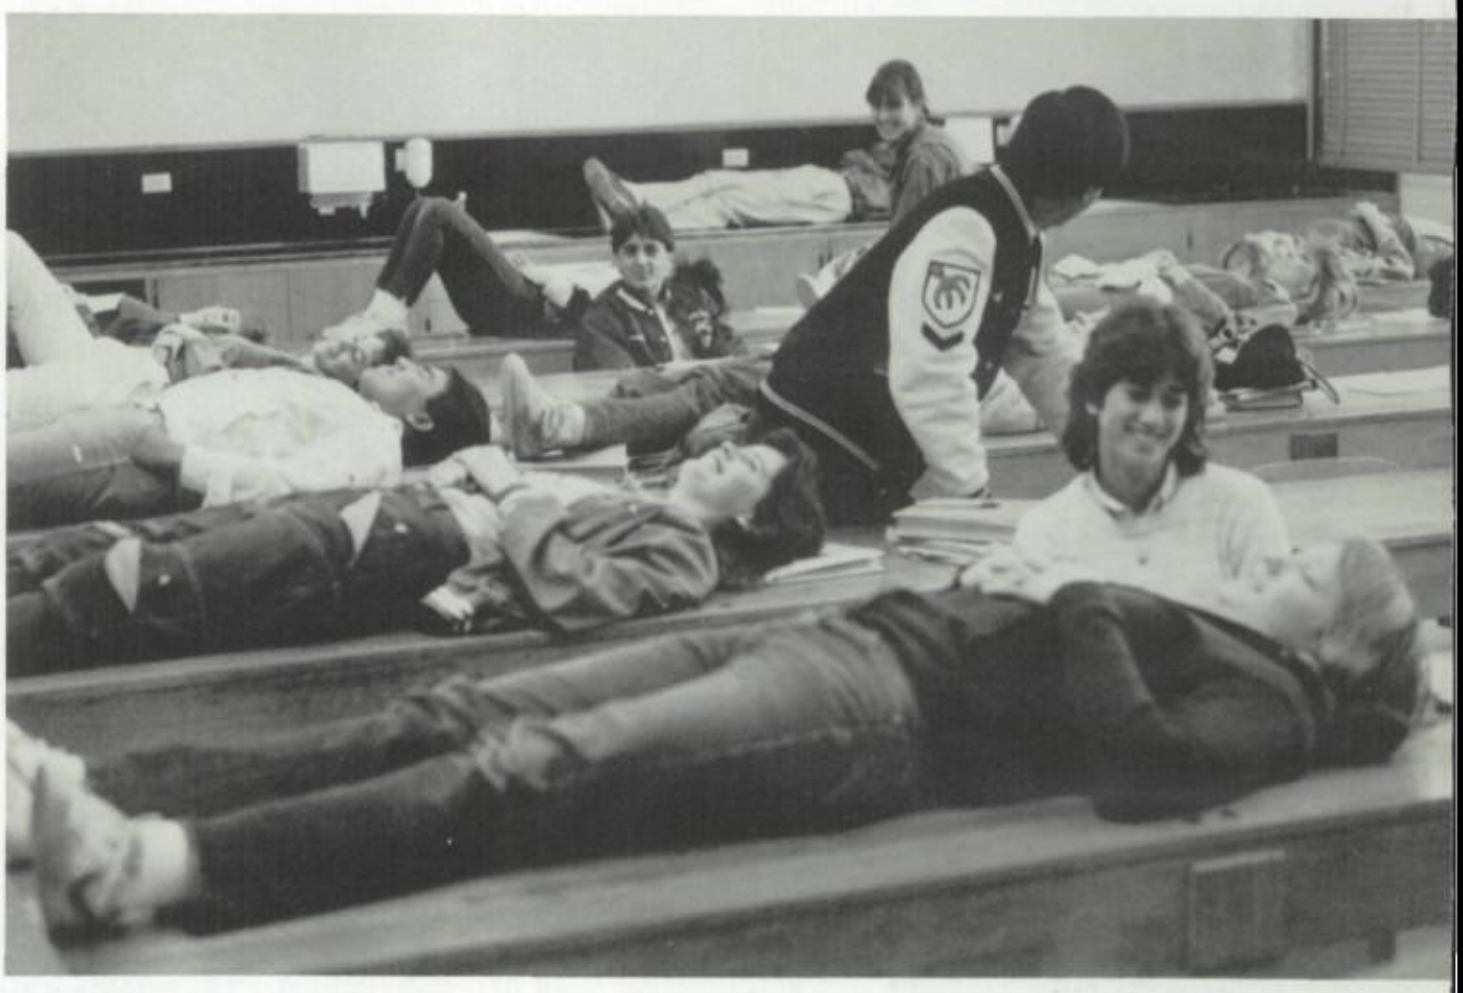
On the surface, "Go the Distance" may sound like another "Gee-it-sounds-good-so-let's-use-it" theme, but it is intended to motivate students to delve deeper into themselves and thereby realize their full potential. Too often we say "What if . . .," or "If only I had done that differently." Hindsights such as these serve no useful purpose. They only focus our energies on the past instead of allowing us to concentrate on our future goals. And if our future goals are neglected, what kind of individuals or societies will we be faced with twenty years from now?

Ah those golden rays — Armed with sun-glasses for protection and a pleasant smile, Mina Rogic makes her way to class on a sunshiney day.

The world according to Mike — In a rare moment of seriousness Mike Muhlethaler contemplates some deep, dark philosophy of life. Of course, everyone knows that the natural brain process is aided tremendously by any form of junk food.

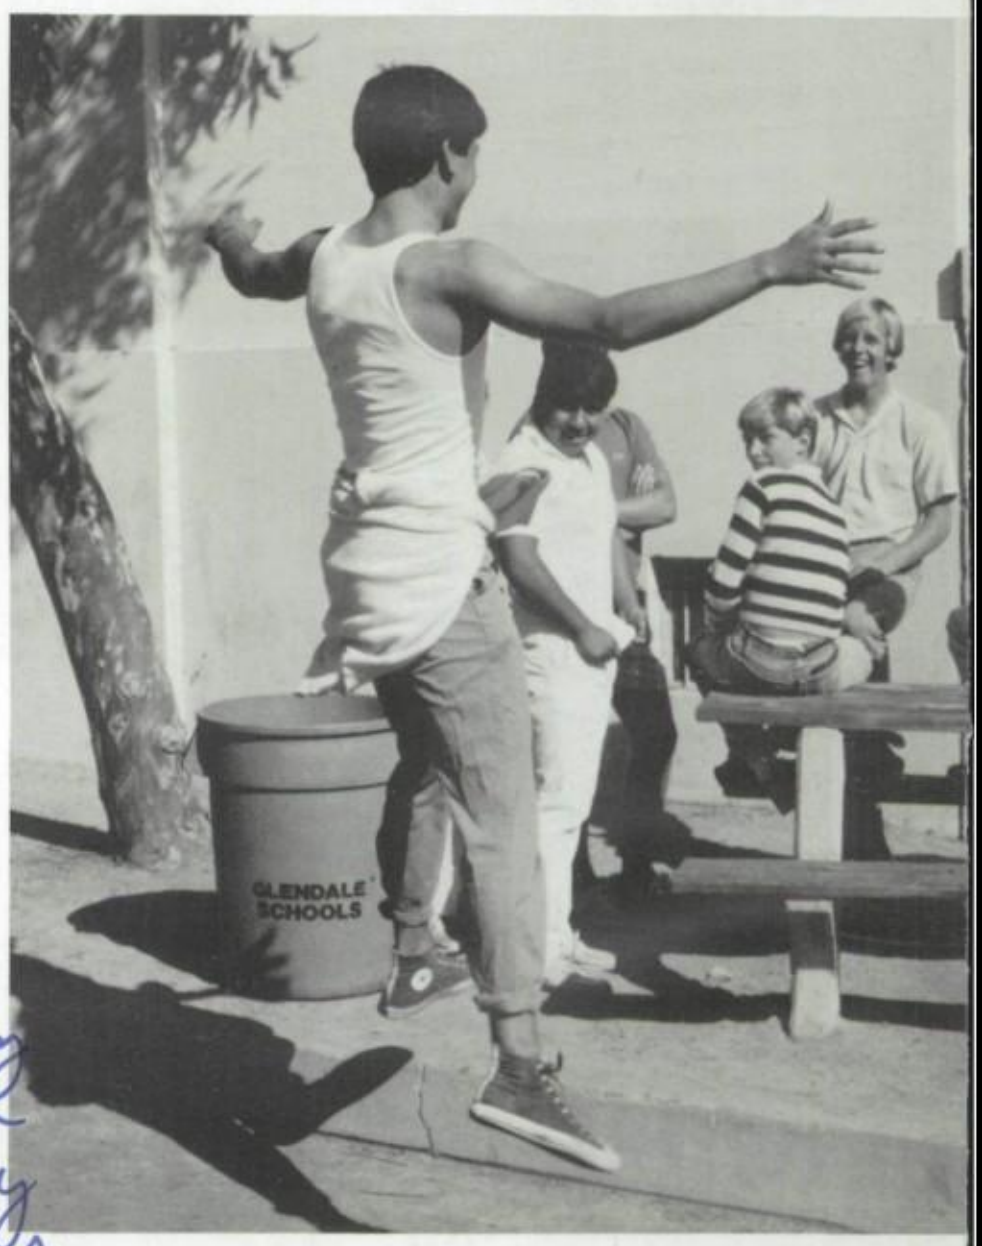
Earth to Cami . . . come in Cami — Even our "studious" Sr. Class Prez, Cami Pogue, gets caught in a daze at times when the pressures become too great for a single person.

Go the DISTANCE



Not what it seems — Although it appears that these physiology students are observing the effects of extreme boredom on the human body, they are actually measuring each other's blood pressure. However, science labs did range from boring to relaxing to exciting.

Just passing the time? Karen Hardee and Carole Genatempo giggle as they relax in the quad. The quad's popularity did diminish somewhat as students hit the town for lunchtime snacks.



Walking on air! John Smith shows his friends how to overcome gravity. Although CV had over 2,000 students, John was the only guy who could float in mid-air.

Darren,
What a guy you are, It's to Bad you don't let peple get to know you. Because you are truly a fine person. Working whith you at GENSTAR was really a great ~~time~~ SORRY part of my life. Darren let loose and be free, don't care what peple think, be youre self.
John Smith
P.S. SORRY P.S.S. KEEP IN TOUCH

Casually wiping his mouth, Ramsey Rayyis looks for something besides studying to do.

As the harsh realities of life in the "real" world approach, we must take it upon ourselves to be responsible for improving, if not the world, then our own sphere of existence. Although not an easy goal, it can be conquered if we do not merely exist, but take action, live life to the fullest and go the distance.

— by Amie Freeman and Tim Sullivan

A harsh reminder — Even though we sometimes feel that we are impervious to danger or injury, fate has a way of reminding us. It reminded Joe Contaldi as he went down against Muir. He wound up with a separated shoulder.

"Without Bob, it's just another Denny's," read one sign, as a group of CV students picketed the Montrose Big Boy. They exercised their right to assembly in response to the threat that Bob may be removed as the Big Boy symbol.

FROM THE EDITOR

The Enemy Within

Here you have it, the 1985 Talon. We, the staff, hope you have as much fun perusing through it as we did creating it.

As you may have noticed, Talon '85 differs from its 1984 counterpart. This is due mainly to changes in typestyle and layout design. Our main body and caption typestyle is Melior. Headlines in the various sections are as follows: Student Life: 36 pt. Century, Sports: 24 pt. Optima Italic and 48 pt. Helvetica Bold, Honors and Organizations: 18 pt. Bodini (reverse burn headlines), 24 pt. Bodini Italic and 48 pt. Quadrata, Academics: 36 pt. Baskerville, Underclassmen and Seniors: 24 pt. Avant Book. Initial letters match the main headline style of that section but are in 36 pt. Layout design was based on four basic column systems: 2 column, 3 column, 3-4 column and 4 column.

Without our many sources of support, however, the staff could never have produced such a high-quality book. We wish to thank Dunlap-Turney Photography for their incredible contributions to this book, MGM Studios, the Leader, the CV faculty, our generous sponsors (check our ads section for these wonderful supporters), Mark Christensen, those teachers who gave up photos for the Academics section, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Williams and Mr. and Mrs. William Sullivan. Also, we wish to express our gratitude to Mr. Bishop for printing photos for our 3rd deadline, Mrs. June Peterson our advisor and our publishing representative Tom Imming for always having an extra day to give us on a deadline.

It takes a special kind of person to be able to tolerate conditions like extreme pressure, lack of supplies, no photos, tension, tears, noise, laughter and basically everything else that went into this book. So, here's to all you special people. This book's for you: Sean: Mr. Photography! Next time we take photos in the street (i.e., Honolulu Ave.) we have to set up a roadblock. You're definitely the epitome of the word "efficiency." If you go into hotel admin., I better get a free weekend somewhere. Brett: To the guy with the quickest wit in the world. No more bouncing off the walls in 131 after hours, eh? This book wouldn't be what it is without you. We've got to stop all that stomach wrenching, too. Diane: Well, babe, we made it through 2 years of YB and we're still talking. Sorry if we had disagreements, but you know me. You're a sweetie. Thanks for helping me through the rough times. Jennifer: I don't know of many people who could juggle yearbook, trig and Head Cheer except you. You're one incredible lady. Ben: In spite of your wild kickers and goofy captions, you did a good job. But watch it! There's always a threat of being on Index next year! Karyn: P. 146 was a great idea. I'm glad "we" thought of it (I have to at least try to get some of the credit). Laura: What can I say besides thanks? After 3½ years, you're still a great friend. But I do want you to consider the evolutionary theory of man and the growing problem of reversed discrimination. Mindy: For a girl I met by "luck of the draw," things didn't turn out half bad. If you ever need glasses from eyestrain, send me the bill. It'll probably have come from in here. Jeff: Hey, chimpo! Thanks aren't enough for always being there for that needed comic relief. You're the best astist/comedian/colorful layout drawer I know. The cover is great! Amie: Well, what more can I say? We did it and are still on speaking terms! I guess that means success! You did a great job, and you really brought out the best in me. I couldn't have done it without you. Natalie: For surviving all the tedium of Index, you deserve an award. How about the Dedication Award? Whichever, you do deserve it! Thanks so much. Steve: I hope the 'Stang is around as long as you. Thanks for the major-league effort. Every staff needs a quiet, behind-the-scenes man. Janice: Another Hamilton! One is enough! Seriously, your freshmen and ads sections are sharp. Good luck in future adventures. Aaron: Assemblyman Rose to the chambers! Hey! Yand G was great. Don't sell yourself short. You're just as good a photographer as your brother (Sorry, Loren). Ian: Well, don't let peer pressure get to you. Sorry you had to take so much flack for Top 25. But then again, "Short people got no reason to live." Mike: At graduation, we're going to take up a collection and buy you a pair of shoes. No more arguments with teachers, okay? Thanks for some quiet leadership. Bryan: To the guy who has everything together! You've got to make sure that the tradition goes on. Take care of that arm throwing from third. I sometimes wish I still had one. Jenifer: You're gonna get to the NBA! Keep it up, all-star! The B-cards worked out pretty good. Thanks for the ideas and for being there to help out. Cherie: You're probably the busiest person I know. I know YB wasn't your life, so thanks for all the help. And I know you were kidding when you said you think the "scales tip toward the women." Susie: I know what a pain Freshmen must've been, but you still did a tremendous job. Remind your teachers next year what a great Academics section you gave them. Maybe it'll get you a few extra points. JP: I'm glad we worked things out. Thanks for everything.

Well, kids, I don't think I could thank you enough for giving me this opportunity to come to know myself through this incredible challenge. On the dedication page, there's part of a song called "The Enemy Within." It has been a very important song to me, not only because of the theme in the lines printed there, but also because of a line which says, "Experience to extremes." If I can give you any advice for life, it would be this. We are our own worst enemy. If we can overcome ourselves, we can do anything. So, here I shall leave you. You've all made a huge contribution to our baby. Now, sit back and watch it — Go the Distance!

— Timothy J. Sullivan
Editor-in-Chief

Obviously enjoying the situation at hand, Dan Schandel laughs as Cherie Jensen kisses his feet. Cherie was not doing this voluntarily. It was compulsory upon the victory by the males in the Battle of the Sexes. Rumor had it that Dan had not washed his feet in over a week. Once again, the guys went the distance to prove, once and for all, who the superior sex was.

Darren -
Hi Lover!
Would you like to bring your guitar and blanket and sit under my window to serenade me?
You're truly a doll. There may have been times my mind was anywhere everywhere but on earth, and I stunned like I wasn't very nice, but Darrin, you know I love you as a person and I don't want you to think of me as being a person who's not all there - you stood by me, listened to me when I needed to talked, flattered me when I was feeling low, teased me to cheer me up and I want to say thank for everything. Oh yeah, I also want to thank you again for giving me a ride when my car wasn't working
+ I just want to conclude my writing in saying you're a good friend and I would like you to keep
Write
Love,
Amy K.

Hey babe, we've had a lot of laughs, a couple of tears, but we've made it. This is my last day here... forever. I can hardly believe it. I'm supposed to be all grown up, but as you know, I can still be immature. Remember Impulse? That was the stupidest movie!! It was still a fun night... I was laughing so hard!! You've been a good friend. out at Eagle Rock Plaza in front of that cop! I hope you have much luck and love throughout life. You deserve the best. Keep a smile on your face; brighten up the world!

Love & friends,
Kimberly/Kristy

Heather Hopkins

Darren,
I'm glad you're going to be in my class next year. Maybe one day I'll watch the Lakers. Good luck playing with the Lakers. Good luck
Ed Nyan

Darren,
This year's gone by real quick! One more week and I can't ever be called a freshmon again! (I'll college!) You're lookin' at your senior year! I wish I was. Hope you have an excellent senior year, I will, everyone does! Don't get too mad at those people who aren't as skilled at sports as you are, kay? Kay! You helped make P.E. fun, and At nobody could make fun! Have fun at McDonalds, and it won't be long!
Love,
Summer Hopkins

DARREN,
I MUST SAY SPEECH CLASS HAS BEEN AN EXCERSIZE IN FUTILITY, BUT ONE OF THE BEST THINGS IN SCHOOL HAS BEEN KNOWING PEOPLE LIKE YOU.
